ZERO WAVE RIDES IN ON STORM

TERROR SPREAD AMONG ENEMIES BY NEW DEALERS

Campaign of Fright Aimed at G. O. P.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Far flung government agencies of espionage and intimidation now are cracking down on the business men who are fighting the New Deal and opposing the reëlection of President Roosevelt.

With unlimited funds, a horde of investigators, spies, sleuths, and undercover men and greater powers of coercion than any previous administration ever possessed, the party in control of the government is spreading terror in every quarter from which criticism of the Roosevelt régime has arisen. Nothing like it ever has been witnessed at the national capital.

Already, with the presidential election canvass in progress, a political question of great moment is whether these tactics will disrupt the anti-New Deal organizations at which they are aimed and so frighten business men as to silence them and deter them from contributing to anti-Roosevelt campaign funds.

Targets for Attack.

The principal organizations upon whose members the administration is cracking down in various ways are the following:

	Members.
Chamber of Commerce of the United States	700,000
National Economy league	250,000
American Liberty league	85,000
National Association of Manufacturers	65,000
American Federation of Investors	60,000
New York Economic council	50,000
American Taxpayers league	12,000
The Crusaders	10,000
Sentinels of the Republic	3,000
Total	1,235,000

Critics of the administration are being put on the spot through visitations of income tax agents, through inquisitions of the senate lobby committee of which Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.] is chairman, and through the exercise of the vast powers of regulation and discipline now lodged in the administrative branch of the government.

Terror in Every Revolution.

"Every revolution has its period of terror," said Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.]. "The French revolution had its terror. The Russian revolution had its terror. The Nazi revolution had its terror. Mussolini's Fascist revolution has its terror. And the Roosevelt revolution is no exception.

"Every dictatorship erected by revolution fears a counter-revolution and invokes various measures and degrees of frightfulness to safeguard its tenure. In soviet Russia the dread cheka and GPU sent hundreds of thousands to prison, exile, and death, in fact, exterminated an entire class of the population.

"In the Black committee the New Deal has an American cheka which by various methods of intimidation seeks to silence the opponents of the Roosevelt revolution and deter them from giving aid and comfort to the movement to check the excesses of the party in power and restore the liberties of the people and the sanctity of our institutions.

Privacy Is Invaded.

"The Black committee singles out the individuals and organizations that are fighting perpetuation of the New Deal. To them it addresses questionnaires demanding the disclosure of all their activities, expenditures, and other information. The committee admonishes its victims to answer fully every question on pain of being dragged to Washington and put on the rack if they refuse to comply or fail to satisfy the inquisitors.

"Agents of the dreaded Black committee swoop down on the offices and homes of the victims, seize books, documents and correspondence, read private and personal letters and otherwise invade the privacy of citizens, despite the guarantee of the constitution against such unreasonable search and seizure.

"Generally the victims comply with the demands, however unreasonable and tyrannical, for they know what it means to be dragged to Washington and pilloried on the witness stand by vengeful inquisitors. They know the devilish ingenuity of the inquisi-

CHARLES CURTIS, VICE PRESIDENT '29-'33, IS DEAD

Heart Attack Claims Ex-Senator.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Former Vice President Charles Curtis died suddenly of a heart attack this morning at the home of his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Gann. He was 76 years old.

Mr. Curtis had been suffering from a slight cold for about a week. On Wednesday he left his law office saying he would remain indoors until his condition improved.

This morning, the first man of Indian blood to preside over the senate said he felt much better. At this news his sister, Dolly Gann, left the home to meet her husband at his office.

Shortly after she left Mr. Curtis suffered a heart attack. A maid summoned his physician, Dr. George H. Calver. Mr. Curtis died at the time the doctor arrived at the home and before his sister and her husband could reach his bedside.

The two daughters and son of the former vice president were notified of his death by Miss Lola Williams, his secretary for many years. They are Mrs. Webster Knight of Providence, R. I.; Mrs. C. P. George of Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and Harry K. Curtis of Taos, N. M. Curtis' wife, Annie E. Baird of Topeka, whom he married in 1884, died in 1924.

Funeral Services Tuesday.

Funeral arrangements were made in the afternoon by Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas. The body of the former vice president will be put aboard a train here at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning to arrive in Topeka at 10:40 a. m. Tuesday. Services will be held in Topeka Tuesday afternoon. Burial will be in a Topeka cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Gann, Mrs. Knight, and Miss Williams will accompany the body to Topeka.

Word of Curtis' death spread quickly in the capital and brought expressions of sympathy from President Roosevelt, Vice President Garner, and associates of his long career in congress.

Like Horatio Alger Hero.

The life story of Charles Curtis is crammed with subtitles with a Horatio Alger ring. Among the "ors" which might follow a biography under his name are "from Indian tepee to the shadow of the White House," "from jocky to senate whip," "from newsboy to newsmaker," "from stable helper to mahout of the G. O. P. elephant," and "from county prosecutor to Vice President."

His life story most fittingly begins with Julie Conville Pappan, a wrinkled old Indian woman who exercised upon him the most vital of all the influences which came into his life. Julie was a young Indian princess when the story began—the daughter of old Chief White Plume of the Kaws, who roamed the Kansas prairies when the buffalo was plentiful.

One-quarter Indian.

Princess Julie married a French voyager, one of the hardy adventurers who captured and almost held the west for France. From this union came a daughter, half Indian and

How big is a Farm?

The Federal Farm Land Bank sets the minimum at 40 acres. A Farm Bureau official says a farm is any tract from which a man makes a living.

Yet, the owner of a 3 to 5-acre tract may be a better farmer than the owner of 500 acres, says Bob Becker in his article in the want ad section today. He tells how owners make small farms pay, and what some of them do. Turn to the want ad section and read this interesting article.

TEDDY HAD A NAME FOR THEIR KIND

(Pictures on Page 16.)

How the great Persian king, Xerxes, put down a religious revolt in his dominions more than 2,400 years ago, is related on three of seven stone tablets which have been dug up on the site of ancient Persepolis by an expedition of the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago.

The announcement of the find was made yesterday by Dr. John A. Wilson, who succeeded the late Dr. James H. Breasted as head of the institute.

Hitherto, according to Dr. Wilson, there had been no known historical mention of the religious revolt. Xerxes, like his father, Darius the Great, was a follower of the Zoroastrian cult, which was monotheistic and marked an advance on the religions which has preceded it.

King's Story of Revolt.

"When I became king, there were among those lands, which are written above, some who rebelled; then Ahuramazda helped me; by Ahuramazda's will, such a land I defeated, and to their place I restored them; and among those lands were such where, before, the Daivas were worshiped.

"Then, by Ahuramazda's will, of such temples of the Daivas I sapped the foundations, and I ordained 'the Daivas shall not be worshiped.' Where the Daivas had been worshiped, there I worshiped Ahuramazda with 'Rtam the exalted."

Inscribed Before Sea Battle.

Internal evidence has convinced the scientists of the institute that the tablets were inscribed between the accession of Xerxes in 485 B. C. and the defeat of his fleet at Salamis by the Greeks in 480 B. C. They further assume that the quelling of the religious revolt was one of the first important acts of his reign.

"We may infer," said Dr. Wilson, "from the new texts that Darius heard the teachings of Zoroaster in the house of his father, Vistapsa, and instituted the worship of Ahuramazda and Arta ['Rtam] throughout his empire. The dispossessed priests and worshipers of the old gods, the Daivas, had not opportunity to restore their religion in Darius' reign, but seized the occasion of his death to lead a rebellion. This revolt Xerxes put down."

The stone tablets were found in a room of the army barracks east of the great palace terrace at Persepolis, which is now being unearthed and restored by the Oriental institute. Dr. Wilson disclosed that the expedition had unearthed solid gold and silver plaques in the limestone boxes, which had been placed as cornerstone in the great audience hall of the palace.

Dr. Erich F. Schmidt, leader of the expedition, who returned in January with news of his important finds, will sail for the near east on Wednesday.

GERMAN SOLDIERS TO COOK MEAL FOR CITY'S SOUP SUNDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—Spoons in the lapels or buttonholes of their coats and soup plates in their hands will be the badges of distinction of thousands of citizens of Braunschweig tomorrow when they participate in a joint midday meal in observance of soup Sunday.

The meal will be served in army barracks by soldiers and will cost 20 cents. The better-to-do will be expected to donate at least double that amount for winter relief.

The festival spirit will be increased by a brass band playing gay marching tunes. The band will head the procession of citizens through the town to the barracks, where housewives will be given a chance to sample the soldiers' cooking, which has always been the pride of Germany's male population.

SHOUTS, RETIRES; MORNING ECHO WAKES CALLER

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 8.—(AP)—A rugged mountaineer failed to find anything impressive about the famed "corridor of echoes" in West Virginia's capitol.

Tom Richardson, a guide, said the visitor tramped away, scoffing:

"Shucks, that's nothing like the echo rock up where I live. Up there, before I go to bed at night I shout, 'Hey, Jim, time to get up.'

"And at 5 o'clock next morning it comes back to me. Why, I haven't had no alarm clock in 17 years."

Village Thermometer Is All Tuckered Out by Cold Siege

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 8.—(AP)—An overworked village thermometer, unable to cope with three weeks of subzero weather, admitted defeat this morning when the temperature dropped to 26 below. With a majority of the village's mercury sticks showing readings in the minus twenties the thermometer in question reversed itself and gave out a reading of "42" above.

Ashbel V. Smith, state's attorney of Lake county from 1921 to 1933, died unexpectedly of a heart attack shortly before midnight last night in Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan. Col. Smith had been suffering from a kidney ailment for a month and had been a patient in the hospital for a week. He was 59 years old.

Before becoming prosecutor Col. Smith had won distinction in a long military career. He served overseas 18 months during the world war as lieutenant colonel of the 149th field artillery, 42d division, "Reilly's Bucks." In 1916 as a major in the Illinois field artillery he saw service on the Mexican border. His military service started when he organized a battery of field artillery in the Illinois National Guards in 1904, and became its captain.

Prosecutes Len Small.

In 1922, as state's attorney, Col. Smith prosecuted Gov. Len Small on charges of conspiracy to defraud the state of interest earned on state funds while Small was state treasurer. There was a verdict of acquittal, but the prosecutor started an investigation which disclosed that the jury had been tampered with.

Michael [Umbrella Mike] Boyle and Ben Newmark were sent to jail for their refusal to tell what they knew of the jury fixing. They were freed, however, on pardons issued by Small.

During the whole period he was in office Col. Smith waged incessant war on vice and gambling elements in Lake county. He was defeated for the Republican nomination for state's attorney in 1932 by Charles E. Mason, who now holds the office. In 1930 he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for congressman in the Tenth district, but lost to Carl E. Chindblom.

Booster for Borah.

For the last three years Col. Smith had practiced law in Waukegan. He was a past commander of the Homer Dahringer post, American Legion, and was a member of the Masonic order and of the Elks. In recent months he had been active in promoting the candidacy of Senator William E. Borah and had himself sought a place as delegate to the national Republican convention.

Col. Smith was a native of Lake county and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Bella Smith; his mother, Mrs. W. B. Smith, and a sister, Mrs. Cyrus Blodgett.

Duce Charges Britain Killed Peace Chance

Struggle for Throne

A secret struggle for the throne of Italy was revealed in a dispatch from Paris yesterday. The principals in this dramatic battle are the dowager duchess of Aosta, cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, who has allied herself with Count Ciano, Premier Mussolini's son-in-law, in a campaign to deprive Crown Prince Humbert of his rights of succession in favor of her son, Duke Amadeus of Aosta. Details on page 12.

LONDON, Feb. 9 [Sunday].—(AP)—The Sunday Observer in an interview today quoted Premier Mussolini as saying the British "have turned a colonial war into what may yet be a worldwide disaster."

Referring to the now dead Hoare-Laval peace proposal, Il Duce was quoted:

"I had already drafted a cautious formula of acceptance as a basis of negotiation when the news came that you gentlemen in London who had praised Sir Samuel Hoare so highly in September had dismissed him with ignominy on Dec. 19.

Says British Prolonged War.

"As a direct result of your action, much Ethiopian and some Italian blood must be spent. You have prolonged the war. A great responsibility lies on you."

Sir Arnold said Mussolini "looked tired but robust." Stories, he continued, of "his impending decay or demise may safely be ignored," for he will "remain at the helm until the hand of death removes him."

Il Duce told Sir Arnold trade would not revert into old channels once sanctions against Italy have ceased.

"We have spent and are spending too much in creating fresh channels to take the place of those you have taken the lead in diverting," the dictator was quoted. "We shall not soon forget the language used by your statesmen."

ROME, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The Italian government today presented to the chamber of deputies a war budget for 2,312,566,946 lire—about $185,000,000.

The budget, based on the estimated military expenses for 1936-'37, does not include the expenditures in the Ethiopian campaign. It is 168,193,000 lire—$13,449,000—less than the current budget.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio reported today that the Italian southern army, making firmer its hold on a wide section of southwestern Ethiopia, was driving the native defenders deeper into their own territory. His communique said:

"Our troops are consolidating our occupation, and continue pressing enemy detachments, retreating up the Webbe Gestro valley. There is nothing new on the Eritrean front."

FREAK BLIZZARD DARKENS CITY, BLOCKS ROADS

Midwinter Thunder Heralds Cold.

Hard on the heels of a freak blizzard which paralyzed transportation and disrupted commerce throughout Chicagoland and the central states, the third subzero wave of the winter roared into Chicago yesterday.

From a maximum of 33 degrees at 2 and 3 p. m., the highest since Jan. 15, the mercury fell rapidly. Early in the evening it went to 1 below zero and at 11 p. m. it was 7 below. Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted the temperature would reach 10 below in the city by morning, and from 15 to 20 below in the northern and western suburbs.

Although fair skies are predicted for today, Mr. Donnel said he doubted if the mercury would rise as high as zero even during the noon hours. Tomorrow it may come up as high as 10 above zero, but by tomorrow night arctic blasts from the frozen Mackenzie river basin of western Canada are expected to sweep Chicago and the plains states again.

Cold "Here for Some Time."

"Accurate forecasts of more than 48 hours are impossible," declared the meteorologist, "but it certainly looks as if the cold is here for some time. Great masses of chilled air continue to pile up in Alaska and western Canada. As long as this goes on, that zero air is a threat to the entire middle west."

Although only eight days old, this month already has had a daily average of 13¾ degrees colder than normal, up to 7 p. m. last night. This computation, of course, does not include the new subzero onslaught. Since the first of the year the daily average has been 6.6 degrees colder than usual.

Snowfall in City Light.

The snowfall yesterday in Chicago was light, particularly in comparison with neighboring communities and such states as Iowa, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, which were virtually cut off from all transportation. Only three-quarters of an inch of snow fell, but the 40 mile an hour wind whipped it up to a blizzard.

Until the mercury started falling, the snow was mushy and wet. It soon froze sheathing streets with a coat of ice. In outlying districts the strong wind lashed the flakes into a blinding screen, then drifted the snow across the roads.

Strange winter phenomena accompanied the snow storm. At 3:30 p. m., the wind, which had been blowing steadily from the southeast, veered suddenly to the northwest. The sky became dark as night. Lightning flashed, illuminating the swirling snow, and thunder boomed. As suddenly as it began, the strange darkness passed a few minutes later.

All State Roads Closed.

Warnings were issued by state and county highway police that practically no road in the state is open. All are impassable to the north and west. Even snow plows got stuck in the huge drifts, along with hundreds of stalled automobiles.

All highways in Lake county were blocked by deep drifts and dozens of cars were reported abandoned by their owners. Fears were expressed for the safety of Mrs. Ernest E. Harwood, wife of a former mayor of Zion, and of her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Leach. They left Waukegan to drive to Zion last evening and relatives had not heard from them early today. It was regarded as likely they had taken shelter in some farmhouse where there was no telephone.

Rockford Roads Barricaded.

All roads leading out of Rockford were barricaded last night after state highway policemen found none fit for travel. Sixteen persons, caught in drifts on highway 20 near Belvidere, congregated in a rural schoolhouse and spent the night there. All trafic out of Galesburg, Monmouth and Peoria was halted.

The indications were that the condition of the roads would bring on a milk shortage in Aurora and Rockford. In most sections of the state efforts to plow the roads open were given up last night because of the exhaustion of crews.

Bus lines canceled their schedules to the north and west early in the afternoon. At 3:30 p. m. the Chicago airport abandoned all flights, but with the weather clearing later in the evening, nearly all runs were resumed at 9 p. m.

Des Plaines in Darkness.

Des Plaines' electric light system failed to function after 10:30 o'clock last night. Weather conditions caused a short circuit somewhere along the feed lines and public utility employés were unable promptly to locate and repair the break.

With the exception of a few through trains, railroad service was hopelessly behind time. Trains to and from Chicago were running from one to ten hours late. In many of the snowbound states, train service between cities was canceled. A dozen freight and passenger trains in the north and west were stalled in snowdrifts or forced to lay over at small stations.

The blizzard crippled Wisconsin. It isolated Milwaukee and left smaller communities in an even worse predicament. Snow drifted high on highways and across railroad tracks.

Six hundred residents of the small village of Livingston, Wis., faced a crisis last night. No train has been able to reach the town since Monday. Their fuel supply is rapidly dwindling and the cold has endangered their source of water.

Schools Ordered Closed.

Throughout the blizzard belt schools were ordered closed tomorrow, in many instances to preserve community fuel supplies threatened by the snow and cold, which closed mines or made roads impassable. Schools at Dixon will remain closed indefinitly, it was announced.

Only a few of the larger mines in central Illinois remained open yesterday. Many Illinois miners refused to abandon the five day week provided in their contract, even in the face of emergency calls. More than 5,000 Pennsylvania miners adopted a like course.

This same situation threatened Iowa's coal supply. Gov. Clyde Herring called on the miners to relinquish their contract temporarily, but none accepted the idea.

Snow Cuts Off Sioux City.

Sioux City, Ia., was one of the hardest hit by the blizzard and cold yesterday of any of the larger cities. Deep banks of snow completely shut it off from all transportation. Street car and bus service was canceled.

The season's worst blizzard tied up all of Minnesota, Nebraska, and the Dakotas. Fairmont, Minn., with a population of 6,000, was storm bound. Plans were made for an airplane to drop food to 200 boys storm bound in a boys' home west of Omaha.

All the way from Canada to the Gulf states zero gripped with an icy hold. Warroad, Minn., on the Canadian border was cheerful about this "warmer weather." Last week the city reported 50 below.

Lowest in South Dakota.

The lowest yesterday was 52 at Custer and Hill City in South Dakota. Denver's temperature performed unusual gymnastics. On Friday morning the mercury went from 40 at 7 a. m. to 14 below at 7 p. m. Yesterday it started at 24 below at 7 a. m. and finished with 34 above at 7 p. m. The minimum of 24 below yesterday was the coldest February day on record.

Other cold spots were Helena and Havre, Mont., and Sheridan, Wyo., 38 below; Lander, Wyo., 40 below; Yellowstone Park, 34 below, and Amarillo, Tex., 2 below.

Mundelein discovered yesterday its claim to being the coldest city in Illinois is based on a faulty thermometer. A week ago the town recorded a minimum of 38 below. Checked against a government thermometer, the Mundelein instrument was found to register 10 degrees too low.

Fine Judge Allegretti's Son on Reckless Driving Charge

Peter J. Allegretti, 30 years old, 4911 Washington boulevard, son of Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti, was fined $50 and costs and placed on probation for six months on a charge of reckless driving by Municipal Judge George B. Weiss yesterday. Allegretti was allowed 60 days to file a bill of exceptions.

25 BATTLING TO SAVE THREE MEN ADRIFT ON ICE FLOE IN LAKE

Charlevoix, Mich., Feb. 9 [Sunday, 2 a. m.]—[Special.]—With a heavy gale blowing, 25 men including a crew of coast guardsmen were striving early today to find and rescue three unfortunates adrift on an ice floe in Lake Michigan.

One of the trio is Earl Cunningham, a member of the coast guard. The others are Gene Bearss, 75 years old, and Clayton Brown, 22 years old, fishermen. Cunningham during the evening had taken a small boat to the floe while it was near shore and had taken off two companions of Bearss and Brown.

He then made a second heroic attempt at rescue in his small boat. It is believed he returned to the floating ice and found it impossible to return. The larger force of rescuers, who dragged a boat across three miles of shore ice to launch it, reported seeing a fire on the ice and expressed the opinion the stranded trio were using Cunningham's boat for fuel.

McCallsburg, Ia., Feb. 8.—A six car passenger train of the Rock Island railroad, unable to proceed to Des Moines because of huge snowdrifts, halted here for the night. The 51 passengers were given sleeping accommodations in Pullman coaches.

Twin Falls, Idaho, Feb. 8.—A rescue party left Twin Falls tonight to succor for the 12 passengers and crew of a train which has been held at Summer Camp, Nev., 100 miles south of here, since Thursday by huge snowdrifts.

Waupun, Wis., Feb. 8.—Forty-two passengers on a Madison-Fond du Lac bus, which was stuck in the deep snow seven miles east of Waupun, were sheltered tonight in two farmhouses nearby. One of the passengers is Charles Wilson, broadcaster with a Chicago studio. Another—and this was fortunate for his fellow maroons, is a meat salesman who was carrying a truckload of sample hams.

Ashveille, N. C., Feb. 8.—H. A. Griffin, 50 years old, a Southern railway fireman, leaned out of his cab today. A huge icicle, hanging from the edge of a rock cliff, struck him on the head and killed him.

BLIZZARD KEEPS PLANE CIRCLING OVER IRONWOOD

Ironwood, Mich., Feb. 8.—(AP)—An airplane, marooned in the air by a blizzard, was reported circling over this city tonight.

County Engineer George Moronski said efforts were being made to guide the plane to a safe landing. Moronski said he had not seen nor heard the plane at the airport, four miles north of the city, but said several residents of Ironwood had called him and told of hearing the motors.

"We're having a bad snowstorm here," he said, "and I don't know what the chances of landing are. We have the post all lighted to attract the pilot's attention, but he's been flying low over the city."

Moronski said hearers believed the distressed plane was a tri-motor. Checks of nearby airports failed to identify the plane.

KANSAS DROUTH AREA HAS STORM OF FROZEN MUD

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Winter played a strange trick on the nation's "dust bowl" today. With the temperature far below zero the worst storm of the season brought the farmers in this region a blizzard of frozen mud.

A forty mile an hour wind swirled up dust from dry areas burned out in the drouth, mixed it with heavy snow, and plastered the resulting mud all over the country side. It made windshield wipers useless.

PSEUDO-PRIEST AND 3 AIDS ROB OAK LAWN BANK

Gain Entrance by Ruse; Escape with $2,500.

Four armed bandits, one of them disguised as a priest, held up the Oak Lawn Trust and Savings bank, 5310 95th street, shortly after the bank's hour for opening yesterday, seized $2,500 and escaped under the fire of two policemen.

The bank was robbed of $3,000 five years ago, and again in 1932 an attempt to rob it was foiled and the two bandits captured and subsequently sentenced to prison. A third holdup attempt last year was frustrated by the quick action of a policeman.

As a result of this series of holdups, it recently has been the custom of the bank to keep the front door locked during the early banking hours, admitting only those callers who could be identified.

Gain Entrance by Ruse.

Aware of this custom, the bandits yesterday dressed one of their number in the manner of a priest. This robber appeared alone at the front door, and the cashier, Derk Triezenberg, noticing the black garments and the clerical attire, unhesitatingly released the electrical door control, opening the door to the fake priest.

Triezenberg was waiting on two bank customers. The robber, carrying out his rôle of a priest, waited patiently in line. When the other two customers had left he presented a $10 bill and asked for change. As the cashier finished counting out the bills the bandit drew a pistol.

Triezenberg obeyed, again pushing the button that opened the front door. He had no opportunity to release tear gas bombs recently installed. The three robber companions who had waited on the outside rushed into the bank and forced the cashier and other bank customers into a rear room, where they bound them.

Notifies Highway Police.

Nick Clapas, a bartender in a tavern across the street from the bank, saw that a holdup was in progress and notified county highway police.

Meantime, the bandits scooped up all loose cash and bills in the bank cages and hurried out to their automobile and sped away. Policemen John Cleveland and Edward Hosman, who live in Oak Lawn and were off duty, came by at the time and, realizing that a robbery had just taken place, fired at the departing car. Soon afterward a highway police squad commanded by Sergt. William Tupa arrived and took up pursuit of the bandits. They were outdistanced.

STORM MAROONS BUNDESEN PARTY AND 40 ON FARM

For four hours last night Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Democratic candidate for governor, and his running mates on the state ticket were marooned on a farm near Sycamore, unable to continue their trip to Chicago after a week's "good will" tour in the downstate counties. Snow plows finally forged a way through the blizzard and the party was able to reach De Kalb, where they planned to take a train to Chicago.

Halted by a swirling blizzard and ten below temperature, the Bundesen party took refuge in the farm house of Louis Mattison on route 23 between De Kalb and Sycamore. Forty other motorists had already found haven there. The physician candidate for governor was immediately put to work treating frosted ears and noses. By kitchen lamplight he operated upon the left hand of Arthur Sullivan of the highway maintenance department at De Kalb, who severed an artery while operating a snow plow. Dr. Bundesen sterilized a common needle and thread and sewed the wound.

Others marooned included State Treasurer John Stelle, candidate for lieutenant governor; Attorney General Otto Kerner, State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, John C. Martin, candidate for state treasurer, and Lewis Long of Sandwich and Edward V. Champion of Peoria, candidates for congressman at large; James F. Hennessey and Harry Smith.

MEXICAN LABOR THREATENS TO SEIZE FACTORIES

MONTERREY, Mexico, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The regional Federation of Workers and Peasants announced today that workers would seize factories and continue to operate them if employés attempted to carry out a nation-wide shutdown which they are reported to be considering in a demonstration against communism.

This statement was issued after President Lazaro Cardenas came here in an attempt personally to iron out business-labor differences.

Business men here went on a two day "anti-communist strike" this week which stopped commerce in this industrial center.

Senate Plans Investigation.

In Mexico City the newspaper La Prensa said the senate is planning an investigation of allegations that Callistas, or followers of former President Plutarco Elias Calles, fomented the anti-communist movement to create difficulties for the government.

Cardenas reviewed a parade of 10,000 persons supporting the candidacy of Gen. Fortunato Zuazua for the governorship of the state of Nuevo Leon. Cardenas spoke briefly, appealing to the populace to remain calm. He promised he would solve their problems "in accordance with law and justice."

In labor headquarters throughout the country Mexican flags were placed alongside labor's red and black banners as workers' organizations sought to prove they are not enemies of the government, as the Monterrey employers charged.

Cardenas Hears Both Sides.

Cardenas received representatives of employers and of the striking employés of the Lavidiera Glass company in an effort to settle the strike.

Results of the talks in the municipal palace were not announced. It was learned, however, that the employers presented claims that the communist movement is growing stronger and that local labor officials and Gov. Morales Sanchez of Nuevo Leon have shown leftist tendencies.

MDIVANIS WED; PRINCESS BRIDE OF PRINCE SERGE

Heiress Married to Her Ex-Brother-in-Law.

BY NANCY RANDOLPH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Princess Louise Van Alen Mdivani, American heiress, was married here today to her one time brother-in-law, Prince Serge Mdivani, one of the famous "marrying Mdivanis," and a brother of the princess' first husband, the late Prince Alexis Mdivani.

The simple ceremony, attended only by relatives, was performed at high noon in the winter home of the bride's mother, Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen, 124 Clarke avenue. A driving tropical rain beat upon the unpretentious house as the ceremony was performed in the candlelit drawing room by the Rev. Dr. William Edward Biederwolf of the Royal Poinciana chapel. It was an old-fashioned double ring ceremony.

Anxious to See Bride.

Residents of Palm Beach and West Palm Beach, so accustomed to social celebrities, realized that this marriage was something out of the ordinary. A crowd began gathering about the entrance to the Van Alen property an hour before the ceremony. Even the rain didn't dampen their determination to glimpse the young bride whose marriage to Alexis Mdivani started him on his way to fame and whose devotion to him led her to divorce him in Holland that he might marry the Woolworth heiress, Barbara Hutton, now Countess Curt Haugwitz-Reventlow.

The bride, who was unattended, walked to an improvised altar in the drawing room to the strains of "Lohengrin," played on the organ in the Van Alen home by Mrs. Irma Effinger, organist at the Royal Poinciana chapel. She was met at the altar by the prince and his best man. James H. Van Alen, the bride's elder brother.

Brother Attends.

Prince David Mdivani, brother of the bridegroom, was the only other member of the Mdivani family present. He came from California.

The princess wore a white satin wedding gown, cut with a low décolletege and made with a long train. A short tulle veil was arranged cap fashion over her light brown hair and held in place with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white orchids and valley lilies.

Among the few guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. A. Atwater Kent of Philadelphia, mother of Mrs. William Van Allen, and A. Atwater Kent Jr.

Following the wedding breakfast the polo-playing prince and his American bride sped seventy miles south through the pouring rain to board the yacht Jedge. They'll spend their honeymoon on this vessel.

REPORT STUDENT IS MISSING FROM STEAMER AT SEA

New York, Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Adolph Cotton, 25 year old student of archaeology and son of the late Dr. Henry A. Cotton, head of the New Jersey state hospital for the insane, was reported mysteriously lost at sea off the North German Lloyd liner Bremen in a wireless message received late today by his family.

The message was disclosed by his brother, Dr. Henry A. Cotton Jr., of Johns Hopkins hospital who said that officials of the North German Lloyd reported only that the youth had been missing since last Thursday and that a search of the vessel had not located him. Dr. Cotton said his brother had been in the best of health and spirits.

The youth, who was graduated from Princeton in 1931, has been connected with the Princeton university department of archaeology since his graduation. He had been studying in the department of archaeology at the British museum. Since then, as a guest of the museum, he had been cataloging in the institution.

Pledges to Make Seattle No Sunday School Town

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Former Mayor John F. Dore promised tonight "Seattle will be no Sunday school town if I am its next mayor." Opening his campaign for reëlection to the office he left two years ago, he said: "You can't attract tourists to a Sunday school town to spend their money and Seattle will be no Sunday school if I am its next mayor. I'll make a San Francisco out of it."

"FACE CENSURE, BUT BE ACTIVE": MRS. ROOSEVELT

Patriotism Without Fear Is Urged.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt believes it's better to be active and criticized than to be afraid to face questions of the day.

Speaking before a group of university women today, she revealed her personal slant on life. She urged them to teach the nation's youth a "patriotism which is not nourished on fear."

Mrs. Roosevelt said there was danger in getting into too many things and, therefore, not excelling at anything, known as "spreading oneself too thin."

Often Faces Criticism.

"I occasionally have that flung at me," she said, adding, however, her own belief that it was good to have an interest in a great many things. She argued it was better to run the danger of doing too many things than to "come to an opportunity and find because you've never taken an interest you can't understand it."

Mrs. Roosevelt said she was warned not long ago it was "unwise to go before a certain youth group," because they would "ask unpleasant and critical questions."

"We ought to be able to meet all young people and defend the things we believe in," she argued. "It may not always turn out as we hope. We may find ourselves targets of criticism. I wonder if that does us much harm.

For Free Discussion.

"The real thing that is harmful is the knowledge in our hearts we are afraid to face any group of young people. Open discussion between the rising generation and the older generation is a really important thing. The more we can achieve frank and free discussion, the better it will be for both generations.

"I can't tell you how many times people say to me, 'You might be misunderstood,' 'you might be criticized.' If you were guided by that sort of thing you'd never do anything.

"Even if you know you will be criticized, you may feel it is worth standing the criticism, worth even having people misunderstand. As they think it over, and keep on learning, they may change their minds, just as I have changed mine many times in the past."

HUEY LONG'S WIDOW TO TAKE U. S. SENATE SEAT ON MONDAY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Earle J. Christenberry announced today Mrs. Huey P. Long of Louisiana would take the oath Monday as senator to succeed her husband. Her certificate of appointment already has been presented the senate by Senator Overton [Dem., La.]. Christenberry, secretary to Long, is expected to act for Mrs. Long.

INJURED WOMAN FINISHES AIR-RAIL DASH TO CHICAGO

Mrs. Mary Riedle, 5524 South Winchester street, a widow, who incurred fractures of her right arm and right hip in a fall in Central America, completed a 2,575 mile rush journey by plane and train from Guatemala City, Guatemala, to Chicago yesterday. She was hurried here for an operation and was immediately taken to the Passavant hospital from an Illinois Central train.

Mrs. Riedle, who was making a tour of Central and South America with friends, incurred her injuries when she fell down a flight of stairs in the Mayan temple, 75 miles from Guatemala City. In that city, where she was taken in a five hour journey over rough roads, the fractured bones were placed in a heavy cast. She then was carried by plane to Brownsville, Tex., a distance of 1,129 miles, and thence to Chicago by train. She was accompanied by a nurse.

Dr. Philip H. Kreuscher, 5816 Blackstone avenue, Mrs. Riedle's physician, said that another operation to reset the bones would be performed soon.

KILLED WALKING ON RAILS.

Sterling Jenkins, 52 years old, colored, 1121 West 112th street, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a train while walking on the right of way of the Rock Island railroad at 112th place and Vincennes avenue.

BLIZZARD WARMS THE HEARTS OF 2 AFFIANCED BEARS

It takes a blizzard to make Icicle and Snowflake happy, said Floyd S. Young, director of the Lincoln park zoo, yesterday.

Icicle and Snowflake are Polar bears. Snowflake is the zoo's champion widow, having killed two husbands. Icicle, however, is new. He arrived last week from Germany to be Snowflake's new mate, but the balmy weather made Snowflake act ugly toward her fiancé.

"But now," said Director Young yesterday as the snow and the mercury fell simultaneously, "everything is just fine. They're both outside, right in the blizzard, liking it and liking each other."

BRAIN CLEFT BY BULLET, BUT BOY OF 16 RECOVERS

Mental Functions Normal Again, Doctor Avers.

INNISFAIL, Alta., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The complete recovery of Elmer McCaghran, 16 years old, of Raven, Alta., after a bullet had passed through the center of his brain was described today by Dr. C. F. Dorsey of Innisfail, who attended the youth.

The bullet tore into Elmer's head behind the right ear, pierced the brain after splitting in two at the skull, and stopped at the surface of the brain. Particles of the bullet, thrown by centrifugal force, sprayed an inch forward from the main track of the bullet.

The lad, shot accidentally Dec. 23 by his brother, Hershel, who was cleaning a rifle, is now in good health.

Mental Functions Normal.

"All the mental functions appear normal," said Dr. Dorsey. "The remarkable part of the case is that a bullet traveling practically the whole width and depth of the brain should cause so little disturbance of the brain functions."

The boy made rapid recovery after Dr. Dorsey and Dr. M. Marmar of Bowden, both of the Innisfail City hospital staf, performed a trepanning operation Jan. 11 to relieve the intracranial pressure, and also with the hope of being able to remove the bullet if it had penetrated through to the under side of the skull in this area.

"The bullet was lodged in too deeply to insure its safe removal without causing other complications," Dr. Dorsey explained, "but the decompression by removal of an area of bone, allowing the membranes to expand into the area previously occupied by the removed bone, cleared up the intense headaches and the partial blindness.

"For a few days following the operation there was a paralysis of the right arm, which cleared up. A numbness of the right leg, present from the time of the accident, now has disappeared. The boy walks with perfect ease and his general condition is better than before the accident.

"The progress of the case will be watched closely for any subsequent symptoms that may develop in the future."

FOUR ASPIRANTS FOR GOVERNOR FILE PETITIONS

Bundesen Heads Regular Democratic List.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Four candidates for the Republican and Democratic nominations for governor at the April 14 primary had their petitions among the early filings for state offices received today at the office of Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes.

The four gubernatorial candidates are Gov. Henry Horner, whose petition was presented by Mrs. Blanche Fritz of Bridgeport, who is in charge of his women's campaign; Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health, who has the indorsement of the Democratic Cook county and state central committees; Oscar E. Carlstrom, Aledo, former Republican attorney general, and Wayland Brooks, Chicago, Republican, a former assistant state's attorney.

File Democratic Slate.

With the Bundesen petition was filed also the petitions of the candidates of the regular Democratic organization for other state offices. They are United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis; Secretary of State Hughes; Treasurer John Stelle, McLeansboro, for lieutenant governor; John C. Martin, Salem, for state treasurer; Auditor Edward J. Barrett; Attorney General Otto Kerner and Lewis Long, De Kalb, and Edward V. Champion, Peoria, for congressmen at large.

Otis F. Glenn, Murphysboro, Republican and former United States senator, filed for the G. O. P. nomination.

Arthur J. Bidwill, former Republican state senator from River Forest, who was ousted by the Democrats, and E. E. Nicholson, Republican, Springfield, filed for state auditor as did Stanley A. Bezden, Louis Goldberg and Clarence Gorski, Democrats, all of Chicago. Joseph Andrew Lesacki, Democrat, Chicago, filed against Secretary Hughes.

Seek Lieutenant Governorship.

Two Chicagoans, James A. McCallum and Theodore D. Smith, Republicans, and George Hatzenbuhler, Bloomington, Republican, filed for lieutenant governor.

Two Republicans filed for congressman at large. They are John T. Dempsey, 33d ward committeeman, and Brooks' backer, and Rodney Howe Brandon, Batavia.

Names of candidates for United States senator, congressman at large, and for statewide offices rotate on the ballot. The one whose name begins with the letter nearest to the beginning of the alhpabet heading the ballot for that office in the first senatorial district and dropping to the last place in the second district.

Secretary Hughes had announced some time ago that petitions received in the regular mail would be given precedence over those delivered personally or by special delivery or registered mail. Despite this a number of candidates were on hand when the office opened.

Suspect Seized in Swindle of Architects and Builders

During the last few weeks a number of architects and building engineers have been swindled by a man who would ask them to accompany him to buildings to obtain construction estimates, discover that he had forgotten his wallet and borrow from $4 to $10. Yesterday detectives arrested a man whose description fit the swindler, in the office of George H. Buckley, an architect, 664 North Michigan avenue. He was taken to the detective bureau where he was identified by two victims. He gave his name as Walter Schuch, 30 years old, 27 East Harrison street.

Congressional and State Committee Petitions

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes today announced the following had filed petitions for election for representative in congress:

FIRST DISTRICT: Democratic—Arthur W. Mitchell, 3657 South Parkway. Republican—Louis B. Anderson, 5800 Calumet ave.; Oscar De Priest, 4538 South Park way.

AWAIT PRIMARIES TO SELECT U. S. APPEALS JUDGE

Roosevelt Afraid of Partisanship Talk.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt, it was learned here today, is withholding nomination of a judge to fill the vacancy on the Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago because of the Illinois primary situation. According to sources close to the President, he will make no nomination until after the primary election April 14.

If a nomination were made at present, it was said, the nominee would be regarded as favorable either to Gov. Horner or to the regular Democratic organization, which is supporting Herman N. Bundesen for governor. This in turn might be seized upon as evidence that the President favored one or other of the candidates for governor, and he has determined not to take any part in the Illinois primary fight.

Lewis, Dieterich Split.

There are various aspirants for the position from Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. James Hamilton Lewis, the senior senator from Illinois, however, is insisting that the nominee be a Chicago man. Senator William H. Dieterich, it is understood, is not so much desirous of promoting a Republican judge to the Circuit bench as he is of creating a vacancy at Springfield for his law partner, R. L. Northcutt.

Senator Sherman Minton [Dem., Ind.], a vociferous New Dealer who recently made a senate speech criticizing the Supreme court, is another aspirant for the Circut court vacancy left by the death of Judge Lewis Fitzhenry. His ambitions will be opposed by the Illinois senators on the ground that Indiana already has a judge on the bench—Will M. Sparks of Rushville.

Wisconsin, also, may put forward a candidate on the strength of Senator Robert M. La Follette's support of the New Deal, but this move would be opposed by the Illinois senators on the ground that Wisconsin has Judge Evan A. Evans.

Since retirement of Judge George Page of Peoria and the death of Judge Fitzhenry of Springfield downstate Illinois has had no representative on the bench, and neither has Chicago. The other member, Judge Samuel Alschuler, is from Aurora.

FREDERICK A. VIRKUS RUNS FOR CONGRESS AS FOE OF NEW DEAL

Frederick Adams Virkus, 350 Blackstone avenue, LaGrange, yesterday announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for congressman in the 6th district. The present congressman is Thomas J. O'Brien, a Democrat.

Mr. Virkus is president of the Virkus company, publishers of historic-genealogical reference books, 440 South Dearborn street. He is 57 years old, and has been a resident of LaGrange for 33 years. He has been active in civic affairs as a member of the Union League club, the City club of Chicago, and the Chicago Association of Commerce.

In a platform issued with his candidacy annoncement, Mr. Virkus declared against the New Deal, for a sound currency, a protective tarif for American industry, agriculture and labor, and a balanced federal budget, and against the league of nations and the world court.

Fire Sweeps Oak Park Home; Family Is Routed

Damage estimated at more than $5,000 was caused last night by a fire which swept the home of J. J. Powers at 325 Home avenue, Oak Park. Powers, his wife and three children escaped unharmed. William C. Watters, Oak Park fire chief, attributed the blaze to overheating by a grate fire. Bricks on the hearth, he said, became so hot that they ignited beams in the basement.

CHOOSE 3 SLATES OF CANDIDATES IN CICERO TUESDAY

Three slates of candidates for eight town offices will be chosen at a primary election in Cicero next Tuesday. There are 61 candidates for the 24 nominations.

A spirited fight is being waged by rival Democratic factions, one headed by Joseph G. Cerny, president of the village, who is running for assessor, and another headed by Cerny's opponents on the village board. Michael Solar, police chief appointed by Cerny but recently ousted by the board in favor of Theodore Svoboda, is a Cerny candidate for town collector. Richard W. Hoffman is Cerny's choice for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Joseph Z. Klenha, president of Cicero for 16 years before his defeat by Cerny in 1932, is one of four Republican candidates for the presidency. Edward J. Kawal, member of the Chicago Bears professional football team, is running for nomination for assessor on the Republican ticket.

The Taxpayers and Labor parties also have a full slate of candidates in the field.

POSSIBLE FIRST LADIES WILL BE WOMEN'S GUESTS

A circular table on a dais in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house will be the center of attention at the Victory luncheon of Republican women leaders from 29 states on March 6, if present plans are carried out. Around this table, it is expected, the wives of ten Republican possibilities for the presidential nomination will be seated.

Only women will be invited to the luncheon, which will be the high point of a regional conference of Republican leaders called by Mrs. George W. Rogers, western director of women's activity for the Republican national committee, and Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal, national director.

Among the potential first ladies, invited "so that the women may get to know the wives of the men they may support," are Mrs. Alf M. Landon of Kansas; Mrs. William E. Borah of Idaho; Mrs. Frank D. Knox of Chicago; Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan; Mrs. Hamilton Fish, Mrs. James W. Wadsworth Jr., and Mrs. Ogden Mills of New York; Mrs. Glenn Frank of Wisconsin; Mrs. Lester J. Dickinson of Iowa, and Mrs. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey.

Costa Ricans Go to Polls to Elect President Today

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Police took precautions tonight to prevent transportation of arms on the eve of presidential elections tomorrow, when a successor to President Ricardo Jiminez Oreamuno will be chosen. Political observers generally expected Leon Cortes, minister of public works in the Jiminez cabinet, would be elected president.

178 ENTER APRIL PRIMARIES FOR COUNTY OFFICES

F. L. Fairbank Files on 1st Day for Prosecutor.

County filings yesterday for the April primaries brought few surprises. Sixty-nine Democrats and 109 Republicans presented petitions by mail or in person before County Clerk Flynn closed his office at noon. They seek either party nomination for county-wide offices or election as party state senatorial committeemen. Twenty-two Democrats and 29 Republicans took their petitions to the filing desk. The rest used the mails. Candidates must enter their petitions by the time the office closes on Feb. 24.

The customary "miracle" was noted when the mail bags were opened at 6:45 a. m. First out of the capacious sacks came the regular Democratic organization's county slate, continuing a precedent old in local politics. Thus the slate candidates get the first place on the ballot.

New Aspirant in Lists.

A new name in the Republican race for state's attorney—that of former Municipal Judge Freeman Leroy Fairbank—was a surprise filing, and it drew first place in the Republican column.

Fairbank was an assistant state's attorney for ten years during the Wayman, Hoyne, and Crowe administrations. He still is close to former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

The second name filed for state's attorney was that of former Assistant United States Attorney William E. Waugh, who will run with support from the group aligned with H. Wallace Caldwell, candidate for governor. The third candidate is Master in Chancery Leonard C. Reid, who wears the Deneen colors.

Candidates for County Office.

In the list of Democratic candidates which follows, the first name—the only name in some cases—indicates the slate choice, except in the case of the Chicago sanitary district trustees, where three are to be nominated. The three listed are the slate candidates. The Democratic list follows:

COUNTY TREASURER—Horace G. Lindheimer, 5454 South Shore drive; Vincent J. Dwyer, 518 Arlington place; William Lynch, 5467 Augusta boulevard.

TRUSTEE OF THE SANITARY DISTRICT [Three to be nominated]—Thomas F. Byrne, 6217 South Washtenaw avenue; Paul V. Colianni, 725 North Oak Park avenue; D. A. Horan, 2325 South Marshall boulevard.

The Republican Entrants.

In the Republican list which follows candidates identified with a [C] will be supported by the Caldwell faction; those marked [D] by the Deneen group. Supporters of Wayland Brooks, candidate for governor, are also expected to have candidates in the field before Feb. 24, the last day for filing. The Republican filings:

The only Republican filing for the Municipal bench on the first filing day was Municipal Judge Edward B. Casey, 6914 Sheridan road, for chief justice. The Democratic filings, with incumbents indicated by asterisks, are:

CHIEF JUSTICE.

*John J. Sonsteby, 1514 Pratt boulevard.

ASSOCIATE JUDGES.

*Joseph A. Graber, 8201 South Elizabeth street.

Michael Tremko, 2255 West Huron street.

John T. Zuris, 4624 South Francisco avenue.

*Thomas A. Green, 10633 Avenue F.

Oscar A. Caplan, 3651 Douglas boulevard.

*William Brooks, 7248 Euclid avenue. . . . .

*Leon Edelman, 1729 North New England avenue.

*Erwin J. Hasten, 4436 North Paulina street.

*Edward S. Scheffler, 825 North Drake avenue.

*Jay A. Schiller, 4434 North Manor avenue.

The first day to file petitions for bailiff and clerk of the Municipal court is Feb. 19.

Refuses Injunction on G. O. P.

Superior Judge Charles A. Williams refused yesterday to grant an immediate injunction which would restrain County Clerk Flynn and City Clerk Brady from accepting Republican nominating petitions. The suit was brought by Charles West, a Republican and president of the Rogers Park Civic league.

West's attorneys, Gregory A. Geldermann and Thomas F. Reilly, contended that the G. O. P. county organization committed suicide last July when it agreed not to put up a slate at the judicial elections and all the candidates ran under the Democratic label. Consequently, it was argued, the party failed to poll 5 per cent of the votes cast as required to retain standing as a legal party.

Judge Williams in refusing to issue an immediate order declared that there was no emergency inasmuch as the injunction could be issued any time before the ballots were printed. "Besides," the judge added, humorously, "the real interested parties, the Republican candidates, are not represented here."

EARLY BIRDS IN POLITICAL SCRAMBLE

BANDITS GET $280 PAY ROLL.

Thomas F. Hagan, 7115 Luella avenue, part owner of the Joyce-Hagan Coal company, West 87th street and South Grove, was robbed of a $280 pay roll yesterday by two men who forced his automobile to the curb in front of 613 West 62d street. He was returning from a bank.

CITY WILL MARK ANNIVERSARY OF LINCOLN'S BIRTH

Mayor Kelly yesterday issued a proclamation declaring Wednesday an official holiday in Chicago in memory of Abraham Lincoln. The mayor urged Chicago citizens "to attend, wherever possible, the various functions being conducted in memory of our martyred President, and in other ways pay tribute and respect to that great man who, through his sincerity of purpose and able direction, was a major factor in the preservation of the union or these United States."

Members of the Grand Army of the Republic, Sons of Veterans of the Civil War and other patriotic groups will be guests of honor at a celebration to be held in the Civic Opera house on Wednesday night to conclude the observance of Lincoln day. The program is being arranged as a city wide occasion by the Lincoln day committee of which Julius H. Miner is the director.

Mr. Miner said yesterday that Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE TRIBUNE, has accepted the committee's invitation to be the speaker of the evening. Col. McCormick's address will be preceded by a musical program and will be followed by a dramatic spectacle based upon Lincoln's career. Homer Guck will serve as chairman of the program.

Observance of the day will begin at 9:30 a. m. at the Lincoln monument in Lincoln park. Ceremonies there will be under the direction of Joseph Novotny, Edward F. McGinnis, and Col. J. V. Houghteling, members of war veterans' organizations.

An exhibition of 36 paintings of historic Illinois by Lane K. Newberry, Chicago artist, will be held in the current exhibit room of the Chicago Historical society museum in Lincoln park during February.

Of chief interest in this collection is a group of 12 Lincoln canvases, including all the Illinois spots now hallowed in the Lincoln tradition. On Wednesday, Lincoln's birthday, Mr. Newberry will deliver hourly lectures on this group from 1 to 4 p. m.

A handful of Lincoln's own "boys in blue" gathered at the Hotel Sherman last night, when past commanders of the Grand Army of the Republic held a "family party" in honor of Oley Nelson of Slater, Ia., 92 years old, commander in chief of the National G. A. R.

BROOKS BACKED BY 2 MORE WARD ORGANIZATIONS

Candidate Will Speak in City Tonight.

Unanimous endorsement of the Republican candidacy of Wayland Brooks for governor was voted yesterday by two more ward organizations—the 17th and 50th. Asa A. Davidson, committeeman of the 17th, and Louis Nettelhorst, committeeman of the 50th, transmitted the word to Brooks' headquarters in the Hotel La Salle.

Brooks now has the support of a majority of the Republican organizations both in Cook county and downstate.

Downstate Pledges Grow.

Downstate committeemen have been visiting him in increasing numbers during the last week to pledge aid for his candidacy.

Brooks will make two addresses at Republican rallies today. This afternoon he will speak at a meeting at 2 p. m., in the state armory at Aurora, sponsored by the 11th District Republican Service Men's league.

Speaks Here Tonight.

Precinct committeemen from all parts of Kane county are expected to be present.

At 8 o'clock tonight, Brooks will address a meeting on Chicago's south side, in the Quinn chapel, 2401 South Wabash avenue. His subject will be "Douglas and Lincoln."

WOMAN STARTS FIVE DAY TERM ON AUTO CHARGE

Mrs. Mary Bogue, 35 years old, 2626 North Clark street, appeared in Judge Eugene L. McGarry's jury court yesterday bearing a small week-end bag, and was taken into custody to serve a five day sentence in the House of Correction for reckless driving.

Mrs. Bogue was sentenced Friday by Judge McGarry after Sergt. Harry Arvidson of a park police squad testified she tried to ram a squad car at Lake Shore drive and Burton place in the early hours of Jan. 1. She waived a 30 day stay granted her to make an appeal.

Judge McCarry said he regretted "making an example of a woman," but that "women drink and smoke like men, they drive like men, and for those reasons the court must take a woman on a man's basis."

Mrs. Bogue's husband, Robert, 32 years old, who was fined $100 Friday for disorderely conduct, posted $100 bond, and a motion to vacate the fine was continued until March 6.

BYRNS PREDICTS HOUSE INQUIRY ON AGE DOLES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Speaker Byrns predicted today that if the resolution for an investigation of the Townsend and other old age pension movements comes before the house it will be approved.

Mr. Byrns added he understood both Republicans and Democrats want an investigation, "and if everybody wants it there's no reason why we shouldn't have it."

Representative Bell [Dem., Mo.], author of the resolution, said he has talked to committee members and believes a majority favors investigation.

Twin Black Wolves Arrive Here

Few in Captivity

A pair of black wolves, about 18 months old and weighing 60 pounds each were placed on display in the Lincoln park zoo yesterday. Purchased from "Snake" King of Brownsville, Tex., the animals are the only ones of their breed in Chicago and one of the few pairs in captivity in the world. They are native to the southwestern United States. "They're very rare. Like black foxes, they're really freak animals," said Floyd S. Young, director of the zoo. "I've only seen about five or six of them in my lifetime."

75 POLICE QUELL WPA CLASH OVER RIGHT TO STOVE

A near riot on a Works Progress administration project at the Chicago airport was quieted shortly before noon yesterday by the arrival of 75 policemen, under Capt. William Collins. Riot clubs were carried, but none had to be used.

About 100 of the 500 white and colored workers putting in a drainage system on the 63d street side of the airport gathered in a shanty to keep warm. They are permitted short warming periods by Thomas Gibbons, superintendent of the project.

About 45 of the men huddled close to the stove and refused to make room for the others. Trouble was developing when Gibbons summoned the police and announced the men would be fired unless they returned to work.

GERMANY NAMES BUREAU TO GUARD RACE IN WEDLOCK

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A committee of seven "for the protection of German blood" was appointed today by the ministry of the interior.

It will pass on all applications for permission to marry between persons two of whose grandparents were full-blooded Jews and those who had only one or no Jewish grandparents.

Kurt Jonas, a 27 year old Jew who hoped to escape consequences of the new racial laws by emigrating to Cyprus with a German woman he planned to marry, was arrested before he could leave and sentenced to one year in prison for "racial turpitude."

GOVERNOR OPENS OFFICE HERE AND HITS 'BOSS RULE'

State Candidates File and Issue Manifestoes.

Candidates in both the Republican and Democratic parties for the nominations for governor and other state offices at the April 14, primary yesterday took advantage of the opening day for filing petitions to issue statements in regard to their candidacies.

"In launching my campaign for renomination and reëlection," he said, "I want to remind the people of Illinois of a pledge that I made to them when I assumed the office of governor of this state.

"In dedicating myself to the trust that had been reposed in me, I then promised that I would have no bosses as governor of Illinois except the people of Illinois.

True to Service of People.

"I have remained true to that promise and my administration has been guided by an unswerving determination to service all the people honestly, fearlessly and conscientiously.

"The carrying out of that pledge has alienated self-appointed Boss Kelly, who has for self-serving reasons arbitrarily assumed to decree my political ruin. I am ready and willing to accept his challenge.

"I am in this race for the nomination to succeed myself as governor as a matter of principle, and I'm in the fight to the finish. The political fortunes of Henry Horner are of little consequence as compared to the basic principles involved in this campaign.

"This fight is to determine whether the rank and file of the Democrats of this, the third largest state in the Union, shall have a voice in the selection of their own candidates for public office, or whether bossism shall dictate the destiny of our party and our state for a dictator's own selfish greed.

Questions Foes Motives.

"Why is this self-created boss against me? What have I done to incur his imperialistic wrath?

"Even my political enemies—and no one in public life can avoid political enemies—frankly concede that my administration has been a fearless one, a constructive effort in behalf of all the people of the state of Illinois.

"This so-called boss says I am not politically minded.

"What does he mean by being politically minded? If he thereby means that I would not bow to every whim of political bosses, and throw my conscience to the four winds, he is, indeed, correct. And so I will ever be.

"Through all my public career as judge of the Probate court of Cook county for over eighteen years and as governor the people have pinned their faith in me, and I have tried at all times to justify that faith.

"Time to Rise in Wrath."

"Honesty in public office has been the demand of the American people for generations. If a public servant is to have a so-called boss empowered to turn thumbs down on him because he has served the people and not the boss, then it is time for the men and women of Illinois to rise up in their wrath and show their resentment.

"It ought to be some satisfaction to my fellow citizens, as it is to me, that no one can truthfully point a finger of suspicion of scandal at my administration. No one can say that I have ever been smeared by the spoils of political office.

"My administration has been a continuous effort to give the people of Illinois a square deal in government.

"I have balanced the state budget and have kept it balanced. We have saved the taxpayers $30,000,000 by economy in state government. The financial integrity and conduct of the state has been established and maintained.

More Laws for Workers.

"During my administration there has been more legislation enacted beneficial to the working classes than in twenty previous years in this state. Authorities who have made a study of labor legislation bear witness to that fact.

"We have helped business and have fed and maintained the needy of this state and increased mightily financial aid to our schools.

"The question is as to who is to be the Democratic nomonee for governor of Illinois is to be answered by the voters in the Democratic primary —not by the arbitrary boss whose sole aim is to perpetuate his own dictatorial power.

"There's a rising tide of revolt throughout the state of Illinois against boss domination of the Democratic party. The people will not stand for the rule or ruin policy of a self-appointed boss.

"That is why I am confident I will be nominated at the primary April 14."

Among those present were James T. Igoe, former congressman, and Homer J. Byrd, former county commissioner, whom the governor recently appointed Chicago superintendent of the department of education and registration.

Carlstrom Hits Situation Here.

Oscar E. Carlstrom of Aledo, former Republican attorney general, issued a statement at Springfield where he personally filed his petition for governor with the secretary of state's office. Carlstrom's statement was an attack chiefly against what he called "Cook county bipartisan self-appointed bosses."

Announcement was made by William J. Stratton of Ingleside that he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for secretary of state, an office he held for one term, and said he would file his petition next week. Stratton said every effort should be made by the Republicans to insure the defeat of Roosevelt and the New Deal in November.

HORNER OPENS CHICAGO DRIVE

Gov. Henry Horner, addressing followers at opening of his Chicago headquarters yesterday, declared his fight is to determine whether "the rank and file of the Democrats shall have a voice in the selection of their own candidates."

J. D. HAMILTON MAY RUN GOV. LANDON'S PRIMARY CAMPAIGN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—John D. Hamilton, general counsel of the Republican national committee and national committeeman from Kansas, is being pressed to become the primary campaign manager for Gov. Landon, a contestant for the Republican nomination for President.

Supporters of Col. Frank Knox have charged Hamilton has used his influence in behalf of the Kansas governor while touring the country as an assistant to Chairman Henry B. Fletcher. These allegations have annoyed Mr. Hamilton.

The primary campaign has become intensive with the formal entrance of Gov. Landon into the presidential field.

Thus far both Gov. Landon and Senator William E. Borah have been advancing their cause without direction from the Republican national committee.

COL. ROOSEVELT HITS NEW DEAL; PRAISES COURT

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 8.—[U. P.]—The Supreme Court of the United States was "the one bulwark that stood between the country and the administration's attack on democracy and liberty when it invalidated the AAA," Col. Theodore said tonight, starting the Republican campaign in Michigan.

The son of the late President, addressing state and county leaders of his party, charged that from its inception the Democratic administration had endeavored to concentrate all powers in the President.

"President Roosevelt and his henchmen, Messrs. Wallace, Tugwell, Frankfurter, Cohen, et al., are deliberately trying to destroy our democracy and substitute therefor some scheme of government based on those now existing in Russia, Germany, Italy and Austria," Theodore Roosevelt said.

"These are strong words, but they are capable of proof, and proof in the simplest fashion.

BORAH DARES OLD GUARD TO OPPOSE HIM IN OHIO RACE

Answers Fess; Opposes Hoover Influence.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency, today defied the old guard of Ohio to put up a candidate against him in the presidential primary, denounced the "favorite son" system as deceptive and challenged former Senator Simeon D. Fess to come out in the open and say who he is supporting.

Senator Borah's statement, issued as a reply to the Fess charge that he would be another New Dealer and no better than Roosevelt, indicated that he will carry his fight to the country on liberal lines in open defiance of the conservatives, whom he regards as too strongly under the influence of former President Hoover.

Believes "Square Deal" Wanted.

"Mr. Fess," said Senator Borah, "says that if we are going to have a New Deal, then why not vote for President Roosevelt direct, instead of for me. That is important. But it is equally important to know what kind of a deal Mr. Fess is for. Is he for the old deal?

"My opinion is that, while the people may have their objections to the New Deal, they are not going back to the old deal. They at least want a square deal, and the first evidence of a square deal is to give them an opportunity to express themselves at the polls."

Pleads for "Good Citizenship."

Mr. Borah thus took as his shibboleth the "square deal" of Theodore Roosevelt, whom he did not support in the Bull Moose campaign of 1912. The "New Deal" itself is said by President Roosevelt's biographer to be a combination of Theodore Roosevelt's "square deal" and Woodrow Wilson's "new freedom."

The senator, who already had denounced the "uninstructed" delegate system in his Brooklyn speech, made a plea in the name of "good citizenship" for the voters to have a voice in the selection of a candidate for President. The uninstructed delegate plan, he said, is designed to permit "all kinds of trading and manipulating in the selection of a man for the high office of the presidency."

He denounced the "favorite son" system as "a scheme to get around the law" and "deprive the people of any voice in the selecting of a candidate." The old guard of Ohio has two favorite sons under consideration, Representative Chester Bolton and Robert A. Taft, son of the former President.

"The so-called favorite son plan is a scheme to get around this law," said Senator Borah. "It is designed to frustrate the law and deprive the people of any voice in selecting the candidate. This is not said in criticism of the personal character of any one who might permit his name to be used as a favorite son. But the system is wrong. It manifestly is, on its face, a deception; an attempt to technically observe the law while in substance violating it.

"It not only would be complying with the law of this state, but it would be in the interest of sound and good party politics for those who are opposed to my candidacy to put their candidates in the field. Let the people express themselves at the polls. Why should there not be an open, candid declaration upon the part of the delegates as to their choice for the presidency.

"Rightfully or wrongfully, the Republican party has been charged in recent years with little sympathy for the average man or woman. The charge often has been made that by reason of its long length of power, it became indifferent to the questions of popular government. There could be nothing more reassuring and nothing more in the interest of party success than to comply with the laws of the different states where they exist and seek the instruction and guidance of the voters.

Would Reassure Voters.

"I do not assume that such a course would be particularly in my interests. I do not know that it would. But I do know that it would be in the interests of the party and it would be very assuring to the people after the convention is over.

"The ex-senator from Ohio, Mr. Fess, has said publicly that he is very much opposed to my nomination. That is important. But far more important, I should think, to the people of Ohio is the question: Who is he in favor of nominating? What is his secret?

"I am told he is for Mr. Hoover. Very well. It would not be discreditable to him to say so publicly. Let's see whether the people of Ohio agree with him, whoever he is for. Why not declare his position? It does not help the voter to know who he is against unless they know who he is for.

"He should take into his confidence the people of his state, who have honored him greatly, and come out openly for his candidate and thus assist in securing an open, unhampered expression of the voters.

"A Sham and a Deception."

"The truth is, and there is no need to try to conceal it from the mind of average intelligence, that the favorite son proposition is a sham and deception. Likewise the uninstructed delegate plan is to enable all kinds of trading and manipulating in the selecting of a man for the high office of the presidency.

"It will be an interesting sight at Cleveland to see these people who have refused to come into the open and give the people an opportunity to vote in the matter of selecting a candidate when they come to draw their planks about popular government and the dangers of popular government.

"A scheme, or system, which deprives the people of a fair chance to have a part in selecting the candidate for President is a travesty upon popular government, and all platform declarations which may be written will not eliminate that thought from the minds of the voters on Nov. 1."

Picked to Carry Oregon.

While supporters of Senator Borah still were waiting to learn whether Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas will enter the Ohio primaries against him, they were assured by Senator Frederick Steiwer [Rep., Ore.] that Borah will sweep that state in the primaries of May 15. Senator Borah has announced his intention of entering the Oregon primaries, but has not decided when he will file his declaration. He has until April 1.

"The people of my state have a liberal viewpoint and they will go overwhelmingly for their distinguished neighbor, Senator Borah," declared Senator Steiwer.

With Senator Borah's managers campaigning the far west, other states in which his name is expected to be entered in the primaries include California, Washington, Montana, Idaho, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

May Enter Illinois Race.

It was announced at Senator Borah's headquarters that a delegation from Illinois will be here next Tuesday or Wednesday to discuss plans for entering him in the primaries of that state, which will be held on April 14, a month before the Ohio primaries.

Senator Borah declined to be interviewed today, apparently not wishing to be questioned about the conference yesterday with President Roosevelt, but his office reported that he had no appointments with an Illinois delegation.

While the Republican ranks were split wide open on the basis of liberalism versus conservatism by the Borah-Fess feud, Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.] chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, looked beyond the Cleveland convention to the fight with the Democrats in the national campaign. He announced that on Monday he will insist upon amending the Robinson resolution to investigate campaign expenditures so that it will embrace the use of relief funds for political purposes.

"I don't see how the Democrats can oppose my amendment, but they might," Senator Hastings declared.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has charged that the Republicans are preparing to spend millions of dollars in the coming campaign and the Republican retort is that the Democrats have and are using the four billions "boondoggling" fund for political purposes. Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania twice has written to President Roosevelt charging that men and women on relief rolls in that state are told to vote the Democratic ticket.

The resolution to investigate campaign expenditures, which seeks an allocation of $100,000 from the senate contingent fund, has been favorably reported by the committee on privileges and elections and is pending in the audit and control committee.

BORAH BACKERS ACT TO CAPTURE OHIO'S 52 G. O. P. DELEGATES

Columbus, O., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Backers of Senator William E. Borah, lone avowed candidate for the Republican nomination for President, made the first definite move today for Ohio's support by obtaining petitions allowing him to enter a full slate of delegates in the May primary.

Meanwhile, friends of Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, mentioned among other Republican presidential possibilities, awaited his expected announcement of a bid for the state's 52 delegates to the national convention next June.

Borah petitions were issued by the office of the secretary of state to Frank E. Fauver of Columbus, a former state director of public works. Fauver said Borah's managers had decided to enter a complete slate of candidates for delegate and alternates.

ROOSEVELT CLUB OF BOSTON (T. R.) FOR LANDON'S NOMINATION

Boston, Mass., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Robert M. Washburn, ardent Borah supporter and president of the Roosevelt [T. R.] club, announced today a majority of the club favored Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas as its "present choice" for Republican presidential honors.

U. S. Senator William E. Borah, who recently asked Washburn to discontinue his efforts to put a Borah-pledged delegation in the field in Massachusetts, ran a decided second in a club poll. Alfred E. Smith placed third.

The actual vote was: Landon, 73; Borah, 16; Smith, 7. Former President Hoover tied with Washburn at five each, while Col. Frank Knox had four.

Washburn, newspaper political commentator and one time state legislator, who won the Republican senatorial nomination in Massachusetts three years ago only to lose overwhelmingly to U. S. Senator David I. Walsh [Dem.], said, however, he would stick to Borah.

TERROR SPREAD AMONG ENEMIES BY NEW DEALERS

Aim Campaign of Fright at Republicans.

tors to embarrass a witness by attempts to wring from him the innermost secrets of his private life and by every variation of the question: 'Have you stopped beating your wife? Answer yes or no.'

Showdown Due in Senate.

"The performances of the American cheka constitute a sad commentary on the pass to which we have come in our country. Never outside of Russia, Germany, and Italy has intimidation on so vast a scale been attempted. Will it succeed in silencing the millions of citizens who have dared to raise their voices against the New Deal? I doubt it."

Senator Hastings' views are shared by many other senators, including those Democrats who are not in sympathy with the dictatorial tendencies of the Roosevelt administration. There will be a showdown in the senate on the continuation of the activities and on the purposes of the Black committee if Senator Black requests additional funds for his investigations or attempts to cite for contempt any of the persons who have refused to answer questionnaires or otherwise resisted the demands of his agents.

So far the senate has placed $50,000 at the disposal of the Black committee and about half of this amount has been expended. Probably the committee will be enabled to operate right up to the time of the election without asking an additional appropriation by the senate, for the administration is furnishing the committee with investigators and other employés who are on the pay roll of the defunct NRA and other New Deal institutions. Senator Black denounced rather heatedly as a lie a report that his agents were being paid by the WPA, but he would neither affirm nor deny that they have been drawn from the NRA.

Black Purrs, Then Pounces.

Senator Black, the chief of the New Deal inquisition, is a sallow faced, steely eyed, boyish figure of a man in his fiftieth year who can purr like a cat and pounce like a tiger. When he takes a witness in hand before his dreaded tribunal he is all purr. He smiles, he ingratiates, he leads his victim from one commitment to another, he seeks to tangle the witness in his own testimony. Then when he thinks he has the subject in his toils he pounces. He confronts the witness with ledgers, documents, business letters, private letters, billets-doux, and anything else to which suspicion may be attached, the spoils of the raids by the inquisition's secret agents.

And when the chief inquisitor pounces the purr fades, the smiles fade, the steely eyes bore the victim through and through and the thin lips curl in cynical skepticism. He leans forward as if about to spring, he shakes a minatory forefinger and he rains his questions thick and fast. Fortunate is the man able to bear up under the ordeal. The experience is one that most men dread.

Senator Black learned the arts of the inquisitor as a county prosecuting attorney. Ten years ago he was elected to the senate with the reputed support of the Ku Klux Klan. Some said he was a member of that secret organization of persecution that was dreaded as much at the height of its power as is the Black committee today. Whether he is or was a member of the klan Senator Black today refused to affirm or deny.

The Black committee operates in close conjunction with the treasury department in harassing business men. Citizens who receive questionnaires from the Black committee and visitations from Senator Black's agents armed with subpenas, duces tecum, soon find themselves visited by income tax agents who ransack books and grill executives and employés in search of income tax evasions.

Enemies Are Harassed.

The harassment of opponents of the administration by the treasury department through income tax proceedings has attracted a great deal of attention ever since President Roosevelt got firmly seated in the executive chair. The administration accused former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon of evading payment of several million dollars of income taxes. This case is pending in the board of tax appeals.

As soon as the late Huey Long broke from President Roosevelt the treasury department began investigating his income taxes. The government never was able to indict Long, but it did indict several of his henchmen for income tax evasion. In the only one of these cases so far tried the defendant was acquitted.

More recently the treasury has instituted proceedings against Pierre du Pont and John J. Raskob, conservative Democrats, who were instrumental in organizing the American Liberty league and are large contributors to its financing.

The treasury accuses them of evading income taxes by fraudulent sales of stock at a loss, to each other. They have answered that they did nothing that had not been approved by the courts and have accused the Roosevelt administration of persecuting them because of their affiliation with the Liberty league.

Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach [Dem., Wash.], a majority member of the Black committee, recently villified duPont in the senate under protection of senatorial immunity. He drew a blistering rebuke from Senator Hastings who defended duPont and presented figures to refute the charge of income tax invasion.

These are only a few outstanding cases of the thousands involving harassment of business men critical of the New Deal by the income tax authorities. The treasury now has a larger force of agents than ever before who are assigned to income tax investigations. There are 3,000 regular agents and in addition there are 560 examiners and 250 clerks drawn from the ranks of WPA employés.

Collect Less Back Taxes.

The administration denies that intimidation of critics of the New Deal is the object of this overhauling of income tax returns for years back and insists that the only object is that of ferreting out and collecting revenue due the government. The Roosevelt administration, however, makes a less favorable showing in the collection of back taxes than the preceding Republican administrations.

In 1928 the back taxes collected totalled $277,835,602, in 1929 they were $236,924,759, in 1930 they were $231,500,926, in 1931, $238,084,449, and in 1932, $188,781,607. Then the Roosevelt administration came in and investigations were multiplied but with diminished returns. In 1933 the back taxes amounted to $132,393,664, in 1934 they were $144,586,953, and in 1935 they were $185,641,136.

Wait to Get Headlines.

According to one member of the group the Black committee will resume its examination of witnesses within a fortnight or whenever the Nye committee investigating the munitions industry completes its inquiry. It was explained that not till the Nye committee concludes will the Black committee have a free opportunity to get the big headlines in the newspapers for its grilling of the anti-New Dealers on the witness stand.

The committee will resume its investigation of the Cities Service company in pursuance of its probing of the activities of persons, corporations, and organizations in opposition to the utilities death sentence. Henry L. Doherty, head of Cities Service, was subjected to much harassment by Senator Black's agents. They went through all his business records and then demanded and got his private letters to his wife and daughter written when they were in Florida.

The agents said it was important to scrutinize the private letters in order to ascertain Mr. Doherty's "state of mind."

Individuals Are Next.

After conclusion of the investigation of the utilities the Black committee will turn its attention to the individuals and organizations that are fighting the New Deal. The basis for this operation already has been laid in questionnaires sent to the members of the Liberty league, the Crusaders, the Sentinels of the Republic, the New York State Economic council, the American Federation of Investors, and the American Taxpayers' league.

This questionnaire is one of the most remarkable ever issued by the government inquisition. It calls on the recipient for a statement of "the names and addresses of all corporations, partnerships, or organizations of any kind with which you are in any way connected."

Literal compliance with this demand would require the victim to disclose his investments in corporations, and other business enterprises. Many persons receiving the questionnaire are understood to have refused to answer.

Admits Fishing Expedition.

The greater part of the questionnaire, the text of which THE TRIBUNE has published, is devoted to ferreting out connections of the individuals aligned with the anti-New Deal organizations. One member of the committee said that the whole operation is a fishing expedition the object of which is to show that these associations have been organized and are being financed by the same comparatively small group of big business men who are to be branded as conspirators against the New Deal.

Senator Black declined to furnish THE TRIBUNE with a list of the persons to whom the questionnaires have been sent. They were reported to number several thousand but H. A. Blomquist, chief investigator of the committee, asserted there were "not more than several hundred."

Former Federal Sleuth.

Blomquist is a keen, young detective who formerly was an agent in the department of justice. Senator Black obtained him from the department to direct the inquisitorial operations.

The senator also refused to answer any other questions bearing on the investigation. He would not say whether the investigation is aimed only at critics of the administration. He would not answer when asked why he is not investigating the American Federation of Labor lobby, the veterans' lobby, Father Coughlin's Union for Social Justice and other lobbies.

Since initiating its investigation of the patriotic societies the Black committee has extended its operations to include other foes of the New Deal. It recently pounced down on the National Association of Manufacturers whose officers at the Congress of Industry in New York in December declared war on the New Deal and prepared to exert all their influence toward the defeat of Mr. Roosevelt for reëlection.

The association has received its questionnaire, but has not returned it. It is said to be in process of answering.

The chamber of commerce has not received a questionnaire up to date, but many of its members have been put on the spot by the inquisition.

Black Runs Whole Show.

In addition to Senator Black the lobby committee consists of Senator Schwellenbach, Senator Sherman Minton [Dem., Ind.], Senator Lynn J. Frazier [Rep., N. D.], and Senator Ernest W. Gibson [Rep., Vt.]. The minority members have been kept in ignorance of the activities of the committee. As a matter of fact Senator Black runs the whole show with the acquiescence of the other two majority members. He has called no meetings of the committee since last summer.

"I haven't attended any of the meetings of the committee and don't know what is the purpose of the investigation," said Senator Minton. "I am heartily in favor, however, of an investigation of the Liberty league and these other organizations. Why should these Liberty leaguers set themselves up as guardians of the constitution? They are just trying to keep what they've got."

"Is that a crime?" he was asked.

"No, nor is it a crime to be against them," Minton replied.

"So, you're going to give them a grilling?"

Fear New Deal Reprisals.

There is much evidence of the fear inspired in the business community by the tactics of intimidation adopted by the New Dealers. Many business men have refused to contribute to national Republican campaign funds on the ground that publication of their names as required by law would subject them to punishment by the administration in the countless forms made possible by the concentration of the regulation of all forms of enterprise in Washington under the Democratic régime.

Theodore Roosevelt recently related that he was offered a position in a large financial house, but that the offer was withdrawn when he stipulated that he be permitted to continue to speak his mind on the New Deal. He was told that he thereby would subject his employers to retaliation by Washington.

Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Investors, refused last fall to allow Black committee agents to examine his private family letters. He couched his refusal in a blistering letter to the committee. There is much interest in whether Senator Black will cite him for contempt of the senate. Dr. Magill recently denounced the latest questionnaire addressed to the patriotic organizations.

Arouses People to Fight.

"The questionnaire," he said, "is an obvious effort to intimidate business men from opposing the brain trust. The New Dealers failed to take into consideration that Americans are not easily intimidated. This effort to curb constitutional liberties will merely arouse Americans to fight.

"It is another indication of the trend under the present administration toward complete disregard of the rights of the individual citizen and the assumption of autocratic powers by would-be dictators."

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—President George Barton Cutten of Colgate university implied to President Roosevelt a "greed for concentrated political power" in an address prepared for delivery before the American Institute of Banking tonight.

Confining his speech to comment on two quotations from the President's opening address to the current congress, Dr. Cutten said that "two words—'entrenched greed'—used in reference to certain of our citizenry . . . meant such men as you are—or such men as you hope to be. . . .

"There is, however, another form of greed which is charged with danger to both the individual showing it and the community at large . . . and that is the greed for concentrated political power.

"So I come to the second quotation . . . 'In 34 months we have built up new instruments of political power' and he intimates there are more to come. . . . Our greatest fear now is that the safeguard which the constitution vouchsafed to us will be overridden and disregarded and through political greed we shall again have slipped back 2,000 years and have concentration of power. . . ."

Only One Low Priced Car is FIRST in Everything that Counts

. . . TERRAPLANE

JUST COMPARE

THIS with THIS

Terraplane alone among all popular low priced cars gives you this:	In every other popular low priced car this is what you get:
● Full 115-inch wheelbase.	● 2 to 6 inches less wheelbase.
● 195 inches over-all length.	● 5 to 12½ inches less over-all length.
● Most power—88 or 100 horsepower—with freedom from vibration at all speeds.	● 3 to 18 less horsepower than Terraplane's 88—and not nearly as smooth.
● Body all of steel, with seamless roof of solid steel.	● Body only partly of steel—or steel body with "soft top."
● Most inside room—145 cubic feet—more leg and shoulder room, and widest rear seat.	● Less inside room—less shoulder and leg room—narrower rear seats.
● Completely new style—best insurance of the investment value of your car.	● 1935 styling, changed only in details. Far more likely to be out of date by 1937.
● The only rear opening baggage and tire compartment on 5 and 6-passenger models that can be had in any low priced car without extra cost. Spare tire lies flat inside.	● No rear opening baggage and tire compartment, except in cars where trunk models are available—at considerable extra cost. Spare tire mounted outside on all other models.
● Duo-Automatic Hydraulic Brakes (patent applied for), two braking systems operating automatically from one brake pedal. And a third braking system from the easiest operating parking brake in the world.	● Single main braking system—either hydraulic or mechanical—without complete reserve braking system and without Terraplane's type of easy acting parking brakes.
● Radial Safety Control (patent applied for) combining all the advantages of independent springing with a sturdy front axle—smoother riding, truer steering, safer stopping.	● Older type front end designs—either with or without solid axle—none of which combines gentle spring action with rigid axle construction.
● The Rhythmic Ride—the only long leaf springs with nothing to do but cushion your ride.	● Coil springs—or leaf springs, stiffened to carry steering and braking loads.
● The Electric Hand, optional at small extra cost, for finger tip shifting of gears without taking your hands from the steering wheel. Front floor space clear of all levers.	● Nothing like the Electric Hand is available on any other low priced car—and all have floors in front cluttered up with gear and brake levers.
● Extra deep "V-type" windshield—for added beauty and wider vision.	● Nothing like Terraplane's deep "V-type" windshield in any other low priced car.

Every 1936 car buyer in the low price field has just two choices. A Terraplane. Or a car without the features that Terraplane gives. That's why thousands are changing this year to Terraplane . . . stepping UP in everything but cost.

The list of Terraplane advantages doesn't stop with those listed here. There's greater ruggedness, proved by owner mileages of 125,000, 150,000 and more. Greater economy, too, certified by thousands of sworn owner statements . . . emphasized again just the other day in the Los Angeles-Yosemite Economy Run when a Terraplane averaged 23.95 officially certified miles per gallon over a tough 352 mile stretch on mountain roads.

You'll find other advantages on every hand. A perfectly level rear floor—no "hump" down the middle. Tru-Line Steering. Instruments centered at eye level. A big car "feel" none of the others have. And dozens of other features . . . all at a price down with the lowest for the model you want. Yours to try and enjoy today! Come in and see and drive a Terraplane.

NEW DEAL SUES JOHN J. RASKOB FOR MILLION TAX

1929 Return Challenged After Six Years.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee when Al Smith ran for President and one of the founders of the American Liberty league, was charged today with an alleged tax deficiency of $1,026,340 on his 1929 income.

The charge was made in an amendment to the petition, described by Raskob as a "New Deal persecution," brought against Raskob and Pierre S. du Pont, angel of the Liberty league, two days before Smith attacked the New Deal at the league's recent dinner.

The amended petition, filed before the United States board of tax appeals, was written by Herman Oliphant, general counsel for the treasury. It charges Raskob with "wash sales" of stock in which he is alleged to have coöperated with du Pont to evade income tax assessments.

"Fictitious" Sales Charged.

In its similar proceeding against du Pont, which precipitated a bitter debate in the senate, the government demanded that the Wilmington industrialist's taxes for 1929 be increased by $617,316 on the basis of an asserted under statement of income of $2,897,832.

The amended petition declares that Raskob and du Pont engaged in alleged "fictitious" sales of stock amounting to a total of almost 30 million dollars.

"On or about Nov. 13, 1929," it states, "the petitioner [Raskob] entered into a plan, agreement, or understanding with one Pierre S. du Pont of Wilmington, Del., which said plan, agreement, and understanding was that petitioner and said du Pont should attempt to create fictitious losses for the purpose of understating their net taxable incomes, respectively, for the year 1929.

"That du Pont was to make sales of securities to the petitioner at prices below cost to him and that petitioner was to pretend to make sales of securities to said du Pont at prices below cost to him."

Unchallenged for Six Years.

For six long years the 1929 income taxes of Raskob and du Pont stood unquestioned by the government. The charges of a fraudulent plot were not brought until it was revealed that the two men were the chief contributors to the Liberty league, which consistently has assailed administration policies.

Disinterested observers also saw more than a mere coincidence in the fact that the alleged plot was filed on Feb. 6, two days before the President spoke at the Jackson day dinner here and a short time before Smith addressed the Liberty league. The plot was not allowed to leak out to reporters until after the President's speech and before Smith's.

Charges Follow Raskob's "Dun."

Another fact viewed as interesting is that discovery of the plot followed an appeal by Raskob to Postmaster General Farley, New Deal political boss, for some $25,000 due him from a loan to the Democratic war chest. The payment was made before the "plot" was announced.

Immediately on the filing of the deficiency actions in the board of tax appeals du Pont and Raskob petitioned for relief from the extra assessment. A violent attack on them by Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach, [Radical Dem., Wash.], followed in the senate. The senator vilified league members as "blood suckers, leaches, rascals and crooks."

Schwellenbach was answered by Senator Daniel O. Hasting [Rep., Del.] who declared the New Deal was attempting to terrorize du Pont and Raskob into silence.

As the cry of persecution rolled in on the White House, the administration felt compelled to make an answer. Through its propaganda channels the White House sent out the story that the "plot" had been called to the attention of the President and he summoned treasury aids to consider withholding the names of the persons involved.

The experts unanimously voted for collecting in the "hypothetical case" to learn with astonishment that Raskob and du Pont were involved. The President, according to the tale, was regretful but had no other course to pursue even though he might be viewed as venting personal spleen.

Michigan Democratic Chief, 16 Others Convicted of Fraud

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Elmer B. O'Hara, Democratic state chairman, former Wayne county [Detroit] clerk, State Senator Anthony J. Wilkowski, and 16 others of lesser prominence in Michigan Democracy, were convicted tonight of having attempted to steal the 1934 election.

Eight defendants in the recount case, which has been on trial for nearly 12 weeks, were acquitted. Two other defendants previously had pleaded guilty, thus bringing to 20 the number who face sentence Feb. 14 for their part in the vote recount conspiracy.

For O'Hara, the verdict came as the culmination of a series of calamities in a brief political career.

Convicted of Bribery.

Last November a jury in Macomb county, adjacent to Wayne, found him guilty of bribery in a drainage transaction in connection with real estate deals he had made before 1932 when he entered politics and was elected Wayne county clerk. He awaits sentence under that conviction. After conviction he was removed from office.

His plight received considerable humorous attention last week when he proudly displayed an invitation to a White House reception last Thursday night. As he was at that time on trial for vote theft there was great speculation as to whether he would be able to accept the invitation. There also was embarrassment in administration circles when the circumstance was brought to the attention of a White House secretary charged with seeing that the White House is saved such an embarrassing contretemps.

When Thursday night rolled around, however, O'Hara was sitting in the court room of Judge W. McKay Skillman, here, waiting for a jury to decide what to do about him and his 25 co-defendants. The raucous question, "where's Elmer?" was decided.

O'Hara was found guilty on three counts, permitting others to alter ballots, conspiring to permit others to alter ballots, and conspiring to permit others to conduct the recount in an unlawful manner and change the result of the November, 1934, election by putting Democrats in office instead of the Republicans elected.

Theft Attempt Shown.

The case had its inception in November and December, 1934, when the legislature appointed a committee to investigate the Wayne election and conduct a recount. During the trial, evidence showed the defendants altered ballots in an effort to replace Orville E. Atwood, successful Republican candidate for secretary of state and to insure the "election" of Patrick H. O'Brien as attorney general.

A grand jury investigated the recount from February to July and 54 fraud and six perjury indictments were returned.

O'Hara's chief deputy clerk, Herbert L. Sullivan, and a deputy, Franklyn K. Morgan, were convicted along with their chief.

TOLEDO, TESTING EASTERN TIME, TELLS SUCCESS

Finds Labor Approves of System Now.

BY LLOYD WENDT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Toledo, O., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—This city, where the main eastern railroad lines now enter the central time zone, changed from central to eastern time ten years ago and the people here unanimously approve the change after their long experience with it.

As would be in the case in Chicago if the railroads are permitted to adopt eastern time when the city changes on March 1, the lines entering this city from the east operate on eastern time and those from the west are on central time.

This causes no confusion what-so-ever, said A. B. Newell, president of the Toledo Terminal railroad and vice president of the chamber of commerce.

Adopt Eastern Time.

"We moved the railroad time change from Buffalo and Pittsburgh to Toledo several years ago," Mr. Newell said. "The change was entirely beneficial to us. Our schedules for lines to the west carry both our local eastern time and central time. It is very simple to glance at the schedule and merely read central time for the lines to the west.

"The railroads here, including the New York Central lines, the Pennsylvania railroad, the Baltimore and Ohio and the Chesapeake and Ohio are very pleased with the arrangements. They should be even better pleased if the time line continues its western march to Chicago. We certainly indorse eastern time here."

Says Labor Approves Change.

Organized labor, which fought the time change at the beginning, is now completely satisfied with eastern time, said Fred Payne, president of the Central Labor union, representing al locals in the city.

"We opposed it at first because we believed it would get us up too early in the winter," Mr. Payne said. "We were wrong in supposing there would be disadvantages.

"After the change was made we noticed no difference in the morning, but we would get an extra hour in the afternoon. We use this time to work around our home, and, when good times comes, we'll be using it again to take our families out driving in the country.

Wouldn't Adopt Old Time.

"Labor now wouldn't think of changing back. We've found advantages under eastern time that completely satisfy us."

"Eastern time works no hardships on us," he said. "On the contrary, we get advantages. We can use the extra hour of sun in the afternoon to go home and work in our gardens, and thus help make a living. We thought the change would be hard on school children, but it isn't. They get the same benefits that we do."

Mayor Roy C. Start declared that Toledo would vote five to one for eastern time if there was a referendum now.

"We like the change fine," he said. "Business likes it. We have never had any complaint from the farmers. It doesn't seem to bother them. The fact that we have two train times does not inconvenience us.

"It was said at first that eastern time would be difficult for the school children, but we have not found that to be true. The schools are as strong for the change as the rest of the city. Eastern time has reduced automobile accidents and light bills and eliminated the confusion that existed under summer daylight time. We would not think of changing back."

SCOUTS LAUDED BY PRESIDENT ON 26TH 'BIRTHDAY'

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—The Boy Scouts of America were commended for their public service as a vital factor in American life late this afternoon by President Roosevelt in a nationally broadcast address. The speech marked the observance of the 26th anniversary of the Boy Scouts.

The President has been active in the Scout movement for many years as president of the Boy Scouts Foundation of New York City. Early in 1937 he will greet 25,000 to 30,000 Scouts from all parts of the world, who will hold the postponed "jambouree" of last year, under the shadow of Washington monument.

The "jambouree" scheduled for last August was postponed at the suggestion of the President because of the epidemic of infantile paralysis in the Washington area. At the time he urged that the meeting be held here this year.

BATTERY MAKER WHO DEFIED NRA SEEKS G.O.P. SEAT.

York, Pa., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Petitions are being circulated to have the name of Fred Perkins, West York battery manufacturer who defied the NRA, placed on the Republican ballot as alternate delegate to the Republican national convention.

Perkins, who spent 18 days in jail on a charge of violating NRA regulations, is reputed to have the indorsement of Republican leaders.

Henry P. Fletcher, Republican national chairman, and H. D. Sheppard are candidates in the district for delegate.

JURY PREPARES FOR CRIME QUIZ IN MINNEAPOLIS

Report Ample Evidence to Back Charges.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—The campaign to end crime in Minneapolis pressed onward today with indications that a sweeping investigation of vice conditions and lawlessness would be made by the Hennepin county grand jury. This became known after a conference of Clive T. Naugle, jury foreman, and two representatives of the Hennepin county chapter of the Minnesota Law and Order league.

Specific evidence of widespread vice, which J. M. Simmons, special investigator, said he uncovered, was placed before the jury foreman. Simmons and Charles M. Drew, executive secretary, conferred with Naugle for more than an hour.

Afterwards Naugle said, "There's enough there to keep us busy until next December."

Summoned in St. Paul.

Shortly before this meeting Simmons was subpenaed by the Ramsey county attorney's office to appear in St. Paul Monday and tell what he knows of vice trafic he charged existed between Minneapolis and its sister city.

Vice conditions, Simmons declared, are existing with the aid of political "fixers" in both cities. He asserted girls as young as 15 and 16 years old have been taken to vice resorts in the two cities. Vice overlords, he said, have divided Minneapolis into four districts, with captains and lieutenants. He also charged many gambling houses are operating wide open.

Simmons also charged that the underworld cliques were operating either with the aid of the city officials or through ignorance on their parts.

His exposé, made in a talk before the Minneapolis Real Estate board, was criticized today by officials of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Mayor Wants Evidence.

"The time has come when Simmons or any other person that is doing a lot of loose talking should come forward with the evidence," said Mayor Thomas E. Latimer of Minneapolis. "I challenge Simmons to present evidence, if he has any—which I seriously doubt—to the city attorney or the grand jury. It is time that these men who are willing to defame the fair name of our city for purely political purposes and those willing to aid them by repeating their gossip should be required to prove their statements about organized crime and vice and protection by persons in authority."

"I believe the statement regarding conditions here is grossly exaggerated," said Chief Frank Forestalk. "Any unbiased observer who knows conditions must say that the city is freer of vice conditions than it has been for years."

Plenty of Proof.

In St. Paul Chief Charles W. Coulter demanded that if evidence is available, that it be turned over to him. To his knowledge, he said there are no underworld cliques operating in St. Paul.

The Law and Order league secretary met these expressions with the statement: "You may be sure we have evidence to support the statements Mr. Simmons made."

At the same time invitations went out to 300 more organizations to join in the campaign announced yesterday to mobilize sentiment in behalf of good government in Minneapolis. The week of Feb. 22 has been set aside for an intensive study of the problems confronting the city.

In another development today four of seven liquor dealers indicted on perjury charges entered not guilty pleas and were held under bail of $2,500 each. Two of the other three were out of the state and the third, a woman, was ill from pneumonia.

Prepares to Blast Alibi.

All of the seven, like seven indicted more than a week ago, are charged with perjury in connection with their applications for liquor licenses. On each application blank is a question asking whether the applicant ever has been arrested or convicted of a law violation. The grand jury made the indictments after checking the answers to this question against records of federal, state, and municipal courts.

Meanwhile state's attorneys took advantage of the week-end recess in the murder trial of Isadore [Kid Cann] Blumenfeld to prepare for a vigorous attack on the alibi testimony he will offer in support of his defense on a charge of slaying Editor Walter W. Liggett.

Friday, defense witnesses traced Cann's movements up to 4:30 p. m. Dec. 9, the day Liggett was shot to death.

The time of the murder has been fixed at 5:41 p. m. Blumenfeld will take the stand Monday to testify he could not have operated the gun that killed the editor because at that moment of the murder he was sitting in a downtown barber shop.

Thomas McMeekin, his attorney, said he will call two or three additional alibi witnesses Monday and then place the defendant on the stand. After him will come more witnesses to support the claim.

FARM BOY RELATES HOW TEAM OUTRAN HUNGRY WOLF PACK

Devils Lake, N. D., Feb. 8.—(AP)—A pack of hungry wolves pursued a farm boy en route to town with a load of milk and meat today. The speed of his horses carried him out of reach. Raymond Rutten Crary, on his arrival here, said as he was driving along the lake bottom seven miles from town, seven wolves, the leader a huge timber wolf, left the brush and started pursuit.

Crary's horses, frightened, broke into a mad run, the youth said. At times the wolves were so close he considered throwing out the supply of meat, but the animals were outdistanced after a two mile run.

Heavy snows and severe cold have hampered the wolves' rabbit hunting.

Sheffield, Ill., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—A brown thrasher is patronizing the bird feeder at Rudolph Swigart's home, a mocking bird is among the customers at H. L. Wood's seed tray. Doc Elmer Peterson has a purple grackle and J. C. Taylor has seen a flicker. A wild pheasant recently was seen in John Hartz' yard near the business district. Farmers report turtle doves and meadow larks are wintering here.

U. S. AGENTS ACT TO WIPE OUT VICE ALL OVER NATION

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Federal authorities today disclosed they have begun a nation-wide cleanup of the white slave trafic on the heels of the mop-up in this metropolis by Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey, former United States district attorney.

Officials said the federal government will seek extermination of vice coming within the provisions of the Mann act. A special effort will be made, they said, to capture the higher ups in the trafic in women. Police estimate that scores of poor girls from the mining and mill sections of Pennsylvania and other nearby states are lured to New York yearly.

First blows in the war on vice already have been struck, federal officers said, with the arrest in Miami, Fla., yesterday of five persons wanted on federal vice indictments in New York and the arraignment in New York of Mae Scheible, alleged operator of a Park avenue resort.

Mae Scheible remained in jail for another day while her lawyer, Louis Landes, attempted to comply with Dowling's demand that she provide cash bail of $6,500. The court previously refused because of Dowling's objection to accept a real estate bond, $17,000 worth of jewelry, or securities.

HUNT FOR AUSTIN RAPIST AGAIN; 2 GIRLS COMPLAIN

The Austin police were searching last night for a rapist who seized Miss Bertha Johnsen, 18 years old, 4832 Ferdinand street, near her home and drugged her with chloroform early yesterday.

The assailant was described as being about 5 feet 6 inches tall and wore a dark overcoat with a velvet collar and a dark fedora hat. An hour later a man annoyed Miss Helen Rogers, 22 years old, 148 North Mayfield avenue.

CONDON FIGURE OF MYSTERY IN LINDBERGH CASE

Discrepancies in Stories Cited by Hoffman.

[This is the fifth of a series of stories on the Lindbergh kidnaping case, written after two weeks' investigation in New York and New Jersey, with particular attention to the circumstances surrounding the reprieve from death of Bruno Richard Hauptmann on Jan. 16 by Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey.]

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Dr. John F. Condon, Bronx educator, lecturer, philosopher, and athlete, remains the great enigma of the Lindbergh kidnaping case. Various discrepancies in his stories are now pointed to by Gov. Hoffman as evidence of his belief that more than one person was concerned in the crime. The governor is anxious to have Dr. Condon come back from Panama and talk some more under conditions that will not make it a "cream puff" examination.

Dr. Condon is represented as anxious to face the governor, but is held back by his daughter Myra, who objected strongly also on the night of March 7, 1932, when the doctor mentioned at the supper table that he was going to offer a reward for the return of the infant.

Cemetery Story Unchanged.

It is not likely that this well worn trail will lead to anything new. Dr. Condon has made many statements, but he has never told but one story concerning Bruno Hauptmann, and that is that Hauptmann was the man he met in St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx on the night of March 12. In his testimony before the grand jury, which was ordered made public by Supreme Court Justice John E. McGeehan after a member of the jury had been quoted as saying that Condon was not able to identify Hauptmann, the record is as follows:

Q.—Can you describe the man with whom you spoke on March 12? A.—Yes, allowing for darkness and holding his coat up. Only once did it come down. His hat, a fedora, was down over his forehead. He looked to be a Scandinavian type, and his face, with rather high cheek bones, came down to almost a pointed chin; a smooth face, no blemishes or blotches. It seemed to me inroads of disease would make it that shape. About 30 years old, 5 feet 9, what we would call a middleweight. His nose was straight down, and the eyes separated from the bridge of the nose much as a Chinese or Japanese, the almond shape, his eyes bluish gray in color.

Positive in Identification.

Q.—Would you be able to identify him again if you saw him? A.—Yes.

Q.—You are positive of that? A.—Yes.

After Hauptmann's arrest Condon was taken before a lineup of thirteen men by the New York police at 156 Greenwich street. He was asked if he could pick his man out of that group. He was maddeningly slow about it, according to the impatient observers. He first eliminated all but three men, one of whom was Hauptmann. He then centered on Hauptmann and questioned him for a long time, testing the quality of the voice, looking at the face from various angles and lights. He made Hauptmann repeat certain sentences.

Hauptmann coldly denied that he ever had seen or talked with Condon. He aroused the doctor's ire by stating that, although he had lived in the Bronx for nine years, he never had heard of Dr. Condon. The doctor is somewhat vain of his reputation in his home community, where he has lived and taught school for forty-six years, never missing a class, and this cut him. He did not, however, immediately identify Hauptmann positively. He waited until he had more leisure to observe and converse with the man.

Editor Talks About Condon.

Gregory Coleman, former assistant editor of the Bronx Home News, the paper in which Condon chose to insert his reward ad that netted Hauptmann, was close to Dr. Condon all through the early part of the case. He was in the Condon house waiting for news when Dr. Condon, after receipt of the first ransom note bearing the same peculiar marks as the note left in the Lindbergh nursery, came back from the Lindbergh home accompanied by Col. Henry Breckenridge, Lindbergh's lawyer and adviser. Col. Breckenridge remained in the Condon home from that night until the negotiations were ended.

"I have known Dr. Condon for many years and was in close touch with this case in the Bronx," said Mr. Coleman. "His story has always been the same in essentials. He was not asked for his complete story on the witness stand—for legal reasons, I suppose. He omitted nothing important. Condon is clean. There is nothing against his record in the community, where nearly everybody knew him as the great friend of youth, interested in all athletics, and a great patriot.

Fond of Publicity.

"The only thing against him is his love of publicity. He liked to write letters to newspapers. He was talked into going on the vaudeville stage by a smart young man who wanted to make money and who persuaded him it was his duty to enter into a crusade against crime in order to counteract all this Hauptmann defense stuff.

"He was a lecturer on philosophy and educated at Fordham university and at two other institutions. He is 76 years old now, but in good physical condition. His mind at times becomes weary. Dr. Condon was tired the first night he was asked to make an identification, and he did not want to be too sure. He was really sure, however, from the first talk with Hauptmann."

Views Parade from Balcony.

Dr. Condon loves to be on exhibition. On the day of Gov. Hoffman's inaugural parade in Trenton the doctor stood on a hotel balcony over the street and waved to the people and shook hands with himself. He was excited by the show. In his travels he introduces himself to everybody as the famous Jafsie of the Lindbergh case.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard in his summation of the case to the jury said:

"It is argued that Dr. Condon's testimony is inherently improbable and should be in part rejected by you, but you will observe that this testimony is corroborated in large part by several witnesses whose credibility has not been impeached in any manner whatsoever."

The defense took exception to this remark, and it was one of the points taken up on appeal.

Taxi Driver Called.

The main corroborating witness was Joseph A. Perrone, Bronx taxicab driver, whose appearance on the witness stand caused Hauptmann to squirm and flush with emotion, according to those who sat close to him. Perrone was also led into a Bronx police lineup and made positive identification of Hauptmann at that time and at the trial. He said that on the night of March 12 he was stopped by a man in Mosholu parkway in the Bronx and was given a dollar and a letter to carry to Dr. Condon's home.

Lieut. James Finn of the New York police, a detective who worked on the Lindbergh case for two years and a half, until the capture of Hauptmann, said that the police had investigated Dr. Condon's life back for fifty years and had found nothing to discredit him.

GOV. HOFFMAN HITS AT CRITICS IN LINDY CASE

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman today reaffirmed his stand in the Bruno Richard Hauptmann case and struck back at critics who have forced a split in the Republican ranks in the state based in part on the governor's entry into the case.

In a statement made just before he went to a hospital for a nasal operation, the governor declared: "I am determined that every human effort shall be made to bring all persons involved in this horrible crime [the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby] to the bar of justice.

"Any unprejudiced person reading the testimony of New Jersey's chief witnesses for the prosecution must be convinced that if they were telling the truth there are other persons involved in this crime, and must agree that no enforcement agency is justified in folding up while there is still so much to be solved.

"If the statements and the testimony of these witnesses is unreliable—and it must be if there are no other persons involved in the crime—it then seems to me that it will be a great miscarriage of justice to send a human being to the electric chair upon evidence that was largely supplied by these people."

In some quarters here the governor's statement was taken as an indication that he had a second reprieve in mind—but this was again denied on his behalf.

$40,000 IN FAKE OIL BONDS FOUND IN U. S. COUPLE'S CAR

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Federal customs officers said today they discovered $40,000 in allegedly counterfeit Standard Oil company bonds in the dashboard compartment of an automobile in which two officers of a "widows and widowers club" arrived here three weeks ago.

They were Mrs. Nellie Brooke Stull, who said she was from Elyria, O., and Rawleigh Allen, who described himself as a "Texas oil millionaire."

Both were fined $200 and sentenced to 24 hours imprisonment on charges of conspiracy to defraud as a result of the activities of the matrimonial club. The car was impounded by customs authorities.

4 PEDESTRIANS DIE OF INJURIES BY AUTOMOBILES

John J. Kelly, 52 years old, a tramp, was killed when he was struck at Center and Lawndale avenues, Summit, by an automobile whose driver failed to halt after the accident. At the time Kelly and two other casuals were on their way to ask for shelter at the Summit police station.

Mrs. Sallie Weden, colored, 54 years old, 4003 Calumet avenue, died in the Provident hospital of injuries suffered Dec. 24 when she was struck at 40th street and South Park way by a car driven by William Klich, 1534 Wisconsin avenue, Berwyn.

Miss Blaine Redis, 15 years old, 3848 Blanchan avenue, Brookfield, died in Berwyn hospital. She was struck by an automobile driven by Harold Ostweig, 8865 Burlington avenue, Brookfield, as she crossed Brookfield avenue between McCormick and Arden avenue on Friday.

George Hager, 60 years old, 222 North Morgan street, died in the county hospital from injuries he received when he was struck on Friday by a truck at the intersection of 35th and South Rockwell streets. Oscar Wendell, colored, 28 years old, 5209 South Wabash avenue, was the driver of the truck.

At 2 p. m. yesterday 109 persons had been killed by automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. During the same period 93 persons were killed and 1,590 were injured in the city of Chicago.

Emil Qualizza, 32 years old, 2418 South Oakley avenue, was critically injured last evening when he drove his automobile head-on into another machine which was waiting for a trafic light at Ogden avenue and Washington boulevard. Qaulizza was taken to the County hospital.

USE THE SCHOLLE BUDGET PLAN

BRITISH PREPARE TO PUT INDUSTRY ON A WAR BASIS

Plan Shadow Ministry to Mobilize Factories.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Plans for the formation of a shadow ministry of munitions empowered to mobilize the nation's industry on short notice in the event of an outbreak of war were practically completed today by the British government.

The scheme, as revealed in Laborite circles, aims to coördinate the government and private arms manufacturers and to provide for an immediate switchover of industrial plants to a wartime basis in case of an emergency.

3 Groups in Shadow Cabinet.

The shadow ministry will consist of representatives of the fighting forces, the government supply board, which deals with the general question of war supplies, and leaders of all industries concerned directly or indirectly with the manufacture of armaments or likely to be called on to turn out munitions if war breaks out.

Already, a conference of industrial leaders has been held under the auspices of the Federation of British Industries. Another meeting has been called for Wednesday. At that time plans will be discussed for the establishment of a permanent secretariat and for coördinating the industrialists, the government supply board and the imperial defense committee into the shadow ministry. The idea is to set up a permanent body which will do in peacetime much of the same sort of work as the ministry of munitions did during the world war. The personnel of this organization will be transferred almost en bloc to a munitions ministry in case of necessity.

An immediate examination is to be made of the efficiency of existing armament plants and the extent to which industries not generally undertaking armament orders are prepared to coöperate with the government. The government also will determine how far industry can be organized to effect a rapid transfer to wartime demand.

May Reorganize Industries.

If the existing organization of certain key industries is not regarded as sufficient to act on a wartime basis, the industries will be reorganized. Financial assistance will be provided by the government if necessary. Industrialists also will be asked how far they themselves are prepared to undertake substantial investment capital for equipment to satisfy possible future demands.

Meantime, political and financial circles were speculating about the sharp rise on the stock exchange yesterday in shares of the Milford Dock company. The shares jumped from $2 to $8.50 due to persistent reports that the government offered to buy the company's property with the object of shifting the greater part of the activities at present carried on in Woolwich arsenal to Milford Haven. Woolwich is close to London and lies within the air raid danger zone, but Milford Haven, which is located on the Welsh coast, is practically immune from hostile planes.

Another report has it that the government plans to develop Milford Haven as a new naval base. However, neither the company directors nor government authorities were willing to discuss the subject.

SYRIANS RIOT IN 2 CITIES; FIRE ON FRENCH TROOPS

BEIRUT, Syria, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Nationalist rioting was resumed tonight at Homs and Damascus. Demonstrators fired upon and stoned French troops.

The Damascus disorders were quickly suppressed, but there was considerable fighting before the troops succeeded in clearing the crowd from the streets at Homs. The University of Damascus was closed for an indefinite period.

French troops patroled Hama, also a scene of recent rioting, in which 19 persons have been killed in the last two weeks.

DROP NEUTRALITY BILL IN ORDER TO SPEED CONGRESS

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Congressional leaders abandoned their campaign for immediate enactment of permanent neutrality legislation today in an attempt to bring adjournment of congress by May 1.

Chairman Pittman [Dem., Nev.] of the senate foreign relations committee disclosed the new strategy. He forecast the committee would report promptly a resolution to extend for one year the temporary ban on shipment of arms and munitions to belligerents. The temporary act will expire Feb. 29.

He added there will be "such amendments in the form of additional legislation as will not justify unlimited debate."

The Nevada senator said he was speaking "personally," but he is recognized as the chief administration spokesman on the subject of neutrality.

Pittman forecast that the amendments would include prohibition of loans to belligerents, together possibly with "a greatly modified and restricted provision" relating to embargoes on exports of commodities other than war materials.

ROME SHAKEN BY SECRET STRUGGLE TO RULE ITALY

Duchess Backs Mussolini to Oust Crown Prince.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 8. — While Italy's armies are battling desperately for victory in Ethiopia, an equally bitter but secret struggle for power is going on in Rome.

This occult battle is being waged by the dowager duchess of Aosta and Premier Mussolini's son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, against King Victor Emmanuel and Crown Prince Humbert. Its dramatic phases were revealed to THE TRIBUNE correspondent by a personage bearing one of the most princely titles of European nobility, who has intimate relations with the Italian royal family and is initiated into all Roman court secrets.

Seeks to Oust Crown Prince.

The dowager duchess of Aosta, according to THE TRIBUNE'S informant, aspires to replace Crown Prince Humbert as heir to the throne with her son, Duke Amadeus of Aosta. In order to realize her ambition, she has cast in her lot with Mussolini, in contrast to the other members of the royal family, who have never done more than unwillingly tolerate Il Duce's domination.

Endowed with remarkable energy and ambition, despite her 65 years, the dowager duchess was formerly Princess Helene of France, and is a descendant of the French kings. When her son was born in 1898, he was heir apparent to the throne, as King Victor Emmanuel at that time had only daughters. The late duke of Aosta, husband of the present dowager duchess, was a first cousin of Victor Emmanuel.

Joins Forces with Ciano.

The birth of Crown Prince Humbert in 1904 was a terrible disappointment to her. She has never become reconciled to it, and when the Ethiopian war aggravated the already existing friction between Crown Prince Humbert and Mussolini, she joined forces with the duce's most powerful henchman, Count Ciano, in order to exploit Italy's critical situation for the benefit of her son.

Count Ciano is described as the only man in whom Mussolini still places absolute confidence. He is an extraordinary product of modern Italy, combining the adventurous spirit of a condottiere of the Renaissance with the opportunism of the European post-war generation. He is a scion of one of Italy's oldest families, related to the Sforzas, Estes, and Medicis, which has never accepted the supremacy of the dynasty of Savoy over Italy.

Held Responsible for War.

It is Ciano who is largely responsible both for Mussolini's African war and the antagonism between the dictator and the royal family, for he is obsessed by the fear that when King Victor Emmanuel dies and Crown Prince Humbert succeeds to the throne the latter will dismiss Mussolini and take the reins of government into his own hands.

The king, who is now in his sixty-seventh year, would have abdicated long ago, it is said, owing to the intolerable situation in which he finds himself under Mussolini's overrule, but for the fact that he sincerely believes his presence on the throne necessary to the welfare of the Italian people. A story is told in court circles that one day, when Crown Prince Humbert asked his father why he never opposed Mussolini and always said "yes" whenever the dictator required something of him, the king replied:

"I say 'no' once, I say 'no' twice, I say 'no' a third time, but then I give in, because I feel that if I didn't I should be eliminated from the scene and I think I can still be of use to Italy."

Humbert Defies Duce.

The attitude of the crown prince towards Mussolini is altogether different. Humbert of Savoy has courage, common sense, and perhaps an exaggerated idea of his importance in the world. He refuses to admit the possibility of being set aside. He has never sought to conceal his hostility towards Mussolini, and has often declared openly among friends that his first act on coming to the throne would be to dismiss him.

Calculating that the most effective means of eliminating this royal rival and strengthening Mussolini's declining prestige would be a spectacular victory in war, Count Ciano became the chief promoter of the Ethiopian adventure. It was he who launched the slogan "Adowa must be avenged" and who brought about the rapprochement between his father-in-law and the dowager duchess of Aosta, in the belief that her son will be easier to manage than Crown Prince Humbert.

Mussolini's entire African policy is said to be based upon his adventurous son-in-law's intrigues and is dictated solely by the desire to strengthen his waning popularity. The dictator's most fervent supporters today are all friends of Count Ciano, members of old Neapolitan and Sicilian families who in their hearts hate and despise the royal house of Savoy.

Standing alone in face of this conspiracy, Crown Prince Humbert and his young wife, the former Princess Marie José of Belgium, have from the beginning disapproved of Mussolini's African war of conquest. The crown prince is known to be frankly pessimistic regarding the outcome of the war, which he believes must leave Italy ruined financially and economically even if her arms should prevail over the Ethiopians.

Duce Blinded by Flattery.

Curiously enough, Mussolini himself, hypnotized by the flatteries of Ciano and his friends, appears to be utterly incapable of discerning the gravity of the situation, and still believes that a great military victory will make him more powerful than ever.

Crown Prince Humbert has wisely decided to remain aloof from the political scene for the present and to allow events to take their course, without either condemning or approving them officially. He believes that he is Italy's man of the future, and that he is destined eventually to assume power at a time when his country will find itself in an almost desperate situation. Those who know the crown prince affirm that he will prove equal to this task and that he alone is capable of freeing Italy from a dictatorship that is driving her at dizzy speed along the road to ruin.

MOSCOW REPORTS JAPANESE ARMY NEARS MONGOLIA

MOSCOW, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The approach of the Japanese-Manchukuoan troops to the vicinity of the Outer Mongolian border was reported tonight in soviet dispatches from Ulan Bator.

Truckloads of soldiers and cavalry of an undetermined number have been concentrating two miles from the frontier post of Bulun Dersu, the reports said. The dispatches asserted the Japanese-Manchukuoans fired on the Mongolians from a distance, but that there were no casualties.

Unconfirmed Chinese press accounts, a Shanghai dispatch said yesterday, stated that both soviet and Mongolian armies and Japanese-Manchukuoan ones were moving near the Outer Mongolian border.

There has been a long series of border incidents creating tension in that area.

BALTIC NATIONS GAGGED BY RULE OF DICTATORSHIP

Rulers Run Critical Press Out of Business.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEMEL, Lithuania, Feb. 8.—Press censorship is something Americans have been reading about for many years but which they have never experienced. In northeastern Europe, Finland is the only country remaining with a free press. In Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and Poland the most rigorous and dangerous form of press censorship has been adopted, a form which developed under the régime of the czars in Russia. That country today, after seventeen years of bolshevism, has no real press in the ordinary sense of the word, but a carefully precensored government communique.

The type of press censorship in use in these countries is called "after censorship." The makeup of the paper must be completed, the forms placed on the presses, and the first three or four copies run off and rushed to the censor's office. There several officials leisurely scan the paper for items or articles which may be classified as endangering the authority of the government. If nothing objectionable is discovered the censor telephones to the editor that he may place the paper on sale.

Used as Club Over Press.

But official permission is sometimes willfully delayed. Distributors and newsboys are waiting, but trains refuse to wait the censor's pleasure. So if the editor, who has been made ultra cautious by previous fines and confiscations, wishes to take a chance he orders the edition to be run off before receiving the censor's approval.

Lithuania, Poland, and other countries frequently utilize this form of censorship to run newspapers out of business. After waiting till they know through their spies that the edition has been run off, the censor phones that some item is objectionable and must be removed.

There is no appeal from this edict. If the papers are on the street, policemen mounted on bicycles chase the newsboys and take away their papers. The entire edition is carted over to the office of the censor. The publisher pockets the loss. Few publishers are wealthy enough to stand more than a month of such tactics and the newspaper goes bankrupt, a sacrifice to free speech and the free press which has become a rarity in Europe.

Governments Run a Racket.

Lithuania has made no attempt to make censorship systematic, as in Germany. Editors are not informed weekly, and sometimes more frequently, of the subjects which must not be discussed. Instead they must pay high fees for the service of the government telegraph agency, which in all of these countries may be classed as a racket. Certain information, published on specially colored paper, is "must news." It must be published and often preferred position on the first page is demanded.

Nowhere is the influence of the spoken word over that of the written word more evident than in these countries. Long demagogic speeches, difficult to listen to and more difficult to read, consume columns and columns of space. Frequently the entire newspaper is filled with speeches which sometimes must be carried over to the second and third day to completion.

Bolshevik Moscow began this fad and the petty bordering dictatorships have copied it. Comment is forbidden. The "blue pencil" and "the hook" which once guarded space have vanished. Dictators, demagogs and decrees have supplanted democracy, discussion and laws passed by public assemblies. Europe is sick, deathly sick, and the throttling of the press is a symptom.

Sees Censorship in Action.

While in Memel I had another opportunity to watch the "after censorship" in action. I was talking with the editor of the Memeler Dampfboot, the largest Memeland newspaper, and one of the oldest in northeastern Europe. The paper had gone to press after being carefully scanned for any news which might prove irksome to the censor.

Three days previous an entire edition had been confiscated because it contained the news that a Lithuanian official in the recent elections had been convicted and sentenced to three months' imprisonment for altering ballots. The same story the censor had permitted to be published in the government owned opposition paper, the Baltische Beobachter. The telephone rang.

"Yes, Herr Commandant," and the editor's face grew white with indignation.

It seems that the commandant objected to two small items appearing under the stock headline, "Events in Lithuania." Both had been translated from the official government owned newspaper in Kaunas, the Lietuvos Aidas.

The Articles Objected To.

One item related how a peasant living in the Sudninkai district, Podlipajewas, 55, quarreled with his son, 25, and that the latter killed his father with an ax.

The other item told how Jonus Subat, 70, living in the village of Migoniai, fell into the pond while watering his cattle and was drowned.

The editor told the censor the source of these items and protested energetically that neither could be considered as news harmful to the authority of the Lithuanian government. The commandant was firm. The items had to be taken out. The editor ordered the presses stopped. Outside a crowd of sixty people, boys and girls and older folk, waited patiently for an hour while the paper was being remade.

POLISH PEASANT MOB BATTLES POLICE; 3 KILLED

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Feb. 8.—Three peasants were killed and several were wounded when the police fired on a mob in the village of Szetlewek, 190 miles from Warsaw, as they were searching for the nationalist ringleaders who organized anti-Jewish riots in the town of Zagorow. Peasants armed with pitchforks and clubs fought the police for several hours.

The police besieged houses where nationalists were hidden, and peasants and children attacked from ambush, trying to free the prisoners. After the police used their firearms the peasants surrendered. Eight policemen were wounded.

Order Youth Leaders Seized.

The government, alarmed by recurring anti-Jewish rioting all over the country, has ordered the arrest of leaders of the nationalist youth organization. The central office of the Nationalist party in Warsaw and offices of the Nationalist Labor federation were searched last night. Eighty-seven men were arrested, among them three lawyers, leaders in the illegal National Radical party.

Young nationalists, it appears, have organized a country-wide conspiracy against the régime under cover of an anti-Semitic campaign, inciting peasants against the police.

51 Killed. 133 Wounded.

In a recent speech in parliament, Minister of the Interior Ladislaw Raczkiewicz admitted that in the last four months of 1935 the police used firearms in 192 cases of rioting, killing 46 and wounding 80. Five policemen were killed and 53 injured in the same period.

AUSTRIAN NAZIS ASK PLEBISCITE ON NATION'S RULE

VIENNA, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Austria's Nazis, smarting under the iron handed tactics with which the government is trying to eradicate their movements, demanded of President Miklas today that he call a plebiscite to determine what form of government the people want.

The president was reminded that he was the only member of the government who was elected to a post—all other members being appointed—and was asked to throw out the other members of the present régime. Copies of the demand, made by letter, were distributed widely through Vienna.

Nevertheless, the government continued its unrelenting drive against Nazis. Dr. Franz Sonnleithner, former chief of the government secret codes bureau, was convicted of espionage. He was sentenced to two years at hard labor. Sonnleithner, jailed since October, 1934, was accused of transmitting to Nazi headquarters at Munich details of Austrian security measures during the Nazi putsch of July, 1934. Five officials with Nazi leanings were arrested yesterday.

Four Men who hitched their Hobby to Music

A recent magazine article called "Music Is My Hobby" told the interesting story about a certain New York judge who played violin duets at home with his son. . . . This was the means of bringing the janitor up from the basement with his big bass viol. Soon they were joined by his butcher and grocer . . . And so on until the parlor was no longer large enough.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

ABUSE OF CONGRESSIONAL IMMUNITY.

"They shall, in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses and in going to or returning from the same, and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place."

The immunity conferred by this section of the constitution upon members of the United States senate and house of representatives in debate on their floor is a part of the development of free representative democracy. It is intended to prevent interference with the criticism of government and free opposition to the person or party in power. It was not intended and never should be used as a license for attacks upon private citizens or defamation, slander, and false accusation for which the member of congress would be answerable anywhere except in a hall of congress. It is necessary that protection be given the congressmen.

The classic instance of invasion of parliamentary rights was afforded when Charles I. of England, armed men at his heels, appeared at the door of the house of commons, violating the privilege of that body in a thwarted attempt to seize illegally the persons of Pym, Hampden, Hazlerigg, Holles, and Strode and hold them for high treason because of utterances in parliamentary debate. It is necessary that immunity protect the people's representatives, but although complete it should be in good cause.

The completeness of the protection makes the abuse of the privilege an offense which no man of fine honor would permit himself. The defenselessness of the person who may be so safely attacked would for a man of honor be that other person's best protection. Recent instances give numerous examples of the abuse. The members are protected from reviling on the floor by their own rules. They do not expose themselves to the outrages they may inflict on citizens if they choose. They are required to refer to each other respectfully and are not allowed to impute dishonest motives to each other or to question each other's character and reputability. If a member undertakes to do so he's quickly brought to order, and if he sufficiently offended two-thirds of his associates he could be expelled.

The other day Senator Schwellenbach, radical Democrat from Washington, made a violent speech against Pierre S. du Pont and John J. Raskob and members of the Liberty league. The Washington radical tried to outdo the worst traditions of the body in which he spoke as a privileged member, vilifying the victims as leeches, bloodsuckers, and crooks. There was nothing any of the citizens abused could do about it, but Senator Hastings later arose to protest against his colleague's infamous slander, declaring that it would appear as a blot upon the senator's record if not upon the record of the senate itself. There are many such blots on the senate record.

Senator Nye, the North Dakota radical in charge of the munitions investigation which is boring into the industrial structure of the country, remarked in debate on the floor that Woodrow Wilson and his secretary of state, Lansing, had falsified the record when they said they did not know anything of the secret treaties of the allies before they arrived in Paris. That statement was more nearly within privileged comment than most of Mr. Nye's remarks when he deals with fellow citizens for whom he has animosities. It was a plausible interpretation of historical documents. It aroused the partisan anger of Senators Glass and Connelley, and Mr. Glass, who is generally above the reprehensible tactics of many of his fellows, came as nearly violating senatorial proprieties as is permitted. Mr. Nye deserved castigation for other offenses but it is notable that he got it only because he offended the Wilson legend to which Mr. Glass is attached. It is seldom that a member will do as Mr. Hastings did and try to protect the reputation of the living who are as powerless as the dead to protect themselves.

The late senator from Louisiana was a defiant violator of the rules which should govern in a responsible body, in one instance exposing himself to a libel suit from the injured Gen. Ansell, whom the senate hired as an investigator and would not protect. Long went beyond his immunity by circulating his statements outside the senate but nevertheless endeavored to cover himself under privilege.

Restless political conditions have increased the number of blatherskites in both houses. A number of states have elected men distinguished for their lack of intelligence, lack of self-restraint, and lack of regard for human decencies. These men, protected by their constitutional privilege, are menaces to the reputations of the citizens of the United States. If either house had the honorable instincts which might be expected of the national legislature it would curb its disreputable members.

STEEL VERSUS ALLOYS.

The remarks of Walter S. Tower of the American Iron and Steel institute relative to the future of the steel industry are interesting. Steel was a great novelty when it was first perfected; one of man's greatest discoveries. Now it is a commonplace through widespread use and general familiarity with its manufacturing methods. We are commencing to find that it is not the acme of perfection and therefore it cannot be expected to continue indefinitly in high favor or its production to command high salaries and returns. The profitable field, which a few generations ago was monopolized by steel as new opportunities were found for its use, is now occupied by the developers of alloys, which combine the advantages of steel with the various unique properties that proceed from its fusion with other metals.

Before the automobile became so popular the railways were the greatest users of steel and even now are outstanding consumers. Within comparatively recent years the weight of rails has been doubled to improve riding qualities and to sustain heavy equipment. First steel underframes and later all steel box cars have entered the field to match the two hundred and fifty ton locomotives that have displaced the seventy-five ton power of the previous century.

In measuring the service performed by a railway the public quite generally thinks only of the weight of the commodities moved. In point of fact, statistics will show that the weight of cars hauled, both loaded and empty, is nearly double that of the actual freight transported. The annual figures reach astronomical proportions. The performance is equivalent to hauling five hundred billion tons "of car" one mile. The opportunity for economy seems almost limitless.

In the passenger field several progressive railways have demonstrated that trains constructed of light weight metals can be operated at high speeds with the same degree of safety as the standard steel trains. Some small beginnings have been made toward removing this parasitic load from the weight of freight equipment. When transportation experts considered that they had produced the ultimate in all steel construction they came face to face with the alloy industry, and in that field the surface has not yet been scratched.

HITLER AND HERO WORSHIP.

Germany has had three years of Hitler and with a Nazi birthday party starts the fourth. It is a curiosity of the national mood at the present that so many Germans think they have recovered under Hitler the world respect lost under the republic. Hitler's state is undoubtedly more feared, if fear and respect were the same thing. The possibilities under the Nazis are dreaded.

For a time there was hope in the tragic republic, destroyed by the stupidity and brutality of Germany's enemies. What the Russian communists tried to do was the natural thing from their point of view at the time. If they could have forced the German socialist republic to the extreme of bolshevism their conquest of Europe might not have been an idle dream. Germany met the shock of that peril only to fall beneath the renewed allied attack upon the nation's resources, currency, and territory.

After the occupation of the Ruhr and the destruction of the mark—42 billion for one American cent, a status "more ridiculous than zero"—it would be difficult for a German to hold up his head under the humiliations of the peace treaty. Hitler's cradle was not in Berlin. It was in Paris.

Hitler's formula is so old it is almost prehistoric. Hero worship is the magic cure a stricken people apply to their wounds. The Biblical Jews did it so well that half the world adopted their heroes. The Britons, a harried and vanishing race, produced Launcelot. The Nibelungenlied in Teutonic legends makes Attila a craven. He overwhelmed the Burgundians, but when the poets were done with the story the only stark heroes were the conquered and their fall was greater than a victory.

When Prussia's turn came to even accounts with Napoleon, for good and all, the Nibelungenlied had been printed and the soldiers were given copies to restore their faith in the ancient glories of the breed. In the world war they heard a good deal of it and, indeed, repeated it. Hitler restored the sword and buckler. If the oppressions of the peace had not been even worse than the deprivations of the war it would not have been necessary to go back to Siegfried, Gunther and Hagen for a defense mechanism. Hitler would not have gone further than the beer hall putsch.

Editorial of the Day

WINTER SPORTS.

[Indianapolis News.]

As a rule Indiana does not have enough continuous winter weather to enable the conservation department to offer facilities for winter sports in the state parks. From time to time there has been discussion about the advisability of building ski runs through the hills of the Brown county state park, but this would be expensive and a check of the weather records shows that when snow does come to Brown county it may disappear before those who take a delight in winter sports have a chance to use it. The Brown county park inn is closed for the winter but the cottages near it are available for those who care to build their own fires in fireplaces or small heating stoves. There is plenty of attractive ski territory within the park confines for any who wish to make runs at their own risk.

Snow remains longer in northern Indiana than in the central and southern portions and for that reason the Dunes park and the Pokagon state park offer opportunities for slides during most of the winter months. A toboggan slide is maintained at Pokagon. Turkey Run park has bobsleds that are hauled behind slow moving trucks, and horses and old-fashioned sleighs also are available there. At McCormick's Creek park visitors will find sleds and a slide. The hotels are open throughout the winter in nearly all of the parks with the exception of Brown county, but visitors to the latter park may find lodging and food in Nashville.

OUR TERRITORY RESUMES ITS POSITION

BY REUBEN CAHN.

II.

[Second part of a talk before the annual convention of the advertising department of the Chicago Tribune Jan. 3, 1936.]

A leading measure of the state of business is the rate of operations of steel mills. Iron and steel are used in almost every industry. It's the basic material out of which machinery, automobiles, factories, farm implements, and kitchen tools are made. It's what holds up bridges, buildings, and the victims of highwaymen. When your wife bakes a cake she opens a can of baking powder which originated as a part of a sheet in a steel mill. She mixes the ingredients with a contraption made of steel. She puts the entire gooey substance into a pan made of the same stuff as the baking powder can, and bakes it in an oven which also originated in Gary, Pittsburgh, or Youngstown. She cuts the cake with a steel knife and you eat it with a set of molars whose cavities had recently been filled by the use of steel instruments. Iron and steel are so widely used that it is fair to say that the extent of their use in a territory is an accurate measure of the rate of activity of the industries of the territory.

All right, now listen. During 1935 there was not a single week when the index of operations in the Chicago district steel mills was not at least 20 per cent greater than in the other great district, that centering around Pittsburgh. And in the closing weeks of 1935 the ratio of operations to capacity was fully 50 per cent greater than in the Pittsburgh territory. Every week last year the steel mills of the Chicago territory were operating at least 10 per cent ahead of the average for the country. If in 1936 steel operations in the rest of the country attain the rate established in the Chicago territory in 1935 the year will be accounted one of great industrial expansion.

Consistent with the other evidences of the dominant position the Chicago territory has taken in the current economic revival are the figures on railroad car loadings. It will be recalled that the railroad freight trafic, which had begun to increase in 1933, went into a decline early last year. With a single month's exception the amount of freight loaded in railroad cars in this country was smaller than in the corresponding month last year continuously from February through July. August loadings for the country as a whole overhauled the 1934 volume. And since that time the figures have run ahead of 1934. In contrast with that irregular performance railroad car loadings in the Chicago Terminal district were ahead of 1934 from the beginning of the year to the end, with the single exception of June. Note this especially, that while the national figures are the best since 1931 the Chicago territory beat all records back to 1930. Let me repeat that while car loadings in the United States are the best since 1931, Chicago's figures are better than in 1931—the best since 1930. Approximately the same amount of freight has been loaded in the Chicago zone in 1935 as in 1922. But in the country as a whole the year's loadings failed by one-quarter to come up to the 1922 level.

Still another measure of the activity of business is the amount of checks which people draw on their bank accounts. Checks are drawn to pay every variety of transaction. They are used for wages and alimony. They are drawn when a house is purchased and when rents are paid. In the course of a year checks run to very large figures. In the year 1935 checks totaling 52 billion dollars were drawn on the banks in the Chicago territory. In the latter months of 1935 the amount of money represented by checks written was ahead of any comparable period back to 1930. For the nation as a whole for the same months the figures were a year behind that in recovery, being only the best since 1931. Last year Chicago territory checks were in as large a volume as in 1922, the first year of recovery from the depression of 1921. But in the United States as a whole checks in 1935 were 15 per cent less than in 1922. If the amount of financial transactions in this country in 1936 comes up to the 1922 level, bankers and business men will call this a very great year of improvement.

Automobile business was good the country over in 1935. The industry made a remarkable record. In this respect, too, Zone 7 was the leader. Sales for the last two months of 1935 are omitted from the comparisons because of the introduction of new models in the late fall. In the first ten months of 1935 sales of new automobiles totaled 495,939. Nothing like it since 1929. In the United States, for the same period, sales totaled 2,286,473 and were the best since 1930. In new auto sales also the zone was a year ahead of the rest of the country. Cook county made an especially good record, but it was the smallest among all the counties in northern Illinois. The metropolitan district was good, but the outside territory was even better than immediate environments. Following shows the percentage increase in car sales in the first ten months in Cook and nearby counties compared with the same months of 1934:

Lake	3,592	2,474	45.2
Du Page	2,802	1,856	51.0
Will	2,255	1,429	57.8
Kane	3,121	1,879	66.1
Kankakee	1,037	623	66.5
Winnebago	2,609	1,500	73.9
Livingston	715	370	93.2
Bureau	942	479	96.7
Warren	628	283	121.9
Stephenson	926	408	127.0
Kendall	217	95	128.4
Ogle	1,070	387	176.5
Joe Daviess	365	132	176.5
Carroll	393	154	155.2
Whiteside	1,128	450	150.7
Stark	233	93	150.5
Mercer	380	153	148.4

The most important information—that relating to consumer purchases—I have reserved for the last. In the first eleven months of 1935 department store trade recovered the country over, but three districts led all the others. They were Chicago, Richmond, and San Francisco. The comparisons with 1932, the low year of the depression, generally speaking, are even more convincing. Department store trade in the New York and Boston districts was smaller in the first 11 months of 1935 than in the same months of 1932. And in the Philadelphia district the gain over 1932 was only 4 per cent. In the Chicago district, however, department store sales showed a 21 per cent increase in 1935 over 1932.

Now there is a further fact to be considered and that is that although business has shown an outstanding gain in the Chicago territory the improvement in the smaller towns and cities in our area has been greater than has taken place in the metropolitan district. The fact is that department store sales in 1935 gained about twice as much in the hinterland of the Chicago territory as in the city of Chicago itself.

The worm has turned. The time has passed for easy speaking about THE TRIBUNE's outlying territory—it's where the best recovery has taken place. The Chicago area is leading the country in the march back to prosperity, but in this revival it isn't Chicago alone but the entire area. In fact, it is in the smaller towns and cities where the improvement has been most pronounced. For national advertisers THE TRIBUNE's outside circulation is the biggest talking point.

One word more. The boss is always saying that THE TRIBUNE brought the country out of the depression of the early 1920s. I have felt in that an implied reproof to us who have been on the job at THE TRIBUNE in the years since 1930. From the findings which I have just reported I think we can say to him, "We have done it again," and that our advertising activities share the credit for it with a sound and fearless editorial policy.

THE MENTAL HAZARD OF IDLENESS.

Whether or not we are willing to admit it, the high percentage of unemployment has inflicted and is still inflicting severe damage upon the mental and moral fiber of the nation. Every one needs a job, no matter how small the compensation or insignificant the task. Even though food, shelter, and clothing are provided most persons will fret and chafe—for idleness is a canker that destroys the fabric of society.

Those deprived of physical and mental activity will exhaust themselves unless possessed of unusual resourcefulness. Thoughts will run in circles for a time and then fly off at tangents, resulting in the evolution of all sorts of weird schemes. Grotesque animalcules find haven in a stagnant pond and reeking sloughs harbor slimy plant growths.

We may be sowing for a whirlwind of warped mentalities. Are we not in danger also of developing mendicants? Can we blame children, reared in an environment of dependence, if they now and forever expect something for nothing? Such a doctrin, once deeply impressed, can become a cancer eating at the heart of an otherwise independent citizenship.

The idle individual is lost to that sense of satisfaction—of accomplishment—that preserves sanity and makes for happiness. He thinks of himself as one without a personality. He recognizes that he means nothing to his fellow man as he has lost that daily chin high contact that makes for self-respect. Unstable mass emotions are born of such conditions.

The worst side of this unemployment problem is that hundreds of thousands of alert young people—just merging into manhood and womanhood—have nothing to look forward to other than temporary day-by-day jobs. Can it be that we are destroying priceless ambitions—leveling this virile group to a plane where intelligence and brains count for naught?

For mental clarity and forwardmindedness we require stimulants to ambition, the inculcation of the desire to do one's best—to excel if possible. Outlook and hope are both demanded. Would that employers could see the huge human wastage—not of physical bodies but of minds and souls—all that life holds dear—crushed by futility and despair. Hundreds of thousands of opportunities could be found in industry today if a proper canvass and appeal were made.

There is an old saying that when we rest we rust. This is the rust of the abandoned railway track, of cans on a rubbish pile; the mental and moral decay that follows idleness.

During and after the world war there was developed what is known as occupational therapy—a plan that has preserved for thousands a normal life perspective. Those facing long convalescent periods lying helpless in bed for months on end, who could use their hands, were taught some form of useful activity—the making of hooked rugs, lether work, weaving, knitting, etc. From these curative workshops have come products of salable merit and enduring value. The merit of the plan lies in the fact that the ill or wounded man was occupied. He not only used injured muscles but kept alive a spark of mental fire. He was saved endless hours of introspection—of self-pity.

Perhaps we should turn to the development of hand arts and crafts, the products of which usually find a ready market. What a change could be wrought by converting a few thousand homes into workshops for training in some form of handicraft!

For the sake of mental health we must face the obligation owed to all citizens and build a strong sense of individual worthwhileness. The mere possession of the bare necessities of life is meaningless without a fair return in one's own effort and labor.

We must restore the granite that has been dissolved out of our national spinal column.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA.

A. C. R. writes:
1. What sort of sickness is locomotor ataxia?
2. Is it contagious?
3. Does it come from nerves?
4. How is it acquired?
5. What are the symptoms?
6. Is it curable?

REPLY.

1. Locomotor ataxia is a degeneration of the dorsal columns of the spinal cord and of the sensory nerve trunks, with wasting.

2. Syphilis, which is the cause of locomotor ataxia, is contagious. In the locomotor ataxia stage it is not contagious.

3. No, but the nerves are attacked by the organism causing syphilis.

4. Syphilis is usually acquired by contact with a person who has the disease.

5. Among the earlier symptoms are a tendency to sway or stagger when standing or walking, disorders of vision, violent pains shooting down the limbs, disturbance of the genito-urinary functions, and decreased or impaired sensibility in various parts of the body.

6. The symptoms can be alleviated but destroyed nerves cannot be restored to normal.

We have a small booklet on the subject that you can get by sending 10 cents and a stamped, addressed envelope.

INFECTED TEETH.

Mrs. G. S. writes: I have heard so much, one way and the other, about infected teeth affecting the general health, that I wish you would write your opinion.

REPLY.

It is now generally recognized that various infections may be disseminated throughout the body from some focus in or about the teeth. There are two types of dental sepsis—primary and secondary. Primary sepsis is on the outside of the teeth or gums, and is the result of fermentation or putrefaction of food which lodges in the crevices of the teeth and gums. The chief disease resulting from this type of infection are tooth decay and pyorrhea.

As long as an abscess at the apex of a root remains closed—that is, without drainage—there will be pain and tenderness in the tooth on pressure and the constitutional disturbances are likely to be serious. Diseased teeth do affect the health—and the heart, the kidneys, and the joints [arthritis] may be involved. This is what is meant by secondary infection.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HENRY BUCKLEY.

MADRID.—While most of the cardinals recently named were conceded the red hat of office by Pope Pius himself, an exception was made in the case of Cardinal Federico Tedeschini, papal nuncio in Madrid. He received the biretta from the hands of President Niceto Alcala Zamora, who acted as delegate of the holy father.

This signal honor to President Zamora and the Spanish republic was an acknowledgment of the enormous efforts made both by Zamora and Tedeschini to prevent a break with Rome during the short but troublesome history of the young régime.

In what was formerly the throne room of the national palace, in a glittering ceremony forming a scene ablaze with uniforms and decorations, President Zamora handed the red cardinal's hat to Tedeschini. In this same room almost eight years before King Alfonso enjoyed a similar honor and amid scenes of even greater pomp gave the biretta to Cardinal Pedro Segura, the zealous primate who clashed sharply with the republic and was expelled from Spain.

A tall, distinguished figure and a brilliant diplomat, dean of the Madrid diplomatic corps, Cardinal Tedeschini has faced almost overwhelming difficulties since 1931, and it is in no small part due to him that even when eighty churches and convents went up in flames there was still no split between Madrid and Rome. His efforts were stoutly backed by Zamora as premier of the provisional government during the first days of the régime, and the latter resigned office as an active protest against the measure dissolving the Jesuit order in Spain.

Later as president he showed his dislike of the law regulating the relations between church and state by not signing it until the very latest moment possible. Rome made clear that signatories of such a document were liable to excommunication, but this penalty was never applied. Its sharpest provisos, such as suppression of teaching by the religious orders, have never been put into effect.

Tedeschini has made great sacrifices in order to prevent the opening of a breach between Vatican and republic such as was opened between Rome and Paris when the third French republic took a radical turn at the end of the last century, and he has been highly successful. Hopes had even been raised of a concordat between Madrid and Rome.

Lerroux's center forces in parliament were not willing to go all the way on such a ticklish issue in company with Gil Robles' clerical forces and the attempt was, therefore, doomed to failure despite the negotiations begun in Rome by Leandro Pita Romero, a Republican politician of new vintage and who tried actively to reach some kind of agreement as special envoy of the republic.

The dexterity of the papal nuncio will doubtless still have much field for activity if the heralded elections in the spring give back a majority of deputies of nonclerical views.

SHARING ESTATE.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. When a man dies leaving no will, is it true that the widow and children share alike in the income? 2. If the widow in turn does not leave a will, shouldn't she assign or sell to her children their share and have titles brought up to date? The bank holds bonds in trust. 3. What should be done about this? H. T.

1. The widow takes one-third of personalty and one-third of realty unless she elects to take dower. Children [or their descendants] take equal shares in balance of estate. Descendants of deceased child take child's share. Other relatives take nothing.

2. It would not be determined that she did not leave a will until she had died and then it would be too late to take the other steps.

3. Depends in part on what you wish to accomplish. We suggest that you talk it over with the bank.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MINOR'S TRUST FUND.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1922 my mother died and left me beneficiary to some insurance amounting to $60. The money was placed in trust, as I was a minor and couldn't collect it until becoming of age. I was 21 years old last November and am claiming the money. The trust company has written a release for this $60 only. Now they have had this money since June 13, 1922—thirteen years. I have a photographic copy of the check that was deposited with them, which reads: "This is to certify that J. V. A. in trust for W. U. has deposited in the trust company $60, payable in current funds twelve months from date, with interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, upon the surrender of this certificate properly endorsed. Interest to cease after maturity." Their release only reads $60 in full payment, and they say nothing about the 4 per cent interest. Am I entitled to interest on this amount at the rate specified? W. N. U.

Conceivably you might establish the position that as a minor you were not bound by the wording of the agreement, but this might require expensive litigation. If you concede that the agreement controls, then we would disagree with your conclusion that it didn't mature until you were 21 years old. It says on its face that it is payable in 12 months from date. In any event you would seem to be entitled to the 4 per cent interest for the first year.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROPERTY DESCENT.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Mr. S. owned a lot in Michigan as well as a mortgage on city property sold three years ago and which note is not due until two years. Mr. S. moved to Indiana and married there. He died last month without leaving a will. 1. He left no children, or brothers or sisters. 2. What per cent can the widow claim under the above conditions? 3. Is it necessary to have an administrator to settle this? 4. Can the wife sell the mortgage without further legal proceedings, or is it required to prove all items in the estate? Which state laws would govern the wife being a resident of Indiana? 5. How long must the estate be held open for claims? V. V. C.

1. We assume that he left no parents.

2. She would take all of the Michigan lot. Rights in the mortgage depend on Indiana law, which takes into account the size of the estate.

3. Yes, in order to produce a merchantable title to the real estate.

4. See 2.

5. Six months.

GUNS.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—For some time I have been curious at the inability of police, with all modern science at their disposal, to trace killers from the spent bullets in the bodies of their victims. I believe the fault lies not with the crime detecting agencies but with the lawmakers. Ballistics experts advise us that the rifling in every gun imparts to the pellet in passing through the barrel a mark distinct and separate in appearance from that of a bullet from any other gun. This means, of course, that every gun has an individuality, as distinct and indelible in itself as the fingerprints of a person. Since we have the Bertillon system of fingerprinting, why cannot a similar system be set up in ballistics? A federal law passed by congress under the power given in the commerce clause of the constitution could compel every firearm manufacturer to register the print of every gun made in that particular plant, and the tracing of the sale of that particular gun would probably be easy for some of our sleuths. It is true that such prints might be altered by defacing the rifling, but the number left unaltered should make such an experiment quite worth while. MILTON H. NELSON.

THE ORIGINAL BARROWS MAN.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—While Republican leaders are striving, with none too great promise of success so far to find a candidate strong enough to "beat a somebody," as the good Mr. Farley expresses it, may I commend to their attention a network speaker of tonight?

Possessor of a radio voice and personality unsurpassed, this man delivered a calm and most convincing plea for caution in tossing overboard the United States constitution, and particularly its well planned amending clause. He hammered home his point, as an ordinary politician could not have done, with a factual comparison between threats now being made against that constitution and the history of events which led to the actual overthrow of the constitutions of Italy and Germany.

A few weeks ago this same unforgettable voice, speaking with the authority conferred only by accurate knowledge and broad experience, warned against the political chicanery which would conceal under the mantle of national planning a program of coercion striking at the roots of American liberty.

The man is professor of political science at a great state university, a major general, and—last but not least—hails from a large, doubtful, and critical state. If only to teach us again that real brains demand no bludgeons the United States has need of men like David P. Barrows, former president of the University of California. HARRIS K. RANDALL.

A THEFT IN SCHOOL.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 4.—A few days ago a student in a well known high school in a north shore suburb removed his fur lined gloves and put them in his locker. While taking off his overcoat he stood a few feet from the locker talking to another lad. When he turned to hang up his coat the gloves were gone. The identity of the thief is not the question. What are our public schools doing for our youth? This boy has attended school for perhaps 10 years, being instructed in this and that, and now he is a thief, or still he is a thief, if you like that better. Is it just that honesty is no longer a civic virtue or a good citizenship quality, or are such instruction so superficial that the students are not influenced? H. M. M.

THE COMMUTERS' CORNER.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Suggestions for the improvement of service on the Burlington being in order may I add to the advice of the gentleman from Naperville that a few live stock cars be added to the suburban service for the accommodation of the special privilege morons who use the opposite seat for a footrest, an indirect method for wiping their shoes on their neighbors' clothes, in spite of the admonitions to the contrary printed on the time cards.

Pullman sleepers should be added for passengers with India rubber spines, who not having backbones stiff enough to support their bodies, slump down in the seat and plunk their knees up in the backs of the seats in front of them and beat a tattoo on the occupants' backs.

Still another type is the bird who can't wait until he leaves the coach to light his cigaret and starts it going full blast as soon as we leave Halsted street. I like a smoke as well as the next one, but I'll be blowed if I think it gives me license to blow my smoke in a fellow passenger's face in a stuffy railroad car.

A great many of the offenders above mentioned are Burlington deadheads. It's bad enough to have to pay cleaning bills due to the boorishness of paying passengers, but if the Burlington had to foot the bills they would no doubt put a stop to a practice that none but a hick road would tolerate. VIC TIM.

TIME.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Nowhere have I seen an explanation of how Chicago proposes to keep up with New York time when New York, on the first of April, switches to daylight saving.

As a radio listener I find my head swimming every time I contemplate the confusion in programs which must surely result from the faster time on which THE TRIBUNE is so thoroughly sold. It appears to me that unless I change my listening habits I will get an hour less sleep every night as well as an hour more of daylight.

Considering THE TRIBUNE's passion for changing the habits of the populace in regard to time and the spelling of the English language, I am continually filled with gratified amazement that the World's Greatest Newspaper does not also develop a crusading zeal for changing our form of government. ELAINE BECHTEL.

VACATIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Of course I am only a taxpayer who has great difficulty in getting my taxes paid, but by scrimping and borrowing finally do. What I want to know is, why I should deprive myself in order that our overworked mayor should spent a very large part of his time on vacation? Is his salary deducted for this time off? How about Bundesen and other politicos? Are they docked when away on personal business?

When I lay off a day I'm docked. They should be, too. ERSTWHILE DEMOCRAT.

SEE YOU IN NOVEMBER.

Chicago, Feb. 4. — Congratulations! Every day in every way you are building up a larger plurality for the greatest President we ever had. Keep up the excellent work! ELLWOOD HANNEMANN.

BRILLIANT DINNER TO CLOSE TRIBUNE WOMANCONGRESS

Mary Garden and Hull on Final Program.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

A dinner and program of brilliant distinction will bring the third annual Woman congress, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S nonpartisan forum for the discussion of current affairs, to a close next Friday evening in the Palmer house. The two day congress will convene at noon on Thursday. Men as well as women will attend the dinner, which will begin at 7 p. m. in the hotel's Grand ballroom.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Miss Mary Garden are to be the principal speakers of the dinner. An entertainment program will be presented by Miss Helen Jepson of the Metropolitan Opera company and Miss Lena Madesin Phillips of New York City, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will close the congress with "Today's Challenge to Women."

Will Speak by Radio.

Promptly at 9 p. m. Secretary of State Hull will speak to the congress by radio from Washington, D. C. This special broadcast has been arranged through the coöperation of the National Broadcasting company. Secretary Hull will speak on "Trade and Peace."

With the neutrality situation holding the spotlight in foreign affairs, Mr. Hull's message is awaited with great interest.

Mary Garden, famous prima donna, will give a world picture of the arts. During the last two or three years Miss Garden has won acclaim as a speaker equal to the brilliance that followed her on the opera stage. It never has been forgotten that Mary Garden's debut in the Opera Comique in Paris in April, 1900, brought a thrill to two continents.

Rise to Stardom Recalled.

Called upon to substitute for Mlle. Rioton, who became suddenly ill while singing the title rôle in the third act of "Louise," Miss Garden immediately captured the hearts of her audience.

Miss Garden will arrive Friday morning from New York, where she has spent the last several months searching out talent that qualifies for grand opera in the films. Miss Jepson will accompany her to Chicago.

Miss Jepson has skyrocketed to fame the last year and has won about as much praise for her beauty as for her voice. She is a lyric soprano. She will present a fifteen minute program at the dinner session.

Both by virtue of her position as president of an international federation and through her own wide travel and study, Miss Lena Phillips is qualified to assimilate the material that will be presented during the two day congress and deliver the closing message in "Today's Challenge to Women." She will arrive from New York City late on Friday just in time to take part in the evening program.

One Hundred Honorary Sponsors.

The dinner has as honorary sponsors a committee of 100 distinguished women of the central west, including the wives of the governors of ten states. Not alone from the midwest, but from all parts of the United States women are coming to Chicago this week to enjoy and profit by the six congress sessions.

Hundreds of reservations for the dinner already have been received in the congress headquarters, room 1418, Tribune Tower.

Reservations at $2 per plate are being made in the order of their receipt. If they are accompanied by checks, tickets are mailed immediately. If only reservations are made tickets may be obtained in the Palmer house foyer during the preceding sessions of the congress.

BANDIT'S SLAYER RALLYING AFTER GUN FIGHT WOUND

Anthony Sodo, 40 years old, slayer of three robbers in the last six years, was expected to recover last night at St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond, from a wound received early in the day when he fought a gun battle with two bandits in his tavern at 428 Hirsch street, Calumet City.

One of the bandits, Clarence Lentner, 25 years old, 236 Russell street, Hammond, was killed. His partner, John Yerga, 29 years old, was wounded by bullets from the pistol Sodo wrested from him, and was captured a few hours later in a barbecue stand three miles north of Snyder, Ind. He was taken to Crown Point, where he confessed his part in the tavern robbery and in 14 other holdups with Lentner in northern Indiana. At Sodo's tavern the two took $7 from patrons.

Six years ago Sodo shot and killed two robbers who held up his tavern on Ridge road near Torrence avenue, in Thornton township.

TRAFIC TIED UP BY PHOTO SHOP FIRE; 6 ROUTED

Fire of undetermined origin caused damage of $15,000 yesterday to a three story brick building at 1133-39 Milwaukee avenue. Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan, one of the first to arrive at the scene, turned in a 3-11 alarm when he learned that combustible materials were stored in a photographic shop in the building.

Benjamin Polk, 40 years old, owner of the photographic shop, lives in the rear of the store. He was asleep when flames from the basement broke through the floor. Polk fled to the street in his underwear. A nearby clothing dealer furnished him with a pair of trousers and an overcoat. Five other persons in the building reached the street safely.

Fireman got the blaze under control after several hours. Hundreds of loop bound office workers were delayed by the fire hose across Milwaukee avenue.

HUSBAND ASSAILS STAR'S DIVORCE; ASKS ANNULMENT

Suit to annul his marriage three months ago to Frances Williams, blonde blues singer of the musical comedy stage, was filed by Robert Wachsman, theatrical producer and booking agent, Chicago Beach hotel, in Superior court yesterday.

The bill drawn by the law firm of Socrates, Davis and Cohen alleges the marriage is void because a divorce obtained by the actress from Miguel De Sousa, Hollywood business man, in the Chicago Heights city court last May 10, was fraudulently procured.

The fraud, the bill stated, was in the actress' claim that she was a bona fide resident of Chicago Heights. It also alleged she failed to prove that acts of cruelty on which the divorce action was based, occurred within the jurisdictional limits of the Chicago Heights City court.

The present marriage is Miss William's third since 1931. Previous to her divorce from De Sousa she obtained one in Circuit court here from Lester Clark, a musician.

MRS. CHAUNCEY M'CORMICK GETS N. U. BOARD POST

Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, 2450 Lake View avenue, was elected a member of the board of trustees of Northwestern university at a meeting of the board in Evanston yesterday.

MRS. CHAUNCEY McCORMICK. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. McCormick, the former Marion Deering, is a granddaughter of William Deering, who served as president of the board from 1897 until 1906. He was honorary president until his death in 1913.

The Deering Memorial library at Northwestern is named in memory of Mrs. McCormick's father, the late Charles S. Deering. Her husband, Chauncey McCormick, received an honorary degree of doctor of humane letters from the university in 1934.

Mrs. McCormick has been active in social, civic, and cultural affairs of Chicago. She served as chairman of the women's committee of the Century of Progress and as president of the Antiquarian society.

State Highway Engineer Heads Road Conference

Ernst Lieberman, chief engineer of the Illinois state highway department, was elected president of the Mississippi valley conference of state highway departments at the final meeting of the group in the Stevens hotel yesterday. He succeeds W. F. Rosenwald, maintenance engineer of the Minnesota highway department. H. H. Harrison, trafic engineer in the Illinois department, reported that during the last year 25,000 reflecting trafic signs had been placed throughout the state. Trafic warning signs were also placed at twenty-five dangerous intersections in the Chicago area, he said.

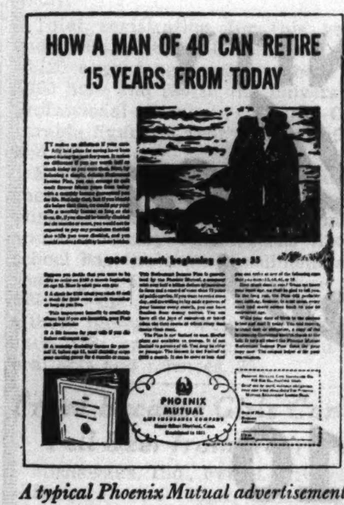
We are looking for men big enough to fill these jobs

OUR BUSINESS IS GOOD. We are expanding our organization and opening another office in Chicago. Our most important problem now is to find the right men to fill the positions available.

No man selected to represent the Phoenix Mutual is ever "just another life insurance man." He is expected to be as different from the old time "agent" as our modern Retirement Income Plans are different from the "die-to-win" policies of days gone by. He must have intelligence and enthusiasm. He must be sincere. He must be able to do a man-sized job in an up-to-date, business-like way.

Back of this lies an interesting story: Years ago we decided not to employ any "part-time" salesmen or any man who looked upon the life insurance business as merely an opportunity to make money out of his friends and relatives. We began to build a new organization of an entirely different type. Not of weaklings, but of responsible men who could make a success of any job they tackled.

We taught these men insurance. Taught them to serve as well as to sell. We backed them with national advertising. We developed selling aids to put them in touch with prospective buyers. And today we are represented by men who know their business just as professionally as a lawyer or a physician—men in whom we do not hesitate to ask the public to have confidence.



HOW A MAN OF 40 CAN RETIRE 15 YEARS FROM TODAY

A typical Phoenix Mutual advertisement

Because Phoenix Mutual men are so thoroughly trained and have such a splendid service to offer, they are likely to meet with more than ordinary success; and, at first glance, it may seem odd that we should have to look for men to fill these jobs. But the reason is very simple: Experience has shown us that out of the many who apply, only a comparative few will measure up to the high standards we desire to maintain. Those most likely to be chosen have been college-trained, are married, and are between the ages of 25 and 42.

Perhaps, without realizing it, you may be one of the very men we are looking for. Perhaps you are doing less important work today than you should be doing. Or perhaps there are other good reasons why you are not entirely satisfied with your future where you are.

If you have a successful business record behind you and want to know more about the possibilities of a profitable career with the Phoenix Mutual, write for additional information.

PROCLAIM STATE OF SIEGE IN CHILE IN FIGHT ON REDS

Premier Claims Proof of Moscow Strike Link.

BY NORMAN INGREY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 8.—Southern Chile, from the province of Aconcagua southward to Puerto Montt, was declared under a state of siege today. This area embraces most of the industrial centers and strike regions.

President Arturo Alessandri signed the siege proclamation shortly after midnight, nine hours after the congress had adjourned. The constitution forbids such a measure while congress is in session.

Moscow Accused.

Premier Luis Cabrera authorized the governors to act rigorously under the state of siege. He asserted that the strike on the national railroads, which has existed for six days, was organized by revolutionaries. He declared that the government possesses "overwhelming documentary proof" that the leaders were directed by the third internationale in Moscow, which until recently allegedly had a branch in Montevideo, Uruguay.

[Uruguay recently broke off diplomatic relations with Russia, charging that the soviet legation in Montevideo was the headquarters for revolutionary activities in South America.]

The martial regulations, which will be enforceable for three months, permit arrests anywhere and any time.

Foreigners discovered plotting against the security of the nation are liable to summary deportation. This was specially emphasized by authorities.

7 Leaders Seized.

Cabrera attributed high importance to the capture of the national revolutionary committee of six men and one woman headed by Elias Lafferte. Lafferte is the most prominent communist leader in South America and advertises his Moscow connections.

It was announced officially that 100 additional detentions were made in Santiago alone, which brings the total arrests to a new high point for Chilean social disturbances. The increased activities of the communists were reflected in the heavy volume of political and wage petitions presented by workers to their employers with renewed threats of strikes in coal and copper mines and manufacturing industries, it is said.

A sensation was caused by the revelation by Angel Maria Cusano, Uruguayan deputy, that the Chilean strike was organized by workers' delegations to the recent American labor conference.

Cusano stated the delegates, especially those from Uruguay, were selected communists who used the gathering to prepare revolutionary plans.

BOY ON TRIAL AS SLAYER DENIES HIS 'CONFESSION'

Edwardsville, Ill., Feb. 8.—[U.P.]—James Paul Jarrett, 16 year old model boy who was arrested in a freshman classroom and charged with the robbery-murder of a deputy county treasurer, denied on the witness stand today a confession made, he said, "only when they threatened me with the chair." The case went to the jury this evening.

"Anyway," he added, "I thought I'd get a lie detector test and would be in the clear."

Snapping out sharp answers to the cross-examination of Prosecutor Lester Geers, the thin featured youth denied any participation in the burglary Nov. 26 in which the treasurer, John C. Higgins, was killed.

He denied, too, the testimony of his 15 year old chum, Everett Rambo, the confessed murderer, who said Jarrett was with him when he entered Higgins' home, brutally beat Higgins' daughter, Marjorie, 7, and fired the fatal shot.

PRESENT RELIEF EMPLOYES TO GO ON COUNTY STAF

Joseph L. Moss, director of the county bureau of public welfare, which will administer relief after the dissolution of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission on May 1, announced yesterday that it will be necessary to use the present county machinery temporarily to carry out disbursements.

One relief staf employé will be retained for every 200 persons subject to relief, he said, until new positions created by the additional work have been filed by cicil service examinations.

Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the IERC, reported that present relief employés may be certified for relief before and after their employment by the IERC.

Dispatches from Washington yesterday indicated that 42 additional WPA projects for Illinois, to cost $1,784,314, have been approved. Six of the projects are scheduled in Cook county.

LASTING PEACE FOR AMERICANS SOUGHT BY U. S.

Monroe Doctrin to Be Made All-Inclusive.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[U.P.]—A move by the United States to consolidate the peace machinery of the western hemisphere was revealed tonight with tacit official admission that President Roosevelt is planning shortly to issue invitations to an all-American peace conference.

The President plans, it was stated, to issue invitations to all governments of the two Americas as soon as Paraguay and Bolivia have returned formally and officially to the ways of peace and have officially resumed diplomatic relations.

It was understood that at this conference an attempt may be made to work out a formula which will replace the Monroe doctrin as the bulwark of American nations against aggression from overseas.

Monroe Doctrin Resented.

The Monroe doctrin long has been a sore spot in the United States' relations with Latin American countries since it is a declaration by the United States alone of the isolation of countries of the western hemisphere from the political intrigues and quarrels of the old world. In the minds of many Latin Americans, the Monroe doctrin placed the United States in the position of self proclaimed protector of all American nations.

Many diplomatic and political leaders of North and South America believe the Monroe doctrin should be superseded by a multilateral declaration which could be subscribed to by all the governments of this hemisphere.

Have Modernized Program.

It is believed the agreement which President Roosevelt and the Latin American leaders he has contacted have in mind is much more far reaching than a modernized Monroe doctrin. It is believed it would attempt definitly to consolidate the peace machinery of the western world and, so far as is possibly by diplomatic means, make war impossible between any two or more nations of the Americas.

This policy was inaugurated by President Roosevelt's declaration of "the good neighbor" policy soon after his inauguration. It was furthered by Secretary of State Cordell Hull at the Pan American conference at Montevideo the same year.

President Roosevelt in his annual message to congress drew attention to the universal state of peace in the two Americas, and drew a sharp contrast between conditions existing in these two continents and those in virtually all other parts of the world.

MYSTERIOUS DISEASE RAVAGES VILLAGE IN BRAZIL; MANY KILLED

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A mysterious pestilence was reported today to be rampant in the village of Santa Rem, in Para province. Unconfirmed reports to newspapers spoke of "hundreds of victims" and a confirmed dispatch, the latest received, said 18 sufferers died in one day.

Another message said the cemetery in Santa Rem is filled to capacity and the fast-dying population is being buried elsewhere. The disease is claiming both humans and beasts, the reports said, and at least 1,000 cattle have died.

Among the symptoms were listed a high, delirious fever, diarrhea and continual vomiting. Death was said to occur in less than a day in many cases. Medical authorities here said some of the symptoms seemed similar to those of acute Asiatic cholera.

POLICE USE MACHINE GUN TO FORCE WPA WORKERS BACK ON JOB

The men, members of Project Workers' union, were protesting the dismissal of Joseph Horvath, 25 years old, from a project under construction at Dover, a Cleveland suburb. The men had gathered around a timekeeper's shanty when two policemen, who had been sent to the project in response to a plea from the foreman, armed with the machine gun forced the men back to work.

Harry R. Ansel, assistant district director of WPA, said he had been informed that Horvath had threatened to halt the project by force of numbers. Ansel refused further comment pending a conference with the project foreman.

CHICAGOANS GET FIRST GLIMPSE OF JOOSS BALLET

Magnificent Costuming Thrills Audience.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Jooss ballet, long familiar to northwestern Europe and to New York, made its Chicago debut at the Civic Opera house last night and gave this dance-conscious city an opportunity to make some interesting comparisons. The audience discovered one or two features of its technique five minutes after the curtain rose; others in the course of the four separate numbers that made up the evening.

First, the obvious differences between the Jooss ballet and the troupes with which we are familiar. The instrumental background lacks all opulence, for two lone pianos provide all the music there is. There are no settings either, in the usually accepted sense of the word—or, more correctly, perhaps, the settings are abstract. An austere pattern of heavy drapery is the background for court, street, hall, or ballroom.

Stage Pictures Magnificent.

The costuming and lighting represent a dazzling degree of accomplishment in these two fields. The stage pictures are magnificent.

Kurt Jooss, who devised the choreography for all of the ballets, is a polished technician. He has been deft enough to take the best features of two or three of the older schools, and, by means of his own genius and originality, to produce something refreshingly novel and vital. Here, briefly, are the ideas which seem to underlie his work and which account for the more subtle differences between his ballet and its competitors.

This sophisticated Dane injects a little of his worldliness into the naive routines of the established ballets of yesterday. He woos the beauty of pattern and motion for its own sake, but strives for some cerebral appeal as well. The dance, in his hands, is often a comment on life, for a combination of type, gesture, movement, and tempo makes of an occasional sequence a flashingly brilliant view of humans and their desires. Jooss' imagination has vented itself in a hundred subtleties of expression. A mincing step, a sardonic tilt to a head —an empty pause, even—are all part of his technique.

"Ballade" and "the Big City."

"Ballade," in which gaily caparisoned noblemen and noblewomen of a France of long ago reënact a simple story of love and jealousy, opened the bill. It was followed by "The Big City," an advanced and polished piece of miming that utilizes the well conceived music of Alexander Tansman for a part of its effect.

Jooss' instinct for good showmanship has led him in this ballet to leave the outline of the story as broad and vague as possible. The work as a whole gains a certain quality of universality through this device. The characters, familiar contemporary ones, go their clearly marked ways amidst a wealth of choreographic detail. This detail [types, postures, etc.] gains tremendously in vividness because of the simplicity of the general ideas underlying it.

"Ball in Old Vienna."

"A Ball in Old Vienna" is just what the title would lead one to expect, except that the colors are laid on daintily, and there is nothing from its beginning to its early end which could be described as a really opulent dance routine.

The entire program will be repeated this afternoon at 3 o'clock and the Jooss ballet's main offering, "The Green Table," will be reviewed in detail in tomorrow morning's paper.

Last night's performance was sponsored by the Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene and drew a brilliant audience to the theater. The ballet has already been booked for next season.

An important note that should, perhaps, have come first instead of last. In Noelle de Mosa, a principal in all three of the shorter ballets, the Jooss outfit boasts one of the most beautiful and talented women that have ever played in Chicago.

Hits Conductor with Crutch; Bites Off Policeman's Finger

William Johnson, colored, 45 years old, 4725 South Dearborn street, is being held at the Stockyards police station on a charge of mayhem. Johnson bit off the third finger of the right hand of Policeman John Lynch, 35 years old, 2319 South Union avenue late Friday during a fight on a 47th street car at Ashland avenue. Lynch was called into the fray after Johnson, a cripple, had struck the conductor of the car with his crutch.

SON OF ALFONSO SAVED BY BLOOD OF 3 COMMONERS

Victim of Hemophilia Is Recovering in Cuba.

HAVANA, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The 28 year old count of Covadonga, strengthened by injections of the blood of commoners, appeared tonight to be recovering from a near-fatal attack of hemophilia.

Physicians reported that the count, who renounced his rights to the Spanish throne to wed a Cuban commoner, was resting easily after a good sleep. Later they expressed the opinion he was passing the crisis satisfactorily.

Blood injections were continued during the day. These injections and a transfusion from two Cuban women and a Cuban man, they said, saved the life of the former crown prince.

Recovery Is Predicted.

The count was able to discuss his condition with members of his wife's family.

"Thursday, I would have gone for little," he said, "but today I'm feeling better."

Hemophilia is a hereditary disease in the house of Bourbon. The count was stricken with an abscess, leading to internal hemorrhages, and also suffered an attack of blood poisoning.

TRACED TO QUEEN VICTORIA.

Hemophilia, the dread and incurable disease of the blood which struck down Alfonso, count of Covadonga, has coursed insidiously through two ruling houses formerly among the most powerful in Europe.

Historically, says Dr. Ralph H. Major in his newly published book "disease and destiny," Alfonso's ailment may stem from the good British Queen Victoria who through two of her daughters and granddaughters unwittingly bequeathed it to the Romanoffs of Russia and the Bourbons of Spain.

The disease, that of excessive bleeding from the slightest scratch, is apparent only in males and is transmitted only by females who themselves are immune, medical authorities are agreed. It is hereditary.

Dr. Major says that hemophilia is "rather distinctly a teutonic disease. Most of the cases have been described in Germany, Switzerland, England and the United States. It is rare in Russia, Italy, France and Japan."

Fall Heir to Disease.

The royal heritage of the disease has, according to some authorities, been responsible in a measure for the fall of the former ruling houses of both Russia and Spain.

The former King Alfonso married Victoria of Battenberg, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria. Two of their sons, Princess Juan and Alfonso, fell heir to hemophilia. Juan died in 1934 of hemophilia caused by an automobile accident at Klagenfurt, Austria.

Alfonso, stricken last week, has been a hemophiliac since early childhood, although his affliction was until recently a closely guarded secret.

Of Alfonso the son, Dr. Major writes:

"Clever King Alfonso must have realized that a hemophiliac could never ascend the throne of Spain. This realization may well have had its effect upon the king's subsequent actions [in abdicating]. At any rate the grim spectre of this disease changed the whole course of Spanish succession."

Recalls Fall of Romanoffs.

Perhaps even more attributable to hemophilia, according to Dr. Major, was the fall of the Romanoffs of Russia.

Another granddaughter of Queen Victoria was Princess Alexandra Feodorovna, wife of Czar Nicholas II. Their only son, Alexis, was in early childhood discovered to be an hemophiliac.

All the court physicians and specialists in Europe told the frantic mother her son could not be cured, but by either coincidence or unknown powers the mujik called Rasputin was able to keep the child from bleeding. Hence his hold on the czarina and later on even the czar, and his prophecy, "Harm me and Russia will be ruined."

Eighteen months after Rasputin was murdered by Prince Felix Yussupoff, the Grand Duke Dmitri and their confederates, the entire royal family, including the hemophiliac boy, Alexis, were executed by the revolutionists.

PLAN CITY BOARD FOR CENSORSHIP OF STAGE DRAMA

Plans for a board of censorship for dramatics for Chicago are being outlined by the research division of the city law department, it was learned yesterday. Barnet Hodes, city corporation counsel, stated that the law department is investigating censorship boards and censorship laws of all major cities in order to formulate plans for a "proper" censor board here.

"We know that some eastern cities use more stringent rules of censorship than Chicago, and we are also aware that in some cities, as New York, the rules are not as tightly drawn," the corporation counsel said.

"We are not interested in the censorship of literature. The city has a board of censors to review moving pictures, but no censor board for legitimate drama."

ALICE DICKINSON BECOMES BRIDE OF G. H. ROBINSON

Dorothy Hurd Is Wed to Golf Champion.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Despite the blizzard outside, St. Chrysostom's church was well filled for the marriage yesterday afternoon of Miss Alice May Dickinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Reynolds Dickinson, to Gilbert Hill Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ives Robinson.

The church was decorated in greens and Easter lilies, and was lighted by long wax tapers. The bride, who is one of society's most attractive young women, wore a platinum satin gown made in the simplest style, and it was a great complement to her blonde hair and slim figure. She wore a cap made of lace that belonged to her great-grandmother, the late Mrs. William G. Hibbard.

Her seven attendants included Mrs. William A. Little [Dorothy Dickinson], who was married in the same church three months ago, and who was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Janet Ayer, Miss Eleanor McNally, Miss Elizabeth Durham, a cousin of the bride; Miss Elizabeth Byron Smith, Mrs. Joseph E. Nolan, and Mrs. Frank G. Osborne, the bridegroom's sister.

Brother-in-Law Best Man.

Mr. Osborne served Mr. Robinson as best man, and ushering were Mr. Little, Stirling Dickinson, the bride's brother; Edgar Hill, a cousin of the bridegroom; Raymond Smith and Joseph Vance, another cousin of the bridegroom, both of Grosse Pointe, Mich.; Carleton Blunt, Edgar Leighty, Thomas and Cameron Eddy, Winston Rodormer, Charles Yegge, and Newton H. Tobey.

The Rev. Dudley Stark read the ceremony. A reception in the Dickinsons' Astor stret residence followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson and Mr. and Mrs. Robinson received with their daughter and their son in the library.

Mr. Robinson and his bride left for Miami and Havana.

Dr. Stark read another wedding ceremony last evening in the apartment of Mrs. Robert Maxon at 2608 Lake View avenue when Mrs. Maxon's daughter, Miss Dorothy Hurd, became the bride of W. Lawson Little Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lawson Little of San Francisco, Cal. The bride was given in marriage by her young brother, Roger S. Hurd, who came home from his studies at Lawrenceville for the wedding. She wore an unusual gown of white satin made with a jacket over a long full skirt of alternating panels of satin and tulle.

Mrs. James Alsdorf of Evanston, the matron of honor, wore the deepest shade of coral, and the bridesmaids, Miss Mary Ann and Miss Sally Fox of Wichita, Kas., wore the lightest shade. Miss Shirley Ann Johnson, the maid of honor, wore a shade in between these two.

Johnny Goodman of Omaha, former national open golf champion, served his golfing friend as best man. Mr. Little and his bride left for a honeymoon in the south. The bridegroom has won the British and Amateur golf crowns for two consecutive years.

MAE BUSCH, ACTRESS, WILL BECOME BRIDE OF ENGINEER TODAY

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—In a quiet home ceremony, Mae Busch, screen actress, will become the bride of Thomas C. Tate, a civil engineer, tomorrow afternoon.

The bride will be attended by Miss Eleanor O'Riley. Al Walker will be best man.

The actress previously was married to Francis McDonald, star of silent films, and later to John E. Cassell, petroleum engineer.

TRAIN WRECK KILLS TWO.

Allendale, S. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The engineer and fireman of Southern railway train No. 24 were fatally injured early today when their locomotive, carrying four cars with it, was derailed in the center of town. The dead are Engineer Charles McNeill and Fireman S. A. Orr, both of Columbia.

WORKS OF MANET AND MONET, NEW TO CITY, ON SHOW

Two important paintings by the French masters, Manet and Monet, have been placed on exhibition in the Art institute of Chicago through the courtesy of Etienne Bignou of New York, the institute announced yesterday.

The Manet canvas, "Le Linge," which was refused by the French salon in 1876, now is regarded as one of Manet's most important works. It portrays a woman standing over a washtub wringing out linen as a child watches intently. It is hung in the Field gallery, Gallery 38.

The Monet painting is "La Jettee du Havre," painted in 1868. A large canvas, 58 by 88 inches, it shows a group of people on a jetty, at one end of which is a lighthouse, looking out toward the sea as great breakers roll in. This is hung in Gallery 32.

Death Ends Boy's Hope of Helping Other Invalids

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Joseph Wall, 18, died today, just a week after receiving his high school diploma. He had suffered all his life from a foot infection. Joe, one of the most popular members of his class, wanted to be a doctor. He received his diploma while in a hospital. He was to have started a pre-medical course in the fall at Trinity college.

U. OF ILLINOIS HAS 10,750 ON STUDENT LISTS

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Six hundred and twenty-five more students are enrolled in the University of Illinois for the second semester than there were a year ago, G. P. Tuttle, registrar, so announced here today.

Total registration for this year's ond semester is 10,750, compared with 10,125 a year ago today. There are 9,760 here and 990 in the university's professional schools in Chicago. Comparable figures a year ago were 9,122 and 1,003.

Every college in the university showed an increase except those of physical education, law, pharmacy, and the library school. The library school has the same enrollment as a year ago. The largest increase was 227 in the college of commerce. Other increases included: Agriculture, 138; engineering, 113, and liberal arts and sciences, 65.

CHARLES CURTIS, VICE PRESIDENT '29-'33, IS DEAD

Heart Attack Is Fatal to Former Senator.

FORMER VICE PRESIDENT DIES

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

half French, who grew to a woman's estate to marry Capt. O. A. Curtis, a young American pioneer of English stock. Thus the blood of Curtis, born Jan. 25, 1860, in what is now North Topeka, was but one-quarter Indian though his walnut complexion made it seem to be more.

The daughter of Princess Julie died when Curtis was 3 years old. He lived with his father's people until he was 5 and then was sent to his grandmother on the Kansas Indian reservation in Morris county, Kansas.

When he was 10 years old the peaceful life of the reservation was shattered by an incident which gave an acid test of his character. At midday while Curtis and other Indian children were playing at the edge of the Kaw camp a band of Cheyenne warriors in full war paint swooped down with wild cries. The Kaws barricaded themselves as best they could as the attackers circled about the camp to pour fire on the defenders.

The defenders held off until nightfall and at a council of war decided to send a messenger for help to whites at Topeka, sixty miles away. Curtis was selected as the messenger because he knew the language of both peoples and sent out on foot because the Cheyennes had captured all the Kaw horses early in the raid. He succeeded in getting through the invaders' lines and in making the 60 mile journey for help—no mean feat for a boy of ten.

At the age of 9 the wiry lad became a jocky. He toured the southwest for the owner of Tilden, a famous Kansas horse of those days. Curtis delighted to recall an incident of his jocky days. He told of being called for final instructions by a Texan owner, seated with a rifle across his knees. "Son," Curtis quoted the owner as saying, "the last dollar I have in the world is on this race. If you don't win don't stop when you cross the finish line, keep right on going." Curtis won.

Quits Racing at 16.

At 16 Curtis was about to quit school entirely for his riding when his grandmother, who was insistent that he get an education, advised him to dig into books if he wanted to get anywhere. On her advice he gave up racing, although the call of the track continued in him throughout his life. All during his public life and since his enforced retirement he seized every opportunity for relaxation at races.

He turned to reporting for the North Topeka Times when he left racing, writing for a paper he had once sold as a newsboy. At 19 he began reading law in a Topeka office. To meet tough financial going he joined with a livery stable owner in a hack business. He drove a hack for two years, reading law while waiting for fares at the state capitol. He left his high seat when he was admitted to the bar and began the practice of law.

Prosecutor at 24.

In 1884, when he was 24 years old, Curtis began a career of office holding which continued, with one brief interruption, for almost half a century. His first post was that of prosecuting attorney for Shawnee county, Kansas. Prohibition had come to Kansas but was not being enforced and the youthful office holder began a campaign to close a hundred saloons which flourished in Topeka.

He was elected to congress in 1893 and served continuously until 1907, when he was elected to the senate. The one interruption in his 49 year political career came in 1912, the year of the Bull Moose uprising when he received the greatest vote of any of the candidates for the senate but did not carry a sufficient number of districts to regain his seat.

The Kansas law was changed in the next year to provide for nomination by direct vote of the people and Curtis was returned to the senate in 1914. He was whip of the Republican majority under Senator Lodge and after the latter's death in 1924 was named majority leader.

Rarely Spoke in Senate.

In the senate Curtis rarely commanded the floor. When he did, he spoke rarely for more than a minute or two. He preferred to achieve his ends by personal approach; so much so that he was known as the greatest whisperer in the senate. Ordinarily senate whisperings are confined to retailing of gossip, but Curtis whispered to close a deal with the opposition or convey White House orders.

Despite his sparing use of words, Curtis left his impression on congress. He was one of the first national legislators to come out for women suffrage, he had a hand in bringing about the national budget system, he followed Lodge in the fight against the league of nations. For the most part, he was "a good party man."

To all his colleagues Curtis was "Charley" or "The Indian," both terms used affectionately. He was well liked and known as "a square shooter." In 1928 he began drawing on the political favors he had deposited in the bank during his long public life, and was mentioned as a candidate for the presidency.

Wins Vice Presidency.

The boom did not bring him to the White House, but it got him the vice presidency. There, whichever way his presidency of the senate may be viewed, all are agreed he faithfully served his chief. He took up his whispering this time in an office which was considered a Washington showplace in being a cross between a tribal wikiup and a convention hall. Here as always he made up for what he lacked in oratory and logic in showmanship.

Throughout his life, while Curtis was a placid and humble figure although he did not escape tempting ambition in later years, he had a strong streak of stubbornness—perhaps a heritage of his red blood. This was evidenced most strongly to the public in what became a national jest of its day—his insistence on precedence for his sister, Mrs. Dolly Gann, who was his official hostess. He won the battle.

This fight bore him fruit in 1932 when the administration had lost favor and party leaders were desperately seeking a scapegoat. They seized upon Curtis and were working against his renomination on the ticket with President Hoover. Mrs. Gann, on hearing of the movement, raced to the Chicago convention and whipped delegates into line for her brother by bullying and cajolery in the eleventh hour.

Curtis took the 1933 defeat to heart. His friends assert that he was the one man in the United States who was convinced that there was no doubt about Hoover's reëlection. Though no orator he took to the stump and campaigned more arduously than any man in the party.

Since his enforced retirement from public life Curtis has lived quietly, venturing an occasional, mild hint to Kansas Republicans that he was willing to campaign for his old senate seat. With these ignored, he divided his time between his law office and home here, sinking inevitably into the oblivion reserved for ex-Vice Presidents.

DEDICATE NEW SYNAGOGUE IN LOOP TONIGHT

The Chicago Loop Orthodox synagogue at 16 South Clark street will be dedicated this evening. Ald. Jacob M. Arvey will be the principal speaker. Temporary headquarters of the congregation, of which Rabbi Elias Gamze has been the leader, have been at 123 West Madison street.

WIDOW OF POLISH PIONEER SETTLER DIES HERE AT 80

Mrs. Virginia Bronislawa Chrapikowski, pioneer Chicago resident and member of a family widely known in this country among citizens of Polish descent, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Smietanka, 7345 Oglesby avenue. She was 80 years old. Her son-in-law, Attorney Julius F. Smietanka, is the former collector of internal revenue.

Mrs. Chrapikowski came to Chicago in 1857 when her father, Edward Wilkoszewski, moved his family from Philadelphia, where she was born. Mrs. Chrapikowski graduated from the old Dore and Skinner public schools and the Scammon High school. Her first husband, John Barzynski, was an early publisher of Polish language newspapers here. Her second husband, Anton Chrapikowski, pioneer settler of Manitowoc, Wis., died last year at the age of 91.

Surviving are three children, Mrs. Smietanka, Mrs. Katheryn Kelly, wife of the postmaster of Manitowoc, and Col. Joseph Barzynski, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Knox, Ky. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock at St. Stanislas church, with burial in St. Adalbert cemetery.

L. A. Hodges, Advertising Man, Dies in Covington

Louis A. Hodges, advertising executive, died yesterday at his home in Covington, Ky., where he had lived for several years. He was 70 years old. From 1900 to 1925 Mr. Hodges held advertising positions here with national magazines. His widow and two children survive. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at Covington.

CLEANERS' UNION CHARGES RIVALS WITH PRICE PLOT

Gorman, Freed in Racket Trial, Is Accused.

Charges were made in a suit filed in the Superior court yesterday that several union organizations and groups of cleaners and dyers have illegally combined to control the prices of cleaning and dyeing in Chicago. It was alleged in the suit that acts of violence and sabotage were being resorted to for this purpose.

The bill, containing 171 pages, was filed by Attorney Bailey Samelow Stanton in behalf of the Cleaners, Dyers and Pressers union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. The union, which has a membership of 1,200 workers in the cleaning industry, charges that it is being wrecked by the defendants so that they may control the industry.

144 Co-Defendants Accused.

Named as defendants are the Laundry Workers' Cleaners and Dyers' union, the Laundry and Dye House Drivers and Chauffeurs' union, the Cleaners and Dyers Inside Workers alliance, the Retail Cleaners and Dyers union, the Wholesale Cleaners and Dyers' association, the Illinois Coöperative Cleaners and Dyers association and eight wholesale cleaners and dyers' companies. A total of 144 persons are listed individually as codefendants.

Among the defendants are a number who were acquitted in the racket conspiracy trial in 1934. One of these, James P. Gorman, is president of the retail cleaners' union, the wholesale cleaners' association and the Atlas Cleaners and Dyers company, one of the company defendants.

Linked with Raid On Offices.

Attorney Stanton said that the raid on the plaintif union's headquarters Thursday night, when the records of the organization were seized by three gunmen was only one act in a campaign to destroy the union. It is charged in the suit that the members have been ordered by threats to leave the A. F. of L. group and join the workers alliance, their working hours increased from 44 to 50 for each week and their salaries cut.

The attorney said that the union's troubles began several months ago when its officers refused to agree to "police" the industry following the conspiracy trial verdict. Ben A. Albert, president of the plaintif union, was also a defendant in that trial. Policing the industry, he declared, is forcing certain wholesale plants to fix prices by means of threats and sabotage.

New Union Just Formed.

The workers alliance, the suit alleges, was organized only one month ago and has for its purpose the assimilation of the plaintif union.

The suit asks that the defendants be restrained from continuing their "illegal conspiracy and from continuing other acts detrimental to the union."

'71 SETTLER WHO REACHED CITY ON DAY OF FIRE DIES

Henry Schwarzel, 94 years old, died yesterday in his home, 3114 North Christiana avenue. Mr. Schwarzel, who was born in Bavaria, arrived in Chicago the day of the start of the Chicago fire in October, 1871. Because of the conflagration his train brought him only to Archer avenue and Halsted street, where all passengers were forced to detrain. He lived in the Avondale district for more than 50 years. He was survived by three sons, Henry R., 1340 South 49th court, Cicero, who is a trustee of the town of Cicero; Conrad, and John, and a daughter, Annie. Conrad, John, and Annie live at the Christiana avenue address. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at a chapel at 3026 Belmont avenue. Interment will be in St. Lucas cemetery.

Memorial Rites Today Honor Cardinal Sincero

Memorial services for Cardinal Luigi Sincero, secretary of the Sacred Congregation of Oriental Churches, who died Friday in Rome, will be conducted by the Rev. Father Francis Thomay this morning in St. Michael's school hall, Eugene street and Cleveland avenue. Father Thomay, who is the only priest in America of the Roman Catholic Chaldean rite, was ordained in Syria in 1911 and was sent to Chicago recently by Cardinal Sincero at the request of Cardinal Mundelein and by order of Joseph Emanuel II., patriarch of Babylon, to establish the first church of the rite in this country.

THIRD YEAR FOR IMPERIAL QUARTET AT LAIN'S . . .

Since April, 1933, Lain's have included the IMPERIAL MALE QUARTET with all Chapel services, regardless of cost.

Included also, is the Organist and Organ.

Lain was the first in Chicago to make this definite contribution to beautify the chapel service—and our contract with the IMPERIAL QUARTET has been renewed for the third consecutive year.

The IMPERIAL QUARTET is a definite part of the Lain organization—available to all. No other chapel can offer you this well-known quartet.

Original features like the IMPERIAL QUARTET, and Conditioned Air, first introduced by Lain in 1932, have made Chicago's preference for Lain now 20 to 1—twenty times the average volume.

And yet over 63% of Lain's services cost less than $300—35% under $200.

RAGEN LAUNCHES PRISON CLEANUP; GUARDS 'ON SPOT'

All with Shady Pasts to Be Discharged.

Warden Joseph E. Ragen yesterday launched an inquiry into the records of the 325 guards employed at the Joliet penitentiary with the intention of weeding out any inefficient or otherwise undesirable men on the pay roll.

The investigation was ordered as a result of the "joy ride" escape of Convict John Floss on Wednesday and the razor slaying of Richard Loeb in the prison on Jan. 28.

The warden asserted that Homer Talley, the Stateville penitentiary guard who was discharged Friday for allegedly assisting Floss to escape, never would have been employed had it been known at the prison that he had been suspended as a Chicago policeman.

Plans "Home Town" Quiz.

Warden Ragen said he now will learn everything available about the present staf of guards and any who are hired in the future. He said he will write letters to responsible persons in the guard's home communities and learn if they have "spotty pasts." If he learns they have, they will be discharged at once.

Guard Charles Goodwin, 40 years old, who had been employed at the penitentiary for seven years, was discharged yesterday by Ragen. The warden said, however, the action had no connection with the escape of Floss or the fatal slashing of Loeb.

Goodwin was fired, Ragen said, because he had failed to carry out his orders. He did not carry out his duties in making his rounds and standing post on the walls. The warden said Goodwin was assigned to night duty in the prison yard and did not come in contact with the prisoners.

Talley Held In Jail.

Talley still was in the county jail at Joliet yesterday, unable to post the $5,000 bond set Friday by Justice of the Peace Joseph Hartley before whom he was arraigned on a charge of aiding in Floss' escape. He pleaded not guilty and the hearing was continued to Feb. 17 when the Will county grand jury will convene.

Warden Ragen said he expected contracts soon will be let for the construction and improvement of buildings at the prison. The approximate $500,000 that this work will cost will come from the fund of 14 million dollars allocated for penal institutions by the legislature two years ago. The largest item in the construction work will be the erection of a dormitory for 500 men inside the yard at the Stateville prison and near the south gate. The building, which will cost $175,000, will be used by the men employed on outside details.

About $160,000 will be spent in the construction of an assembly hall, seating 1,500; four schoolrooms, two chapels and a gymnasium.

7 OF 10 ESCAPED CONVICTS SEIZED BY POSSE IN KY.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Seven of the ten convicts who escaped from Frankfort reformatory yesterday and today were captured tonight, while the remaining three were subjects of an intensive manhunt near Carrollton, Ky.

Although they at first sent out word they would die rather than surrender, the four who escaped yesterday, James C. Morris, Clarence Crawford, Henry Frank Coomer, and Dexter Anderson, changed their minds and gave themselves up to Sherif Charles Blount and three possemen at a farmhouse near Beattyville.

Three of the six who drove a prison truck to make their escape this morning were captured near Monterey by state patrolmen. They are Lawrence Taylor, Chester Campbell, and Logan Leasure.

TEST RUBBER LINED 'CRADLE' TO PROTECT PILOTS IN NOSE DIVES

Dayton, O., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The army, borrowing an idea from the dare devil's polo automobile, hopes soon to take the jar out of airplane nose overs, thus saving the necks of its pilots.

A board of officers, who sat in the cockpit of an old pursuit plane's fuselage while a crane flipped it onto its back, has submitted recommendations to Washington.

A cradle, resembling the high curved runners of a sleigh, was attached to the nose permitting the fuselage to be turned over without damage to the front sector.

A rigid skid brace over the cockpit, lined with several inches of sponge rubber, eased the shock when the plane was turned over and crashed onto its back.

JUDGES HEAR NEW HIGH COURT VIEW ON CRIME CASES

Public Welfare Comes First, Says Orr.

More consideration is now being given by the Illinois Supreme court to the public welfare instead of to the welfare of the criminal, according to Supreme Court Justice Warren H. Orr, who spoke yesterday at the convention of the Illinois County and Probate Judges' association in the Hotel Sherman. The tendency is not to give the criminal all the "breaks," he said.

Four recent decisions of the high court were cited by the jurist as showing the improvement in the administration of criminal law. These allow defendants to waive trial by jury and also allow the state to demand a jury trial although the defendant is willing to waive his rights; no longer permit juries to be judges of the law, and permit a judge to make a widespread investigation of facts and circumstances after a defendant has pleaded guilty.

Convictions More Certain.

"We are gradually nearing adjustment of a situation—as should have been done long ago—in which the criminal was getting all the breaks," Justice Orr declared. "Now we are beginning to give the people a few breaks toward more certain conviction of criminals."

Judge Frank H. Bicek of the Juvenile court also addressed the convention. He suggested a friendly investigation of the St. Charles School for Boys, to which most of the delinquent boys in Cook county are sent.

Predicts Increased Powers.

"I believe that the county judge is headed for even greater power and responsibility," Mr. Megan said. "Everything in this country and in the British commonwealth of nations indicates that the county court is on the rise in power and influence."

Probate Judge Harry C. Daniels of Kane county was elected president of the judges' organization for the year 1936, succeeding Judge Ray Sesler of Pontiac. County Judge Everett Lewis of Franklin county was elected first vice president. Probate Judge Charles M. Webber of Champaign county was elected second vice president and Probate Judge Benjamin S. De Boice of Sangamon county, secretary-treasurer.

CONSTIPATION ENDS IN 1 HOUR

DO AS DOCTORS DO

The gentle, "Double Action" of Pluto Water brings the swiftest, most thorough relief known

WHEN you need a laxative you want action. Gentle action! Quick action! Thorough action! But above all things—SAFE ACTION! And Pluto Water proves such action in fullest measure. Countless millions of people know it to be true. 50,000 doctors endorse or use Pluto personally. Please note:

"I not only prescribe Pluto Water almost daily, but use it personally every other day."—says Dr. H. A. O. of Ohio. Dr. W. M. of Michigan writes: "Pluto Water is the only laxative."

No Doping—No Waiting No Griping

With Pluto Water you do not have to dope yourself at night. There is no long period of waiting. No painful griping. Simply mix 1/5 of a glass of Pluto Water with 4/5 of a glass of hot water. You'll find this mixture pleasant. Gentle. And, because of Pluto's "double action," quick and thorough in results. For Pluto not only gives a complete bowel flush—but it also acts to stimulate the Liver and Gall Bladder to free-flowing action. That is why in 1 hour, or less, you feel and look like a new person. Your head clears. Your energy returns. Your appetite improves.

Try This Way Just Once

Pluto Water is bottled at the famous French Lick Springs, Indiana. It is a non-habit-forming, saline mineral water. Sure! Quick! Gentle! Safe! Two hundred million bottles have already been used, largely on doctors' advice. Get Pluto Water from your druggist—either in the 25c size or the large 50c size containing 3 times the quantity. In 1 hour, or less, your Constipation will be relieved, and you'll feel worlds better.

INDIANA BEATS CHICAGO, 42-24; PURDUE WINS

WEST SIDE GOLDEN GLOVES BOUTS OPEN TOMORROW

BATTLES START 15 NIGHTS OF CHICAGO FIGHTS

4,837 Boxers Enter Three Tourneys.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's ninth annual Golden Gloves tournaments will open tomorrow night at the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street. Contestants will report for physical examinations between 4 and 6 p. m. Drawings for opponents will be made by lot a half hour later. The first bouts in two rings will start at 7 o'clock. Admission: Adults, 75 cents; children, 15 years of age and under, 40 cents. Seats are not reserved.

EDWIN B. PARKES.

These are the prosaic, often repeated facts of this year's tournament. Other facts, perhaps, have also become common place by repetition. Golden Gloves grows each year. The record proves it. In 1928 less than 300 boys reported for the tournaments, but from this hardy band came 16 lads, many inexperienced, who fought New York's champions to an 8 to 8 tie at the Coliseum.

4,837 Enter Tourney.

This year 4,837 applied for the right to compete in Golden Gloves amateur bouts.

For 15 nights these boys will compete in the open and novice divisions of Chicago's greatest boxing tournament. From these battles will come 32 open division qualifiers to face the champions from 43 cities in 13 states. And also from these 15 nights will come 32 survivors in the novice tournament who will meet in the semifinals at the Stadium on Feb. 24. The winners that night will box for championships on Feb. 26.

Here's Schedule of Meets.

Here's your schedule of Chicago's sectionals where you may have a preview of the gigantic Tournament of Champions:

NORTH SIDE—Loyola university gymnasium, Loyola avenue and

Discovery Runs Fifth; Time Supply Wins

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Time Supply, Mrs. F. A. Carreaud's brilliant handicap color bearer, today won the $7,500 San Antonio handicap before 45,000, the largest crowd ever to see a race in this state. W. R. Coe's Pompey's Pillar was second, beaten by six lengths, while Ariel Cross was third and Rosemont finished fourth.

Discovery, handicap champion of 1935, was fifth, nine lengths back of Time Supply, which smashed the track record in pounding over the finish line in 1:49 2-5 for the one and one-eighth mile journey.

Time Supply Runs Off and Hides.

Never better than fifth at any stage of the running, Discovery, asked to carry 138 pounds, high weight of the field, made one brief move on the far turn. Jocky Joe Bejshak went to the whip, and the handicap champion moved up, only to fade as Jocky Tommy Luther turned on the heat with Time Supply.

Gathering speed as he opened up, Time Supply, already winner of the San Vicente handicap, in which he revealed his flying qualities, simply rolled away from the opposition in the stretch.

At the 16th pole Time Supply was an easy winner. But Luther, recalling Discovery's stretch finish in winning the San Carlos a week ago, refused to take any chances, and rode his mount as if the field were closing in on him from all sides. So Time Supply, carrying 116 pounds and in receipt of 22 pounds from Discovery, made it a one horse race.

Big Threat for Big Race.

In victory, Time Supply definitly declared himself even more of a threat for the $100,000 handicap two weeks hence than he was last year, when he finished third to Azucar and Ladysman. Azucar was seventh today.

The big battle was for second place, where the surprising Pompey's Pillar bobbed up to take the second spot from the consistent Ariel Cross, winner of the New Year's stakes.

When he saw it was futile to try and overtake the winner, Bejshak eased up on Discovery and did not appear to force the big chestnut in the slightest. Only nine horses went to the post, Cavalcade being scratched in the morning, and Head Play declining the issue 45 minutes before post time.

Cavalcade Favors Injured Foot.

"Upon inspection of Cavalcade this morning, in getting ready for this afternoon's race," Trainer Bob Smith said, "we found he favored the foot which he injured slightly the other day when he threw a shoe, and we deemed it only fair to the public not to start him. "It has always been the policy of Mrs. Isabel Sloane to have only a fit horse carry the colors of the Brookmeade stables to the post," Smith continued.

Speculation quickly arose whether Cavalcade might not also miss the big $100,000 added Santa Anita handicap Feb. 22.

ITALY DEFEATS U. S., 2 TO 1, IN OLYMPIC HOCKY

American Team Is Booed by Crowd.

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 8.—[U. P.]—America's Olympic ice hockey team, booed and jeered by a partisan European crowd, lost its first contest of the 1936 international winter games today, taking a 2 to 1 beating from an Italian squad. Fists flew during the game. The defeat may force the Americans to participate in a playoff match to decide a place in the semi-final round.

Triumphant in their first two games, the Americans were whipped in their third in a second overtime period when speedy Giovanni Scotti whipped over the winning goal.

Game Is Rough.

Disputes developed early in the game and reached a climax in the third period when the Italian goalie, Augusto Gerosa, caught and held on to the puck. Americans Johnny Garrison and Frank Shaughnessy swarmed over the little Italian, forcing him to the backboard. In came other Italian players and in a second the two teams were swinging at each other. The referee separated them, but from then on play became exceedingly rough, with many penalties for roughing and tripping.

Italy's victory still left it in the running for a place in the semi-finals and left the standings in the group which includes it, America, Germany, and Switzerland, in a complicated state.

Eight Teams to Continue.

Eight teams, two from each group into which the 15 competing nations are divided, qualify for the semifinals on the basis of most victories. A victory is worth two points and a tie nothing.

The standing of the group which includes the United States follows:

	W	L	Pts	G	OG
United States	2	1	4	5	2
Germany	2	1	4	5	1
Italy	1	1	2	2	4
Switzerland	0	2	0	0	3

Italy finishes its schedule tomorrow against Switzerland, and should it win a three-way tie will be precipitated. In such a case the two teams with the most goals scored will advance.

Must Beat Swiss.

Thus Italy must beat Switzerland and score at least three goals in doing so to assure itself a tie—which would necessitate a playoff—or four goals to enter the semi-finals. If the latter situation develops then Germany and America would have to play off to determine the other semi-finalist. If Italy falls short of a total of five goals or loses to Switzerland, America and Germany will qualify.

After two scoreless periods the Americans, who had played sloppy

ANYBODY'S BALL—AND IT'S WORTH TWO POINTS

HAARLOW GETS 7 BASKETS AND 2 FREE THROWS

Boilermakers Whip Hawkeyes, 39-38.

Indiana's basketball team, which had struggled through six previous Big Ten victories by an average margin of 3½ points, last night moved easily to its seventh consecutive triumph, defeating Chicago's Maroons, 42 to 24, at the Midway. It was Chicago's eighth defeat.

With the crowd of 1,200 shouting "Give the ball to Bill," Capt. Haarlow of Chicago responded with 16 points on seven baskets and a pair of free throws, two-thirds of the Maroon total. This served to increase his individual scoring leadership of the Big Ten to 98 points. Ken Gunning of Indiana scored 15 points and Vernon Huffman, Hoosier guard, scored 12.

Indiana Draws Away.

The game was close for the first five minutes, by which time Haarlow and Gunning had connected for three baskets each and the score was 9 to 9. Indiana then began to develop its short pass scoring plays, with Huffman as the scorer, and led, 15 to 9, before Haarlow scored again. The score at the halfway mark was 21 to 13 for Indiana.

The Hoosiers built their lead up to 27 to 13 before Haarlow found the basket for seven quick points, which left the score 29 to 20. From there on Haarlow was checked without a point, and the game was all Indiana. The Hoosiers dominated the center jump, and were superior in ball handling.

PURDUE, 39; IOWA, 38

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Pat Malaska, stocky Purdue guard, dropped in a basket from far out on the court in the last seconds here tonight to avert defeat for Purdue's unbeaten quintet and hand a spectacular Iowa team a 39 to 38 setback in a Big Ten game. It was the sixth straight victory for the Boilermakers.

Purdue, helpless before Iowa's first half attack that enabled the Hawkeyes to pile up a 26 to 16 lead, came back strong to hold Iowa scoreless for more than 10 minutes in the final period as Capt. Bob Kessler staged a one man scoring rush to close the gap.

Young Gets the Range.

Tying the score at 26 to 26 with eight minutes to go, Purdue was forced to drop behind as the desperate Iowans launched a counter drive. The Hawkeyes stretched their advantage to 35 to 29 with four minutes to play, but three straight field goals and a free throw by Jewell Young

INDIANA BEATS CHICAGO, 42-24; PURDUE WINS

WEST SIDE GOLDEN GLOVES BOUTS OPEN TOMORROW

BATTLES START 15 NIGHTS OF CHICAGO FIGHTS

4,837 Boxers Enter Three Tourneys.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's ninth annual Golden Gloves tournaments will open tomorrow night at the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street. Contestants will report for physical examinations between 4 and 6 p. m. Drawings for opponents will be made by lot a half hour later. The first bouts in two rings will start at 7 o'clock. Admission: Adults, 75 cents; children, 15 years of age and under, 40 cents. Seats are not reserved.

EDWIN B. PARKES.

These are the prosaic, often repeated facts of this year's tournament. Other facts, perhaps, have also become common place by repetition. Golden Gloves grows each year. The record proves it. In 1928 less than 300 boys reported for the tournaments, but from this hardy band came 16 lads, many inexperienced, who fought New York's champions to an 8 to 8 tie at the Coliseum.

4,837 Enter Tourney.

This year 4,837 applied for the right to compete in Golden Gloves amateur bouts.

For 15 nights these boys will compete in the open and novice divisions of Chicago's greatest boxing tournament. From these battles will come 32 open division qualifiers to face the champions from 43 cities in 13 states. And also from these 15 nights will come 32 survivors in the novice tournament who will meet in the semifinals at the Stadium on Feb. 24. The winners that night will box for championships on Feb. 26.

Here's Schedule of Meets.

Here's your schedule of Chicago's sectionals where you may have a preview of the gigantic Tournament of Champions:

It seems quite simple to announce these dates. Actually the mechanism of the tournament has been moving faster and faster since the opening announcement and publication of the first entry blank on Jan. 6. In response to that entry blank, which was discontinued on Jan. 30, 4,837 letters were received. All were answered. A few, less than one per cent, were returned because of incorrect address or the senders could not be located.

2,200 Report for Examinations.

Approximately 2,200 boys reported for physical examinations. Five of these were held at Trafton's gymnasium. The other was held at the Catholic Youth center. Each required the presence of three or more physicians and a staf of 15 clerks in addition to four men from the Central association of the A. A. U. These A. A. U. men, working under instructions from Roy E. Davis, chairman of the Central association boxing and registration committees, and Secretary Edwin B. Parkes, received writ-

Discovery Runs Fifth; Time Supply Wins

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Time Supply, Mrs. F. A. Carreaud's brilliant handicap color bearer, today won the $7,500 San Antonio handicap before 45,000, the largest crowd ever to see a race in this state. W. R. Coe's Pompey's Pillar was second, beaten by six lengths, while Ariel Cross was third and Rosemont finished fourth.

Discovery, handicap champion of 1935, was fifth, nine lengths back of Time Supply, which smashed the track record in pounding over the finish line in 1:49 2-5 for the one and one-eighth mile journey.

Time Supply Runs Off and Hides.

Never better than fifth at any stage of the running, Discovery, asked to carry 138 pounds, high weight of the field, made one brief move on the far turn. Jocky Joe Bejshak went to the whip, and the handicap champion moved up, only to fade as Jocky Tommy Luther turned on the heat with Time Supply.

Gathering speed as he opened up, Time Supply, already winner of the San Vicente handicap, in which he revealed his flying qualities, simply rolled away from the opposition in the stretch.

At the 16th pole Time Supply was an easy winner. But Luther, recalling Discovery's stretch finish in winning the San Carlos a week ago, refused to take any chances, and rode his mount as if the field were closing in on him from all sides. So Time Supply, carrying 116 pounds and in receipt of 22 pounds from Discovery, made it a one horse race.

Big Threat for Big Race.

In victory, Time Supply definitly declared himself even more of a threat for the $100,000 handicap two weeks hence than he was last year, when he finished third to Azucar and Ladysman. Azucar was seventh today.

The big battle was for second place, where the surprising Pompey's Pillar bobbed up to take the second spot from the consistent Ariel Cross, winner of the New Year's stakes.

When he saw it was futile to try and overtake the winner, Bejshak eased up on Discovery and did not appear to force the big chestnut in the slightest. Only nine horses went to the post, Cavalcade being scratched in the morning, and Head Play declining the issue 45 minutes before post time.

Cavalcade Favors Injured Foot.

"Upon inspection of Cavalcade this morning, in getting ready for this afternoon's race," Trainer Bob Smith said, "we found he favored the foot which he injured slightly the other day when he threw a shoe, and we deemed it only fair to the public not to start him. "It has always been the policy of Mrs. Isabel Sloane to have only a fit horse carry the colors of the Brookmeade stables to the post," Smith continued.

Speculation quickly arose whether Cavalcade might not also miss the big $100,000 added Santa Anita handicap Feb. 22.

"If he does not train soundly he will not be started," Smith said.

MAERIEL PAYS $23.10

Miami, Fla., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Dewitt Page, owner of the Maemere farm, threw out a challenge for the Florida Derby today when Maeriel, mud-loving son of Ariel, carried his silks to victory over eight 3 year olds in the seven furlongs of the Bahama handicap at Hialeah park.

Making his first appearance since last November, when he closed a campaign as a prominent performer in the juvenile division, Maeriel stepped home with six lengths to spare in 1:25 3-5. He carried 124 pounds, two less than packed by Warren Wright's Crossbow II., the top weight of the field and the disappointing favorite.

As an outsider in the wagering, the Maemere colt paid $23.10 for each $2 straight ticket and earned $2,930 for his owner.

ITALY DEFEATS U. S., 2 TO 1, IN OLYMPIC HOCKY

American Team Is Booed by Crowd.

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 8.—[U. P.]—America's Olympic ice hockey team, booed and jeered by a partisan European crowd, lost its first contest of the 1936 international winter games today, taking a 2 to 1 beating from an Italian squad. Fists flew during the game. The defeat may force the Americans to participate in a playoff match to decide a place in the semi-final round.

Triumphant in their first two games, the Americans were whipped in their third in a second overtime period when speedy Giovanni Scotti whipped over the winning goal.

Game Is Rough.

Disputes developed early in the game and reached a climax in the third period when the Italian goalie, Augusto Gerosa, caught and held on to the puck. Americans Johnny Garrison and Frank Shaughnessy swarmed over the little Italian, forcing him to the backboard. In came other Italian players and in a second the two teams were swinging at each other. The referee separated them, but from then on play became exceedingly rough, with many penalties for roughing and tripping.

Italy's victory still left it in the running for a place in the semi-finals and left the standings in the group which includes it, America, Germany, and Switzerland, in a complicated state.

Eight Teams to Continue.

Eight teams, two from each group into which the 15 competing nations are divided, qualify for the semifinals on the basis of most victories. A victory is worth two points and a tie nothing.

The standing of the group which includes the United States follows:

	W	L	Pts	G	OG
United States	2	1	4	5	2
Germany	2	1	4	5	1
Italy	1	1	2	2	4
Switzerland	0	2	0	0	3

Italy finishes its schedule tomorrow against Switzerland, and should it win a three-way tie will be precipitated. In such a case the two teams with the most goals scored will advance.

Must Beat Swiss.

Thus Italy must beat Switzerland and score at least three goals in doing so to assure itself a tie—which would necessitate a playoff—or four goals to enter the semi-finals. If the latter situation develops then Germany and America would have to play off to determine the other semi-finalist. If Italy falls short of a total of five goals or loses to Switzerland, America and Germany will qualify.

After two scoreless periods the Americans, who had played sloppy hocky up to then, pushed over a goal in 9:30 of the third session. Garrison, picking up Gordon Smith's rebound, poked in the goal from just in front of the Italian net.

Zucchini Ties Score.

A half minute later Mario Zucchini, speedy forward, whipped down the left wing alley and blasted a long shot which went past Moone. The Americans had many scoring opportunities, but each time they ran into a stone wall in the person of little Gerosa, who threw back shots hurled at him from every angle.

Further argument was precipitated near the end of the first overtime session when Italy scored a goal which was disallowed. When the officials announced "no goal," spectators gave off a chorus of "booes" for the Americans.

Scotti's Goal Wins.

The hero of Italy's light blue uniformed squad was Giovanni Scotti, speedy left wing who rapped in the goal which defeated the Americans. Eight minutes and ten seconds after the second overtime session started Scotti picked up his own rebound and smashed the rubber past Goalie Moone.

Previous to the first American setback in three Olympic starts, Canada had won its third consecutive triumph by defeating Austria, 5-2.

Great Britain, playing in the same group as Sweden and Japan, whipped Japan, 3-0, and also gained a spot in the semi-finals. Poland, already out of the running, halted Latvia, 9-2; Czechoslovakia whipped Hungary, 3-0 and France defeated Belgium 4-2 in a second overtime period. Sweden clinched its semi-final spot yesterday.

Bobsled Driver Hurt.

America's bob-sledding hopes received a severe jolt when Donna Fox, one of the world's outstanding drivers, was injured painfully when his sled overturned during a practice spin down the dangerous course at the foot of Mount Gudiberg.

"I'll be out there again tomorrow if they have to lift me onto the sled," Fox predicted tonight. But even so, the driver of America's four man team might not be able to do his best under such conditions.

ANYBODY'S BALL—AND IT'S WORTH TWO POINTS

Boilermakers Whip Hawkeyes, 39-38.

Indiana's basketball team, which had struggled through six previous Big Ten victories by an average margin of 3½ points, last night moved easily to its seventh consecutive triumph, defeating Chicago's Maroons, 42 to 24, at the Midway. It was Chicago's eighth defeat.

With the crowd of 1,200 shouting "Give the ball to Bill," Capt. Haarlow of Chicago responded with 16 points on seven baskets and a pair of free throws, two-thirds of the Maroon total. This served to increase his individual scoring leadership of the Big Ten to 98 points. Ken Gunning of Indiana scored 15 points and Vernon Huffman, Hoosier guard, scored 12.

Indiana Draws Away.

The game was close for the first five minutes, by which time Haarlow and Gunning had connected for three baskets each and the score was 9 to 9. Indiana then began to develop its short pass scoring plays, with Huffman as the scorer, and led, 15 to 9, before Haarlow scored again. The score at the halfway mark was 21 to 13 for Indiana.

The Hoosiers built their lead up to 27 to 13 before Haarlow found the basket for seven quick points, which left the score 29 to 20. From there on Haarlow was checked without a point, and the game was all Indiana. The Hoosiers dominated the center jump, and were superior in ball handling.

PURDUE, 39; IOWA, 38

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Pat Malaska, stocky Purdue guard, dropped in a basket from far out on the court in the last seconds here tonight to avert defeat for Purdue's unbeaten quintet and hand a spectacular Iowa team a 39 to 38 setback in a Big Ten game. It was the sixth straight victory for the Boilermakers.

Purdue, helpless before Iowa's first half attack that enabled the Hawkeyes to pile up a 26 to 16 lead, came back strong to hold Iowa scoreless for more than 10 minutes in the final period as Capt. Bob Kessler staged a one man scoring rush to close the gap.

Young Gets the Range.

Tying the score at 26 to 26 with eight minutes to go, Purdue was forced to drop behind as the desperate Iowans launched a counter drive. The Hawkeyes stretched their advantage to 35 to 29 with four minutes to play, but three straight field goals and a free throw by Jewell Young sent the visitors into a 36 to 35 lead.

Wally Gaddis scored from the floor to give Iowa a one point edge, but Malaska tossed in a free throw. Schwartz' free throw put Iowa ahead with seconds remaining to set the stage for Malaska's winning field goal. Kessler and Young counted twelve and eleven points, respectively, for Purdue.

2 Cities Seek Franchises in Pro Football

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Applications for franchises in the National Professional football league were received from Los Angeles and Buffalo at the opening session of the annual meeting of league officials today.

Harry Myers, representing the Los Angeles American Legion, made the bid for the coast team. He said games would be played in Gilmore stadium, where the Legion successfully conducted a pro league last season. Green Bay and Detroit drew a crowd of 20,000 there two weeks ago, he added.

Buffalo Plans New Stadium.

Charley Murray, Buffalo promoter, said if Buffalo were admitted to the league, games would be played in a new stadium which will seat 50,000. The stadium is under construction and will be completed by fall. No definite action was taken on either application. The officials were reported to be divided over the Los Angeles proposal.

Detroit officially was awarded the championship, succeeding the New York Giants in pro football ranks.

Approval and support was given to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's third annual All Star game between the Detroit Lions, league champions, and the college All Stars at Chicago, Sept. 1, and to a game at New York between the college stars and the New York Giants.

The rules did not come up for discussion today, and no important changes are expected in this line tomorrow.

Teams May Tour Europe.

Neither did the officials get to a discussion of a proposal by Lud Wray and Bert Bell, officials of the Philadelphia Eagles, for a three month trip with two playing squads, to start at the west coast at the end of the playing season next fall for a series of games in Hawaii, Australia, and a half dozen European countries.

Today's session was spent in hearing routine reports and arranging the 1936 season schedule.

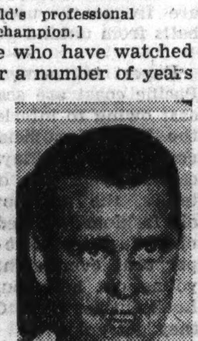
Biggest Mistake I Ever Made

[Otto Strohmeier, University of Chicago end coach, says that an athlete's chief memories are of the mistakes he made or the times he just missed doing something spectacular or smart. This is the third of a series of articles describing such experiences of famous athletes.]

BY VINCENT RICHARDS.

[Former world's professional tennis champion.]

Friends of mine who have watched me play tennis for a number of years consider the greatest mistake of my career a little sprint that I took around the court during the 1923 tryout competition for the American Davis cup team at Forest Hills. I haven't always agreed with them, but looking back at it now, I realize that dash probably cost me an opportunity to gain a berth on the United States team.



VINCENT RICHARDS.

My opponent in this particular match was the gifted Little Bill Johnston of California, then at the height of his career. We had been having ourselves a real match, attested by the fact that at the time I made my error, the score was at 4-all in the sixth set.

We had been volleying back and forth until finally Johnston fired a hot return at me, and to the amazement of my friends in the gallery, I proceeded to pursue the ball around until I had circled the entire court. Needless to say, Johnston won the match and a place on the U. S. team.

Although my friends could see no reason for the seemingly impromptu run, I myself knew what caused it. I had pitched myself forward with such momentum to return Johnston's shot that to have stopped on the heavy spikes I wore at that juncture might have caused me to turn my ankle. It was to me either that or a continuous dash around the court.

Klein Signs Cub Contract; 4 Still Out

Charles [Chuck] Klein, who kicked up quite a fuss before agreeing to accept $30,000 for his baseball labors in 1934, took a second straight salary cut yesterday by signing a 1936 Chicago Cub contract for $12,500.

After some correspondence with his Cub bosses, who tried to get him for years and then succeeded by paying $125,000 to Philadelphia for his contract in the fall of 1933, the big outfielder decided to take the offer. Under the Cub bonus system, he will have a chance to boost that salary if he approaches anything near the form that made him one of the greatest hitters in the game at Philadelphia.

Chuck Could Do Better.

Klein, except for a flash here and there, such as his winning home run in the fifth game of last fall's world series against Detroit, has been a great disappointment since joining the Cubs. Because of injuries and a dislike for the architectural makeup of Wrigley field, home of the Cubs, the former Philly home run king has suffered his worst batting slumps.

In 1934, he played in 115 games and hit .301 after a great start; last season, he batted .293 in 119 games, winding up the season on the bench.

Four Players Unsigned.

Klein's signed papers brought all but four of the championship Cubs into the fold. All except Outfielder Augie Galan, Shortstop Bill Jurges and Pitchers Larry French and Bill Lee have signed. Galan is the only one of the quartet who definitly has advised the Cub office that his 1936 contract is unsatisfactory.

Agua Caliente Track Again Goes Begging for Buyer

TIJUANA, Mex., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The Agua Caliente race track went begging again today for want of a buyer at a public auction here. For the third time, no one appeared with the necessary check to buy the track, which was to have been sold to satisfy labor claims.

GOLDEN GLOVES FIELD IS CUT FOR CHICAGO MARCH

Illinois Leads in Bid for Titles.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Five thousand hands already have been lifted in victory and 5,000 more will be raised before THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament reaches the battle of champions stage at the Chicago Stadium on Feb. 24.

A good half of the job of selecting those who will perform in that enormous circus has been completed. Not nearly half the teams have been chosen, but preliminary fighting throughout the central western states has trimmed the original field of 15,000 to a point where it will require only a night or so of fighting in most of the 43 tournament centers to make the new champs pop out of the box.

Chicago Takes the Stage.

Chicago is an exception and as a result the center ring will from now on be occupied by Chicago performers. These performers will meet for the first time tomorrow night when the west section tournament opens at the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street.

On Tuesday night the south section meet opens at White City, and on Feb. 18 the north section trials start at Loyola university gymnasium. In all, there will be 14 sessions of sectional tournament fighting before Chicago's open division and novice division qualifiers are picked from an original entry list of 4,837. At least 1,000 preliminary round bouts will be fought in Chicago alone. Before the eight other teams in Illinois are selected 1,000 more battles will have taken place in the state.

Ohio Next in Numbers.

Next in line in point of number of bouts fought comes the state of Ohio, where it will require 1,500 scraps to determine the champions. Then come Michigan with 1,400 scraps; Indiana, with 1,300; Missouri, with 1,000; Iowa, with 800, and Tennessee, with 600.

Going down the line in close succession come Wisconsin, with 500 bouts; Minnesota, with 300; Kentucky, with 200; Nebraska, with 150; Oklahoma, with 150, and West Virginia, with 100.

Each state will bring to the Tournament of Champions a group of fighters peculiarly significant of its own locality. Indians and young ranchers will come from the western plains, steel workers from northern Indiana and Illinois, farmer lads from Illinois, Ohio and Iowa, and Hill Billies from the Ozarks in Missouri. Descendants of pioneering Norsemen will come down from the states of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The Old South Moves In.

A determined team of white hopes is ready to travel into the north from the old south. In all probability there will be members on this squad who will take this opportune method of settling some small differences.

A liberal representation of higher education will come from the universities and colleges located in or near most tournament centers. Names familiar in college athletics appear among them.

And lastly from Chicago will come a group representing the city's reputation for being a melting pot of the nations of the world.

Here's Further Reduction.

To reduce these teams still further in their appeal to human interest they can be listed:

An altar boy from a church in Ohio.

A father and his two sons in one and the same tournament in Missouri.

An Indiana boy whose claim to fame rests in the fact that he can lift a horse.

A Sioux Indian from the Dakotas who is known far and wide in his territory as Chief Hit-Em-on-the-Chin.

A colored heavyweight from Detroit who has the reputation of being a harder hitter than Joe Louis.

There is no end to this list. Every boy has his own reason for fighting in a Golden Gloves tournament. Each reason makes a story in itself. And there were 15,000 such entries.

The demand for tickets for the Tournament of Champions is the heaviest on record. Already all $3.30 tickets have been sold for the finals which are to be fought on the night of March 6 when Chicago picks the team it will send against New York in the annual intercity match at Madison Square Garden on March 23. There still are plenty of good lower priced seats available.

The sale for the first three nights of the Tournament of Champions—Feb. 24, 25, 26—also is extremely heavy and large crowds will watch most of the sessions.

BERNICE WALL, MRS. VARE ENTER BELLEAIR FINAL

Belleair, Fla., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen B. Stetson of Philadelphia, former national champion, was eliminated from the annual February women's golf tournament today by Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., 4 and 2.

The victory avenged for Miss Wall the trouncing she took from Mrs. Stetson in the finals last year.

Hardly tested since the tournament opened, Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare of Philadelphia, the United States title holder, entered the finals against Miss Wall.

Youthful Betty Edwards of Dallas, Tex., held Mrs. Vare even for six holes, but succumbed, 5 and 4, to the latter's steady play.

CLEVELAND'S PUNCHERS READY TO MOVE ON CHICAGO

Northwestern Gets College Net Tourney

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 8.—(AP)—An attempt to return the intercollegiate tournament to grass courts from clay was beaten today by a 2 to 1 vote at the 55th annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis association. By a proxy vote of 30,125 to 16,325, the meeting awarded the tournament for the second year to Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill. Awards of dates and sites for all other 1936 tournaments were speedily approved, as well as a plan to revive the national interscholastic singles and doubles events this year. The latter probably will be held at Forest Hills, N. Y., next September.

Bid for Davis Cup Matches.

The Davis cup committee, which held a separate meeting, failed to act on the allocation of matches in the North American zone. Holcombe Ward, chairman, said intense rivalry for the holding of the Cuba-Australia and United States-Mexico matches has developed in the south and southwest, with New York, Philadelphia, and Los Angeles bidding for the anticipated final between America and Australia.

A special committee inspected the facilities of the Germantown Cricket club, where America lost the Davis cup to France nine years ago. The committee, however, declined to comment on its findings there.

Although the approval of the other nations must be sought, Ward hinted strongly all Davis cup competitions in this country will be played on clay. The final match will be completed by June 1, and there are no turf courts in satisfactory condition by then he asserted.

Dispute Over Clay.

The skirmish over the intercollegiate tournament was precipitated by Philadelphia delegates and supported by Julian S. Myrick, former president of the U. S. L. T. A. Prior to last year the tournament had been played on the turf courts of the Merion Cricket club here from 1900 to 1934.

Paul W. Gibbons, former president of the Middle States association with headquarters here, said: "Taking the tournament off grass was a retrogression. The game is played on clay in some places only because of necessity—not from choice."

Myrick said the shift from grass to clay resulted in a sharp falling off of entries. In 1934 here, he said, 108 players from 67 colleges competed as against 67 from considerably fewer colleges at Northwestern last year.

"Merion's facilities are ideally suited for the tournament," he said. "The game was founded on grass, and we should be interested in the development of the game and our players on that surface."

Grass vs. Clay.

Jack Tidball of California, winner of the 1933 championship, said "the heart of the game is grass and I'm glad I was out of college when it went to clay. At Merion the amateur spirit reigns supreme."

Walter Merrill Hall, first elected in 1934, and all other 1935 officers were reëlected.

Crane Lightweights Win from Oak Park, 29-21

Crane Tech of the City league triumphed, 29 to 21, over Oak Park of the Suburban league in a lightweight basketball game played on the latter's court yesterday. The victors led, 6 to 2, in the first quarter; 16 to 8 at the half, and 22 to 12 at the conclusion of the third quarter. Buddy Lawson led the Crane attack, scoring five baskets and one free throw.

Table Tennis Tips

[This is the eighth of a series of weekly articles on table tennis by Coleman Clark, former national champion, present western doubles champion and authority on this sport. Readers are invited to send contributions and address questions to the conductor of the column, care Chicago Tribune, Tribune square, Chicago.]

BY COLEMAN CLARK.

Table tennis in common with all sports calls for something more than pure mechanical perfection, that is if you have the ambition to win. For example, it takes headwork to defeat these steady "push" or half volley addicts—these players who prefer to keep the ball in play at all costs and shrink at every chance to smack a ball. So many players are at a loss as to the best method to use to lick this type of game that we believe it is worth while to go into the subject in some detail. They can be beaten, but you have got to use your head as well as your hands.

Placements—and Change of Pace.

Don't attempt to beat him at his own game unless you want to engage in an endurance contest. To vanquish the "stone waller" strive to throw him off his game—put him out of position so that you can drive through him. Chase him from one side of the table to the other. See-saw from back and forth with accurate angle placements. Another effective way to gain your objective is to force him into error by the "short and long" game strategy, i. e., keep him close to the table with drop shots, then deep behind it by driving. If you can do this you will soon have his legs wabbling.

Another thing to try is change of pace. By this we mean mixing shots and varying the speed of them. Chop to him two or three times in succession, then send him several topspin shots. Try slow topspin for variety and see if he does not return them high enough for you to put them away for keeps.

Under no circumstances should you lose your patience. Don't let old man "Neverhit" get your goat or you are through. Take your time and try everything. Pure slugging will get you nowhere. Wait for an opening, then when it presents itself drive fearlessly. Break up his self-assurance by outwitting him, then the shoe will be on the other foot.

The Flick Shot.

It's next to impossible to drive low balls that are relatively close to the net as your racket will strike the table in so doing. When you meet a defensive player who keeps the ball low and close to the net how are you going to put topspin on the ball successfully if you cannot drive? Sometimes change of pace and placements are not enough to undo the defensive type.

The "flick" shot is the answer to this problem. This is purely a backhand stroke which must be executed over, not from behind the table. The ball should be contacted on the half volley or rising bounce. The right foot is forward and the right shoulder points toward the net. It is essentially a wrist shot, not an arm shot. You don't swing, you merely "flick" the wrist, starting the stroke just above the table's surface and throwing the wrist quickly upwards. In lifting up and turning the wrist partly over on the shot this imparts strong topspin to the ball.

Effectiveness.

The beauty of this shot lies in its suddenness. In a jiffy the wrist has sent the ball whizzing away and caught your adversary napping. Mixing flickers with chops is a good way to beat this type of player. The flick is not an easy shot to learn as the timing is difficult. However, it can be mastered in time and when you have got it others will envy you.

If you have seen Dan Mabee, Jack Denninger, or Herman Leavitt, all Chicagoans, you have witnessed champion table tennis players whose flick shots are executed as they should be. These experts use them at every opportunity.

◆

There is hardly a movie star out here in Hollywood [where we are making a short film] whose recreation room does not have a regulation table. We took on all comers at the home of Gene Raymond the other night. Thousands of tables out here are kept permanently out of doors, on lawns, and in patios. Wind breaks are frequently used to protect the balls from unkind gusts.

◆

Expert tournament players on the Pacific coast are scarcer than in the east owing to inferior equipment and the lack of sufficient intersectional competition. Players are handicapped by playing on thin, three ply tables, the all too frequent use of old fashioned sanded paddles and the obsolete three piece balls with are 20 per cent overweight. The game is young out here, but is coming fast. Look out for these Californians when they get going!

JESSE HAINES SIGNS CONTRACT WITH CARDINALS

St. Louis, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The signed contract of Jesse Haines was received by the St. Louis Cardinals today. Haines will be starting his seventeenth consecutive season on the Cardinals' pitching staf.

Also in the mails was the contract of Jim Winford, right-handed pitcher coming up from Columbus. Seventeen Cardinals now are in the fold.

The Browns list of signed players mounted to 15 with the receipt of Pitcher Merritt [Sugar] Cain's contract.

Miller Signs for Bout with Pena on Feb. 18

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Freddie Miller, Cincinnati, N. B. A. featherweight champion, signed to defend his title against Johnny Pena, New York, at Seattle, Feb. 18, Pete Reilly, Miller's manager, announced today. The winner then will fight Peter Sarron, Birmingham, Ala., in a title bout at Miami, Fla., March 2.

CANADA HOCKY GROUP KEEPS BAN ON BRITISH

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 8.—(AP)—E. A. Gilroy, president of the Canadian Amateur Hocky association, said today the organization had not lifted the suspensions on James Foster and Alex Archer, members of the British Olympic team.

Gilroy said that while he had no objection to Archer and Foster playing on the British team, this did not mean the C. A. H. A. was lifting the suspensions.

"It was just a gesture of sportsmanship that we offered to allow the players to compete on the British team," said Fred Marples, treasurer of the C. A. H. A.

"We have been deeply grieved at the thought that our suspension, which was backed up by the International association, should have been interpreted as hitting at the reported strength of the British team."

Foster and Archer, who had been declared ineligible several days ago, were reinstated yesterday in time to help England defeat Sweden, 1 to 0.

Swanson Wins Race in U. S. Skating Meet

Petoskey, Mich., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Marvin Swanson, of Minneapolis, went about the defense of his national senior men's amateur ice speed skating title today by winning the senior men's two mile event today.

He won in the slow time of 6 minutes 16.6 seconds. John Bretz of St. Louis and Al Kucera of Chicago were second and third.

Wallace Fee Wins.

Wallace Fee of Chicago captured the 220 yard dash for senior men in 20.1. His fellow townsman, John Flickenger, was second, and Swanson third.

In the women's division Dorothy Franey of Minneapolis won the 220 yard dash and the half mile. Maddy Horn of Oconomowoc, Wis., was second in both events.

Dick Baird of Minneapolis successfully defended his national intermediate boys' title in the 220 yard dash by defeating Bob Sherman of Chicago in 20.2.

Weather Is Colder.

The weather turned colder during the afternoon and a bitter wind arose, handicapping the skaters in the later events.

Finals will be held tomorrow in the 440 yard dash, mile, half mile and five mile events for men, along with others for juvenile, junior and senior boys.

Summary of today's finals:

Maine Senior Swimmers Defeat New Trier, 40-35

Maine Township High school invaded New Trier and triumphed in the senior events in a dual swimming meet yesterday. The seniors came from behind to capture the relay and medley relay events and win, 40 to 35, while the juniors tied at 33 points each.

Patty Berg Takes Miami Title, 4 and 3

Coral Gables, Fla., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Patty Berg, 17 year old Minneapolis school girl, scored her second important golf victory in two weeks today when she captured the fourth annual Miami Biltmore women's amateur tournament.

In drizzling rain the plucky youngster, 1 down at the end of the morning eighteen, paraded through fifteen holes of the afternoon round in one stroke under par to defeat Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., 4 and 3, in the thirty-six hole final.

It was the second straight victory in Florida for the Minneapolis youngster, who took up golf five years ago and improved so swiftly she reached the final of the 1935 national.

She's a Real Star.

Last week at Punta Gorda she defeated more experienced golf stars to reach the final, where she upset Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews of Miami, five times metropolitan champion.

Miss Berg's game was ragged during the morning round. Tee shots and woods found sand traps at three-fourths of the holes and one long putt after another hung at the lip of the cup. She needed 87 strokes, five over par, for the round, and found herself 1 down to Miss Miley, whose medal figure was also 87.

This afternoon, however, Patty won the first in par to square matters, halved the next in bogey figures, and bettered par by one stroke at the third to go 1 up. She was not headed thereafter, as pars and birdies clicked from her clubs.

Winner Gets Trophy.

Her medal card for the out nine this afternon was 39, against 44 this morning, while Miss Miley needed 45, one more than her card of the morning. Miss Berg was even par for the last six holes of the match, the Kentuckian slipping two over.

To the winner goes for one year the Grace L. Doherty challenge trophy, which already bears the names of Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, the 1933 winner; Mrs. Crews, who triumphed in 1934 but yielded to Miss Miley in yesterday's semi-finals, and Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., last year's winner, who lost early in this tournament.

INDIANA BEATS MICHIGAN STATE ON MAT, 20 TO 10

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—The Indiana university wrestling team beat Michigan State, 20 to 10, this afternoon to score its 26th consecutive dual meet victory. The feature match was provided by Peters, Indiana, and Jacobs, Michigan State, the Spartan winning by a fall in 6 minutes 9 seconds.

Summaries:

HEAVYWEIGHT — McDaniel [Indiana] pinned Leucke [Michigan State] in 5 minutes 30 seconds.

STORRIN TAKES A. A. U. TWO MAN BOBSLED TITLE

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Charles Storrin, 30 year old Keene Valley mechanic won the national A. A. U. senior two man bobsled title on the Mount Van Hoevenberg slide today. Second place went to Elton Torrence, also of Keene Valley.

Storrin, with Hurbert Nye handling the brake, had the best heat of the day, one minute 59.86 seconds. He also had the fastest time in each of the four heats with a total of 8 minutes 4.32 seconds.

Torrence finished with a total of 8 minutes 10.59 seconds. Matthew Monahan, Jr., of Lake Placid, was third in 8:11.25.

Babe Risko Defends Title Against Fisher Tomorrow

Newark, N. J., Feb. 8.—[U. P.]—Eddie [Babe] Risko of Syracuse, N. Y., Middleweight champion, will defend his crown in a 10 round bout at Laurel Gardens Monday night when he meets Tony Fisher, 21 year old Newark boy. The bout has the sanction of the National Boxing commission, which, like the New York state commission, recognized Risko as champion after he knocked out Teddy Yarosz of Pittsburgh.

FINISH SPEARS INQUIRY; REGENTS WEIGH EVIDENCE

Expect Decision Friday in Wisconsin Muddle.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Followers of University of Wisconsin athletics today were speculating on the outcome of a mud slinging controversy which threatens the entire university athletic department with reorganization.

Meantime, the board of regents' investigating committee of five members began the colossal task of sifting a mass of testimony in the hope of presenting a definite recommendation when the regents meet as a whole next Friday.

Somewhere there lies buried in that testimony the fate of Wisconsin's two doctors—Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, the "little doctor," and Dr. Clarence W. Spears, the "big doctor."

This Is the Peak.

Troubles in the Wisconsin athletic department have bobbed up frequently during the last 15 years, but observers are agreed that the flareup which exploded over the campus two months ago has no comparison in its complications and far flung indications of bitter internal friction.

It started innocently enough with the revelation that John Golemgeske, captain-elect of the football team, had circulated a petition, allegedly with the knowledge and sanction of Athletic Director Meanwell, among the players asking the ouster of Dr. Spears as head football coach.

During the two months which have intervened the investigation has dragged into the open a smoldering conflict on half a dozen fronts and more than 50 witnesses were summoned. Hundreds of pages of testimony, much of it sharply conflicting, have gone into the records.

Can This Be True?

Into the symposium of dispute have been thrown direct charges that Dr. Meanwell gave liquor to two football players; that he dominated a campus fraternity, of which he is a member, against its own wishes; that he failed to coöperate with the football staf and sought to "get" Dr. Spears; that he was directly responsible for taking the state high school basketball tournament and the interscholastic track meet out of Madison, and that he dominated, against the concept of university rules and state statutes, several of the younger coaches on the staf with secret agreements.

Against Dr. Spears the regents must weigh the charges that he ordered spiked drinks for his football players, that he was abusive on the field, and that he ordered players from the student infirmary and out for football practice before they were physically fit.

Two Players Get Drink.

Into the thousands of words of testimony are written the blanket denials of both of the feud principals—Meanwell and Spears—with one exception. Dr. Meanwell admitted that he gave Golemgeske and Jim Nellen, another football player, a drink of whisky after the Northwestern game at Evanston last fall.

Behind the admitted dissension between Meanwell and Spears—a feeling which neither made any attempt to hide during the long investigation—is another issue, that of the regents versus the faculty athletic board.

Shamrock Six Plays Detroit Team Today

When the C. Y. O. Shamrocks clash with the Detroit Ford hocky sextet at the Chicago Stadium this afternoon, an expected crowd of 15,000 will see the team that has made a runaway of the Michigan-Ontario league race pitted against a Shamrock aggregation seeking victory and a return match in Detroit.

The Detroit club won 14 out of 15 matches to date this season. In the 15 games they have allowed the opposition less than a goal a game and have scored 68 goals themselves.

1935 Champions on Team.

Seven former Baby Ruth players are listed in the lineup. The Baby Ruths now dissolved, last year won the amateur championship from the Boston Olympics. Most of the members of the Boston six are on the U. S. Olympic team, while the Baby Ruth boys are scattered among the Michigan-Ontario league teams.

New Forward Line Clicks.

A new forward line which was tried last Sunday for the first time is now clicking for the Shamrocks. Coach Kelleher believes that this line, composed of Floyd Murphy, Frank Grossman, and Matt Glad will be good for several goals. However, the kid line of Wilbur Savela, leading scorer of the Shamrocks, Kenneth Bogin, and Bill Turkovich promise to supply strong opposition. The lineup:

DETROIT FORDS.		C. Y. O. SHAMROCKS.
Harold Mitchell	G	Clem Poulin
Wes Lampsa	L. D.	Gerald De Mocko
Rudy Zunich	R.	Burr Spreitzer
Keith Crossman	C	Wilbur Savela
Emmett Reid	L. W.	Kenneth Begin
Joe Levine	R. W.	Bill Turkovich

CARRIER LEADS DOGSLED TEAMS IN LACONIA DERBY

Laconia, N. H., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Ovid Carrier, Quebec, led 13 sled dog teams over the 30 mile course today in the second leg of the Laconia Derby in the elapsed time of 2:14.9¾.

He finished ahead of Harold Wheeler, St. Jovite, P. Q., 2:15.49, and Almanzor Hardy, Quebec, 1:19.39, the next two to cross the finish line. The elapsed time of the three leaders for the two days was: Carrier, 4:28.49¾; Wheeler, 4:31.09, and Hardy, 4:33.45½.

The final leg will be run tomorrow.

Such a Glorious Ride!

I have just been in the grandest-running car . . . ever! . . . It just seems to ride on air!

They call this new ride the "Airglide-Ride" . . . And how it smooths out the bumpiest roads! . . .

I found out how they do it . . . First of all, weight is redistributed equally to all four wheels.

Next—passengers are cradled between the axles . . . and it has Chair-Height seats, this car . . . Easy to get into, easy to get out of, and oh, so restful to ride in! . . .

I'm talking about the big, new, Money-Saving Dodge—the "Beauty Winner" of 1936—the sweetest-riding car you ever sat in . . . Really, you must take a ride in that car.

Only in an expensive car can you duplicate the luxury of the Dodge Airglide-Ride. But the big, new, Money-Saving Dodge gives you more than that . . . record-smashing economy (owners report 18 to 24 miles to the gallon of gas and savings up to 20% on oil) . . . safety-steel bodies . . . genuine hydraulic brakes . . . roomier, more luxurious interiors . . . and under the new Official Chrysler Motors Commercial Credit Company 6% Time Payment Plan, Dodge is now so easy to pay for!

HAWKS BATTLE AMERICANS FOR FIRST PLACE TIE

New Yorks Bring Age, Youth to Stadium.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The New York Americans, that hocky team which thus far this season has proved to be an amazingly effective blend of youth and age, will bring all the guile of its elders and all the dash of its juveniles to the Stadium this evening, when they battle the Blackhawks in the last regularly scheduled local appearance of the New Yorkers.

Time was when the Americans would come to town, a courageous but generally hapless crew, who would excite none but the faithful among Chicago's hocky populace. Those days appear to be a thing of the past, for the boys of the star spangled jerseys have been a genuine threat in every game this season, turning up with such startling performances as an 8 to 1 victory, a score they buried the Canadiens under recently.

Blackhawks Can Gain Tie.

Tonight's game thus is no routine incident in the schedule for either team. For the Blackhawks it will present an opportunity to gain a tie for the league leadership with the Detroit Red Wings, who ousted them from that high place Thursday. For the Americans, it will be continuation of their battle to reach the Stanley cup playoffs, a goal they have missed for five straight seasons, since the 1928-'29 season was the last to see them in the world series.

The Hawks trail Detroit by a full game, but since the Wings are idle this evening the Chicagoans by winning can tie them with 37 points. The Hawks doubtless will be casting worried eyes at the out of town scoreboard tonight, for the only other game on schedule is that between the Bruins and Rangers at New York. At this writing, the Bruins are only one game back of Chicago and the Rangers only a game and a half.

Series Is All Even.

Proof of the Americans' spurt to playoff contendership lies in the fact that they have been right there even in their defeats, losing ten of their last seventeen games by a single goal.

The Hawks won the opener here, 3 to 1, on Nov. 17. Then the Americans went to work and handed our side a 3 to 0 whipping on Dec. 15, at New York, and then came out here to win in overtime, 3 to 2, on Dec. 22. This was the baffling match in which Mervin [Red] Dutton, the Americans' playing manager, sent the puck idling toward Mike Karakas of the Hawks, who was blocked out by several players, and it rolled in to tie the score in the last half minute. Nels Stewart then counted in the overtime for the winning goal.

Gottselig Wins By Himself.

This riled the Hawks, particularly Johnny Gottselig, so much that on Jan. 9, they went down to New York and trimmed the Broadway lads, 4 to 1, with Gottselig getting all four goals.

Much of the Americans' progress this year can be attributed to Dutton, who has shown himself to be a real manager in his first year at the job. Gone are such standbys as Normie Himes, Rabbit McVeigh, and Bill Brydge. In their places, for cunning and experience, Dutton has himself; Stewart, one of the cleverest big men in hocky; the wily Hal Cotton, late of Toronto, and Harry Oliver, once an important cog in the old Boston machine.

BOSTON BEES SEND SPOHRER TO COLUMBUS

Boston, Mass., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Catcher Al Spohrer, a member of the Boston Bees since 1928, today was turned over to the Columbus American association club.

General Manager Bob Quinn has made a working agreement with Knoxville in the Southern association which will give the Bees their choice of any player at fixed price. The Bees will ship several castoffs to Knoxville when they break camp at St. Petersburg, Fla.

A. A. U. Handball Doubles Tourney Opens Tomorrow

The annual Central A. A. U. handball doubles championship tournament will start tomorrow at the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street. The meet will continue until next Saturday. Joe Platak and Bob Weiler head the list of 16 teams entered in the tournament.

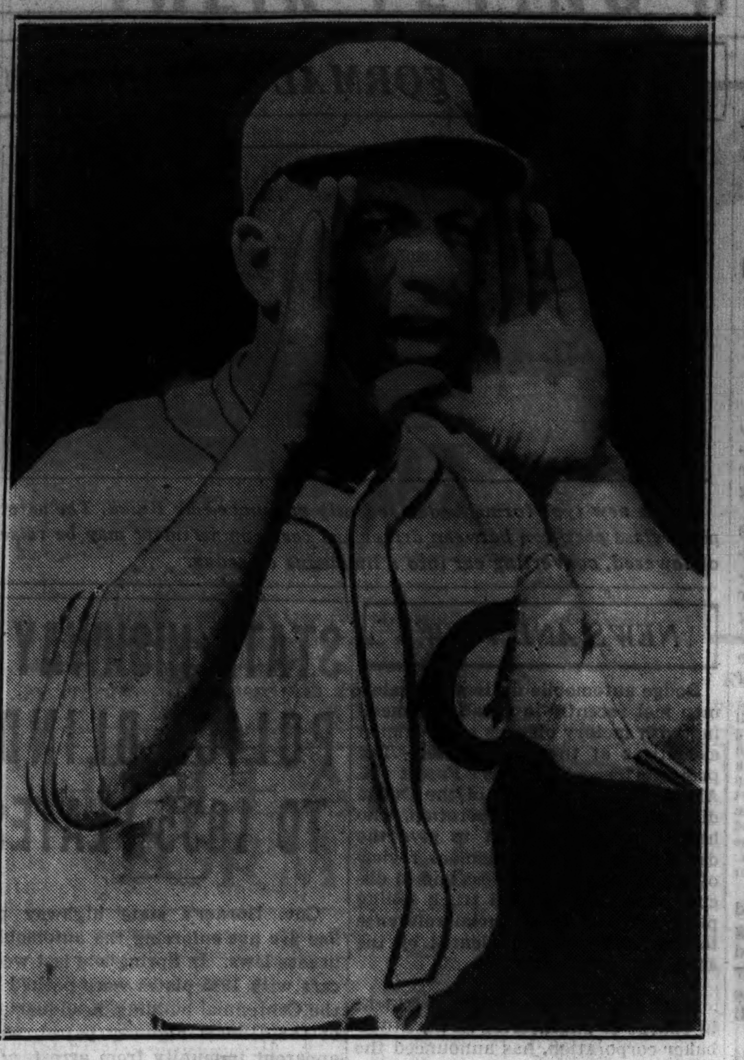
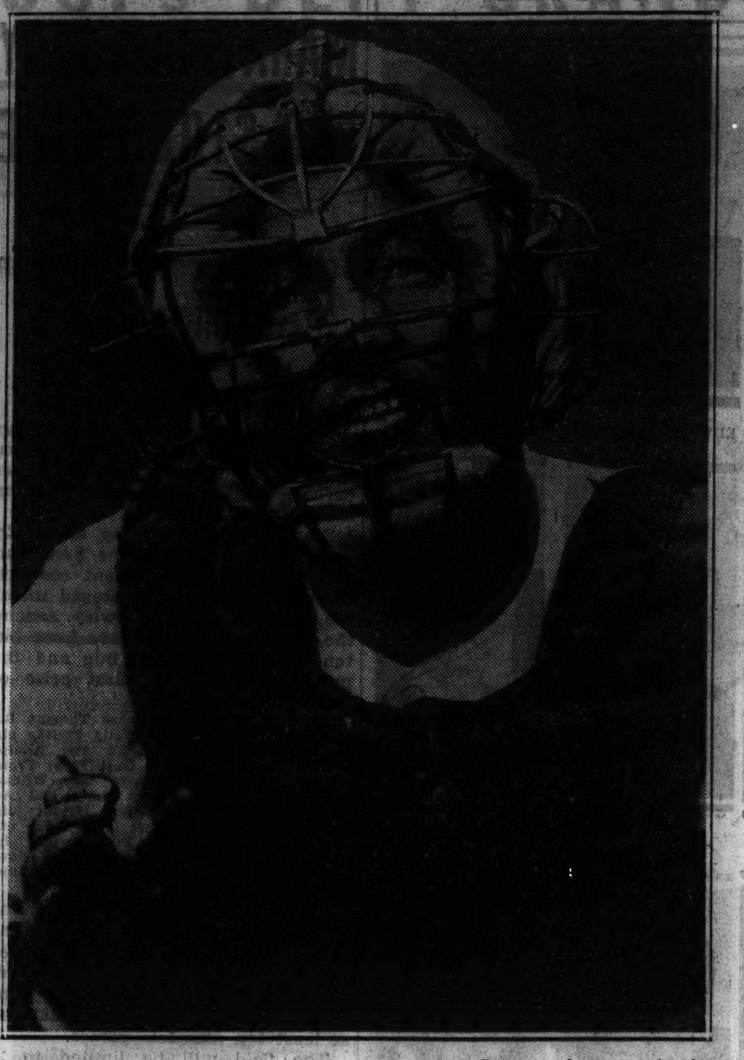
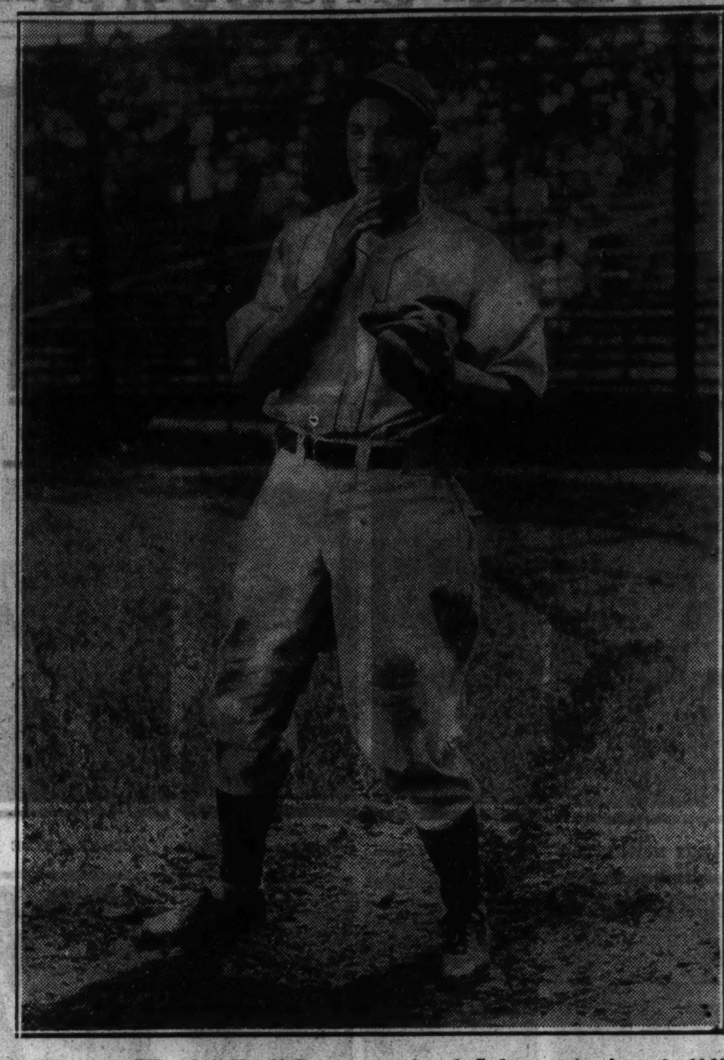
A COUPLE OF PROBLEMS FOR MANAGER GRIMM TO SETTLE



Some time before the opening of the baseball season Manager Charlie Grimm must pick a team captain. The man he picks gets a $500 added compensation. The choice now apparently rests between 2 players.



For a long time Gabby Hartnett, popular Cub catcher and leading hitter on the team, has hoped the captaincy honor might fall to him. Here he is behind his work-a-day mask.



Elwood (Woody) English was appointed Cub captain Aug. 3, 1932, to succeed Grimm, who replaced Rogers Hornsby as manager. He has filled the detail job well, although his infield activity has been cut.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs beat the New York Americans, 3 to 0, tonight in a National Hockey league game despite injuries that kept Red Horner, Pep Kelly and Harvey Jackson out of play. The victory kept Toronto in a tie with the Montreal Maroons for the international division lead.

Toronto scored twice in the first period and once in the third, while the Americans made vain efforts to break down the Leaf back checking system. Goalie George Hainsworth earned his sixth shutout of the year.

Referee Mike Rodden of Toronto was injured in the first period when he was crashed against the boards by Red Dutton, New York manager. He was unconscious for five minutes. After finishing the period, he let A. G. Smith officiate the rest of the game.

MONTREAL, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons skated around their local National Hocky league rivals, the Canadiens, to gain a 7 to 2 victory tonight and clinch the Kennedy cup, emblem of the professional hocky championship of Montreal.

Leading from the start, the Maroons refused to slacken their pace and scored three goals in the last six minutes as the French team abandoned defense in a final effort to score. Baldy Northcott was the scoring star, netting two goals and assisting in two others.

Armour Basketball Team Beats Michigan Normal

Ypsilanti, Mich., Feb. 8.—[U. P.]—Armour Tech of Chicago took an early lead here tonight and held it all the way to defeat the Michigan Normal basketball team, 29 to 25. Normal rallied late in the game but the Chicago team pulled away easily. Gene Heike, Armour Tech, was high scorer with 14 points.

Here It is Fans! "Earliest" Poll Picks Cubs and Tigers

BY EDWARD BURNS.

One of the world's largest and most thorough news gathering agencies now is conducting a poll to determine what teams are going to wir the American league and National league pennants in 1936. We have not checked the matter, but we believe that this is the earliest call for clairvoyance in baseball history.

A few years ago this same agency, and others, waited until observers had a chance to see teams in spring training and in at least a dozen exhibition games before asking them to turn prophets. Even that seemed a bit thick, for mostly each observer at that point had seen only three or four teams. But this year's poll was launched even before rosters had been issued by the several major league clubs.

Some Can Back Arguments.

It is probable that 75 per cent, or maybe 99 per cent, of those making guesses could not list the winter player transfers, much less attempt to estimate the potential value of rookie additions.

Many consider "experting" a hodgepodge enterprise, at best, but there are those who do the take form-study seriously and when they have something on which to base their prophesies some of the experts can at least put up an interesting set of arguments in support of their first hand observations.

A nation-wide baseball poll in January can't have much background. This year some experts may be assisted in their guessing through the widespread knowledge of the consolidation of the Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics. Otherwise the ratings could have been made during the world series with just as much authority as they were made in January.

Another Poll Might Help.

We hope that the big news agency will take another poll during the exhibition season, when the guessers really think they have something on which to base their guessing. In other years it has been interesting to many to file this serious poll and check it with the final outcome.

Only one in the aforesaid agency's 1935 poll guessed the Giants and only one Chicagoan picked the Tigers in 1934. Each year has developed interesting upsets for certain positions and amazingly accurate size-ups of other teams. But these polls weren't taken in January. If they had been they wouldn't have been checked with any degree of interest.

Fan Polls Must Be Timed.

Polls expressing fan sentiment are something else again. THE TRIBUNE perhaps has done more to prove this than any other medium. But even fan polls have to be timed to reflect any warmth by the participants. On this basis it is hoped that no one will start the poll for the All-Star game in Boston before St. Patrick's day. A poll in June is more likely to give the balloters a much better chance to determine the stars who should play in the July game at the newly christened Boston Bee Hive, nee Boston Braves field.

And speaking of the poll on the All-Star game it is not likely that the major league leaders will go haywire on the proposition, as they all did last year relative to the details of the game itself and as all concerned did rather to the poll.

Game "Goes Back to Fans."

This year it has been announced that the All-Star game "will be given back to the fans," after selection of the teams had been taken out of the hands of the voting public in 1935.

This year there are to be certain opportunities for Managers Cochrane and Grimm to wander from the fan lineups, after the fashion of Rick Ferrell's selection in the first All-Star game, when he was not one of the vote leaders, for instance. But for the most part the fans' teams will play, and it is hoped, without any more shilly-shallying around on the part of the thrice licked National league.

Well, Here It Is.

But getting back to the news gathering agency's poll, we gave it our best January experting, as follows:

American.	National.
Tigers	Cubs
Red Sox	Cardinals
Yankees	Pirates
White Sox	Reds
Indians	Giants
Browns	Dodgers
Senators	Phillies
Athletics	Bees

Our April experting probably will lift the Indians ahead of the White Sox and the Giants ahead of the Reds, and we may move the Red Sox ahead of the Tigers. We feel like our rating of the Athletics and Bees is going to be lasting, however.

in a Western conference game before 8,000.

Ohio State took the lead at 8 to 7 after eight minutes of play and held a lead of 14 to 9 at the half. The first half was raggedly played, Eddie Jones, Gopher center getting the only Minnesota basket. Ohio State scored four, two by Thomas, center, and one each of Whitlinger and Dye, forwards.

As the second half opened, two baskets by Jones and a third by George Roscoe made the score 16 to 15 against Minnesota. Rolek added a free throw to tie the count. Then the Buckeyes went back to work. With Laybourne, substituting for Whitlinger, and Dye leading the attack, the Buckeyes obtained a 20 to 17 lead. The Gophers rallied sporadically, once at 21 to 19 and again at 25 to 22, but that finished them. In the closing four minutes the Buckeyes made a rout of the game.

Ohio State achieved revenge almost completely without the services of Whitlinger and Raudabaugh, regular forward and guard. Whitlinger was withdrawn in the early minutes and Raudabaugh went out on four personal fouls after only 11 minutes of play. A total of 30 fouls were called. Lineup:

WISCONSIN, 28; BUTLER, 24

Madison, Wis., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Wisconsin had the better of a hard fought second half tonight to defeat the Butler university basketball team of Indianapolis, 28 to 24. The Badgers, shooting wildly after a three weeks' layoff, went nine minutes before scoring a field goal, but led, 12 to 7, at the intermission.

Coach Bud Foster started a pair of sophomores, Hod Powell and George Rooney, for the first time this season. The former responded with eight points to top the Badgers' attack before leaving the game in favor of the veteran Gordon Fuller.

The second half was a seesaw battle with never more than four points separating the teams. Capt. Toy Jones was a constant threat for Butler, scoring three field goals and narrowly missing a dozen others.

Wisconsin made 12 of its 18 chances at the free throw line. Butler made six out of nine. Lineup:

CLEVELAND POLO TEAM IS BEATEN BY NORTH SHORE

North Shore Polo and Hunt club earned the right to a playoff for the senior title in the Metropolitan Polo league last night by downing the Cleveland Riding club, 10½ to 9, in the wildest finish of the season at the 124th Field Artillery armory.

From the moment in the first chukker when North Shore overcame the 3 point handicap award to Cleveland and tied the score at 5 apiece, the lead alternated, with never more than a point separating the two teams.

By winning, North Shore went into a tie for first place with the 124th Field Artillery, both teams having three victories and one defeat to their credit.

Superior team play brought an easy victory for the Black Horse Troop over the Sixth Corps Area Juniors, 10½ to 3½, in the first game. By this triumph, the Troop trio of Lieut. Bill Kirby, Lieut. Harry Owens Jr., and Capt. Roy D. Keehn Jr. went into a tie with the losers for second place in the final Junior Division league standings, both having a .500 percentage.

CHICAGO INDOOR DRIVERS PITTED AGAINST COAST

Chicago indoor auto race drivers will take the wheel tonight at the Washington park armory in an attempt to nudge out Los Angeles and Indianapolis pilots who have captured the majority of victories to date. Jimmy Snyder, third ranking pilot, will have help from Wally Zale, another Chicago boy.

Officials last night approved David Feldman, Jewish boy from Chicago's west side, for a place in the lineup.

Tonight's card offers a "blind date" for fans and drivers, the conditions of the ten races scheduled being kept secret by the Chicago Auto Racing association.

Ronney Householder, who was severely burned in last Sunday's races, together with Jimmy Miller, who suffered painful injuries when his car looped on the backstretch, will both be seen in the lineup tonight.

Pat Warren of Los Angeles, present titleholder, leads by a small margin.

DE PAUL WHIPS ST. LOUIS, 53 TO 37; EIGHTH STRAIGHT

De Paul university scored at will last night to defeat St. Louis university, 53 to 37, for its eighth straight victory at the De Paul gym.

Only once were the Billikens in front. They enjoyed an 8 to 6 advantage shortly after the opening whistle, but De Paul immediately stepped out to take a 29 to 18 lead at halftime. Lineup:

Winter Olympic Games Open Review of Week's Sports

With all its traditional pomp and ceremony, the eleventh Olympic games were formally opened last Thursday at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, twin villages nestling at the foot of the Baravian Alps. Fifteen hundred athletes, representing twenty-eight nations, paraded before the reviewing stand of the Olympic club house where Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler stood with Count Ballt-Latour of Belgium, president of the international Olympic committee, and members of the Berlin diplomatic corps of the competing nations.

Considerable political significance was attached to the conduct of the French and Austrian athletes as they passed the reviewing stand. Whereas the Americans merely gave the German leader the conventional "eyes right" as they marched past and did not dip the American flag, a courtesy reserved only for the President of the United States, both the Austrians and the French returned Hitler's greeting with a full Nazi salute.

Immediately after the opening ceremonies, the winter games—the fourth of their kind—began. They will run until Feb. 16.

The United States got away to a good start in the hocky competition, winning over Germany in a blinding snowstorm, 1 to 0, although the Americans encountered considerable difficulty achieving the victory, largely because of the brilliant playing of Rudi Ball, a German Jew who had returned from self-exile to play with the Nazi sextet. Meanwhile, the Canadian team, America's principal rival for hocky honors, swept Poland aside, 8 to 1. On the second day of play the Americans upset Switzerland, 3 to 0, and Canada made short work of Latvia, 11 to 0. The double victories enabled both nations to advance to the second round of the round robin competition.

In skiing the Norwegians, Birger Ruud and Laila Schou-Nilsen, ran away with the men's and women's downhill races on Friday. Dick Durrance, of Dartmouth, finished eleventh for the best American showing.

Blackhawks Regain Lead, Then Lose It.

The Chicago Blackhawks regained their lead in the National Hocky league last week, then saw it slip out of their grasp once more as another act in the most exciting race in the league's history. The Hawks gained first place Sunday night by beating Toronto, 2 to 0, at the Stadium, but on Tuesday night while they were idle the Detroit Red Wings battled the New York Rangers to a 4 to 4 tie and wiped out the one point margin by which Chicago was ahead.

On Thursday night, before 16,837 howling hocky fans, the Hawks and the Red Wings met at the Stadium to settle the row over first place. Goalie Norm Smith held the Blackhawks scoreless. Johnny Sorrell, a skinny Detroit forward, beat Mike Karakas for a goal in the second period and Detroit won, 1 to 0, taking a lead of a full game. The week's scores:

SUNDAY.
Chicago, 2; Toronto, 0.
New York Rangers, 4; Maroons, 2.
Boston, 2; New York American, 1.

TUESDAY.
Detroit, 4; Rangers, 4.
Toronto, 3; Boston, 0.

Kit Klein Captures Skate Speed Title.

Putting the finishing touches to her preparations for the Olympic games, Kit Klein of Buffalo, N. Y., won the world's speed skating championship for women at Stockholm last Sunday by scoring 234.7 points. She won both the 500 and 3,000 meter races, finished second in the 5,000 meters, and third in the 1,000 meters. Verne Lesche of Finland was second.

The same day, Eddie Schroeder, Chicago Tribune Silver Skates champion in 1931, finished third in the men's world championship meet at Davos, Switzerland, which was won by Ivar Ballangrud of Norway. Robert Petersen, winner of a Tribune Silver Skates meet at Milwaukee, finished fifth.

Ruby Resigns as Illinois Basketball Coach.

Craig Ruby, old time Missouri basketball star, resigned as coach of the University of Illinois basketball team on Friday after fourteen years of service there during which his teams had twice tied for the Western conference championship. Ruby gave as his reason for retirement at the end of the current season a desire to enter the administrative end of college athletics. No successor has been named.

Ty Cobb Voted Baseball's Greatest Player.

Ty Cobb, for twenty-four years the terror of opposing pitchers and infielders, was voted into baseball's hall of fame last Sunday by the nation's baseball experts as the greatest player of all time. Out of a possible 226 votes cast in a poll to determine ten players who will be honored in the hall of fame to be opened at Cooperstown, N. Y., the home of baseball, Cobb received 222. Only four others received enough votes to qualify for the honor. They are Babe Ruth, Christy Mathewson, Honus Wagner, and Walter Johnson.

Australian Golfers Decide They'll Go Home.

When a man meets another on the street and says, "Come up and have dinner with me some time," the second man usually takes the invitation in the spirit in which it is given and does nothing about it. Last year when Golfer Paul Runyan was in Australia with a group of American professionals he suggested that it would be nice if the Australians would send a team to the United States some time.

Last month a team of Australians, nattily uniformed, arrived in Los Angeles, played in a few of the winter tournaments there. When Horton Smith began inquiring into their presence and their uniforms he discovered they had taken Runyan's casual "come over and see us some time" as a formal invitation, and had accepted it as such. Offended at the lack of hospitality accorded them, the Australians packed up on Thursday prepared to start home, a little more sophisticated than when they left the antipodes.

Gil Dobie, who resigned as football coach at Cornell university after sixteen years, signed a contract to coach Boston college's eleven last Monday. Tom Lieb, coach at Loyola university of Los Angeles, renewed his contract with that school for three years at an annual salary of $10,000 on Wednesday.

Fred Frankhouse, dependable veteran pitcher of the Boston Bees, late the Braves, was traded to the Brooklyn Dodgers on Thursday for Pitcher Johnny Babich and Outfielder Gene Moore.

Eric Pedley of Los Angeles on Tuesday accepted an invitation from the United States Polo association to play on the American polo team against England in the international matches next June. He will replace Tommy Hitchcock Jr., who declined the association's bid for a place on the team.

Dark Winter, a 6 year old racing horse owned by Fred M. Alger Jr., went to the post at Santa Anita at odds of 15 to 1 on Tuesday. On other occasions when the odds were shorter Dark Winter had gone to the post but little farther. Tuesday he galloped home first. On Wednesday the stewards of the Santa Anita track decided that Dark Winter was too irregular in his running habits and ruled him off the turf for the remainder of the Santa Anita meeting.

VENZKE DEFEATS MANGAN, 4:14.4, IN HUNTER MILE

Gene Wins by 3 Inches in Record Time.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Gene Venzke, the Pennsylvania star who has been trailing the crack milers for some 20 races, gained his first major victory of the season tonight. He fought off Joe Mangan's bid and won the Hunter mile in 4:14.4, the fastest indoor time ever recorded in Boston.

Mangan, who led Venzke and the world record holder, Glenn Cunningham, in last week's Wanamaker mile, was a yard behind Venzke when the bell sounded for their last turn about the 12 lap Boston Garden track. The former Cornell star launched his closing spurt in the back stretch and pulled almost even with Venzke on the final turn.

Has Three Inch Margin.

The latter managed to hold his slim lead during the blistering dash to the finish and had about three inches on Mangan when he snapped the tape.

There were two other starters in this 47th renewal of the Boston Athletic association's featured event, Glenn Dawson, Tulsa, Okla., who finished third about 30 yards behind, and the national intercollegiate champion, Archie San Romano, of Kansas State Teachers college, who was a half lap away at the finish.

Mangan, noted for his blazing finish, made a magnificent bid as he came around the final turn, but Venzke was determined to repeat the victory he registered in this event last year. Tonight's time of 4:14.4 wiped out the Boston record of 4:15.2 made by Joey Ray back in 1925.

Eddie O'Brien, Syracuse's Olympic hope, thrilled the crowd of 10,000 by forcing his way into the lead with two laps to go and racing to a 12 yard victory over Herman Stewart, Amherst, in the "600.". He was clocked in 1:15.9. Two New Yorkers followed them, Milton Sandler in third place, and Timmy Ring, former Holy Cross star, last.

Torrence Loses in Shot.

Jack Torrence, Louisiana State, the world's greatest shotputter, suffered one of the few defeats of his career when his best throw in the 16 pound event was 5¼ inches behind the winning toss of 51 feet 2½ inches, made by Dimi Zaitz, Boston college's New England champion. Tony Geniawicz, Dartmouth, the I. C. 4 A. champion, placed third with a 47 foot 10⅝ inch toss.

Ed Siegel, Brooklyn, came from behind with a mighty burst over the last 10 yards to gain a narrow victory in the Briggs 50 yard dash. He was timed in 5.6 seconds.

Temple's Eulace Peacock was second, and Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette, beat a Boston college freshman, Francis Zeimetz, for third.

World Record Tied Five Times.

The world record of 5.8 seconds was equaled five times during the 45 yard hurdle trials, and the final, which was won by Phil Good, Bowdoin. Sam Allen, Oklahoma Baptist, was second, and Milton Green, Harvard, finished third. Good was clocked three times in 5.8 seconds.

Chuck Hornbostel, former Indiana star, ran the fatsest 1,000 yards in the history of the meet to gain a three yard victory over Harry Williamson, North Carolina, in 2:13.8. Hornbostel overtook Williamson and Ray by going high up on the last turn.

Ray Sears, Butler, and Joe McCluskey, New York A. C., repeated their Millrose games duel in the Billings two mile race. Sears won by seven yards in 9 minutes 22 seconds.

ten applications from the boxers for registration with the A. A. U.

THE TRIBUNE paid the fee for the novice boxers, 25 cents for each, which permits boxing only during Golden Gloves. The open division boxers paid the fee for one year and may box in any sanctioned meet.

Eight Per Cent Rejected.

Then, the officials of THE TRIBUNE registered the contestants, checked parental consent cards, after which the doctors examined the boys and they were weighed. Eight per cent of the boxers were rejected by the doctors. Prior to reporting each boy had received a copy of the referee's instructions. At the examinations each boy was given a printed instruction sheet concerning the tournament, was assigned to a section, and received a ticket of admission for his second. THE TRIBUNE always employes an experienced professional second for each corner.

The clerks, more than 50 of them, will be on hand at 4 o'clock at each sectional meeting as will members of the staf of physicians. Each boxer will be examined thoroughly, weighed, and pairings will be made for the bouts. Then will come the groups of judges, referees, announcers, timers, and glove men who keep the tournament running smoothly.

Each boy who is knocked out or who does not finish three rounds must appear for examination by the physicians. This rule never is broken. The winners are assigned to future nights of the tournament and given tickets.

Officials Serve Without Pay.

Now, add the group of water boys, check room attendants, and those who sponge the gloves after each bout with disinfectant, issue trunks and protection cups to boys who cannot afford to purchase them, and you have a summary of the details of the tournament.

Members of THE TRIBUNE A. A. serve without pay. The staf has trained itself, one might say, by growing in efficiency as Golden Gloves has expanded. Chicago's tournaments are models for those in other cities. This is so because of the loyalty of the members of the organization and the improvements in methods inaugurated each year. No small part of the success of Golden Gloves is due to their deligence.

The list of officials who will serve during the sectionals and at the Tournament of Champions follows:

REFEREES—Dave Miller, John Behr, Phil Collins, Tommy Thomas, George Young, Tom Gilmore, Joe McNamara, Norm McGarity, and Jess O'Brien.

TIMERS—J. J. Lipps, S. H. Darwent, Charles E. Sidebotham, Harry J. Normoyle, William J. Dowling, W. W. Adams, Herman Henning, Theodore A. Gross, William Finn, Walter Sonnenleiter, and Harry O'Hare.

WEIGHTS AND DRAWINGS—Harry Berz.

SKATE DERBY TO END TONIGHT AT COLISEUM

The roller skating derby, which started Christmas day in the Coliseum, will close tonight when the skaters reach the 3,900 mile mark, representing the distance from San Diego to New York. Twenty-five teams started the grind and, as the race comes to a close, there are eleven teams remaining.

Numerous spills and accidents occured during the wild jamming of the race. Friday night, Joe Laurey, known as the iron man, suffered an injury which compelled him to withdraw from the race. His partner, Ivy King, immediately teamed with Jack Israel, a solo skater, to finish the race.

Ma Bogash and her son Bill are going strong, though they are unlikely to win the coast to coast derby as they are in 7th position. Al Pierz is skating in the race with a fractured arm, and Joe Kleats, leading with his partner Esther Runne, has a sprained thumb and bad wrist.

Continuous jamming will feature tonight's racing as the teams are so bunched together that it will take the last hour of skating to decide the winner.

BABE RUTH WILL COMMAND U. S. OLYMPIC NINE

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Leslie Mann, executive vice president and secretary of the amateur baseball congress of the United States, today completed negotiations with Babe Ruth for the former home run king to serve as commandant of the United States' amateur baseball delegation to the Olympic games.

He also will sit as chairman at the convention of nations when the world Olympic baseball congress will be organized for future Olympic baseball competition.

Baseball has not yet been admitted officially to the Olympic program, but the United States will send two teams to Berlin to stage a demonstration game next summer.

Ruth, in his capacity as commandant, will head one of the two teams, and the players will be selected in polls to be conducted in almost all of the 48 states.

Players chosen in these polls will be sent to a centrally-located city, not yet selected, where the Olympic baseball trials will be held over a two weeks' period, starting June 15.

CHICAGO FENCING TEAM DEFEATS PURDUE, 13½-3½

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Chicago's strength in the foils and epee was too much for Purdue here this afternoon as the Maroons defeated the Boilermakers, 13½ to 3½, in a Big Ten dual meet.

The Maroons took the foils, 8 to 1, Capt. Silverman winning the only match for Purdue, and took the epee event, 3½ to ½. Purdue managed to break even in the sabre, 2 to 2.

The summary:

FOILS—Wilson, Chicago, defeated Silverman, Purdue, 6-5; Reynolds, Purdue, 5-0, and Blocker, Purdue, 5-0. Winter, Chicago, defeated McWilliams, Purdue, 5-0; Silverman, Purdue, 5-3, and Blocker, Purdue, 6-5. Walters, Chicago, defeated Reynolds, Purdue, 5-3; McWilliams, Purdue, 5-3. Silverman, Purdue, defeated Walters, Chicago, 6-5.

SABRE—Seaborg, Purdue, defeated Marks, Chicago, 5-1, and Richardson, Chicago, 5-2. Marks, Chicago, defeated Green, Purdue, 5-1. Richardson, Chicago, defeated Green, Purdue, 5-2.

Ireland Rugby Team Beats England, 6 to 3

DUBLIN, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Making a fine second half recovery, Ireland staged a surprise today by defeating the English team, 6 to 3, in an international rugby game. England led, 3 to 0, at the half.

BOWLERS OPEN MARATHON TODAY FOR $100 PRIZE

Tourney First of Kind in Twenty Years.

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

That endurance business—six day bicycle racing, walkathons, marathons and transcontinental roller derbies—has spread to the bowling fraternity.

Starting at noon today at the 29 West Randolph alleys the first Marathon Bowling tournament conducted in 20 years will be staged under the direction of Pete Howley. Among the star bowlers who have been bitten by the endurance bug and the possibility of taking first prize of $100 are:

Dominick DeVito and Sykes Thoma; Bill Lenzen and Eddie Zajac, Wally Freitag and Eli Maricich; Herb Freitag and Adolph Carlson; Buck Flint and Gust Fetz; Frank Getzler and Harry Omsberg; Joe Wilman and Ed Raymond; Harry Earle and Art Temple; Joe Fliger and Bud Wright; Jim Barado and Ray Dickover; Larry Dunn and Frank Kurtheiser; Babe Bunning and Joe Burke; Ben Bernicchi and Charley Wass; Lee Hile and partner, and Happy Precunior and partner.

Each team will bowl 24 games and total pins will decide the winning combination, which will be crowned about 9:30 in the evening. A partner may relieve his teammate any time he chooses, but each man must roll at least ten complete games.

The field will be limited to 24 teams.

Randolph League.

The Mineralites finally lost a series in the Randolph league when the Beich Candies shot 1,049 and 1,039. Then the league leaders came back with a 1,066 blast that buried their tormentors. League members collected high scores as witness: Zajac, 721; Geiser, 714; Lenzen, 714; Bernicchi, 679; Walshon, 673; Davis, 668; Getzler, 665, and Wass, 665.

On South Side Alleys.

A double round of matches, made necessary by postponements, will be rolled this afternoon in the All-Star league at White City Recreation. . . . G. Maurer's 697 topped the Bruck Major league. He was followed by J. Garvey, 662; F. Spencer, 645, and M. Wiesner, 641. . . . Spurred by A. Kowalski's 300 game that helped him get a 757 series, the Pulaski Coals hung up a record 3,395 series for the South End Traveling league. K. Kaminski of the Pulaskis tossed in a 719 series and W. Grabinski of the Highland Recreation exceeded 700 by three pins. . . . Alex Arvia collected a 721 in the S. and S. National league.

Tournaments.

George Ahrbeck of South Bend, who formerly bowled in the Windy City and Randolph leagues, and L. Hoerstman hold the doubles lead in the 24th annual Windy City Bowling association tournament which will end tonight. The standings:

DOUBLE—L. Reiter-G. Stehno, 1,232; J. Marsh-W. Kusyn, 1,217; F. Poledna-H. Hruza, 1,188; F. Aiello-G. Polo, 1,187; G. Patera-G. Rezabek, 1,172.

The tenth annual Greater Chicago handicap tournament opened last night at the Gold Coast alleys. It will continue today and the next two week-ends. . . . March 7 and 8 are the dates for the 20th annual Union Printers tournament to be held at the 29 West Randolph alleys. A. G. Engelhardt, 1112 North Kedvale avenue is taking entries.

About the Women.

Joe Limbach and Ida Johnson each totaled 614 for high in the Pioneer Arcade Major league. Clara Hartwig collected 569 and Mary Butler 558. . . . In the Pioneer Senior league Mary Bjurstrom led with 585, followed by Dorothy Steinmetz, 553; Betty Duckman, 547, and Louise Goldammer, 544. . . . A match between Edith Kirg and Carrie Enders will feature tonight's competition in the Crocombe All-Star league at the Woodlawn alleys. The schedule:

Cecelia Leary vs. Dorothy Morross; May Davison vs. Fritzi Trettin; Agnes Crocombe vs. Ann Burke; Bess Fender vs. Alberta Burton; Mabel Cummings vs. Agnes Pitelka; Nellie Rynberk vs. Dorothy Burmeister; Tess Morris vs. Mae Stone; Edith Kirg vs. Carrie Enders.

Here and There.

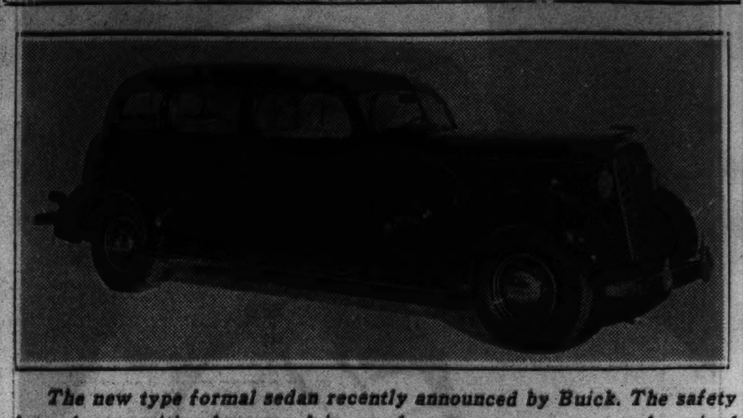
Two old timers will bring their teams together today when Eddie Krems leads the Chicago Pabst Blue Ribbons against Phil Wolfe's Harvey Blue Ribbons at the Roberts Recreation in Harvey. . . . The Chicago Kroger Consumer employés beat a 12 team Kroger squad from Detroit by 1,957 pins. A return match will be shot March 1 at Detroit. . . . Lillian Paul shot a 546 series and Jersey Schalk a 279 game in the Stevenson and Schalk Mixed league. . . . German bowlers have been challenged by the Italians for the city nationality championship. The match will take place next Sunday night at the White City alleys and Feb. 23 at the Harding. On the Italian team are Ben Bernicchi, Joe Puccinelli, Mike Marinello, Don Devito, Joe Bricetto, and Hank Marino. The Germans have Leo Faetz, Bill Lenzen, Wallie Freitag, Bill Fletsch, Paul Krumske, and Billy Goldammer. . . . Liberty Press Room shot 2,971, high for the season, in the Cuneo Press league. Capt. E. Kraft had 696, high individual series; E. Peterson, 592; J. Lahoda, 584; F. Walsh, 566, and G. Howard, 533.

North End Traveling League.

With games of 1,053, 1,050, and 1,073, the Goldammer Milfords hung up a 3,176 total in the North End Traveling league to gain a clean sweep over the P. J. Westers. Art Butler's 662 set the pace for the Milfords. The Birk Brothers and Schamberger Schlitz by winning two games from the Idle Hours and Fox De Luxe, respectively, remain tied for first place.

MOTORS—TRAFIC—HIGHWAYS

BUICK FORMAL SEDAN



The new type formal sedan recently announced by Buick. The safety plate glass partition between driver and rear compartment may be raised or lowered, converting car into a limousine or sedan.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Dodge automobile dealers and salesmen met recently in an all day meeting with factory officials and regional executives at the Drake hotel. The principal speaker was Forest H. Akers, director of sales of the Dodge division of Chrysler corporation, who had come from Detroit to give the dealers an up-to-date moment review of the automobile business and to discuss passenger car and truck selling plans for 1936 with special reference to the territories represented by the attending dealers.

D. G. [Barney] Roos, vice president in charge of engineering of the Studebaker corporation, has announced the appointment of Roy Cole as chief engineer in direct charge of all engineering. Mr. Cole has been connected with the automotive industry for many years in posts of importance. His most recent connection before coming to Studebaker was chief engineer of Dodge.

The spectacular success of Chevrolet's million dollar used car disposal plan as an aid to dealers and the widespread public indorsement of it as a contributor to trafic safety have led to its extension through the month of February, W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, announced today. The plan was originally announced for the month of January only.

Under its provisions, Chevrolet is paying its dealers for every unsafe old car taken in trade and scrapped. Besides helping to clear the streets and highways of the trafic hazard which such vehicles represent, the program is making for a more wholesome car merchandising situation, Mr. Holler asserted. This is being reflected in Chevrolet's sales records.

Swift public distribution of the new Zephyr models, Lincoln's entry in the moderate priced automobile field, was predicted today as a result of enthusiastic merchandising plans launched by leading Ford dealers of the Chicago area. Lawder Bros., 6900 Lafayette avenue, was among the first of the big dealer fraternity to expand its sales and service facilities and arrange a colorful retail display. Announcement of the firm's expansion to include Lincoln-Zephyr sales and service was made by Frank Lawder, whose experience in Ford merchandising dates back to 1912.

Packard announced the opening last week of a new used car store at 1441 East 75th street in which they can show 115 cars on one floor. Frank Shadel, who has been selling used cars at the main Packard store for nine years, has been placed in charge.

In issuing its nineteenth annual report, the interinsurance exchange of the Chicago Motor club announces another increase in cash savings to policy holders. This is the second increase in dividends announced by the organization in six months' time. In September, 1935, the organization increased its cash return from 14½ to 17 per cent. The latest increase brings the savings up to 20 per cent on all policies expiring after March 1.

The financial report of the organization shows a payment of $248,076.46 during the year in cash savings to policy holders. Since organization this has amounted to more than $6,500,000.

VOICE OF TRAFIC

FOR JULY LICENSE DATE.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Why not buy your motor vehicle licenses in July instead of January? Why not begin the license year on the 1st of July? In other words, why not shift that expense away from the holiday season and into the summer months?

The Christmas season, to the majority, is a very expensive item. This expense is in addition to an already burdensome portion of the year.

When the cold weather sets in, new and heavier clothes are required. Fuel must be purchased. Heavier and more substantial foods are necessary. And in many cases doctor bills eat a sizable hole in the family budget.

Above this is the care the car requires in the winter. Anti-freeze, radiator covers, skid chains, and many other items. Why add the license expense to all this?

W9SDX.

AGAINST DRIVERS' LICENSE.

Lombard, Ill., Jan. 21.—Your article regarding drivers' license law is all the bunk; just another grafting scheme to get more money for politicians. If all the present auto laws were enforced there would be fewer accidents and deaths the highways, and a so-called drivers' license law will in no way help to curb same.

JAY DEE.

DELAY IN GETTING PLATES.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—I note that arrests have started in connection with a motorist's failure to have 1936 state license plates and am making bold to suggest that some one arrest the person or persons in Springfield who are responsible for the delay, entirely unwaranted, in getting these plates to those who apply for them.

I sent a certified check to the office of the secretary of state Jan. 8 and have not yet received my plates, notwithstanding the statement Edward J. Hughes gave to the press that his office was prepared to place these plates in the hands of applicants seventy-two hours after receipt of applications.

How come my application has been in your office twelve days without being acted on, Mr. Hughes?

C. L. McCORMICK.

STATE HIGHWAY POLICE BLIND TO 1935 PLATES

Gov. Horner's state highway police are not enforcing the automobile license laws. In Springfield last week cars with 1935 plates were parked at the Centennial building, headquarters of the Illinois highway patrol, with apparent immunity from arrest.

Over five weeks after the legal deadline for securing 1936 licenses there are still more than a quarter of a million motor vehicles in Illinois without plates of the new year. Observations on a drive downstate last week indicated that a majority of these delinquents are outside the metropolitan area.

Some Chicago Violations.

In Chicago a large number of 1935 plates can be seen on the streets, but they are in the small minority. With the police making arrests daily, just enough summonses being issued to keep the courts busy, motorists of the metropolitan area have attached licenses for 1936 more promptly than in any previous year, although obedience to the motor registration laws is still far from 100 per cent.

This is in contrast to the situation downstate. In the small cities and towns there are almost as many automobiles with 1935 plates as there are with 1936 plates.

In Bloomington, on U. S. 66, a large sedan was parked with a star attached to its 1935 plate, No. 1522. It was one of those "I gotta drag" emblems that the lawmakers legalized for themselves when they outlawed all other imitations of the police symbol. It read: "State of Illinois, Member of the General Assembly, 26th District."

Callagher and Kalahar.

The records of Secretary of State Hughes show this number was issued last year to one "Morris O. Callagher" of Bloomington. Maurice O. Kalahar is state representative from Bloomington, which is in the 26th district. The secretary's records also show that this number, 1522, was also issued for 1936 to "Morris O. Callagher." The 1936 plates, if they were issued to Representative Kalahar, were not attached to the large sedan bearing his star.

Of eleven small and medium size trucks seen on a drive from Springfield to Chicago hauling coal from nearby mines, eight of them were without 1936 plates. Farmers' cars noted on the drive had a record almost as bad.

Local constabularies in villages catering to the farm trade are reluctant to enforce the motor registration laws. If a farmer without his license for the new year learns that arrests are being made in some certain town, he'll drive to some other village to do his shopping. That is a local situation partly responsible for Illinois' notorious delinquency in enforcing the automobile license laws, a delinquency that interferes with efficient policing.

Politics to Blame.

Responsible to a greater degree is politics. Administrations, especially in a campaign year, flout the law for fear that any arrest will cost them a vote. Gov. Horner's highway forces seem to have been operating on this theory.

In Chicago, the administration is doing a better job than ever before in doing its duty to enforce the motor registration laws, but it has become politic to do so, although it is still a bit embarrassing politically. The majority of motorists who have paid the motor taxes resent any appearance of immunity granted to others. And after all, the price of the plates are the same whether the purchaser is on time or several weeks tardy.

RECENT TRAFIC CONDITIONS TEST DRIVING SKILL

Snow, Ice, Sleet, Fog and Cold Add to Hazards.

BY HAL FOUST.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 6.—[By mail.]—Illinois automobile owners are experiencing what is perhaps the most difficult highway travel winter in the history of modern pavements and motor cars. Snow, ice, sleet, fog and sub-zero temperatures have been a strain on machines and on drivers, and at this writing the only promise of relief is the ground-hog forecast that spring will be here in five weeks.

On a trip here from Chicago earlier this week, THE TRIBUNE roadster first slipped and bumped over rutted ice on city streets where a fresh, dry snow contributed to the hazard. After reaching the open highway, a downpour of dry flakes blew from the windshield and from the concrete so that the only inconvenience were the occasional drifts, still too small to block trafic.

Conditions Become Worse.

Other details of the trip are related because they are somewhat typical of winter hardships behind the wheel during inclement weather.

Continuing south, conditions became worse. The snow fall developed into a wet drizzle that froze as quickly as it landed whether upon pavement or windshield. Visibility was limited to about two car lengths in front of the radiator.

It was mid-afternoon but all good drivers were burning their headlights or at least their parking lights. These lamps did not illuminate the pavement. This was not their purpose. Their purpose was to increase the visibility of oncoming trafic. I wish all drivers would learn this.

There is one truck chauffeur, identity unknown, who is in special need of this lesson. He was encountered by THE TRIBUNE roadster on U. S. 66 shortly after a train had passed on the railroad parallel to the highway. The locomotive had laid down a smoke screen over the road, one hundred per cent effective in this foggy weather.

Truck Without Lights.

The roadster was creeping through the fog at fifteen or twenty miles an hour with its large parking lights burning. The atmosphere was so thick with smoke and fog that not even the pavement was visible. Suddenly, the unlighted bulk of an oncoming truck broke through the curtain not more than a car length directly ahead. Front wheels responded to the steering apparatus or there would have been a head-on collision.

The front wheels were not always able to respond to steering orders. The pavement was so slippery that at times there was traction for neither direction, propulsion, nor braking. It was so slippery that it was difficult to walk when getting out of the car at frequent intervals to scrape the ice from the windshield.

There is a knack to driving on such slick pavements. Skill is dependent almost entirely upon experience and upon caution. The basis of such skill is never to exert more than the requisite minimum of stress on the traction in accelerating, decelerating or turning.

Salt on Windshield.

I tried an experiment, new to me, in trying to keep ice from the windshield. THE TRIBUNE roadster is without either a hot air or an electric heater for the windshield. James Bulger of the Chicago Motor club, before I left Chicago, gave me a package of salt impregnated blotters that someone had given him.

One of these blotters was wrapped around the upper half of a windshield squeegee and fastened with a rubber band. The salt melted the ice where the blotter rubbed the glass. Salt water ran down the squeege and melted ice lower on the windshield. Each blotter was good for about an hour's driving, until the salt was exhausted.

Players Wear Ear Muffs at This Basketball Game

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—In a recent game between Joliet High and Thornton High of Harvey on the latter's floor it was so cold that the showers were frozen. The two opposing coaches sat on the bench with their feet in galoshes and two players came on the floor with ear muffs on.

which beat J. Ryan's Sachem by a length. Crossbow II. showed early speed, but finished far back.

Bay Bubble, ridden by Johnny Longden, stepped into an early lead, but Eddie Litzenberger was not long in sending Maeriel into second position. This pair moved away from the others in the first quarter mile. Then Maeriel swung past the Texas filly and drew away with little effort.

JULIA GRANT WINS

New Orleans, La., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Julia Grant, heretofore regarded only as a sprinter, carried her speed for one mile and seventy yards under the light weight of 100 pounds today to win the New Orleans handicap at the Fair Grounds.

Racing in the silks of R. A. Coward, the 4 year old daughter of General Grant set the pace, but she was all out at the end to beat Clyde Troutt's Palm Island, winner of five of his last six starts, by a head. Mrs. J. Chesney's Cristate was third.

She Breaks on Top.

H. Spears broke Julia Grant into the lead and she quickly opened up a four length advantage. The margin was cut to two lengths at the three-quarter mark as Francis Polk brought Palm Island into a contending position. Two lengths still separated the pair at the head of the stretch. In the run for the judges the Coward filly just managed to hold on long enough. She paid 9 to 2.

Big Leaguers Play for Fund on Coast Today

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Big league baseball stars, whose salaries range in the "important money" class during the regular season, will donate their services here tomorrow in the name of charity.

The event is the fourth annual all-star game. Proceeds will go to a fund maintained to care for semi-pro players of this city injured during games.

Pay Expenses for 500.

In the last three years 500 such players injured on the field have had all medical expenses paid.

Joe Cronin, playing manager of the Boston Red Sox, will lead the San Francisco stars. Dick Bartell, shortstop of the New York Giants, will pilot the East Bay picked team.

With Cronin playing shortstop, the San Francisco squad will include Catchers Joe Becker of Cleveland and John Bottarini of Los Angeles, First Baseman Dolph Camilli of the Phillies and Ellsworth Dahlgren of Syracuse, Second Baseman Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees, Third Baseman Frank Hawkins of Oakland, and Dick Gyselman of Seattle; left field, Roy Johnson, and centerfield, Bernard Uhalt, both of the Yankees; right field, Harry Rosenberg of the San Francisco Missions, and Pitchers Italo Chelini of the White Sox, Charley Kelly of Nashville, and Bob Cole and Sam Gibson of the Seals.

Bartell has lined up Left Fielder Augie Galan of the Cubs; Ralph Kress, second base, Washington; Myrl Hoag, center field, Yankees; Dan Hafey, right field, Pirates; Gus Suhr, first base, Pirates; John Verges, third base, Phillies; Ernie Lombardie, catcher, Cincinnati; Vince Monzo, catcher, Seals, and Pitchers John Babich, Boston Bees; Jimmy Tobin, Yankees, and Tom Conlan, Oakland.

Ralph Pinelli of the National league and Bert Cole, newly appointed Coast league arbiter, will handle umpiring duties.

THEIR FLYING HOOFS DEFY GRAND CIRCUIT'S BEST

The Grand Circuit's plans for extension announced recently recall to harness horse enthusiasts feats of the sport's great. Here is Directum I., world's champion pacer in open, with mark of 1:56 3-4. His record was made in 1915.

Remember Dan Patch? His record of 1:55 1-4 (taken behind windshield) was made in 1905 and has stood since.

At 13 years of age Single G., regarded by harness horsemen as the greatest pacer of all time, set a mark of 1:58 1-2 for the mile in 1923.

In 1922 Peter Manning earned the world champion trotting title. He covered the mile in 1:56 3-4. He also holds the half mile track mark of 2:02 1-4.

Sparta Meets Millers Today in Cup Game

BY OFFSIDE.

After several postponements the first round National Challenge cup match between the Sparta Garden City team, Chicago professional champions, and the Ben Millers of St. Louis will be played today at Sparta stadium, 21st and Kostner avenue. The order to play despite weather conditions was issued by National Commissioner Jack Parry of Chicago.

The Sparta eleven, after the enforced lay-off, has been keeping in condition by indoor training.

The Millers come here with a fine reputation, having in their lineup several noted players, including J. Hamm, goal; T. Duffy at back, and E. Hart in the line. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock with an opening game between the Lawndale Rangers and the Bohemian Odd Fellows at 1 o'clock. Starting lineups:

Wednesday night another seven-a-side indoor soccer tournament will be held at the 132d Infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets. The Chicago league and the Roman A. C., who are sponsoring the event, will have the pick of the best clubs in the city. Sixteen teams will compete. The first match will start at 7 p. m. The cup tie system will be used.

American Hocky Is Too Rough to Suit Europeans

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The contrast between the aggressive, slashing style of American hocky players and "polite" European tactics have turned the crowds at the Olympic ice stadium almost unanimously against the United States team.

Body checking, slashing sticks across an opponent's path or bending them over his shins aren't popular maneuvers in European hocky, which the Americans regard as a combination of croquet and a lawn party. The crowd at today's game against Italy was almost solidly against the Americans. The antipathy has mounted steadily during the first three games, and some of the German "raspberries" they received late today would compare favorably with the product of any American community.

Quigley and Loyola H.-P. Battle Today

Quigley and Loyola-Hyde Park, tied for first place in the South division of the Knights of Columbus basketball league, will clash tonight at St. Rita's gym, 63d street and Oakley avenue, in one of the contests which tops the week-end schedule. In the West division, where the games are to be played in the afternoon at St. Philips gym, Jackson boulevard and Oakley avenue, Setters vs. Carroll, and Cardinal vs. St. Cyr are the headliners.

Carroll, last year's league champion, has won its last eight games, but Setters showed its strength last week by defeating Hughes. St. Cyr won the title for the first half of the season and so far in the second half has been beaten only by Carroll, which also gave Cardinal its first defeat. The schedules:

SOUTH DIVISION.
[7 p. m., St. Rita's gym.]
Quigley vs. Loyola-Hyde Park.
Santa Maria vs. Dowling.
Calumet vs. Englewood.
McHale vs. Aquinas.

WEST DIVISION.
[2 p. m., St. Philips gym.]
Damen vs. Lafayette.
Cardinal vs. St. Cyr.
Hughes vs. Barry.
Carroll vs. Setters.

ITALY DEFEATS U. S., 2 TO 1, IN OLYMPIC HOCKY

Players Fight; Crowd Is Hostile to Americans.

can Olympic committee today announced the selection of America's two man bob sledding teams. He named Alan Washbond and Ivan Brown of Keene Valley, N. Y., as one combination and Richard W. Lawrence of Branchville, N. J., and Gilbert Colgate of New York as the other.

Wortmann said that in the event Donna Fox is unable to compete, Francis Tyler of Lake Placid would drive Fox's four man bob.

German Girl Skier Wins.

As America mourned its hocky defeat and Fox's injury, Germany tonight toasted the games, first individual champion—ash-blond Christl Cranz, who captured the combined downhill and slalom skiing event from a field of 35 women representing 15 nations.

Miss Cranz, a sun-burned, plain-faced girl, rolled up an average of 97.06 points for the combined event. Her team mate, Kaethe Grasegger, was second with 95.36 while two other Germans, Hadi Pfeifer and Lisa Resch, placed fifth and sixth respectively.

These four girls gave Germany an unofficial point total in the team standings of 18, 14 more than second place Norway. Switzerland is third with three points while the other 25 competing nations have yet to score.

Erna Steuri, who placed fourth, earned those points for Switzerland while 16 year old Laila Schou-Nilsen accounted for Norway's with third place.

19th Best U. S. Finish.

The four American competitors in the skiing event fared poorly. Highest place—19th—was gained by Elizabeth Woolsey of New York with a point average of 69.24. Helen Boughton-Leigh of Boston finished 21st with 67.46 points. Clarita Heath, California, was 27th with 59.89.

The other American competitor, Mary Elizabeth Bird, of Boston, was forced from competition when she made her first slalom run today in more than the maximum of 150 seconds. She went down the 1,200 meter course in 158.9, going out with five other competitors.

35,000 Turn Out.

Perfect weather—bright sunshine with the air crisp and cold—prevailed all day, bringing upward of 35,000 spectators to the ski course, located on the lower face of Mount Gudiberg.

The women skiers, dressed in colorful costumes, were a picturesque sight as they took the 23 slalom turns in clouds of swirling snow.

Among the spectators who lined the red and blue flagged course was Princess Juliana of the Netherlands.

In addition to hocky, tomorrow's program includes the slalom for men—the final event in the combined skiing—and compulsory figures in the men's figure skating.

Birger Ruud, youthful Norwegian who captured the ski jump title in the 1932 Olympics at the age of 19, is regarded as likely to win the men's combined title. Ruud took first place in yesterday's downhill race.

DIXIE DEVELOPS PRODUCTION OF TUNG SEED OIL

New Exportable U.S. Crop Believed Feasible.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

A new farming industry is developing way down in southern Dixie. It is the production of tung oil, a substance used extensively in making paints and varnishes. This country is importing tung oil from China at the rate of about 120 million pounds a year at a cost of more than 12 million dollars. It comes in duty free.

An area about 100 miles wide from north to south and embracing northern Florida, the southern portions of Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana, the southern and southeastern sections of Georgia, and the eastern and northern gulf counties of Texas has been found well adapted to tung oil production. This region now has about 50,000 acres planted to tung trees.

Tung oil is extracted from the seeds of the tung tree, a fast growing ornamental tree with large, dark green leaves and bearing beautiful pink and white flowers in springtime. The mature trees are usually about 30 or more feet high, with a wide limb spread. The fruits are about the size of a russet apple.

Introduced 30 Years Ago.

Each fruit bears from 6 to 30 seeds. They ripen in October. The tung tree has long been grown in oriental countries, and was first introduced into America about 30 years ago.

The Chinese have used tung oil for centuries as a waterproof covering for wood, masonry, and other materials which they wished to protect from the weather. It is the best vegetable oil known for this purpose. Chinese junks or boats are oiled regularly with it. Many other uses are found for this valuable product by the Chinese. In America tung oil is employed chiefly in the paint and varnish industry.

First importations of tung oil to this country were made shortly after the civil war. Its use by American industries soon created interest in other countries and China's exports of the oil increased rapidly. Not until 1906 were any successful plantings of tung trees made in America. The first tree that survived in this country was planted in an old cemetery in northern Florida. The tree still is thrifty and growing. Since then much study has been given to production and processing methods by local, state, and federal governments and private enterprises. Sufficient working knowledge of all phases of the business has been gained through these efforts to convince farmers and other interested persons of the soundness of turning to commercial tung oil production in the territory where the trees have been found to thrive. Plantings have increased rapidly during the last three or four years.

Some Have Been Victimized.

Like most promising new undertakings, the tung oil industry in America has had its share of trouble from speculators and promoters.

The tung oil industry in America is too new for even those who have given it the most careful study to make accurate predictions as to its future. At present prices the oil can be profitably produced, government authorities say.

Paint manufacturers say that in turning to tung oil production the southern states are not entering into competition with the midwest and other sections of the country that grow soy beans and flaxseed for oil. Tung oil is regarded as a friendly rival but not a competitor of these oils.

Once America's tung oil industry is established on a sound, practical basis, it is thought possible that this country may produce not only enough for domestic use but have a surplus that could be sold in European markets.

7 FLYERS TELL OF BATTLE WITH JUNGLE BEASTS

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Feb. 8.—A remarkable story of adventure in the jungle is told by passengers of a Bolivian seaplane who have arrived at Puerto Suarez, in the Bolivian Chaco, after awaiting rescue for about two weeks in Matto Grosso.

Six panthers were killed when they tried to attack the party of seven, four passengers and three of the crew. Other wild beasts and savage Indians also were menaces and watch had to be kept day and night against them.

The seven were in the seaplane Neni, which disappeared more than two weeks ago. It was forced to land in a desolate part of Matto Grosso, on Bolivian soil. Soldiers cut their way through the jungle and finally found the plane in a swamp. Through the swamp they improvised a runway that enabled the Neni to take off, after it had been repaired, and it made its way to Puerto Suarez.

TAKE NEW STEPS TO END REYNOLDS ESTATE LAWSUIT

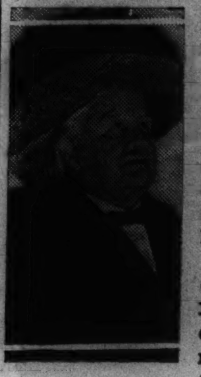
Baltimore, Md., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Preliminary arrangements for a hearing to settle the two year litigation over the multi-million dollar estate of the late R. J. Reynolds, North Carolina tobacco king, were made today in Circuit court.

Judge Eli Frank signed an order appointing Henry J. Rippenger, deputy clerk of court, as guardian "ad litem" for 44 minors and infant defendants in the case.

North Carolina meantime filed an answer claiming $2,000,000 in settlement of taxes.

Appointment of the acting guardian brought about by the Safe Deposit and Trust company of Baltimore, plaintiff in the proceedings against the 91 defendants seeking determination of their rights to the estate the company holds in trust.

PAWNEE BILL, 76 ON THURSDAY, IS LINK TO WEST OF THE 80S



MAJ. G. W. LILLIE. [Tribune Photo.]

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Pawnee Bill [Maj. Gordon W. Lillie], who left this place in the '80s to make fame and fortune, will celebrate his 76th birthday on Thursday. He is said to be the last survivor of the five original Oklahoma boomers.

He went to Indian Territory in 1880 and later became government interpreter for the Pawnee Indians, then their white chief for life. He joined Col. W. F. Cody's [Buffalo Bill] wild west show as interpreter. He meanwhile learned to speak Sioux. Later he was permitted to take Indians out of the country in his Pawnee Bill shows.

END 'FIRST CLASS' ON OCEAN LINERS; CABIN NOW TOP

Atlantic Parley Acts to Avert Rate War.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A rate war for the north Atlantic passenger business was averted today by making the cabin class top on all liners—"first class" was abolished.

"Members of the North Atlantic Passenger conference indicated rates on luxury liners will be lowered slightly and those of smaller ships, heretofore in the cabin category, raised.

This general readjustment was precipitated by announcement of the huge new British ship Queen Mary as a cabin liner—a designation which permitted rates lower than "first class."

Pact Follows Fear of Breakup.

Fear of a general breakup of the conference as a result of the Cunard-White Star line's resignation—it owns the Queen Mary—and a disastrous price cutting led to the agreement after a feverish three day session. Cunard-White Star withdrew its resignation today.

Rate changes, effective Feb. 24, will be announced by the individual companies. A spokesman said the changes would be "slight," mostly upward and tending to narrow differences between the present first class and cabin accommodations.

Report U. S. Line Hit.

Reports that the action was aimed at the big business of the cabin liners Manhattan and George Washington of the United States Line brought a statement from the conference that the rates of those vessels would be little changed.

Tourist and third class rates will be unchanged on all lines.

Among luxury liners affected are the Queen Mary, not yet in operation, the Normandie of the French Line and the Europa and Bremen of the Hamburg-American Line—North German Lloyd.

[The Italian Line, which operates the Rex, is not a member of the conference.]

Seen As Competitive Move.

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A spokesman said tonight that the United States Lines had received no official notification of the action of the North Atlantic Passenger Shipping conference in abolishing the "first class" designation of trans-Atlantic passenger vessels.

He added, however, that if such was the case, "It looked like a move to group ships like the Berengaria and Queen Mary into the cabin class and thereby reduce their fares."

The distinction between first class and cabin class ships, he said, is merely that of fares, as the cabin class vessels still maintain tourist and third classes.

TINKOFF GRANTED RIGHT TO APPEAL SENTENCE AGAIN

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals sustained yesterday the petition of Paysoff Tinkoff, Chicago attorney, for reinstatement of his appeal from an eighteen months' federal sentence for violation of the income tax laws. Tinkoff has served nearly a year of the sentence. Last Nov. 18 the United States Supreme court denied him an appeal, but on Dec. 3 he won his release on bond from Leavenworth penitentiary in order to complete his efforts to have his appeal reinstated. Acting as his own attorney, Tinkoff charged he was illegally taken to prison and held there until it was too late to perfect his appeal. He was convicted of aiding and abetting William J. Newman, wealthy excavator, in defrauding the government of approximately $1,000,000 in income tax.

ROB HEIDELBERG COLLEGE OF $200; WOMAN IS BOUND

Tiffin, O., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Three youthful robbers who taped the mouth, hands, and legs of Miss Virginia Echelberry in the treasurer's office of Heidelberg college today fled with approximately $200 in currency.

The woman, secretary to Treasurer Russell Frantz, said the robbers came in while Frantz was absent on an errand, taped her mouth and hands, and ransacked the open safe. Before leaving they forced her to sit in a chair and taped her legs to it, she said.

Within the last year the treasurers' offices at Hiram and Oberlin colleges have been robbed in similar fashion.

Survey Discloses Improved Real Estate Market Throughout Nation

RISING RENTS, HOME SHORTAGE ARE REPORTED

Prices Higher on More Active Demand.

BY AL CHASE. [Real Estate Editor.]

WALTER W. ROSE.

Rising rents, a growing shortage in homes, increased activity and higher prices in realty sales throughout the country, lower mortgage rates and a consequent increase in home building, are reported by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, of which Walter W. Rose is president, in its 26th semiannual survey of the real estate market made public last night. Without exception, steady improvement was found in all activities in the realty field.

For the first time in a decade a majority of the 275 cities covered reported central business property leasing at higher rates than during the previous year. Even the long quiescent subdivision market has come to life, with more home sites bought in 90 per cent of the cities over 500,000. For the country as a whole the market in vacant subdivision lots is more active than last year in 46 per cent of cities reporting.

Rents Are Rising.

Rents, an index of how close we are getting to any appreciable volume of new construction, at last are beginning to rise. For apartments they are up 10 per cent over last year in approximately three out of every four cities reporting and up 15 per cent in one-third of the communities. They are rising in 76 per cent of all cities surveyed. But apartment rents, even in major cities, still are less than 60 per cent of the 1926 level.

Rising rents are more general in detached houses than in flat buildings. In that field they have advanced 10 per cent or more in 83 per cent of the cities and are up 15 per cent in one out of every three communities. They are now within 20 per cent of the 1926 level.

Mortgage Rates Lower.

Lower mortgage rates already are beginning to put a bit more speed into a slowly moving situation. People who are ready to build a house now can in many communities get a mortgage loan at interest rates considerably lower than last year and on terms that enable them to take advantage of land prices before they rise further.

Actual interest rates at which first mortgage loans on new moderate priced homes are now commonly being made range as low as 5 per cent in 14 per cent of communities reporting. Six months ago only 2 per cent of cities reported this rate as having reached their localities. The 7 per cent rate, common last year in many localities, is now completely absent from every city of over 100,000 population.

Realty Prices Higher.

"Real estate is selling at prices higher than a year ago in 60 per cent of the cities of the country," the survey states. "The rise has reached 82 per cent of the very largest cities. Turnover is more rapid than a year ago in 91 per cent of all cities over the 100,000 population mark, and in 85 per cent of all cities reporting, both great and small."

The shortage of single family dwellings which exists in two out of every three cities covered by the survey is the most significant fact in the immediate outlook for new construction and one of the basic factors of the whole recovery situation, the survey points out.

But apartment buildings have shown the most general change in space absorption. An actual shortage of flat units is now reported by 43 per cent of the cities, whereas only 29 per cent so reported six months ago.

Business Rents Up.

A striking new development shown by the survey is the fact that rents for business space in the central business districts are up in 54 per cent of the cities replying. Only 22 per cent showed a higher trend a year ago.

Downtown office space is renting at approximately last year's rates in 75 per cent of the 275 cities, but has moved up in 23 per cent. No city of over 200,000 shows rents down for either central or outlying business property.

"How general is the completely changed condition in the real estate money supply is shown by the fact that 67 per cent of cities now report capital seeking real estate mortgage investment, whereas in only 21 per cent are mortgage loans seeking capital," the survey states. "Interest rates are falling in 47 per cent of the 275 cities, are steady in 50 per cent, and are rising in only 3 per cent.

Predicts 1936 Will Be Good Mortgage Year

J. E. SMILEY.

With acceptable applications for loans during January nearly triple the number received during the entire first quarter of 1935, and with the volume of loans nearly two-thirds greater than that of the first three months last year, J. E. Smiley, manager of the mortgage loan department of McKey & Poague, Inc., predicts a good year for 1936.

"The loan outlook for the new year is very encouraging from these two essential standpoints," said Smiley. "Residential loans still continue to constitute the bulk of the applications received, but there is an increasing inquiry for loans on other types of property.

"There is a much more favorable attitude on the part of the large leaders in the matter of interest rates that meet present conditions, and also a sharp increase in the volume of funds offered for real estate loans by trustees and from other private sources.

"We anticipate the current year will be in marked and favorable contrast to 1935 in both refinancing and new construction loans. Performance up to date amply justifies this confidence."

JEANNE LEVY BUYS SHERIDAN ROAD PROPERTY

Jeanne Levy, daughter of Henry R. Levy, president of the Studebaker Sales company of Chicago, has purchased the property at 731-35 Sheridan road, from the Alliance Life Insurance company, for a reported $115,000. The 50x127 lot is improved with a two-story stone front building, formerly the home office of the selling company. It adjoins the southeast corner of Sheridan and Broadway, which is owned by Miss Levy.

Miss Levy conveyed to the Alliance company the 80x171 parking station at 1129-37 South Wabash, together with 18 apartments at the southeast corner of Ainslie and Washtenaw 70x125, and $7,500 cash.

Combining the property just acquired with her former holding, Miss Levy now has a frontage of 175 feet on Broadway and 100 feet on Sheridan.

KIELY TO SPEAK AT "Y" REALTY COURSE OPENING

Burt R. Kiely, former president of the north side real estate board, will give the first lecture in a course in property management announced by the Y. M. C. A. School of Commerce, 19 South La Salle street, to be held on Thursday, Feb. 13, at 6 p. m. At the same hour Robert E. O'Dea of the Chicago Title and Trust company, will open a course in property organization with a lecture on "Real Estate Finance."

On the same evening at 7:45 o'clock there will be a lecture on "Proper Uses of the Various Appraisal Methods" by Walter R. Kuehnle of Walter Kuehnle Associates.

News of the Architects

John O. Merrill, chief architectural supervisor for the northern Illinois division of the Federal Housing administration, will talk on "A Cost Estimating Method for Architects" at the February meeting of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects, Tuesday evening, Feb. 11, at the Architects' club, 1801 Prairie avenue. Walter Kantack, director of design of Curtis Lighting, Inc., will speak on "Lighting Fixtures as Related to Modern Architecture and Decorative Metal Work."

Following the speaking a sketch by Murdo Ross and Lysle Elliott, entitled "An Architectural Tragedy," will be presented by members of the Architects' club.

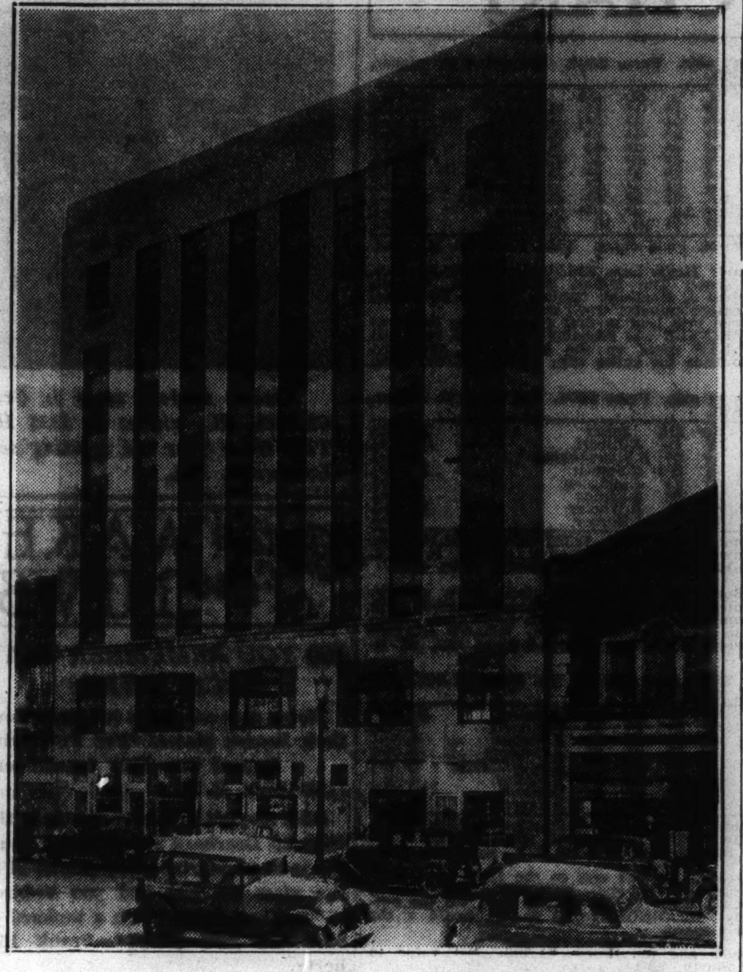
$200,000 MODERNIZATION JOB



The above partially built seven story structure at 608-12 Church street, Evanston, between Orrington and Chicago avenues, which has been purchased by the trustees of the estate of Marshall Field, is to be completed with a $200,000 modernization program from plans by Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, which include air conditioning of the entire building. To be known as the Evanston Medical and Dental Arts building, it will be ready for tenants about Aug. 1. At present only the first floor is occupied, the upper stories never having been finished. Further details are given below.

Evanston to Have 7 Story Air Conditioned Building

Evanston will have a completely air conditioned seven story shop and office building ready for tenants by Aug. 1 as a result of the purchase by the estate of Marshall Field of the unfinished structure at 608-12 Church street. To be known as the Evanston Medical and Dental Arts building, $200,000 will be spent in a modernization and completion program from plans by Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, according to George Richardson, estate trustee.

The first floor, now occupied by shops, will be remodeled, and the six upper stories, which have been standing empty and unfinished since 1929, will be completed. The entire building—the first floor shops, the second and third stories, to be designed for exclusive shop tenancy, and the four upper floors for doctors and dentists—is to be completely air conditioned.

At present there is no street entrance to the upper floors. One will be installed at 610 Church street, leaving room for five first floor shops. The building is of reinforced concrete with the front elevation of Bedford stone and a two story base of polished granite.

"There already have been a number of applications for space from physicians and dentists in Evanston," said Richardson, "and it is anticipated the tenancy will be of the highest class.

"In the present day, the doctor or dentist whose office is air conditioned has a distinct advantage over colleagues whose quarters are not so equipped.

"The estate of Marshall Field has had years of experience in operating the Pittsfield building, in the loop, catering to doctors and dentists."

Modernizing Puts Business on 63d Street

Highest occupancy, greatest modernization trend and the largest influx of nationally known merchandisers since the boom days of over a decade ago, are reported for Woodlawn's great east and west business thoroughfare — 63d street — by Richard L. Buckley, executive secretary of the East Sixty-third Street council. A new shopping area is being developed for that part of the south side through modernizing by property owners during the last few months, Buckley pointed out.

Among the first to remodel their properties along modern lines were the William Bross Lloyd interests two years ago at the northwest corner of 63d and Ellis. This was followed by a complete modernization, including air conditioning, of the building at the southwest corner of 63d and Ingleside by the University of Chicago.

Modernizes Eight Stores.

The Ackley Brothers company continued throughout the year to modernize various store fronts of their properties. R. E. Jones, owner of the southwest corner of 63d and Stony Island avenue, recently completed the modernization of the eight stores at that location.

Swan, Lorish & Caspers, agents for the store building at 1316-24 East 63d, have had that property remodeled along modern lines.

Work is now under way on an extensive modernization of stores in the 63d and Maryland building. The David Schetnitz property in the 900 block on East 63d also is undergoing a rejuvenation. It includes a store being modernized for the Cutler Shoe company with a show window in which it is claimed every shoe can be seen from all angles.

In Black and Red.

The old Ellis theater building, just north of 63d, is being remodeled with three stores in front and three workshops in the rear, with alley entrances. The exterior is of black terra cotta with Chinese red trim. During this year this architectural scheme will be extended south to 63d and east over a half of the block.

The Lexington theater at 1162 East 63d recently was modernized inside and out, thus removing the last of the old time theater fronts from the street.

WALGREEN RENTS IN BUILDING YET TO BE ERECTED

The Walgreen company has leased the corner store in the building to be erected at the northwest corner of 90th and Loomis, according to Landau & Perlman, agents. The lease is for 15 years at a minimum guaranteed term rental reported to be $45,000. Another shop has been leased to the Scott Stores corporation for a 5 and 10 cent store for ten years at a minimum guaranteed term rental of $36,000.

Designed by Sidney C. Finck, the building is expected to be completed by May 15. Contracts are now being let and work is expected to start shortly. The building, to be 100x100, will be owned by the same syndicate which erected the 100 foot building north of this property in 1935.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts awarded in Chicago the week of Jan. 31 to Feb. 6, according to figures supplied by the F. W. Dodge corporation, totaled 12, with a combined cost of $101,450. For the corresponding week of last year there were 17 contracts totaling $240,500.

CHICAGO AREA HAS GAINS IN REALTY SALES

More Cash Transactions Are Reported.

Real estate sales in the Chicago metropolitan area are increasing in volume and more cash transactions are being made, according to a review of 1935 realty trends as evidenced by escrow figures just completed by Joseph D. Shelly, chief escrow officer of the Chicago Title and Trust company. His survey shows home buying relatively more active in the suburbs than in the city and more transactions on the south side of Chicago than on the north or west sides.

Basing his statement on the large amount of cash used in several large apartment building transactions, Shelly points out that there has been considerable buying by investors of means. He states the escrow records show that 68 per cent of the total sales handled were for all-cash considerations.

Escrows Increase 74 Per Cent.

Escrows increased 74 per cent in 1935, compared with 1934. The gain in 1934 over 1933 was only 17 per cent.

"Study of the types of property being sold indicates that apartment properties and vacant are on the increase, though this gain is slight," the annual report of Shelly's department says. "During 1934 and again in 1935 the proportion of sales involving single family residences to total sales handled in the escrow department was 45 per cent.

"In 1934 apartment sales accounted for 24 per cent of the total, while in 1935 this had increased to 25 per cent. The 1934 sales of vacant amounted to 14 per cent of the total, and in 1935 this increased to 16 per cent.

Residential Sales Lead.

"The sales of residential vacant properties have been greater in number than those of business vacant, and in a number of cases residential lots have been purchased with the idea of building in the near future. While the volume of sales of business vacant has been small, there have been four sales noted which involved a cash consideration in each instance of $50,000 or more. The largest cash consideration paid in the purchase of such property was $86,000.

"While commercial and business property remains about the same in volume of sales, it is noteworthy that comparatively large sums have been paid in several instances for this type of property. The escrow department reports ten transactions of this class of property ranging from $100,000 to $310,000, and there have been a comparatively large number of cash sales of business property involving amounts of $50,000 and upwards to $100,000."

Review of the Week: Chicago: The Nation: The World:

Foreign

Germany-Poland.

Racial prejudice united Poland and Germany last week, but an empty purse divided the two nations. The facts are as follows:

1. David Frankfurter, a Jewish medical student, shot and killed Wilhelm Gustloff, Nazi leader, in Davos, Switzerland. Frankfurter said he assassinated Gustloff to avenge the persecution of the Jews in Germany. Julius Streicher, Berlin's No. 1 Jew baiter, characterized the Nazi reaction in the following words: "An individual cannot be accused in this murder case. The whole Jewish race must be brought before the court, for Frankfurter acted for his race."

Germany attempted to capitalize on the slaying of Gustloff by making a martyr of him. This move resembled the exaltation of Horst Wessel, author of the Nazi anthem, in 1933, three years after communists shot him to death. Frankfurter, 26 years old, a native of Jugo-Slavia and son of a rabbi, went to Gustloff's apartment in Davos and shot him five times. Swiss anti-Nazis repeatedly had asked the expulsion of Gustloff, 41, a physicist, for organizing Nazis in Switzerland. The little Alpine country has afforded refuge for German Jewish exiles and its newspapers have deplored the persecution of Jews in Germany.

2. In the wake of attacks on Jewish students at Warsaw university a bill was introduced in the Polish parliament to abolish kosher methods of butchering animals. This action was intended to break the 400 year Jewish monopoly of the meat trade.

Mrs. Janina Prystor, a member of the Polish parliament and wife of former Premier Prystor, demanded "more humane methods of slaughtering." A vote will be delayed several weeks. She charged that rabbis officiating as butchers exacted high fees from producers and forced consumers to pay higher prices. She denied the measure would deprive Jews of meat provided in accordance with their ritual. The council of rabbis protested that the bill violated the Polish constitution which "guarantees freedom of religion for all citizens."

3. Poland demanded that Germany pay a debt of $12,000,000 for railroad transportation service through the Polish corridor which separates Germany and East Prussia. Twelve express trains were barred from traveling through the corridor. Germany's offer of part payments was refused. Adolf Hitler's nation prepared to increase its ship service to avert a food shortage in East Prussia.

Eugene Kwiatkowski, Polish vice premier and minister of finance, explained the railroad ban against Germany. He said it was Poland's first step to collect its debts abroad, and in turn an initial step to liquidate assets so that it could meet payments on its foreign debt of $22,000,000. He announced a program to restore Poland to economic self-sufficiency. German observers said Poland wanted gold and Germany had no gold to spare. Germany negotiated to pay its debt to Poland in small cash instalments and the rest in manufactured goods. Poland refused. This reflection on Germany's credit was seen as endangering the ten year friendship and nonaggression pact of the two nations. Germany does not want to lose Poland as an ally.

Meanwhile the national conference for Palestine at Washington, D. C., called upon American Jewry to raise $3,500,000 to help finance a mass exodus of Jews from Germany.

Hopes and Fears.

The following events fed the hopes of peace and the fears of war in Europe last week:

1. David Lloyd George, Great Britain's wartime prime minister and participant in the drafting of the Versailles treaty, suggested the possibility of sharing the colonies of little countries like Portugal, Belgium, and Holland with countries which need to expand, such as Italy and Germany.

2. France became a whirlpool of diplomacy. Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin bargained with the representatives of Austria, Rumania, Bulgaria, and Russia. Turning his back temporarily on Germany and Italy, Flandin concentrated on the independence of Austria as a key to France's central European alliances.

Flandin wants to replace Italy with Russia as a guardian of Austria. He asked Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov to pledge Russia's support of Austrian independence. [See Reds.]

On Friday Mihail Toukatchevsky, the soviet army's youngest marshal, and France's general staf began drafting a plan of military coöperation against the German "menace." A French-Russian mutual assistance pact now awaits formal ratification.

France meanwhile protested to Italy against intrigue to undermine the French mandate in Syria. Italy was held responsible for the Syrian Nationalists' revolt against the French. [See Reds.]

France also sent a mission from French Somaliland to gain a treaty of friendship with the king of Yemen. This country, situated at the conjunction of the Red sea and the Indian ocean, controls Sheikh Said, a rocky desert which could be fortified as a "Gibraltar of the Red sea." Mussolini's troop transports pass there en route to Italian Somaliland.

3. Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister, gave France fresh cause for worry. Von Neurath said Great Britain is ready to use its influence with France to allow small German infantry units in the Rhineland. This would not be rearmament of the Rhineland, said Von Neurath, but merely would quiet Nazi fears of a "ring of steel" around Germany.

4. The four powers in the naval conference argued all week about battleship weights without getting anywhere. France threatened to break up the conference. She opposes Great Britain's desire to include Germany in the agreements under way. Great Britain is stubborn on the point. France wants no approval of Germany's rearmament. French delegates told of reports that Germany had doubled its naval building program since last July.

Reds.

The red rash of communism broke out again last week in widely scattered sections of the world.

In Austria, Bulgaria, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania, and Hungary police conducted raids to smash communist organizations. This followed the attempt by France to secure Russia as an ally in preserving the Danube river countries' independence of Germany and Italy. Public sentiment in these countries is against Russian influence in southeastern Europe.

In Syria riots and a general strike developed into a revolt when the French militia was unable to put down the scattered uprisings of Nationalist students of communistic tendencies. The students protested against western imperialism. France blamed Italian agitation as well as Red propaganda. Sympathetic strikes broke out in Palestine, Iraq, and Hedjaz. From Damascus, Syria, came a report that fourteen rioters were killed, hundreds wounded, and 500 arrested. The mobs frequently turned on the police. After the insurrection of Jan. 20 riots were renewed two weeks ago when the French attempted to wipe out Nationalist headquarters.

In South America officials blamed communists for a railway strike in Chile and a political conspiracy in Paraguay. At Santiago, Chile, the railroad was placed under army rule to break strike violence. Col. Rafael Franco, Paraguayan hero in the Chaco war, and other army officials were charged with a Red plot to overthrow Paraguay's government and to set up a military dictatorship. They were ordered deported. Southern Chile was declared under a state of siege.

Because of communist agitation in South America, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Uruguay, Peru, Colombia, and Ecuador began joint action to wipe out the Reds.

War.

In London Jawaharlal Nehru, president-elect of the national congress of India, and Maj. Gen. Sir Henry Thuillier of Great Britain, reflected upon war. Nehru, warning against revolt in India, charged that Great Britain was protesting against Italy's bombing in Ethiopia while doing the same thing herself on India's northwest frontier. The general said gas is more humane than machine guns and bombs, but all war is "indescribably inhumane."

In Ethiopia last week five Italian planes were reported to have bombed Magalo, capital of the province of Bali, halfway between Addis Ababa and the southern front. Scattered bombing also accompanied the new offensive of Gen. Rodolfo Graziani's motorized army along the Webbe Gestro and Webbe Shibeli valleys leading inward from Dolo in the south.

There were conflicting reports of battles both there and in the north between Adowa and Makale. Tales of inhumanity were vivid. Dr. Eric Smith, Swedish ambulance worker and a war correspondent, reported that Ras Desta Demtu's army in the south was dying of starvation, malaria and dysentery. He told of mass desertions, while another source reported that the troops of Haile Selassie's son-in-law had mutinied.

An informant from the southern front said gasoline supply transportation prevented carrying of adequate food supplies on long Italian marches inland. Dr. Brophil, an Irish Red Cross worker, told of great suffering in the rocky Makale region. There also Filippo Marinetti, Italian war poet, described the thirst of the Black Shirts who fired hot machine guns rather than use water to cool them during a battle that lasted several days.

Washington

New Deal.

Buffeted by storms of public opinion, and jarred by destructive bolts from the Supreme court, President Roosevelt last week threw some of his radical legislative cargo overboard in a desperate effort to keep his New Deal ship from sinking.

In a message to congress on Monday, he asked for immediate repeal of the cotton, tobacco, and potato control acts. The senate accordingly repealed them next day. The house did likewise on Monday. [See AAA.] This was regarded as a distinct retreat by the administration, an admission that it fears the growing revolt against its dictatorial programs.

The American Federation of Labor on Thursday estimated that unemployed Americans in December totaled 11,401,000.

The deficit of the federal government on Jan. 31, the end of the first seven months of the present fiscal year, reached $2,124,419,129, compared with $1,965,673,915 for the same period last year. [See Business Review.]

Talk of inflation spread, and the Roosevelt dollar dropped lower in foreign exchange.

Growing attacks on the administration neutrality bill threatened to prevent its passage.

AAA.

When President Roosevelt asked congress to repeal the cotton, tobacco, and potato control acts, he explained that they were no longer necessary since the AAA was dead, and they were tied up with the AAA. New Deal foes promptly charged he was afraid the Supreme court would declare them unconstitutional.

So far the court has been the New Deal's worst jinx. Many New Deal sympathizers and radicals have for some time been trying to limit the court's power to declare congressional acts unconstitutional. Thus when the repeal of the three acts came before the house, the matter developed into a Supreme court issue.

Representative Vito Marcantonio, of New York, declared that for congress to repeal the acts because the Supreme court might rule them illegal, would be to surrender to the court. He demanded that his colleagues vote against repeal as a protest against the court.

The vote was 351 to a mere 10 for repeal—and for indorsement of the court. Observers said the test was enough to shatter any New Deal hopes to shear the court of power.

Meanwhile, the administration's so-called soil conservation bill, designed to take the place of the AAA, progressed a bit. It was placed before the senate on Thursday, and the house on Friday. If passed, as appears likely, it will give vast powers to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace—and cost the nation close to 500 million dollars a year. Just how the new farm scheme will be financed is a secret to most of Washington. The President, on Wednesday, imposed a censorship on the financing details. Even Secretary Wallace refused to divulge them.

Wallace, incidentally, was still being lashed for his recent remark that the Supreme court's order to refund 200 million dollars in AAA processing taxes to the processors was "the greatest legalized steal in history." Representative Allen T. Treadway for the second time in a week suggested that Wallace be impeached. He called Wallace a "misfit," a "miserable failure," and a "sensational notoriety seeker."

Neutrality.

Opposition to the administration's neutrality bill increased in congress during the week. The bill, designed to give the President greater powers, was drawn up to take the place of the neutrality law now in effect and which expires Feb. 29.

House and senate leaders expressed doubt the new measure would be passed by Feb. 29. A few doubted it would be passed at all during the present session of congress. If it is not approved by the end of the month, the present law will be extended.

Some of the new opposition followed the disclosure Sunday of John Bassett Moore's testimony at a secret senate hearing. Moore is a former member of the world court, and an authority on international law.

Moore testified that the administration bill would create "the worst form of dictatorship ever set up." He said it was designed to permit the United States to work with the league of nations. In particular, Moore criticized the clause that would allow the President to curb exports of war materials.

"This obviously would bring us fully into any war to which it was applied," he said. "I would not give this unlimited power to any man. . . . The measure is a curious blend of homicidal with suicidal mania."

Considerable pressure has been exerted on congress by industrial and pro-Italian groups, the former because the neutrality bill would hurt their foreign trade, the latter because at the moment it would hurt Italy's war in Ethiopia. Italy has been a big customer in America in the last six months, buying all kinds of products except munitions. The present neutrality law prohibits the sale of munitions to warring nations. Peaceful nations are not, of course, affected. The biggest buyer of American munitions last month was China, which spent $3,055,395, chiefly for fighting planes, bombs and machine guns. [See Business Review.]

Munitions.

The senate munitions committee last week again questioned J. Pierpont Morgan about wartime finances, but about the most important matter it developed was his voluntary observation that if the leisure class is destroyed civilization will be ruined.

For nearly two years the committee, now near its end, has been trying to prove that the house of Morgan dragged America into the war. On Tuesday the committee tried to show that Great Britain might have defaulted on a 400 million dollar Morgan loan if the United States hadn't joined the allies.

Morgan and his partners produced official documents to disprove this, and the committee quickly switched to other matters. Later on Senator Homer T. Bone asked Mr. Morgan if another war might not destroy civilization. Here the financier made his remark about the leisure class. He defined the leisure class as made up of families who can afford maids—not the wealthy class. He estimated the 30,000 families of average means belong to the leisure class.

Realizing it was getting nowhere with the Morgans, the committee on Wednesday asked them for advice on how to collect the war debts from the allies. Thomas W. Lamont, a Morgan partner, suggested fresh negotiations, adding that perhaps it would be better to get half of them back than none at all. [See Finances.]

President.

Newspaper cameramen generally had a difficult time photographing President Hoover. But in President Roosevelt they found a more willing subject. They photographed him almost at will, sometimes posed, sometimes not. But everything changed Monday. A White House memorandum stated in effect that henceforth pictures must be posed. This meant no more quick shots.

The apparent reason: A photographer a few days earlier had snapped the President rubbing his nose. Some newspapers used the picture with intimations that the camera had caught the President in a moment of weariness and discouragement.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt were chief guests at the annual dinner of the Vice President and Mrs. Garner Tuesday night. On Thursday night the Roosevelts gave a dinner for Democratic officials. Among those invited was Elmer B. O'Hara, Democratic state chairman of Michigan. But O'Hara didn't attend. He was awaiting the verdict of a jury in Detroit on a charge of election fraud.

Senator William E. Borah was a White House luncheon guest Friday. He talked politics with the President. [See Politics.]

Finances.

Washington received a pleasant jolt several days ago when it was learned that Greece has offered to make partial payment on its war debts. Demetrios Sicilianos, Greek minister to the United States, said his country was willing to pay 35 per cent—or $76,272—of each payment due on May 10 and Nov. 10. So far Finland is the only debtor nation paying its war debts. Total due from the other nations amounts to $12,437,837,030.

On Tuesday, Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, called upon England and France, the principal debtors, to make some effort now to settle their debts. He demanded they pay $6,000,000,000 on account. The money could then be used, he said, to pay the bonus and farm subsidies.

While the treasury worried over the flow of foreign gold into this country, and the drop of the Roosevelt dollar on the foreign exchange [See Business Review], President Roosevelt failed to indicate during the week that there would be any drastic cut in easy money spending. Such a hint was looked for following his announcement of a one billion dollar cut in the government5s potential lending power. He explained that the government was ready to lend this sum through various agencies, but there were no demands.

NUDE CARGO.

The good schooner Fleetwood sailed Sunday from Tampa, Fla., its destination the Virgin Islands, 1,400 miles away. Aboard were 40 nudists, headed by Maurice Allard. On Monday the Fleetwood returned to Tampa. "Bad weather," explained Allard. But another explanation was "no navigator." The nudists could not find an ocean going skipper who would practice nudity. Allard later said he did not really mean to establish a nudist colony in the Virgin Islands. He wanted to establish a Utopia, he said. If the nudists really get to the Virgin Islands they will meet trouble. Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, ruler of the islands, said nudism wouldn't be allowed there.

The City

Time.

The interstate commerce commission last week in Washington defined the issue in a hearing on eastern standard time to be held in Chicago on Feb. 24. The commission will hear only Chicago's petition asking that the railroads be permitted to operate on eastern standard time when it becomes effective in Chicago on March 1. The commission declared it would not debate the merits of the council's action in adopting eastern time for Chicago.

Postal cards asking opinions on the time change "in conflict with federal law" were circulated last week. Barnet Hodes, city corporation counsel, said that federal laws did not govern local time changes, since the commission's authority is confined to fixing time zone boundaries. In 1926 the United States Supreme court ruled that local daylight saving time was not in violation of federal time rights.

Meanwhile, many Chicago business men declared themselves in favor of eastern standard time. Surveys in Michigan cities showed them completely satisfied with eastern standard time. Michigan was formerly in the central time belt. Lake Forest, Lincolnwood and Park Ridge passed time laws corresponding to Chicago's.

Censored Smile.

A smile last Thursday caused a 24 hour delay in the issuance of a permit for the presentation in Chicago of three motion pictures satirizing the New Deal. The smile was on the caricatured features of President Roosevelt who was represented as driving a fire wagon in the animated cartoon movie, "The Amateur Fire Brigade" part of a show sponsored by the Sentinels of the Republic, a patriotic, nonpartison organization founded in 1922.

Police Lieutenant Harry Costello, Democrat and head of the city's board of censors, thought the smile was silly and a ridicule of the President. The lieutenant also looked without relish upon a vision of Postmaster General Farley astride a donkey. When the film had been run off for the censor board, four of the five members present voted to approve the picture.

Costello, however, withheld the permit and referred the matter to Police Commissioner Allman. But when he was unable to point out any violations of the law, Costello was advised by his superior to issue the permit, which he did. The Sentinels' show is scheduled to open at the Grand Opera house tomorrow afternoon. [See Politics.]

Outer Drive.

The park district board last week approved plans for the reconstruction of Lake Shore drive from the Outer drive bridge site at Ohio street to North avenue. The board thereby renewed a 15 year fight over removal of the Chicago Surface Lines' tracks between Chicago avenue and Navy pier.

The plans of Otto K. Jelinek, park trafic engineer, call for a three part drive. The two outer roadways would be confined to north and south through trafic. A third drive on the landward side would be for two-way local trafic. These plans would eliminate the bridle path between North and Chicago avenues. They save the trees from Chicago avenue to Ohio street but necessitate removal of the tracks. The park district will petition the Illinois commerce commission to order the removal.

Guy A. Richardson, co-receiver, replied that the Chicago Surface Lines will oppose the removal. Richardson said the lines had submitted plans which only necessitated relocation of the tracks. On two occasions since the construction of the tracks in 1916 the old Lincoln park district demanded removal of the tracks. The lines, the city council and civic organizations defended the street car tracks as necessary for transportation to the lake front. Each time the commerce commission refused the park district petition. The city council, on record against removal, will consider the new proposal.

Drake "Martyr."

Two years ago the government made Oscar M. Hartzell a martyr in the eyes of Iowa folk by convicting him of mail fraud in his transoceanic promotion of the Drake estate swindle. Last week Hartzell, an ex-farmer, made himself doubly a martyr by assuming full responsibility for "the whole thing" when he and seven others convicted in the recent mass trial were called before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Judge Sullivan had just granted a minor defendant, A. R. Gregory, a new trial and had sentenced Brother Canfield Hartzell to five years' imprisonment, when a defense attorney said: "Your honor, Oscar Hartzell is possessed of an obsession." Hartzell then attested to the innocence of his henchmen and made use of the opportunity to spread the Drake gospel—that the 70,000 he had duped would fall heir to riches "beyond any-one's imagination." Hartzell was unable to account satisfactorily for the $1,350,000 which the faithful had showered upon him. Judge Sullivan indicated that he might free the other six if Hartzell would do so, and continued motions for a new trial until Feb. 17. Meanwhile, the judge ordered a mental examination for Martyr Hartzell.

News-Names

A divorce was granted at Omaha on Monday to Mrs. Luella McHenry, mother of Alice Jane McHenry, famous last year as the girl with the upside down stomach, who was operated on successfully in the east.

Illness kept Col. Andrew S. Rowan to his home in San Francisco last week. Col. Rowan, now 79 years old, won fame in 1898 by carrying a message to Garcia. In April that year he slipped into Cuba with orders to find Gen. Garcia, rebel leader, and ask his assistance in the war with Spain. He delivered the message in spite of difficulties. Rowan's feat was immortalized by Elbert Hubbard in an essay.

Hollywood last week hailed Anne Merril as the "Perfect 1936." She is a brunette, tall and dark, and, according to Leroy Printz, movie director, has more curves than previous perfect beauties. Miss Merril is 5 feet 5 inches tall. She weighs 115 pounds and has a waist of 26 inches, a bust of 34 inches, and ankles of 8 inches. A Chicago girl, her real name is Martha Merrill.

Mrs. Richard Washburn Child of Newport, widow of the former ambassador to Italy, was married to Count Carlo Filipponi at Palm Beach, Fla., on Tuesday. Child died in January, 1935. The count is a real estate broker.

Dr. George W. Crile, famous medical authority of Cleveland, landed in New York from South Africa Wednesday. He brought with him the brains, thyroid glands, and other vital parts of 200 wild animals shot in Africa. The largest animal killed was an elephant, which Dr. Crile himself shot. He plans to study the organs to learn more about the energy controling system of animals.

Probably the happiest taxi driver in New York last week was Bernard Chiecco. He found a purse containing jewelry and $200 left in a cab by a passenger. He returned them. The passenger—Lucrezia Bori, opera star—gave him the $200 as a reward. The jewelry was worth $1,000.

This is probably 1936's quickest romance—so far. Mary Kirke Brown and William Seymour met for the first time in their lives at Miami Tuesday. He proposed Thursday night. Early Friday they were married. She is a society girl, has been married twice before, and once was the sweetheart of Max Baer, ex-heavyweight boxing champion. Seymour is a New York jeweler.

Strange

Charles M. Pardee, a banker of Hazelton, Pa., was vacationing in California when he received a summons demanding that he serve on a jury back home. He flew home, and served two days as a juror. The airplane trip cost him $200. His jury pay was $7.80.

H. B. Christie of Cedar Rapids was driving in the highway near Manchester, Ia. He saw what he thought was a little snowy whirlwind. He drove into it. It wasn't a whirlwind, but a snow plow bucking drifts. Mr. Christie needs a new car.

A new style in banditry. When Anthony O'Beirne of Newark, N. J., tried to resist two robbers, they set his pants on fire.

At 91 years of age R. C. Elder of Harwood, Mo., married for the third time last week—and his second time in six months. His third bride was Mrs. Mary Price, 65. His second was Mrs. Mary Konkler of Creston, Ia. They were divorced in October.

Dr. John L. Price, city health commissioner of New York, told a convention of certified milk dealers that milk sales are falling because of birth control.

Alfred Maciejewski, Poland's former official hangman, tried to hang himself because his sweetheart had jilted him. He didn't succeed; he had failed to knot the noose correctly. Two days later the ex-sweetheart, Anna Agniezchak, killed herself with poison.

A whistle that Philippe Pettigrew of Montreal swallowed fifty-three years ago, when he was 4 years old, was removed from his breathing apparatus last week.

A lonely soldier on the British island of Mauritius in the Indian ocean wrote to London stating he wanted a wife. His only description of himself was that he has hazel eyes. Twenty-four hours after the letter was published 250 British girls had offered to be his wife.

Politics

For quite a spell, William E. Borah, grizzled senator from Idaho, had hinted that he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for President. On Tuesday he really admitted that he was.

Whether the rising candidacy of Alfred M. Landon, budget balancing governor of Kansas, prompted this announcement is open to guess. In any event, the announcement helped to remove the blindfolds and give a clearer picture of the situation as it involves the several leading candidates.

◆

This picture indicates that the fight for nomination will be among Gov. Landon, Senator Borah, and Frank Knox, Illinois publisher. Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa and Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan are dark horses. Political observers give Landon the lead, and say that Borah and Knox possibly may wear themselves out in a fight for state delegations.

This fight is now on in Ohio, ready to be continued in Illinois. It was in entering the Ohio primary that Borah admitted his candidacy. He said he hoped to win delegates to the national convention. Knox supporters immediately said that he, too, would seek Ohio delegates. Knox hastened to Ohio and spoke in Cincinnati Thursday night. He talked with leaders, but refused to make any announcement.

Meanwhile, Borah considered entry into the Illinois primary, in which Knox already is informally registered as a favorite son. The fates of both men may depend on the Ohio and Illinois primaries, since these states have a total of 109 delegates.

Landon's intents in Ohio and Illinois are not known. He has made little effort toward acquiring support east of the Mississippi. Nevertheless, New York is reported strong for him, and in Philadelphia a group of Republican leaders predicted the Republican ticket would be Landon and Wadsworth [Representative James W. of New York].

◆

The Democrats last week showed they were worried by the impressive attacks made on the New Deal by the American Liberty league. Postmaster General James A. Farley, in a speech at Miami on Wednesday, called the league "an ally of the Republican national committee." He predicted the league would do much to advance socialism and communism. He passed over Al Smith's recent speech before the league condemning the New Deal.

Smith is a member of the league. So are Jouett Shouse and John J. Raskob, former Democratic national chairmen. Smith's attack on the New Deal still echoed last week. Joseph B. Ely, Democratic Massachusetts leader, praised it and Smith as American. At Grand Coulee Dam, Wash., 100 men on Thursday hanged an effigy of Smith for his attack. During the week reports quoted Smith as assuring former President Herbert Hoover that Roosevelt would not be renominated. To this Smith's office replied: "Ridiculous." In Chicago, late last week, Shouse, president of the Liberty league, predicted the "almost certain defeat of Roosevelt."

◆

Wayland Brooks' candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor of Illinois soared further on Monday when downstate Republican leaders, meeting in Springfield, agreed to let the voters choose the party's nominee. This apparently meant they would not insist on a downstate candidate. Brooks is said to have the biggest lead; he has the strongest following in Cook county. Brooks spoke before the State Republican Women's club of Illinois in Chicago Thursday, and said women must help to restore democratic government both in Washington and in Springfield. Meanwhile, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, the Democratic party candidate for governor, began a downstate campaign.

◆

Charges were made in the house Friday that the postoffice department under Postmaster General Farley is only 50 per cent as efficient as it was four years ago. He was charged with wrecking the department.

◆

Young Republicans from ten regions of the country, meeting in Washington Monday, elected J. Kenneth Bradley, Connecticut state senator, as their campaign leader.

◆

Officials of the Republican national committee in Chicago last week considered the idea of Mrs. Edward B. Hanley, of Seattle, Wash., for the expansion of Pro America, an organization of Republican women. The society was organized three years ago, its sole objective to uphold the constitution.

Deaths

Bodart, Mme. Ada, 54, once sentenced to death with Edith Cavell, British war nurse, for helping British prisoners to escape from the Germans, Brussels, Friday.

Bolling, Rolfe E., 74, brother of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Washington, D. C., Monday. He was president of the Liberty National bank.

Colvin, Willard O., 35, of Chicago, heir to a $1,000,000 estate, Sanford, Fla., Sunday. He was killed in a motor accident.

Cox, Charles E., 75, former justice of the Indiana Supreme court, Indianapolis, Tuesday.

Curtis, Charles, 76, former vice president of the United States and former senator, Washington, D. C., yesterday. [See main news section.]

Fuerst, George, 66, composer of the "Badenweiler March" and forty-six other military marches, Munich, Germany, Wednesday. The "Badenweiler March" is Hitler's favorite.

Hollecker, Mrs. Anna, 97, widow of Donat Hollecker, a veteran of the Mexican war, Chicago, Thursday.

Jeffries, Charles Henry, 72, Salvation Army commissioner, Orlando, Fla. His home was in London.

Quinlan, Brig. Gen. Dennis, 61, U. S. A., retired, Los Angeles, Wednesday. He entered the army as a private thirty-six years ago.

Sincero, Luigi Cardinal, 66, secretary of the Rome conclave and personal friend of Pope Pius, Rome, Friday.

Solf, Wilhelm, 73, German governor of Samoa before the world war and ambassador to Japan after the war, Berlin, Thursday.

Wall, Mrs. E. Berry, 67, Monte Carlo, Tuesday. She was the wife of Berry Wall, 75, once regarded as New York's best dressed man.

Warren, Charles Beecher, 65, lawyer and diplomat, Detroit, Mich., Monday. He was former United States ambassador to Japan and to Mexico. He helped devise and administer the wartime draft.

Bum's Rush

Police Chief James Davis of Los Angeles started something Monday when, with the consent of state authorities, he sent 136 members of the city's so-called foreign legion to California's northern and eastern boundaries. Their instructions were: "Keep the bums out of California."

Davis explained that every winter thousands of bums, loafers, penniless ne'er-do-wells and criminals from other states invade California, thousands of them concentrating on Los Angeles. His "foreign legionnaires" went to work eagerly. They stopped more than 200 California bound emigrants who couldn't pass inspection the first two days, and turned back 227 on Thursday.

By Thursday night a kick-back had started. Gov. Charles E. Martin of Oregon, on the north, protested. "This bum's battlefield stuff is a press agent stunt," he said. Gov. Richard Kirman of Nevada, on the east, said Los Angeles was simply trying to throw its own jobless elsewhere. The Liberty league threatened to take a hand. Gov. Frank Merriam of California condoned the campaign and said he might even ask federal help to keep undesirables out of the state. At last reports the drive was still on and many of those turned back were heading for Florida.

Science

Radium.

At the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, Cal., Physicist Charles C. Lauritsen announced that alchemy [change of one element into another] had produced gamma rays more powerful than the two million volt energy liberated by pure radium. Rays of 16 million volts, he said, had been produced by transforming lithium, the lightest weight metal, into berylium. The rays were the electrical energy freed by breaking the dense field which binds an atom's nucleus together.

At the University of California, Berkeley, Cal., Physicist J. J. Livinggood announced the production of radium E with the Lawrence Cyclotron [atomic disintegrator]. This scientific machine gun fired doubleweight hydrogen [dueteron] bullets into bismuth at the rate of one hundred thousand billion a second. Radium E is a product of the disintegration of ordinary radium into lead. "This successful creation of radium E from bismuth, the heaviest of all non-radioactive substances, indicates that every element known to man can be transmuted by the giant cyclotron," said Dr. Livinggood.

Heaviest Star.

Dr. Sergei I. Gaposchkin of Harvard college observatory, Cambridge, last week reported he had discovered a star 40 million times heavier than the earth and 70 times heavier than the sun. He found, too, that it was an eclipsing star, composed of two celestial giants which, as they revolve around each other, hide each other from the earth. Known as "29 cani majoris" [constellation of the great dog], the star is easily visible in the south sky under Sirius and near the constellation Orion. This is the heaviest star in astronomical experience. It is 20,000 light years from the earth.

Flying

Army flyers, in winter maneuvers, "attacked" Mitchel field in New York Monday. Maj. B. M. Giles, in charge of the invaders, said that the attack was theoretically successful. The maneuvers began Sunday with mock battles over Connecticut. A defense fleet tried to stop the attackers on Concord, but failed. Then the attackers moved to Mitchel field. On Wednesday they theoretically destroyed Boston, and on Thursday, New York.

◆

Capt. Iovanovitch, ace Rumanian pilot, and two passengers were killed Sunday when their plane crashed in the Carpathian mountains. Only seconds before the end Iovanovitch radioed: "The ship has broken in two and we're falling."

◆

The United States coast guard cutter Itasca, carrying a party of scientists, stopped at Jarvis, Baker, and Howland Islands in the Pacific last week to determine if those islands were worthwhile as stopping places on the proposed Hawaii-New Zealand air route. America has claimed the islands since 1858, but Great Britain last October hinted she might contest the claim.

◆

Three persons were killed and eight others injured Thursday when a blazing airplane crashed into a busy street in Munich, Germany. The plane had collided with another. The second one dropped in a suburb.

The weather map reproduced above is that for last Tuesday morning. Such maps, based on telegraphic reports of observations taken at the various stations throughout the country at 8 a. m. and 8 p. m., 75th meridian [eastern standard time] are issued twice a day by the Chicago and other offices of the weather bureau.

Reading one weather map will not permit one to make an accurate forecast of coming weather conditions. A general idea of what to expect in the next 12 or 24 hours may, however, be gotten from it.

Continuous black lines on the map are isobars, which are drawn through points of equal barometric pressure as of the time observations for the map were made. Barometric pressure is the weight of air as recorded on a barometer. Heated air, like any gas, expands and becomes lighter—cold air contracts and becomes heavier. The air pressure at Brownsville, Tex., on Tuesday was great enough to raise a column of mercury to a height of 29.9 inches in the glass tube of a barometer.

Tracing the Temperature.

Broken black lines are isotherms, which are drawn through points of equal air temperature as of the time observations for the map were made. The temperature along the line from New Orleans northeastward to Cape Hatteras, for example, was 50 degrees above zero.

Isobars are shown for every 0.1 of an inch difference in pressure. Isotherms are shown for every 10 degrees difference in temperature. Pressures and temperatures are shown by figures at the end of, or broken into, the lines.

The arrows [with circles at their bases] show the direction of wind movements over 10 miles an hour in velocity at ground level. At Brownsville, Tex., the wind was blowing from the north to the south when the observation for the map was taken there.

Rain and Snow Shown.

The shaded area on the map represents the area in which there was a precipitation [rain or snow] of more than 0.01 of an inch during the 24 hours preceding the observations for this map—NOT during the time the observations were being made.

HIGH and LOW on the map refer to air pressures. Just north of Oklahoma City, Okla., the word HIGH is placed near the center of a high pressure, or heavy air, area. Northeast of Chicago the word LOW is placed near the center of the enormous low pressure, or light air, area which covered the eastern half of the United States last Tuesday morning. In the HIGH of western Canada the pressure shows 30.4 near the center. In the LOW about Chicago the air was, comparatively, so light that it exerted a pressure of only 29.1 on the barometer.

Note that the pressure decreases from the center of the HIGH and increases from the center of the LOW. The heavy air at the center of the HIGH slides outward in all directions, pulled against the lighter air at the rim by force of gravity. Conversely, the heavy cold air at the edge of the LOW is forced into the center of the LOW by gravity.

Deflected to the Right.

It is known that freely moving bodies in the northern hemisphere tend to be deflected to the right of their course. [An automobile or a person is not a freely moving body; wind is.]

Air, as wind, flows toward the center of the LOW. It is deflected to the right until a counter-clockwise motion of air is set up about the center of the LOW. The converse is true of the air flowing outward from the center of the HIGH. The motion of air about the HIGH follows the hands of a clock.

These HIGH and LOW pressure areas move across the country from west to east, forced along by the general west-to-east wind system, which is independent of the winds within the pressure areas. Their speed of movement varies greatly from day to day, but over 500 miles a day in summer and over 700 miles a day in winter is a fair generalization.

LOW Brings Warm Winds.

The front of the LOW brings comparatively warm southeast and east winds. As the center of the LOW moves across a given point the winds shift through the northeast, the north, and into the northwest. Cold air rides the northwest wind and comparative cold is usually found on the west side of the LOW.

The front of the HIGH usually brings clear, bright weather, while the front of the LOW is usually accompanied by rain or snow.

Local conditions, such as nearness to water bodies [water heats and cools more slowly than land, and thus affects nearby air temperatures] or elevation of the land, may destroy the above generalizations as applied to a given locality at any given time.

Religion

The 99th annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago was held in St. Chrysostom's church last week. The Rt. Rev. Frederick Bartlett of New York asserted the church needed to do missionary work in rural districts. "More than 11 million children in those areas are receiving no religious training whatever," he said. Bishop George Craig Stewart, commenting on a recent appeal of 29 Episcopalian clergymen and laymen to join the Roman church, said it was "out and out pro-Roman propaganda." The bishop awarded crosses of honor to the Rev. Dr. Herbert W. Prince, the Rev. Floyd E. Bernard, the Rev. Samuel J. Martin, the Rev. F. H. O. Bowman, and John D. Allen. George A. Ranney was elected a member of the standing committee of the diocese.

Pope Pius received hundreds of representatives of Catholic colleges and orders in a ceremony marking the annual feast of the Purification of the Virgin Mary. Many Americans were present. The pope, now 78, and depressed over threats of a new European war, appeared somewhat recovered from his illness of the week before. On Thursday he observed the 14th anniversary of his election as pope.

Dwight Lyman Moody, evangelist, in 1856 quit his job as a salesman in a Boston shoe store and came to Chicago. Two years later he was saving sinners. In 1886 he established what is now the Moody Bible institute. Last week representatives of more than 500 churches in 39 states and four foreign countries opened a two year centennial in Chicago, observing the 100th anniversary of Moody's birth—he was born on Feb. 5, 1837—and the 50th anniversary of the institute's founding. The Rev. Dr. Herbert Lockyer, Liverpool evangelist, a principal speaker, said that Moody had influenced British royalty as well as the masses in England.

Prison Scandal

Investigation into the Stateville prison scandal growing out of the slaying of Richard Loeb received impetus Thursday with the story of a joy ride with a prison guard told by John Floss, escaped convict.

Floss escaped Wednesday and was arrested in Chicago early Thursday. It was all a mistake, he pleaded. He hadn't really escaped. He had gone on a drinking joy ride, he said, with Homer Talley, the guard. Floss, 44 years old, is serving a one year to life sentence for robbery. Talley, 39, is a former Chicago policeman. Floss was returned to Joliet Thursday afternoon. There he faced Talley. Talley denied the joy ride. He said Floss had forced him to drive to Chicago under threat of "cutting me up like Loeb."

In the Loeb slaying, Judge E. L. Wilson at Joliet on Monday ordered a grand jury investigation. That night Gov. Henry Horner appointed a committee to investigate alleged favoritism in the prison.

DRY IN SPOTS.

Chicago and New York and other large cities may regard the country as wet, but there are still eight bone dry states left. If Gov. E. W. Marland of Oklahoma has his way there'll be only seven. On Wednesday he came out for repeal of the Oklahoma state prohibition law. "The bootlegger has been getting all the revenue and should be put out of business," he said. The seven dry states besides Oklahoma are Kansas, North Dakota, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, and Tennessee.

Education

Russian police arrested Ivan Asinbayer, a school teacher, on a charge of murdering Olga Yanalina, 10 years old, a pupil. Asinbayer recently was dismissed on suspicion that he had been spreading anti-soviet propaganda among the children. Police said that he suspected Olga, and that he killed the girl by throwing her into a well and dropping stones upon her. The murder occurred in Sverdlovsk, formerly Ekaterinburg, where the czar and his family were murdered.

What the rumors were no one would say, but St. Clair remarked that they had been investigated and found groundless.

Hauptmann

Little developed to give Hauptmann any cheer. The 30 day stay granted by Gov. Harold H. Hoffman on Jan. 16 expires next Saturday, and the governor, who thus far has best befriended him, announced Wednesday he did not contemplate granting another reprieve. Probably the only cheer Hauptmann received was a report that the governor knew the name of a new suspect—once described by Col. Lindbergh as a "stoop shouldered man."

On Thursday Attorney General Homer Cummings emphasized that federal agents would not be assigned to the Hauptmann case as had been asked two days earlier by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, New Jersey state superintendent of police. Schwarzkopf's job is to find Hauptmann's accomplices, if any; the order is from Gov. Hoffman. Even if Hauptmann is executed Hoffman says he will try to find the other men. The governor's actions have cost him his party leadership.

DEATH TO A VICTOR.

Delmar Fadden, 23 years old, of Seattle, who perished climbing Mount Ranier, Washington, did not die in vain. He reached Ranier's 14,407 foot summit—the first man to do so in the dead of winter. His body was recovered at the 13,000 foot level a week ago Friday and it was assumed that he had died climbing toward the top. But pictures he took and which were developed by others last Sunday proved he had reached the top. They were pictures of Ranier's crater.

Foreign Notes

After attending the funeral of King George V. of Great Britain, King Carol II. of Rumania went to Paris last week to rejoin his redheaded mistress, Mme. Magda Lupescu, who had gone to the French capital for treatment to reduce her weight. The monarch also wanted to talk of Rumanian-French friendship and Balkan security with the diplomats who were assembled there. [See Foreign.] King Carol, one time "madcap prince," spoke highly of 41 year old King Edward VIII. and young kings in general. He predicted that the younger monarchs of Europe will have an increasing influence in "negotiating obstacles." In Carol's "younger" list of monarchs are King Leopold of the Belgians, 34; King Boris III. of Bulgaria, 42; King George II. of Greece, 45; King Peter of Jugo-Slavia, 12, although a regent rules for him, and King Zog of Albania, 40. Since King Carol is 42, he also included himself.

London court circles buzzed with gossip about the possibility of King Edward's marriage. Vice Chancellor Ernst von Starhemberg of Austria was one of the diplomats who took part in diplomatic conversations in Paris last week. [See Foreign.] Starhemberg had conditionally favored the restoration of the Hapsburg throne in Austria. The little entente of Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Czechoslovakia feared the rise of a new Austro-Hungarian power. France, which was dickering for a close alliance in southeastern Europe, also objected. Thus when young Archduke Otto, son of the former Empress Zita, hastened from exile in Belgium to Paris to talk with Von Starhemberg, the vice chancellor refused to see him. His spokesman told Otto the idea of restoring the monarchy had been "indefinitly postponed."

Hill Tragedy

Time is meaningless in the West Virginia hills, and recently the mountain neighbors of Mrs. Minnie Coleman notified Gov. H. G. Kump that they suspected something had happened to her daughter, Dama. "We last saw her when she was 10 or 11 years old," they said. That was 22 years ago. Gov. Kump ordered an investigation. On Thursday State Trooper O. R. Kincaid visited the Coleman cabin. It was a miserable little shack, its few windows blocked with cardboard. Inside he found Dama—last seen 22 years ago. Shy, thin, almost like a child, and almost starved, she blinked eyes that were nearly blinded by darkness. For 22 years she had been kept a prisoner in the shack because her mother suspected she had throat trouble. Trooper Kincaid arrested the mother on a lunacy charge and took Dama to a hospital at McKendree.

A police guard was assigned last week to protect Virginia M. Peyton, 21 years old, from kidnapers. She is wealthy and a junior at Wellesley college, Wellesley, Mass. Police said that a maid received a call for her, the caller saying he was Miss Peyton's father, and that he was planning to visit her. As Miss Peyton has not seen her father since childhood, the call was suspected as the forerunner of a kidnap plot.

Medicine

Early in January Ann Cooper Hewitt, 21 year old heiress of a millionaire inventor, sued her mother, two doctors and a woman state psychiatrist in San Francisco for $500,000 damages. Miss Hewitt declared that a sterilization operation upon her when she was 20 was a plot to deprive her of a $10,000,000 estate. But when District Attorney Matthew Brady asked her to sign complaints charging criminal mayhem the daughter of Peter Cooper Hewitt refused.

Last week Municipal Judge Sylvain J. Lazarus issued mayhem warants for Mrs. Maryon Hewitt, married five times; Dr. Tilton E. [Uncle Tilt] Tillman, family physician, and Dr. Samuel G. Boyd, surgeon. The psychiatrist, Mrs. Mary Scally, who had found Miss Hewitt "feeble minded," was not named. Lacking a complainant, Judge Lazarus invoked the interpretive power of a magistrate to establish criminal charges. "The question," said the judge, "is whether mothers, fathers or guardians can set themselves up to say whether minors should be sterilized."

Drs. Tillman and Boyd immediately surrendered and were released under $250 bonds. Mrs. Hewitt's attorney in New Jersey declared she desired to go west and disprove both suit and criminal charges. She had considered fighting extradition. In New York she was reported suffering a nervous breakdown.

Legislature

The Illinois legislature at Springfield did things last week, some not to Gov. Henry Horner's liking.

Gov. Horner on Tuesday vetoed house bill No. 32, which gives county judges to right to appoint welfare commissions in their respective counties to administer old age pension funds. The house on Wednesday overrode his veto by a vote of 123 to 10. The senate on Thursday overrode it by a vote of 39 to 0, making the bill law. It was the first time since 1871 that an Illinois governor's veto has been nullified.

Not content with that, the assembly again defied Gov. Horner's wishes. The house on Wednesday voted 116 to 5 to appropriate $7,500,000 from the state's general funds for relief purposes, and the senate, early Friday, by a vote of 37 to 1, voted likewise. The $7,500,000 is to supplement sales tax relief funds from Feb. 15 to May 1. Relief will be paid in cash. After that a state real estate tax, favored by the governor, and approved by the house Wednesday, will be relied upon for supplementary purposes. This tax is known as a "soak Chicago" levy.

Labor

Life was normal yesterday for the 18,000 residents of Pekin, Ill., after a 52 hour general strike from Tuesday to Thursday. The strike was ordered Monday night after police, acting on orders of Chief Harry Donahue earlier in the day, had routed pickets from the American Distilling plant with tear gas bombs. Incensed, labor leaders demanded his job, but Mayor W. E. Schurman refused to fire him. Then the strikers took control of the city. Practically all business was suspended. Many people suffered hardships. One man was shot. Another's home was bombed. Bullets were fired into a third man's home. Mayor Schurman asked Gov. Henry Horner to send troops. He sent them to Peoria, 10 miles away, but no further. On Thursday, as suddenly as they had called the strike, labor officials canceled it. Donahue was not removed. The distilling company Friday agreed to the union's demands.

The United Mine Workers' union moved another step toward a breakup with the American Federation of Labor last week over the issue of industrial unionism versus craft unionism. The miners, under their president, John L. Lewis, favor the former. On Monday, in Washington, President William Green of the A. F. of L. appealed to 1,700 miner delegates for peace. They booed him. Then he warned that if they withdraw the federation will still stand supreme, that it can never be shaken by attacks from within or without. Lewis spoke after Green and asked for a vote on the union's stand. All but three of the delegates voted for industrial unionism. On Tuesday A. F. of L. leaders were reported considering a plan to suspend the miners' union from the federation. On Thursday the union increased Lewis' salary from $12,000 to $25,000 a year. Lewis rejected the $13,000 raise on Friday.

SPREAD IN STOCK OF MIDDLE WEST BLAMED ON CURB

Most of Trading for New York Firms.

The puzzle of the wide disparity between prices of the old and new Middle West common stock was put up to the New York Curb and the Securities and Exchange commission yesterday.

The Chicago Stock exchange had no official comment on the situation, but it was learned that the exchange has traced all Middle West transactions of its members only to find itself no nearer an answer to the riddle.

The local houses have been found to be buying entirely for New York Curb brokerage firms, except for a small amount of "sucker buying" by those who insist on buying the old stock despite brokers' advice to them that they can obtain the same equity through new Middle West stock for one-half to one-third as much money.

Banks Sell Old Shares.

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company and other banks, it was learned, have been selling substantial amounts of the old stock, taking advantage of the premium being paid for it.

Lucius A. Andrew Jr., head of the investment firm bearing his name, said he has been buying the old stock all week for New York accounts, including one order for 100,000 shares. Avery & Co. is the New York correspondent for the Chicago firm, but Andrew said that the Avery buying order came from another interest. He declined to tell the party for whom Avery is buying but it is understood to be another New York Curb member firm.

"I don't know any good reason for the situation," said Andrew, "but it can't all be sucker buying when you see 100,000 share orders."

Regards Short Interest Responsible.

Of the many theories put forward, Andrew was inclined toward the idea that a large short interest of two or three years' standing is the cause of the buying.

Daniel C. Green, president of the new Middle West corporation, asserted he is "as much in the dark as any one." He said no limit has been set for the exchange of old for new stock under the reorganization plan, thus disposing of one rumor in explanation of the present activity.

The stock exchange, with a moral obligation to old stockholders, feels that its hands are tied. If it should delist the old stock, it was pointed out, stockholders would be deprived of the opportunity to sell their stock for two or three times what they can obtain from the new stock to which they are entitled.

Expect SEC to Investigate.

Brokers here consider the problem to be one for the SEC, and expect an investigation to be disclosed at any time.

A bank spokesman said banking creditors of the old Middle West company consider their equity in the new company to be just the new stock they obtained under the reorganization plan. They have seized upon the rise in price of the old stock to sell "free" stock of their own and that held for customers in the old company. Old stock obtained as collateral for loans to Insull Utilities Investment, Inc., is tied up by legal matters. This Insull unit, however, has been selling some of the old Middle West it holds.

Trading here yesterday in the old stock slowed down to 11,050 shares at ¼ to ⅜. This was equal to $25 and $37.50 for the equity represented by one share and one warrant in the new company. The new stock had a 5,000 share turnover and closed at 9¾, while the warrants were at a new high of 7⅛.

Heavy Trading During Week.

The old Middle West stock accounted for 326,650 shares of the 1,065,000 volume for the Chicago list last week. The week's total was the largest since the week ended June 3, 1933, when 1,150,000 shares changed hands. In the preceding week this year volume was 657,000 and a year ago it was 90,000. The new Middle West common had a 42,750 share trade last week.

Prices for the week were generally higher, with 109 issues advancing, 57 declining, and 30 remaining unchanged. Yesterday's trend was mixed, with 48 advancing, 47 declining, and 28 remaining unchanged, although 21 new 1936 highs were made. This brought the week's total to 74 new tops. One new issue, Jarvis & Co., was admitted to trading yesterday. It opened at 21 and closed at 20½.

Durant Broke; Owes Million and Has $250

New York, Feb. 8.—[U. P.]—William C. Durant, founder of the giant General Motors corporation and director of the investment of more than a billion dollars in the boom stock market of 1928 and 1929, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy today, listing debts of nearly $1,000,000.

W. C. DURANT.

To offset those debts, the financier, once worth many millions, had only his clothing to list as assets in his petition to the federal court. He entered them as worth $250.

Durant has been broke many times before in a turbulent career in finance and manufacturing. He came out of previous depressions to make more millions. The last one hit him harder. In recent years he has turned his hand to various enterprises in efforts to recoup his losses, but an increasing number of judgments obtained by creditors forced him to declare himself bankrupt.

Heads Land Company.

His most recent position was president of the Pomeroy-Day Land company, and it was as such that he described himself in the bankruptcy petition. He listed debts totaling $914,231, the individual items ranging from $9,987 to $174,000.

Durant moved from Massachusetts to Flint, Mich., at an early age, started the Durant-Dort Carriage company, and was quick to see the possibilities of the automobile industry when it first was started in Michigan. He founded the Buick company in 1905, organized General Motors in 1908, and rapidly added to it the Cadillac, Oakland, and Oldsmobile companies.

He was "riding high" in those years, but in 1910 bankers curtailed credit, obtained control of General Motors, and left him almost penniless.

Durant soon set about founding the Chevrolet company, which was started with only $100,000 capital. By 1915 he had built up the company and obtained sufficient banking support to obtain control of General Motors again, and Chevrolet was merged with it.

Builds Up New Fortune.

By 1920 Durant had built up a new fortune reported to be $90,000,000. He lost it in the deflation of 1920, taking huge losses on General Motors stock in order to protect friends who had gone into it on his recommendation, it was said.

He resigned as president on Dec. 1, 1920, and in a month and a half was able to organize Durant Motors. He stayed in that company for eight years, but it never prospered as he had hoped.

But as a "bull of the bulls," Durant's personal fortunes prospered mightly in those years. In his stock market operations he had the support of 25 millionaires who placed huge sum in his hands.

3 RETIRING RESERVE BOARD MEMBERS TO REMAIN WITH SYSTEM

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Three of the four retiring members of the old federal reserve board will continue service in the system.

J. J. Thomas of Nebraska, who was not reappointed, has been named chairman and federal reserve agent of the Bank of Kansas City for the rest of the current year. His salary will be $20,000 as compared with $12,500, which he received as governor. He also has been designated a director for the unexpired term ending Dec. 31, 1938, made vacant by the death of M. L. McClure.

Adolph C. Miller will be retained in an advisory capacity, the supervision he has exercised over the construction of the board's new home.

Charles S. Hamlin will remain as special counsel, acting in an advisory capacity. Both Hamlin and Miller have served as board members since the creation of the system.

George R. James, who likewise was not reappointed, will resume private business in Memphis, Tenn.

Ralph W. Morrison of Texas, new member of the board, arrived in Washington today and will be sworn in at a formal ceremony at 11 o'clock Monday.

THIRD PRINTING OF INFLATION STUDY OFFERED

Copies of the third printing of "Inflation and Your Money," by Howard Wood, financial editor of THE TRIBUNE, have been placed on sale by the Chicago Tribune Public Service office

This illustrated, 48-page booklet, traces the history of inflation from earliest times and discusses in nontechnical language the present trend toward inflation and its possible effects upon the pocketbook of the ordinary citizen. It has been commended by the Economists National Committee on Monetary Policy, the National Economy League, and by many economists and bankers.

Copies may be had from the Chicago Tribune Advertising and Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago, for 25 cents—30 cents by postpaid mail.

TRAIN RESUMES 40 HOUR RUN TO PACIFIC COAST

The North Western-Union Pacific streamline train, City of Portland, which has been out of service for several months for repair and installation of improvements, left Chicago at 6:15 o'clock last night on its first westbound trip of the year on its 39 hour 45 minute schedule. It will arrive in Portland at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, making the 2,272 mile run in 17 hours and 30 minutes less than the time required by the old type trains.

The train consists of seven cars, namely, power car, mail baggage car, three sleeping cars, a diner-lounge, and a coach. It will make six trips in each direction every month.

Here's an Old 'Explaination' of New Deal

To illustrate his point that there is nothing new under the sun an Iowa reader forwards a copy of a proposed plan for a "managed" economy published in the pre-Tugwell year 1931 which contains many of the ideas later adopted by the New Deal.

This plan, devised by one L. E. Eickelberg of Waterloo, Ia., although somewhat more occult, is strikingly similar to certain phases of the schemes proposed by various members of the brain trust in Washington.

Economic Planner Eickelberg, with supreme disdain for correct spelling in print, called his booklet the "Explaination of the Perpetual Prosperity Principals of Refined Capitalism." He even anticipated the New Deal raid on the alphabet by referring to his plan as the "PPP."

Planner Eickelberg likewise foreshadowed the AAA by proposing that prices of all commodities should be "balanced" but not upon "demand and supply, money volume, or gambling bases." He proposed a "rubber" dollar, the value of which should "equal the hourly delivery of the most efficient worker of any group or craft." Also, under his "Perpetual Prosperity Principals" all would be given old age pensions beginning at the age of 65 and half pensions at 55 years. Similarly he suggested strict government regulation for public utilities and a revamping of the entire banking and credit system of the country.

Years before the New Deal launched its scheme of "spending for prosperity" Planner Eickelberg was arguing that "saved dollars are a hazard" and, again with total disregard for spelling, he declared that this even applied to the "widows' mits."

The ascension of King Edward VIII. to the English throne recalls the experience he had as the prince of Wales in September, 1932, when he visited the Winnipeg grain market. After the exchange machinery had been explained to the prince he expressed a wish to make a trade. A trader took his order for 500 bushels of oats and quickly executed it. Sixty minutes later Wales ordered the broker to sell the grain. The price had dropped an eighth cent a bushel and the loss plus commission charges depleted the royal purse by $6.50. The prince ruefully admitted that he wasn't cut out to be a market scalper.

Because 1936 is a presidential year Annin & Co., long established New York flag manufacturing concern, believes that prosperity is just around the corner—for flag makers. The company is seeking federal court authority to reorganize under section 77-B of the bankruptcy act.

"Nineteen thirty-six is a presidential year," the company's petition to the court said. "The demand for flags and banners will be unusually strong and on the eve of this anticipated increase need for greater working capital and quick assets becomes urgent."

The company asked that the court enjoin creditors from entering judgments so that the business might continue.

Profit Possibilities in Bond Trading

SINCE April 1933, bonds generally rated triple B have varied the same twenty points in market price seven distinct times. Four of these market periods have been that of appreciation, three have been of decline. It is apparent that price changes must equal many times annual coupon rate.

To enable investors to capitalize on these price fluctuations, a bond trading service in active listed bonds was developed. In three years of successful operation over twenty million face value of bonds have been bought and sold, for the direct account of clients, in groups of three, five and ten bonds each. The lessons learned in this work, together with long experience in interpreting the proper relationship between market price and intrinsic value, have developed a procedure which reduces investment risk. At the same time, profit possibilities have been preserved.

A detailed record of the operation of a typical bank client has been put into the form of a descriptive circular, which gives complete information. A profit and loss statement is included which enumerates each transaction and shows exactly how $14,786.25 accrued to an average investment fund of $33,000 in thirteen months. This return of better than 40% is representative of the performance record of funds under this management.

Title to funds and securities remains in the name and under the absolute control of the client. Banks retain full veto powers and a transaction is not complete until approval has been received. No time contracts are entered into and the service may be terminated at will.

AUTO MAKERS SET JANUARY OUTPUT RECORD

The Automobile Manufacturers' association reported yesterday that production of new cars in January amounted to 276,350 units, the largest January output on record. The total was 36 per cent above a year ago. In January, 1929, when the previous record was established, 269,812 units were produced. In December output aggregated 321,266 units and in January last year the total was 204,015.

The association viewed the record as particularly encouraging in view of the fact that in the past new cars were introduced in January while 1936 models were brought out last November.

General Motors Sets Record.

January retail sales of the General Motors cars were the highest for any January in its history, the company announced. Sales totaled 158,572 units, compared with 98,268 a year ago, an increase of 61 per cent. In December sales amounted to 185,698 units.

Last month's total exceeded any month in either 1934 or 1933 and topped six months of 1935. Only in March, April, June, July, November, and December of last year were sales totals larger. Comparative figures follow:

January	98,268	62,506	82,117

WEEK'S OUTPUT FALLS.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Production of new cars and trucks in the United States and Canada last week totaled 84,219 units, according to Ward's Reports, Inc. Output was 90,195 in the preceding week.

Severe weather in Detroit delayed prompt delivery of parts to car manufacturers and consequently production of motor vehicles was curtailed, the agency said. Practically all manufacturers operated only four days during the week.

"Producers are expected to hold to the present rate of activity through next week, after which an upturn should be recorded, barring adverse influences beyond the control of manufacturers," Ward's said.

USE OF CHECKS INDICATES BIG BUSINESS GAIN

Business volume, based on transactions completed by checks, increased sharply last week, banking statistics disclosed yesterday. Debits to individual deposit accounts by reporting banks in the twelve reserve districts of the country amounted to $9,196,650,000 in the week ended Feb. 5, compared with $7,676,304,000 a week earlier and $7,092,532 in the week ended Feb. 6, 1935.

Debits in the Chicago reserve area, which includes a large section of the farm belt, failed to reflect any recession in farm buying on the passing of the agricultural adjustment act and its benefit payments. The total was $1,070,396,000, an increase of 10 per cent over the preceding week's total of $972,818,000. A year ago the figure was $892,809,000.

Withdrawals in Chicago totaled $639,605,000, against $533,589,000 in 1935. Chicago bank clearings in the week ended yesterday amounted to $267,200,000, compared with $268,500,000 in the preceding week and $216,600,000 a year ago.

36 Favorable Dividend Changes Voted in Week

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Favorable dividend changes this week totaled 36 compared with 46 in the previous week, according to Standard Statistics company. Unfavorable changes were 2, against 4 the week before.

BUSINESS NEWS IN REVIEW

Europe Considers Inflation Possibilities in United States and Withdraws Gold—Dollar Value Falls—Cold Weather Checks Some Lines of Business—Dividend News Encouraging

European nations, believing the United States may be driven to more currency debasement because of continued governmental spending in excess of income, last week took away a small part of the huge gold supplies which have been flowing into this country for the last seventeen months. Not since August and September, 1934, when $35,000,000 of gold was shipped to Belgium, Holland, and France, had there been a gold export movement from this country. Last week about 21 million dollars of the metal was shipped or engaged for future shipment from the United States.

With inflation advocates in congress renewing their clamor for printing press money and federal deficits [see Washington: Review section] steadily mounting, the dollar on Monday dropped to a point where it was profitable to move gold from the United States to France, Holland, and Switzerland. Engagements of more than 5 million dollars were made immediately, followed by an additional 9 millions the next day. Wednesday witnessed a halt in the outflow as the dollar rallied against other currencies, but Friday brought a renewal of the exportation of American gold as the dollar again dipped.

Exchange.

Release of the gold to facilitate the transfer of capital from the United States to Europe served to steady foreign exchange. Holders of dollar balances in this country were enabled to ship actual metal, instead of selling dollars and buying French francs, which would have been necessary to convert the balances had gold not been shipped.

A temporary lull in inflation fears followed announcement of the President of a plan to cancel a billion dollars of unused appropriations previously made by congress, and this was believed to have acted as a brake on the outward gold movement. In addition, exports were discouraged by the lack of shipping facilities available. With so slim a margin of profit as existed last week only fast ships could be utilized because of attendant interest costs.

Silver.

The treasury, seeing its ill-advised silver purchasing scheme thrown further out of line by the huge reserve of gold which has been piled up in its vaults through confiscation and importations, quickly granted licenses for withdrawal of the gold.

A statement of George C. Haas, treasury director of research and statistics, made last December before a house subcommittee, declaring the treasury was concerned over its holdings of gold, which amounted to $10,068,000,000 Dec. 11, was released in Washington. The committee's report also disclosed that little progress had been made by the treasury in bringing silver holdings to one-third the monetary value of gold stocks, which is required by the silver purchase act of 1934.

On Dec. 11 silver holdings totaled 1,452,000,000 ounces with a monetary value of $1,874,000,000. To reach the objective of 1 to 3 with gold held on that date an additional 1,149,000,000 ounces of silver would have to be purchased, which would cost, on the basis of 60 cents an ounce, about $689,000,000.

Business.

Extremely cold weather over a large part of the nation resulted in further slight recessions in business and industry. Dealers found both new and used cars more difficult to sell. Automobile manufacturers cut their production to 84,219 units, against 90,195 a week earlier. The usual early year bulge in steel output was checked when automotive makers delayed orders, but production last week finally broke away from the rate at which it has been hovering for several weeks and climbed 3 points to 53 per cent of plant capacity.

Car loadings rose 6 per cent to the highest point of the year as coal shipments increased. Production of electric power climbed to a new peak for the season.

Preparations for recurrent zero weather and usual seasonal clearance sales made heavy inroads into retailers' stocks. Wholesale activity continued at a high rate.

Inflation.

A distinct lull was noted in the activities of printing press money advocates in congress as the week drew to a close, following the expressed opposition of organized labor.

WILLIAM GREEN.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared that currency inflation questions are of grave importance to labor and that inflation will seriously affect the economic and social welfare of the masses of the people. He added that an increase in the prices of articles which enter into living costs is bound to follow currency inflation.

Margins.

Simplification of margin requirements for brokers and dealers to meet complaints of brokers against present regulations, held to be too complex and expensive, was indicated when the new reserve board took office last Monday. Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the board, said this problem and organization of an open market committee would be given early consideration by the new board.

MORE GOLD SENT TO EUROPE WITH SLIDE OF DOLLAR

Banks Arrange for $3,050,000 Exports.

New York, Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Additional gold exports of $3,935,000 to Europe were arranged today by New York banks as the dollar dipped again in foreign exchange. The exports consisted of $3,050,000 to France and $885,000 to Holland, bringing to $20,613,000 the total outflow in the last week of which $17,189,000 is consigned to France and $3,424,000 to Holland.

Most of the gold being sent to France was shipped tonight, about $1,100,000 being dispatched by the National City bank. The gold for Holland will leave port on Monday. The Bank of Manhattan company is sending gold to both Holland and France in amounts not yet determined.

Franc and Guilder Firmer.

The renewed exports were made possible by a rise of the French franc to 6.69⅝ cents and of the Netherlands guilder to 68.80 cents, but the franc closed unchanged at 6.69½ cents and the guilder was off 2 points at 68.77 cents. The two gold currencies showed net advances of ⅜ point and 1 point respectively, in the last week. The dollar today was worth 99.07 cents against francs.

In contrast to the gold currencies, the pound sterling was cheaper today. It dipped to $5.01⅝ and closed at $5.02⅛, off ⅛ cent on the day, but up 2⅜ cents on the week.

Currencies that normally follow sterling deviated from the course today. The Japanese yen rose 2 points to 29.31 cents, the Canadian dollar was up 1-32 cent to a premium of 7-32 cent, but the Scandinavian exchanges were off 1 point. Marks and lire were unchanged at 40.79 cents and 8.06 cents, respectively.

Small Profit on Gold Exports.

Gold exporting banks reported that the opportunities for selling francs and guilders, preparatory to making exports, continued restricted. With the franc only slightly above its gold export point, calculated at 6.6943 cents, the margin of profit in the exports is small.

In contrast to the firmness of "spot" rates for the gold bloc currencies, the forward discounts on these exchanges widened somewhat today. The discount on 90 day franc futures was 14 points, compared with 13 points on Friday and 12⅛ points on Thursday. Guilder futures were at 68 points discount, against 62 points on Friday, and the discount on 90 day Swiss franc futures increased to 33 points from 29 points on Friday.

Rates Show Discrepancy.

These wide forward discounts in the gold bloc currencies at a time when the "spot" rates for these exchanges command a premium sufficient to permit gold exports disclose an anomolous situation.

The discounts on forward exchange reveal continued pessimism over the future outlook for the currencies and the existence of a speculative "bear" position, while the rise of the "spot" rates show that for the time being fears of possible inflationary moves here outweigh in the minds of foreigners the distrust of their own currencies.

STOCKS CLOSE FAIRLY STEADY; TRADING HEAVY

Steel Shares Stronger; Aviations Active.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 8.—Prices closed fairly steady in today's short session on the stock exchange. The usual week-end profit taking and evening up operations were absorbed in credible fashion and final gains and losses were about equally divided. Volume of trading was heavy for a Saturday session at 1,252,480 shares.

Inflation talk received scant attention, although a mild response was made to the announcement that additional engagements had been made for the export of more gold held in the United States to Paris and Amsterdam.

Steel Shares Rally.

Steel shares displayed mild rallying tendencies and toward the close aviation issues sprang into prominence under the leadership of United Aircraft. Elsewhere group movements were dimly defined.

Traders generally were cheerful, although they were hesitant to press their optimism too far in view of the impending decision of the Supreme court on constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley authority, which may be handed down Monday.

Railroad issues bobbed gently up and down in quiet trading and the small net changes fell on both sides of the line. Great Northern and Northern Pacific, whose reported merger plans were officially denied, receded fractionally.

Oil shares attracted some further modest buying despite the new price war in the Jersey field. Dealings in the mining department were enlivened by a jump of 22 points in Homestake.

Utilities Want TVA Decision.

Utilities kept well to the background apparently awaiting the Supreme court's decision on the TVA.

Communications shares held firm after their climb earlier in the week. Rail equipments were firmer.

There was little activity in the automobile group despite the fresh popularity which the motor shares are enjoying due to the report of a new all-time record for January output. Both Chrysler and General Motors were able to edge a little higher, however. Auburn again attracted some favorable attention.

Weak spots of the list included Eastman, which gave up a couple of points, Radio which receded fractionally, and Minneapolis Honeywell which dropped nearly 3 points on a single transaction.

PER CAPITA CASH SHRINKS BELOW HOLIDAYS' PEAK

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Money in circulation Jan. 31 was figured today at $5,737,352,474, equivalent to $44.96 for every man, woman, and child in the United States. This represented a sharp decrease from the previous month. Then, owing to the demand for holiday cash, circulation reached $5,881,525,846, or $46.11 per capita. Total stocks of money amounted to $16,625,751,596. This was a decrease from the previous month, for the first time in a year, owing to a depletion of federal reserve notes.

Lutheran Hospital Applies for Financial Operation

The Chicago Lutheran Hospital association, owner of the Lutheran Memorial hospital, 1116 North Kedzie avenue, yesterday filed a voluntary petition in the United States District court asking reorganization under section 77B of the bankruptcy law. The petition, filed by the law firm of Hershenson and Hershenson, schedules liabilities of approximately $600,000, including a first mortgage of $389,850 and a second mortgage of $114,550. The assets consist of the hospital building and an adjoining nurses' home.

Oshkosh Overall Declares First Dividend Since 1933

Oshkosh Overall company yesterday declared a dividend of 10 cents a share on the common, the first payment on that stock since an initial disbursement of $1 was made on Sept. 1, 1933.

BETTER DEMAND FOR LARD; PRICES UP 10 TO 12½ CENTS

Reports of a better domestic and export demand for cash lard and buying of futures by brokers who frequently act for packers lifted prices rather sharply yesterday. Closing trades were at net gains of 10 to 12½ cents.

There was no material pressure on the market. Several small lots were known to have been sold for export, and there was talk of additional business. The relatively narrow spread between the price of lard and cottonseed oil, a little over 1 cent per pound at the present time, compared with about 5 cents several months ago, is said to have stimulated consumption of lard. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed nominally unchanged.

Cash lard was quoted at $10.97; loose, $10.45; leaf, $10.50, and clear bellies at $14.62 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:

EUROPE WEIGHS U. S. INFLATION AND BUYS GOLD

Value of Dollar Falls in Last Week.

dends and better earnings reports. Chrysler corporation reported for 1935 the best profit in its history and voted a $1 dividend against 75 cents previously. Union Pacific's operating net for January was the best in four years. Ford reported a rise of 51.6 per cent in 1935 sales over 1934. Youngstown Sheet and Tube's profit last year was $1,597,000, against a loss of $2,665,119 a year earlier. Chicago Corporation restored its preferred stock to the old rate of $3 a share annually, abandoned in 1932. Sales of Sears, Roebuck rose 16 per cent last month. The department of commerce estimated general business increased 10 per cent in January as compared with a year ago.

The improved statistical position of the oil industry has formed a base for a series of advances in crude petroleum and gasoline prices, and trade authorities last week were forecasting further price boosting.

Unfavorable.

Discouraging omens were the uncertainties attending the present session of congress and threats of tax boosts. President Roosevelt told newspapermen Wednesday that $500,000,000 was about right for the annual cost of the farm program, but that there has been no decision on taxes for the bonus. In so far as the farm program is concerned, congress apparently is without a plan except for general agreement that money should be doled out to the farmer. Like the bonus, the decision as to paying for it may be deferred until the next session in view of impending elections.

Business, disappointed last Monday when the Supreme court failed to hand down its decision on constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley authority, was anxiously awaiting tomorrow's session, when a ruling may be made.

Stocks.

Inflation sentiment lifted stock prices to the highest levels since 1931. Steel shares failed to reflect the rise in production, but communications issues performed sensationally with American Telephone and Western Union gaining 8 points each in the week. Other "blue chips" among the oils, utilities, and railroads scored good gains.

Toward the end of the week market leadership was taken over by such issues as Seaboard Air Line, Packard, General Gas and Electric, and a long list of coal company stocks. Demand for the latter issues was ascribed to the increased demand for coal brought about by abnormally cold weather.

The market value of all stocks listed on the New York exchange increased more than 3 billion dollars during January, reaching the highest level since April 1, 1931. The total stood at $50,164,547,052, compared with the July 1, 1932, low of $15,633,479,577.

Government bonds stiffened on the President's statement about cutting expenditures. Low yield obligations held steady while both rail and utility issues advanced to new highs for the year.

Rail Buying.

The Milwaukee railroad announced it will spend $4,800,000 on 1,500 new freight cars and 37 passenger cars. Work will be provided for 850 men for 11 months. The Reconstruction Finance corporation will lend the company 80 per cent of the required money.

Exports.

The United Kingdom was shown to be the United States' best customer in 1935. Canada was second, Japan third, France fourth, Germany fifth, and Italy sixth. The United States bought most from Canada. The United Kingdom was second and Japan third. In January China was the biggest purchaser of American munitions, buying $3,055,395 of the $4,217,814 sold during the month. [See Washington; Review section.]

Housing.

Plans for a nation wide, low cost housing program, based on cheap federal loans, were completed by a Presidential advisory group and will be submitted to the White House for approval soon. The program contemplates construction of facilities for as many as a million families, and interest rates as low as 1 per cent.

INDUSTRY INDEX DIPS, DUE TO CUT IN AUTO OUTPUT

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Sharply curtailed automobile production this week lowered the Associated Press index of industrial activity to 80.4 from 82.2 last week. Cotton manufacturing and residential building also declined more than seasonally.

The index, with its components, based on the latest available statistics and with 1929-'30 as 100, follows:

Smaller Income Reported by United Fruit Company

New York, Feb. 8.—[Special.]—The United Fruit company reports for 1935 a net income of $10,359,222, or $3.54 a share, compared with $12,049,300, or $4.11 a share in 1934. After dividends of $3 a share, $1,641,235 was carried to surplus. Cash and United States government securities at the year-end, not including $10,000,000 insurance fund, amounted to $41,306,849, a gain of $349,306 over the preceding year.

STRONGER RAILS DEVISED TO MAKE HIGH SPEED SAFE

U. S. Steel Unit to Start Manufacture Soon.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Manufacture of a new type of railroad rail will be started in the Chicago district works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation about the middle of this year, it was disclosed yesterday. Officials of the corporation, which is one of the subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation, say the new rail—the product of more than 24 years of research—represents the most forward step in railroad track work that has taken place in this generation.

The new rail is described as possessing qualities that give it greater strength and longer life, and that overcome conditions resulting in transverse fissures and other interior defects. Transverse fissures are known in railroad circles as "rail cancers" and for years have been a major problem in American railroading, being a cause of wrecks.

Higher Speeds Made Safe.

The increased strength of the rail, it is said, will contribute toward safety in operation of trains at high speed.

Experiments and research looking toward the development of the rail were started in 1912 at South Chicago and in Gary under the direction of John Brunner, for many years metallurgical engineer of the Illinois Steel company, assisted by A. D. Beers.

Production awaits installation of a special type of furnaces at the Chicago district works of the company. Funds for their construction have been authorized and completion is expected shortly after the middle of the year.

The name of the technicians for the product is "normalized rail." Normalizing means the control of the grain size in the rail by special treatment. It is from this control of the grain size that the rail derives its qualities.

Technical Manipulation.

Brunner in recent technical reports on the process by which the rails are manufactured said the first step is air cooling the rails after they leave the rolls until the temperature in the interior section is slightly below the so-called thermal critical range, but above the thermal brittle range.

"The rails then are placed in a furnace and reheated under careful control until the entire section has reached a uniform temperature slightly above the thermal critical range," he continued. "They then are removed from the furnace and blasts of compressed air are applied to the top of the head at both ends until the desired hardness is reached at those sections."

The cost of the new rails is expected to be a little more than the old rails. Manufacture can be had in any of the weights, including the 112 pound per foot weight which has been adopted by many western railroads.

LUMBER LEADERS 'SET AN EXAMPLE' ON U. S. SPENDING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—In action planned as an example for other industries, the executive committee of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, meeting here today, adopted a resolution that the lumber industry should not urge any federal legislation that involved the expenditure of additional funds for its benefit.

The committee commended the government's work for conservation of natural resources and endorsed the administration's movement toward a program for continuous yield by forests, but expressed the view that industry should not intrude selfish demands for special benefits upon the government.

"The expressed feeling of the meeting," said an official announcement, "was that business men who criticize the government for extravagant current expenditures and for a tendency to intrude in private business ought not to take steps tending in the opposite direction."

U. S. WILL OPPOSE PAYING $5,661,154 TO BETHLEHEM

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The justice department said today it will object to the report of a court appointed master in Philadelphia, who said the government owes a debt of $5,661,154 to the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation, Ltd., and associated corporations, on war contracts.

Department officials instructed special attorneys working on the case in Philadelphia to file a bill of exceptions to the master's report with the federal district judge.

William Clarke Mason, the master, recommended to the Philadelphia District court that it dismiss the government's claim against the Bethlehem company and five subsidiaries for restitution of $19,654,856 for "unconscionable profits," and award the Bethlehem companies $5,661,154 in additional profits.

CATTLE MARKET IS DEMORALIZED; MANY HELD OVER

Break in Prices Sharpest in Many Years.

The cattle trade last week was thrown into a quandary by the sharpest and most uneven price break in many years. Some grades fell so much faster than others that neither buyers nor sellers were sure of their ground when making deals toward the end of the week.

In this dilemma many commission men called a halt to trading during the last two days of the week and advised the country to hold back supplies, as complete demoralization threatened the market. Several thousand cattle were withdrawn from the trade to be carried over for this week.

Price Opinions at Odds.

Veteran traders cannot recall when there was ever such a variation of opinions regarding the value of cattle, particularly better grades of stock that closed around $9 and above.

Top steers early last week brought $14.00 and two weeks ago they sold up to $15.00. While no cattle comparable to these were offered after the market collapsed, many good fat steers were bought at $8.50 to $9.50 on the close, and plain quality but fleshy stock went as low as $7.50.

To keep live costs down, buyers favored the cheapest classes under $7.50, and these indicated the least decline for the week, going down about 25 to 50 cents, whereas most of the good grades were down $1.00 and top steers were quoted at considerably more loss.

Some late bids on cattle that were withdrawn from the trade at the close were as much as $1.50 to $2.00 lower than earlier in the week.

Other Live Stock Firmer.

Most other live stock rose in value. Calves closed 50 cents to $1.00 higher. The lamb market was erratic, but finished 10 to 15 cents higher, with the average for the six days at $10.50, or 15 cents above the preceding week. The low spot in the hog market was slightly above the highest spot of the preceding six days, the average at $10.35 indicating a gain of 30 cents. The week's hog average is $1.00 higher than five weeks ago.

Lambs and hogs yesterday brought strong prices. Big local packers paid $10.65 for lambs and $10.45 for hogs, the extreme top.

WANTED
—Proved Salesmen

Experienced men of demonstrated selling ability . . .

Resourceful men, able to grasp and control the situations that they meet . . .

Energetic men who have learned the value of hard, conscientious daily work rather than slick methods and high pressure salesmanship . . .

Ambitious men who wish to join the sales staff of the leading company in its field; who are willing to start on a conservative basis until they prove their merit; who can stand prosperity later; and who are willing to be thoroughly investigated . . .

To such men improving business conditions offer a very limited number of sales openings . . .

WHEAT RALLIES ON DUSTSTORMS AND COLD WAVE

Traders Debate Chance of Damage to Crop.

Subzero temperatures and dust storms in the southwest, where there is only a meager snow covering, stimulated buying of wheat futures yesterday. The new crop deliveries gained major fractions, with closing prices near the top. May wheat was sold against purchases of the July delivery to undo spreads, and the difference narrowed to 9⅜ cents premium for the May future, compared with 9⅞ cents at the close of the market on Friday.

While the trade was somewhat apprehensive regarding possible damage in the southwest, the buying of the new crop wheat deliveries was not aggressive. Considerable difference of opinion as to whether there would be a loss of acreage of any consequence was apparent in trade comment.

Damage to Crop Debated.

H. C. Donovan, crop expert with Thomson & McKinnon, expressed the belief that some deterioration might occur in parts of Kansas and Oklahoma where the wheat crop went into the winter with small growth and without adequate moisture reserves.

Nat C. Murray, statistician with Clement, Curtis & Co., after an examination of the wheat and crop reports said the yield per acre following the five coldest Februaries during the 1910-'34 period was exactly equal to the twenty-five year average. In the five years of the coldest Marches it was one bushel below the average for the twenty-five years. The most damage, according to Murray, is done to winter wheat by a rapid rise in temperature following a period of cold weather.

Cash interests were fair buyers of May wheat at times during the day, but reports from the flour trade indicated that demand continued very slow.

Winnipeg Rallies After Decline.

After all deliveries had dropped about ½ cent to a new low for the season, the Winnipeg market rallied on short covering to close fractionally higher. Minneapolis and Kansas City were also fractionally above Friday's finish at the close yesterday, while Liverpool lost nearly 1 cent.

Closing prices on May deliveries of leading grains, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$.98⅝	$.98⅝	$1.00¼
Corn	.60½	.60⅜	.60½
Oats	.28⅝	.28½	.28⅝
Rye	.57⅞	.57⅞	.57⅛

Scattered buying of corn against sales of lard and firmness in wheat resulted in a fractional advance in corn, but the aggregate trade was not large. Oats and rye showed little change in prices for the day.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Fresh eggs were in demand yesterday and sales were made at an advance of ¼@½c per doz. Receipts were 8,482 cases. Butter sold at unchanged prices. Receipts were 7,329 tubs. Live hens were unchanged to 1c lower and leghorn hens unchanged to ½c per lb lower. Receipts were 1 car and 5 trucks. Potatoes were in light supply and the market firmer. Receipts were 34 cars with 135 cars on team track.

NEW FORTUNES from INFLATION

Though inflation may wipe out the wealth of the many, to some it will bring new wealth. It will enable others to lay the foundation of new fortunes, as it did in Germany and in France.

Your ability to turn inflation to profit will depend upon how well you anticipate the effects of the increasing pressure of inflation on individual stocks.

Profits from Inflation

When monetary inflation sent the Mining group skyrocketing in 1932 and 1933 clients of TECHNIGRAPHICS were long Homestake for its advance from 135 to 380; Dome Mines, 15 to 43; McIntyre Porcupine, 23 to 45.

Later, in April, 1935, when credit inflation began to take effect, TECHNIGRAPHICS urged the purchase of industrial and aircraft issues, including Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Chrysler, Johns Manville, Westinghouse. Douglas Aircraft, recommended at 18, is now 75; Boeing Airplane, first purchased at 7, has thus far advanced to 26.

TECHNIGRAPHICS keeps you abreast of the latest developments in the rising tide of inflation and points out specific opportunities to turn inflation to profit.

A Special Trial Offer

You may test the timely and definite recommendations of TECHNIGRAPHICS for yourself by sending One Dollar for a three weeks' trial, both stocks and grain. Supplementary, collect telegrams will be included if requested. A 40-page book of charts of leading stocks and averages (regularly retailing at $1.50) showing daily range, volume, and performance indexes, will be sent free with your trial. Write today to

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 8.—An irregular trend dominated trading in listed bonds today. Government issues and railroad liens gave the greatest show of strength while other sections were mixed and price movements were narrow.

Volume of trading for the short Saturday session amounted to $10,617,000, par value, compared with $11,910,000 a week ago. Federal obligations accounted for about a half million dollars of the total.

Auburn at New High.

Auburn Auto again attracted attention by advancing 3 points to a new high. It closed 2 points higher for the day. Consolidated Coal of Maryland featured the industrial group on a rise of 2 points.

Other firm spots included American Rolling Mill 4¼s, up ¼ at 125; Auburn 4¾s, up 2 at 108; Southern Pacific 4½s, up ¼ at 87½; Third Avenue Adjustment 5s, up 2½ at 38¼; Warner Bros. 6s, up 1⅛ at 96½; Delaware & Hudson 4s, up ¼ at 85, and American Water Works 6s, up ½ at 103½.

Federal Issues Firm.

Closing prices of government obligations ranged from gains of 3-32ds in the treasury 4¼s at 115.18 to a loss of the same amount in the 2⅞s at 110.12. Many issues of the group were unchanged at the finish.

Little activity was shown in the foreign division. Columbia 6s and Japanese 6½s advanced fractionally. Mexican issues turned in gains of fractions to 1½ points.

Stock Split Ups.

Small investors still cling to the fallacious belief that a stock split gives them something they did not have before. This arises from a misconception of what stock represents. Stock is merely a share of ownership of a corporation. Just how large that share of ownership is per share of stock depends on the number of shares outstanding.

A corporation, for instance, has a hundred shares of stock outstanding. Each share represents a 1 per cent interest in the corporation. The corporation then declares a hundred per cent stock dividend. This action increases outstanding stock to 200 shares. Each stockholder who formerly had one share will then have two shares. His two shares, nevertheless, still represent 1 per cent of all the stock outstanding, just as his one share did.

There is, however, one distinct advantage. Stock of a corporation that is selling at $300 a share has a limited market. There are comparatively few individuals who feel that they can afford to pay $300 a share for stock of any corporation. When directors declare a nine for one stock split the stock will drop in price to somewhere around $30 a share.

The action will broaden the market for the stock. Many individuals who feel that they cannot afford to buy the stock at $300 a share will purchase it at $30 to $35 a share. Presence of an increased number of buyers will tend to boost the price.

It is a curious fact that the individual who would not consider purchasing one share of stock at $300 a share will gladly pay $350 for ten shares of stock when that ten shares represent exactly the same interest in the company that the single share did before the split.

"We Do Not Predict——"

To inquirers who ask the Investors' Guide what the future market price of any individual stock will be the department furnishes a report on the stock asked about and says, "We do not attempt to predict the course of the market."

Many people seem to believe that somewhere some one has a crystal ball in which future quotations appear. The Investors' Guide does not know what the market will do tomorrow, next week, or next year. Neither does any one else. There are many people who refuse to admit this, but they are either fooling themselves or attempting to fool others.

Pasted on the wall above the desk of an individual whose business it is to counsel investors is the following bit of wisdom that portrays well the uncertainty of stock prices:

"Of course, the time to buy is when the other fellow doesn't want it, but sometimes the other fellow is wise in not wanting it."

CHAMPION PAPER TO OFFER LARGE ISSUE OF STOCK

Many Other Loans Will Be Sold This Week.

The Champion Paper and Fibre company, of Hamilton, O., is expected to offer this week 25,000 shares of $100 par 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock and 100,000 shares of no par common stock. Net proceeds from the preferred and 78,381 shares of the common will be used for a construction program which is to include a new plant near Houston, Tex. The 21,619 share balance of the common is held by large stockholders and will be offered by them through the underwriters.

The largest corporate bond offering listed for sale this week is one for $4,000,000 of 4 per cent first mortgage liens of 1946 of the A. E. Staley Manufacturing company of Decatur, Ill. Principal underwriters are Edward B. Smith & Co., First Boston corporation, Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., and Bancamerica-Blair corporation.

Plans 500,000 Share Issue.

Beverages, Inc., Boston, Mass., wishes to issue 500,000 no par common shares and 70,156 subscription warants. Of the stock being registered 70,156 common shares are outstanding and a like amount reserved for exercise of purchase warrants. F. L. Putnam & Co. of Boston is the principal underwriter.

Pacific Oil and Meal company of Los Angeles seeks to issue 3,000 shares of $100 par preferred and 6,000 shares of no par common to be offered in units of 1 share of each for $101 per unit and the remaining 3,000 common at $1 a share.

Other issues scheduled for offering this week include $1,044,000 of first mortgage 5½ per cent bonds by Medical Building of Houston, Tex., $75,000 of oil royalty interests by American Fidelity corporation, Ltd., $200,000 of collateral trust notes with stock coupons and 2,000 shares of $1 par common stock by Oil Payment Purchase corporation, and 25,000 shares of $10 par capital stock of National Grange Fire Insurance company.

Municipal Issues Increase.

A substantial increase in new state and municipal financing is indicated for this week, when issues amounting to $52,572,401 will be offered for 118 communities. This compares with a revised total of $7,715,219 for last week. The weekly average for the year to date stands at $17,620,768.

Eight individual issues of more than $1,000,000 each are on the calendar for award this week, with the sale of $19,500,000 of New York City serial bonds on Monday heading the list. The city of Syracuse, N. Y., will be in the market on the same day with $3,000,000 of welfare bonds and $2,110,000 of general refunding.

PROPOSES BANKS TAKE OVER U. S. COTTON LOANS

New York, Feb. 8.—[Special.]—As a solution of the problem of the government cotton loans, Robert H. Bean, executive secretary of the American Acceptance council, proposes in the current issue of the council's publication that a syndicate of the largest banks in the country be formed to take over possibly 80 per cent of the Commodity Credit corporation loan. The balance of 20 per cent, he suggests, could remain with the RFC or the Commodity Credit corporation.

The banks would hold the cotton in warehouses and against the receipts therefor would open acceptance credits. The accepted bills would readily be absorbed in the open discount market, he says.

The cotton would be marketed under the direction of a group of the largest cotton merchants which would be in direct touch with the banks financing the transaction. As orderly marketing was accomplished the proceeds would be applied to the retirement of bank acceptances as they came due.

EVANSTON BANK RETIRES $150,000 OF DEBENTURES

The State Bank and Trust company of Evanston yesterday announced retirement of $150,000 of the $750,000 of income debentures which it sold to the Reconstruction Finance corporation in June, 1934. The bank's capital structure now consists of $500,000 capital stock, $600,000 income debentures, $45,074 undivided profits, and $148,549 reserve.

Net operating earnings were $99,126 in 1935. After payment of interest on the debentures and transfers to reserve for contingencies and other reserves, a balance of $9,041 was added to undivided profit.

Deposits rose more than $1,900,000 last year to a total of $12,460,722 as of Dec. 31. Cash and due from banks on that date was $2,866,019.

WOMAN CONGRESS TO OPEN THURSDAY

NATIONAL NEGRO CONGRESS WILL OPEN ON FRIDAY

50 Pastors Exchange Pulpits Today.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

C. W. BURTON.

Appropriately with the observance of the 14th annual Race Relations week of the Chicago Church Federation which begins today, the national Negro congress will convene on Friday, at the Eighth Regiment armory, 3517 South Giles street, under the direction of Charles W. Burton, the Chicago chairman. Sessions will continue through next Sunday.

This congress will be no new organization nor will it seek to overlap the work of any already in existence, but it will endeavor to bring about unity of action among all organizations with the ultimate objective of creating nation-wide public opinion against racial discrimination in industry, and in favor of equal opportunity in the economic life of the community.

Mayor Kelly to Speak.

Mayor Kelly will deliver the address of welcome at the opening session, and Frank X. Martel, president of the Detroit and Wayne county [Michigan] Federation of Labor, will speak at the congress as the representative of John L. Lewis and the committee on industrial organization.

Among leaders in the affairs of the Negro people sponsoring the congress are A. Phillip Randolph, president of the brotherhood of sleeping car porters; Bishop R. A. Carter of the Colored Methodist Episcopal church; the Rev. Harold M. Kingsley, pastor of Church of the Good Shepherd, 5700 Prairie avenue; Bishop W. J. Walls of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion in Illinois, and Bishop Noah Williams of the African Methodist Episcopal church in the Missouri area.

The principal topics coming up for discussion will be the right of Negroes to jobs at decent living wages and for the right to join all trade unions, together with the organization of Negro workers with their fellow white workers into democratically controled unions; relief and security for every needy Negro family; for genuine social and unemployment insurance without discrimination; the enactment of a federal anti-lynching law; the complete equality of Negro women, and the independence of Ethiopia.

Problem of Negro Youth.

George F. McCray, chairman of the sponsoring committee, in speaking of the vital problems facing the Negro, said "The depression has brought Negro youth face to face with the desperate situation where he is forced to acquire the necessities of life, maintain healthy morals, and obtain an education under severely aggrevated conditions that are governed by a new set of rules."

Mr. McCray further pointed out that in carrying out this portion of the program outlined by the national Negro congress the Chicago youth committee was assuming the rôle of pioneer, for it would have to cope with new and untouched conditions in discrimination, exploitation, vocational guidance, and opportunities in labor unions.

Fifty pastors of Negro and white Protestant churches in the metropolitan area will exchange pulpits this morning to signify the importance of Race Relations week observance, and more than 1,000 delegates from a score of Negro denominations which have indorsed the congress will attend these special services.

Celebrating the beginning of the Moody centennial, Dr. Perry J. Stackhouse, pastor of the First Baptist church, 935 East 50th street, will preach this morning on "Dwight L. Moody—A Portrait."

MOTHERS' CLUB OF ST. PATRICK'S WILL GIVE PARTY

The Mothers' club of St. Patrick's High school will give a card party and dance on Saturday evening in the school gymnasium, 122 South Des Plaines street. Mrs. George Higgins, president, is serving as general chairman of the party committee which includes Mrs. Richard Cotter, Mrs. Paul Peska, Mrs. Vincent Mackewicz, Mrs. Kenneth Ebey, Mrs. G. G. Tate, Mrs. Alexander Brown, Mrs. John Hamilton, and Mrs. Thomas Cannon.

Card Party to Be Given for Dakota Mission Leader

A card party for the Rev. T. W. Healy, who has charge of a mission at Timberlake, S. D., will be given on Thursday evening at the Leo XIII. Knights of Columbus hall, 820 West Garfield boulevard. Mrs. J. J. Lavin, 7700 South Racine; Miss Anne Leonard, 7225 South Ridgeland avenue, and Mrs. Ramona Hayes Healy, 5737 Kenwood avenue, are planning the party.

W. Englewood Offers Prize for New Name

CHARLES DORIGAN.

For a new name, individual and characteristic of the community, a prize of $50 will be awarded by the West Englewood Business Men's association, according to Charles Dorigan, chairman of the naming committee.

The contest, which will close on March 1, is open to any one residing in the district bounded on the north by the Pennsylvania railroad at 59th street, on the south by Marquette road, on the east by Loomis boulevard, and on the west by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad near Seeley avenue.

Entries will be received by any member merchant at his business house on 63d street or Ashland avenue. Member stores are designated by the organization's insignia on the door and by contest posters in the windows. The prize will be in the form of a merchandise certificate drawn on these member merchants.

Would Drop Englewood.

The campaign to change the name of the community received its impetus at a banquet given for the championship Lindblom High school football team by the association on Dec. 13. At that time, Harry Keeler, principal of the high school, advocated the change, explaining that West Englewood is a separate and distinct community, but that the name implies some connection with Englewood.

Mr. Keeler suggested the name of Ogden Park, pointing out that the postoffice of the district is so designated and that several of the churches also have incorporated it in their names. The officers and directors drafted a resolution to that effect, but on its second reading on Jan. 27 several members objected to that name because of its popular appellation to several neighboring communities.

Seek Residents' Views.

At that meeting, Eric Plahn, president, appointed a committee to investigate name possibilities and to make suggestions. Soon afterward the committee, under the leadership of Mr. Dorigan, decided to give the people of the community an opportunity to voice their desires, hence the idea of the contest.

The name changing committee, which will judge the contest, includes Paul E. Wolff, William Cronin, Aaron Katz, and Benjamin Itzkovitz.

Arrange Loring School Dance

Miss Mayellen Steers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Steers, 9155 Hoyne avenue, who is general chairman of the annual midyear dance the Loring School for Girls will give on Tuesday evening at the school, 10650 Longwood drive. [Koehne Photo.]

Miss Mary Lou Nichols, who is assisting Miss Steers in the financial arrangements for the dance. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Nichols, 10411 Seeley avenue. [Marshall Field Photo.]

Miss Jean Eidman, 9836 South Hoyne avenue, is another of Miss Steers' corps of eleven assistants who are working for the success of the dance, the first since the school moved to its Beverly Hills location.

REDEEMER GROUP TO OBSERVE 35TH YEAR OF CHURCH

The 35th anniversary of the Redeemer Lutheran church, 6430 Harvard avenue, and of its pastor, the Rev. G. R. Schuessler, will be celebrated with a special service at 10:45 o'clock next Sunday morning. The Rev. John H. C. Fritz, dean of Concordia seminary in St. Louis, will speak and the music will be by the combined choirs of the church.

The church had its beginning in a mission the Rev. Mr. Schuessler opened in 1901 in a hall on 63d street and Yale avenue. Outgrowing these quarters, it erected its own building at the corner of Princeton avenue and 60th place, which was twice enlarged before the present church was built in 1923.

Slovak Group Observes 25th Birthday at Dinner

At its 25th anniversary dinner last Wednesday at St. Michael's auditorium, 48th street and Winchester avenue, the Slovak Civic organization of the Town of Lake reinstalled John M. Kubina as president. Other members of the board of directors for the organization's new year are Adam Poliak, John S. Dujmovic, Fred Cullen, John Dluhy, A. B. Tabola, Dr. Peter P. Hletko, James Trop, and Michael S. Rehak.

Beverly Hills University Club to Present Play

"The First Mrs. Fraser," selected for the annual play of the Beverly Hills University club, will be given Saturday evening at the Ridge park fieldhouse, 95th street and Longwood drive.

ST. SABINA'S WILL CELEBRATE 20TH YEAR ON FRIDAY

St. Sabina's parish will clebrate its 20th anniversary on Friday evening at the Illinois club for Catholic women, 111 East Pearson street.

Founded in 1916 by Cardinal Mundelein, the parish held its first service in a store at 7743 South Racine avenue by about 50 families. Its membership now is more than 2,000 families.

Judge Joseph A. Graber is general chairman of the celebration.

Business Men to Hear Air Conditioning Expert

E. J. Murnane, air conditioning expert, will speak Tuesday noon before the Woodlawn Business Men's association in the Hayes hotel.

Stewart Ridge Church Women to Give Party

The Woman's auxiliary of the Stewart Ridge Community church will give a Washington party on Friday evening, Feb. 21, at the church, 120th street and Eggleston avenue. Miss Edna Wilson, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. H. D. Menke, Mrs. B. H. Lloyd, Mrs. M. M. Bachus, Mrs. D. E. Lester, Miss Margaret Evans, Miss Helen Marabain and Miss Minnie Marabain.

"Black Sheep, Prisons and Prisoners" will be Col. John Habkirk's subject at 7:45 o'clock this evening at the Thoburn Methodist church, 64th and Paulina streets. Col. Habkirk, who is prison secretary of the Salvation Army, will be assisted by Capt. Adolph Kohler.

2 DAY SESSIONS DRAW LEADERS FROM ALL U. S.

World Figures Will Give Addresses.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Women leaders throughout Chicago and its environs will join this week with representative women from all parts of the United States and lower Canada in the sessions of the Third Annual Woman congress, a nonpartisan forum for the discussion of current affairs under the sponsorship of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The congress will convene at noon next Thursday, Feb. 13, in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house and will continue with six sessions through the evening of Friday, the 14th.

During the last ten days the congress headquarters in Tribune Tower have been flooded with requests for tickets for the various sessions. More than twelve thousand requests were registered from the Chicagoland area, while thousands more came by letter and telegram from far sections of the country.

"I am coming by bus from New York, sitting up the entire trip. You see how earnest I am about getting to the forum," Mrs. Cora Roche Howland has written from her home at Plandome, Long Island, N. Y.

Matched by Local Feeling.

Mrs. Howland's enthusiasm is matched by that of such local leaders as Mrs. Walter Webster Seymour, second vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Edson B. Fowler, president of the Evanston Woman's club; Mrs. Jasper King, president of the Cook County League of Women Voters; Mrs. Murry Nelson, chairman of the joint committee on the merit system; Miss Emily Napieralski, leader in the Polish Women's alliance, and dozens more.

During the two days the congress audience will hear world figures in unbiased discussions of the major problems facing American citizens today. The program represents the culmination of nine months' sincere effort to bring to Chicago the men and women who are the most brilliantly qualified to consider the modern problems of social welfare and [illegible] business and industry, finance, science, and national and international government. Correspondents of THE TRIBUNE in far parts of the world have coöperated with the staf in Chicago to build the various sessions.

Widely Known Speakers.

Announcements of this program have been made during the last week in the news colums of THE TRIBUNE. Another program story appears today in the main news section and next Wednesday morning one full page will be devoted to a complete outline of the six sessions.

Some of the names that distinguish the program are those of Cordell Hull, secretary of state of the United States; Lady Nancy Astor, member of the British parliament; Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin; Justice George W. Maxey of the Pennsylvania Supreme court, Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America; Dr. Harlow Shapley of Harvard university, one of the world's great living scientists; Jean Hersholt, famous character actor in the movies; Travis Banton, No. 1 designer for the Paramount studios in Hollywood; Frank Lloyd Wright, noted architect, and Mary Garden, famous diva.

Leaders of Women.

Women interested in organized activity have found especial pleasure in the fact that eight national leaders of women's organizations are going

CALUMET HIGH GIRL FLYING STUDENTS TO GIVE SKATING PARTY

Calumet High school's girl aviation students, the Kiwiettes, will give a roller skating party tomorrow evening at the White City rink, 63d street and South Parkway. Among the prizes to be won by the guests are two airplane rides, given by Arthur LaPointe, sponsor of the club and aero instructor at the high school.

MISS MARGARET WAHLEN.

Miss Margaret Wahlen, vice president, is general chairman of the party. She is assisted by Miss Alice Gierman, Miss Elsie Johnson, Miss Myrtle O'Connor, Miss Marie Dalton and Miss Rosalie Epperson.

Faculty members who have been invited are John A. Bartky, principal; Raymond O'Brien, Glenn C. Worst, Amerego Sansome, Harold Metz, Elwood Smith, James Churchill, and Mr. LaPointe. Miss Marie Dolton is president of the club; Miss Katherine Begy, secretary; Miss Madonna Manning, treasurer, and Miss Johnson, publicity manager.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

GENTLE voiced, gray haired Mrs. Leonora J. Burlinghame is one of Our Town's oldest residents. Born many years ago on a stock farm in what is now the Lawndale section, Mrs. Burlinghame related last week that "a span of horses and $400 kept me from being a millionairess." To her listeners she explained that the financial and equine combination were what her father received for "swapping" forty acres of land around what is now Madison and Halsted streets. "I hate to think of what that land is worth now," she said.

Active and mentally alert, Mrs. Burlinghame lends an attentive eye and ear to the passing scene. She is the founder and president of The Clipping club, a group of fellow residents at the Hayes hotel who clip items of interest about world and domestic affairs from the daily newspapers for use as material in their talks at meetings. The club is sponsoring a program of entertainment on Tuesday evening in the hotel lounge, and Mrs. Burlinghame will tell several stories about early Chicago.

WHILE most of us are enjoying those last few minutes of sleep each morning, a small group of men employed by the board of trade is busy in the city's railroad yards hunting for the cars of grain bound for the city's elevators. They call them car tracers and it is their task to see that samples of the grain shipments from each car reach the inspection department, where quality and grade are determined, and, incidentally, something of the price, too. William G. Rusch, 77 years young, who has been doing this for 50 years, marked another 50 year anniversary last week, when he and Mrs. Rusch celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They live at 924 West Marquette road.

John Clinton, for many years a member of the 50-50 club of Leo XIII. council, No. 805, of the Knights of Columbus, will be fêted at a dinner by fellow club members on Tuesday evening in the Leo clubhouse, 820 West Garfield boulevard. Mr. Clinton is secretary-treasurer of the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers.

The Beverley Hills Woman's club will be without the services of its able publicity chairman, Mrs. Guy P. Palmer, 9617 Winchester avenue, for the next few weeks. She and Mr. Palmer departed for Florida yesterday, where Miami will be their first stopping place, and from where they will speed to Tampa on the west coast to start a tour of the state with friends from Iowa. It is their first visit to Florida since 1921.

DR. JOHN HENRY HOPKINS, pastor emeritus of the Church of the Redeemer and historian of the Episcopal church in Chicago, will again occupy a pulpit, Our Town was told last week. In his home town of Burlington, Vt., where he has been residing since retirement, Dr. Hopkins will assume temporary leadership of St. Paul's church, filling the vacancy caused by the elevation of the Rev. Vedder Van Dych, St. Paul's pastor, to the bishopric of Vermont.

Florida bound last week were Mr. and Mrs. William Bruce Gibson of the south shore. Mr. Gibson, who is president of the South Chicago Business association, climbed behind the wheel of his car last Friday and bade farewell to this snow and ice bound community for two months.

CHURCHES JOIN IN 'BROTHERHOOD DAYS' PROGRAM

Two representative groups of south side clergymen, led by Dr. Morrison Russell Boynton, co-pastor of the Bryn Mawr Community church, and Rabbia Joshua L. Liebman of Kelilah Anshe Mayriv temple, are completing arrangements for local community celebration of brotherhood days, on Feb. 22 and 23, as a part of the nation-wide drive to bring about good will and understanding among Jews, Protestants and Catholics.

Chicago's celebration is being sponsored by the Chicago Round Table of the National Conference of Jews and Christians, with Dean Charles W. Gilkey of the University of Chicago chapel, as chairman, and Judge John P. McGoorty, Dr. Joshua Oden and Rabbi Samuel Schwartz as honorary chairmen. Gen. Charles G. Dawes is chairman of the round table.

Associated with Dr. Boynton, who is chairman of the south shore committee, are the Rev. John A. Gardner of Essex Community church, the Rev. Almer M. Pennewell of St. John's M. E. church, Rabbi G. George Fox of South Shore temple, Rabbi Morris Teller of the South Side Hebrew congregation, the Rev. Chester Fisk of South Side Community church, the Rev. Harold Warren of South Shore Presbyterian church, the Rev. Roland Brown of Parkside Baptist church and the Rev. Edward H. Koster of Avalan Park Community church.

Dr. Liebman, who heads the Hyde Park committee, is being assisted by the Rev. Douglas Horton, pastor of the United Church of Hyde Park. The names of their assistants are to be announced later.

As a part of the observance, the Hyde Park group will hold a union mass meeting in the University of Chicago chapel on the evening of Feb. 23, while the South Shore committee will hold a fellowship dinner on Monday evening, Feb. 17.

CIVIC LEADERS FAVOR UNIFORM TIME SCHEDULE

Adoption by the Rail Lines Sought.

A single time standard for Chicago is the wish of civic leaders and business men on the southwest side, expressed last week as they realized that the approach of March 1, the date set by the city council ruling for the adoption of eastern standard time in the city, will result in great confusion unless the interstate commerce commission acts favorably on Feb. 24 upon the city's petition to permit the railroads to adopt eastern time.

Unanimous approval of a uniform time was reflected in a poll conducted by THE TRIBUNE. Although a variance of feeling was expressed toward the adoption of eastern standard time, dissenting groups agreed that since Chicago clocks were to be turned ahead, all business, transportation companies, and community organizations should recognize the need for unity.

Would Include Suburbs.

That this uniform time zone should be extended to include the entire business district of Chicagoland is the opinion of C. O. Larson, president of the South End chamber of commerce, and Fred L. Steers, general chairman of the Ridge civic council. Mr. Larson suggests the Mississippi as the boundary line of the eastern time zone.

Recalling the dissenting opinions regarding the adoption of summer daylight saving time and how they were ended by a vote of the majority of the people, Mr. Steers said, "Let the people decide and win or lose, Chicagoans are sufficiently fair minded to abide by the choice of the majority."

The Roseland Lions club, of which Dr. A. W. Hamman is president, has voted an endorsement of the change to eastern time and Dr. Hamman regards as inevitable the conformation by the railroads and other interstate business concerns.

To Avoid Confusion.

Warren Stautz, president of the Roseland Kiwanis, pointed out that "As the largest railroad center in the world, with hundreds of trains moving in and out daily, endless confusion would result if the railroads operated on one time and the city on another. It is obvious that the railroads should fall in line."

The Auburn Park chamber of commerce has not voted on the question, but M. A. Dwyer, president, personally is in favor of the new time for Chicago and believes that all the business men in his community will welcome the additional afternoon daylight and certainly will want a uniform time in the city.

Roy E. Wolfe, president of the Englewood Business Men's association, said: "While the membership is divided as to the adoption of eastern time, it is wholeheartedly in favor of ending confusion in Chicago by the adoption of one standard. The Calumet Commercial club, through its president, R. F. Bradburn, expressed approval of the new time.

Sports League Favors.

The members of the Chicago Amateur Sports leagues, according to William P. Huges, 6047 South Talman avenue, president and organizer, are looking forward this summer to an extended season. Mr. Hughes pointed out that many people would work under electric lights in any circumstances, and that the earlier time will permit greater enjoyment of outdoor sports.

Specifically, the league will be able to extend its twilight baseball season about two months and all its softball teams will be able to play two games after dinner. In some cases, the games have been played by artificial light, but this is too expensive for amateur sportsmen to adopt generally.

At its meeting last week the Englewood advisory council of the Chicago recreation committee held a preliminary discussion of plans for activites under the new time.

Will Aid Recreation.

J. F. McFarland, who is chairman of the council and executive secretary of the Englewood Y. M. C. A., explains while the committe was of divided opinion, he can see the possibility of a greatly extended program and particularly when the Y. M. C. A. carries out its plan for next year of establishing recreation centers in the community.

As the "Y" program is now functioning, the adoption of eastern standard time will not effect it because the indoor facilities will be in use until June. Mr. McFarland also pointed out that the additional winter daylight may make it possible for the young people of Chicago to participate more generally in outdoor winter sports, particularly if the weather of this winter is duplicated.

UNITED CHURCH CARNIVAL TO AID HOWELL HOUSE

A benefit carnival for Howell Neighborhood house, sponsored by the Tuxis society of the United Church of Hyde Park, is to be given Friday evening in the church hall, 53d street and Blackstone avenue. Stage entertainment, demonstrations of folk dances by children of Howell house, dancing and games will be the order of the evening.

MODERNIZATION ON ANY SCALE IS EFFECTIVE

Two Flat Building and Attic Remodeled.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The two pieces of modernization work shown today are practical and beautiful. Practical, in that they are not difficult to accomplish, in any expert hand, and also that they are nistanes ocf the efficient yet inexpensive solving of common problems in many homes. Beautiful, in that they bring charm to existing, outmoded spaces and attractively utilize spaces which have hitherto been no asset to the family.

The Gloor dwelling comprised a two flat building of the story and a half type. It was decided to make an entire home of the unit. The interior transformation took place first. Little was done to the exterior, except to build a new front entrance. The rest will be accomplished later.

First partitions were torn down between small bedroom and living room and dining room and living room. The result was the unusually spacious layout shown in accompanying photographs. The back bedroom off the kitchen was made into the new dining room. And a new staircase of the English type was built to the second floor. On this second floor there are now four bedrooms and two baths. All the old woodwork was painted ivory, and the walls papered.

New Window Casements.

The living room walls were covered with genuine knotty pine panelling. To afford contrast to the soft pastel shade of the pine, the ceiling was beamed with richly stained, dark timber.

A new fireplace was built, with a large, four foot fireplace opening and a flag stone harth. New casements were installed, but the window arrangement was not changed. Venetian blinds are seen at the windows. The old doors were used, but given an interesting treatment; they were covered with knotty pine to harmonize with the walls.

New and modern lighting fixtures and wiring were installed throughout the house, and a new heating plant. This heating system not only heats the house in winter, but humidifies it as well, and washes and circulates the air all seasons. Later on a cooling system for summer use, with dehumidifying capacity, can be installed if desired.

The attic in the Schoenning home was converted into a complete, five room apartment.

Apartment in Garret.

The walls and roof were insulated, and heat was carried up from the rooms below. The floors throughout are covered with linoleum; even the living room, which is fourteen feet by twenty-eight feet. Two porches, front and rear, have been glazed, and are also heated.

Remodeling has now become a recognized, staple part of our building industry.

In our modernization projects going on all around us we see an ever increasing ingenuity. Imagination and skill are more and more brought into play, that more people may be made aware of better remodeling technique and demand it in their own work.

New Era in Home.

Times change and so do families. Nothing stands still, least of all our houses. Days have gone forever when our small houses merely provided shelter. The new idea is that they should afford an environment for the fullest possible living for every family member.

Efficient modernization will produce a better planned house, a more flexible, functional house. This improved layout, combined with leisure giving equipment, appliances, and fixtures, will spell a new era for home dwellers, and greatly increased ease of living for those who dwell within the home.

Mrs. Bargelt will speak over W-G-N next Wednesday at 2:15 p. m.

Among booklets by Louise Bargelt, which are 3 cents each by mail and 2 cents at Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, are "Keeping Floors Flawless" and "Keeping Warm for Less Money."

Plan Card Party.

The Gage Park branch, Women's City club, will give a card party on Thursday evening at 2400 Lake Park avenue. Mrs. Edwin Koester, chairman, is assisted by Mrs. Joseph Goldstein and Mrs. Eric Lange.

PARTY CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Frank M. McGurk, 7541 Peoria street, who is general chairman of the card party the South Side Catholic Women's club will give on Thursday afternoon at St. Laurence hall, 72d street and Dorchester avenue.

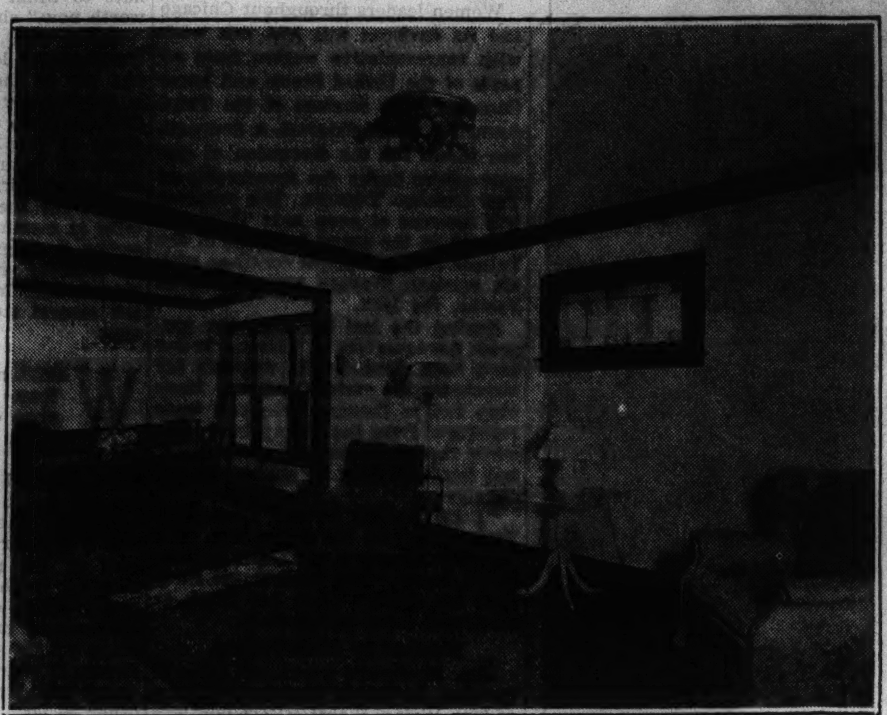
ARCHITECTURAL TRANSFORMATION

Floor layouts of twenty years ago too frequently sliced rooms into small servings! To obviate this disadvantage Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Gloor, 6243 Nordica avenue, Norwood Park, Chicago, had partitions torn down in the dining room and bedroom. The result is a new and unusually spacious living room with a beamed ceiling.



Here is shown the Gloor living room, with dining room beyond, before its modernization by Arthur P. Swanson, architect and builder, Manheim road near Touhy avenue, Des Plaines, Ill. Imagination and skill have transformed these odd spaces into a new room of dignity and beauty. The walls are now covered with knotty pine paneling.

A new kitchen where once an attic dwelt! A view of a corner of the kitchen in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Schoenning, 7400 Crandon avenue, Chicago. In what was once a garret space now stands a snug little five room apartment—thoroughly insulated, heated, and with new plumbing, bath, and two inclosed porches.

Englewood Sabbath School Is 50 Years Old This Week

THE REV. J. F. LE CLERE.

Five days of festivity, beginning this morning and continuing through Friday evening, will mark the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Sabbath school at the Englewood United Presbyterian church, 65th street and Parnell avenue.

The service this morning will include a special anniversary sermon by the Rev. James F. LeClere at 10:30 o'clock. The music will be by the Sabbath school junior choir, directed by Miss Elaine Skelton, and by an organ, piano and violin trio, composed of Misses Ruth and Elaine Skelton and Miss Vera Coleman Linee.

The Bible school will hold a birthday meeting at 12 o'clock. The Junior choir will sing again and Miss Marion Skelton and Miss Genevieve Stetson will sing a duet. After the classes a diploma recognition service will be held.

Dinner on Tuesday.

On Tuesday a reunion dinner will be given at 6 o'clock. Dr. C. G. Kindred of the Englewood Christian church will speak and the music will include numbers by George F. Gordon, baritone, Miss Ethel Carlman McCulloch, contralto, both former choir directors at the church, and Mrs. Thomas Hunter, soprano.

Stuart MacKenzie will be toastmaster at the dinner. Mrs. C. C. Skelton will read a history of the school, written by Miss Isabelle Winget. The assembly will pay a silent tribute to the late Judge McKenzie Cleland, founder, who served as superintendent for 36 years.

Dr. W. R. Thompson, synodial superintendent of missions, will be guest speaker at the officers and teachers' night on Wednesday.

Others to Congratulate.

Neighboring churches will join in the festivities on Thursday evening. Greetings will be brought to the school by Stanley Baker, superintendent of the Normal Park Presbyterian Sunday school; Mrs. W. D. Lear, superintendent of the Chicago Lawn Presbyterian Sunday school; Howard Kingsbury, superintendent of the First Methodist Sunday school, and William Mitchell of the Emerald Avenue Presbyterian Sunday school.

J. F. McFarland, executive secretary of the Englewood Y. M. C. A., also will speak.

The music will be by Miss Ella May Opel, organist at the Englewood Presbyterian church; Russel Hayton, organist of St. Bartholomew's church and Miss Mary Kreger Manoey of the Eighth United Presbyterian church choir.

The concluding program on Friday evening will be a "Trip Around the World." The Japanese exhibit will be in the charge of the Fidelis class with Mrs. J. F. LeClere as teacher; the Irish exhibit, of the Newer Justice class, the Rev. Mr. LeClere, teacher; Scotland, Golden Rule class, Mrs. M. M. MacKenzie, teacher; Spain, the Gideon class, Ray Bell, teacher; Holland, classes 9B and 9C, Mrs. E. C. Norman and Miss Ruth Skelton, teachers, and India, class 8C, Miss Bessie Fleming, teacher.

Relics to Be Shown.

Pictures, old programs and other relics of the early days will be placed on display on Tuesday evening to depict the school's history from its organization on Feb. 14, 1886, to the present. The first meeting was held in a lodge room at 68th and Wallace streets and was attended by 35 persons.

In 1887 the school bought the old First Methodist church at 64th street and Stewart avenue, and moved it to its present location, where the church was organized in May of that year.

Mrs. Norman, who is now superintendent of the Sabbath school, heads the anniversary committee. Her assistants are Mrs. Jessie Nelson, Charles Marhoefer, Mrs. Ernest Neely, Charles Adamson, Mrs. John Fleming, Grey Inholz, and Miss Elaine Skelton.

Bain Bank Meeting.

A mass meeting of Bain bank depositors will be held tomorrow evening at Carpenters' hall, 6414 South Halsted street.

MARTIN CHOSEN BEVERLY CIVIC GROUP LEADER

P. V. MARTIN.

The Northwest Beverly Improvement association, at its last meeting, elected P. V. Martin of 8933 South Claremont avenue its president to succeed D. O. Johnston of 9114 South Oakley avenue, who was made vice president. Other new officers are T. W. Vaughn, secretary, and M. H. Van Allen, treasurer.

A drive for 100 per cent membership of all residents in the territory bounded by 95th street on the south, Ryan woods on the north, Western avenue on the west, and Leavitt street on the east will be one of the organization's first projects in 1936. There are now about 100 members.

The association also will campaign for restricted building zoning in the community and has pledged itself to keep weeds out. The late Charles S. Hippner founded the association six years ago. Mrs. Hippner, who resides at 9040 South Claremont avenue, is still an active member.

GIRLS FROM NINE SCHOOLS TO HAVE ANNUAL PLAY DAY

Girl students from nine south side high schools have been invited to take part in the second annual "play day" for women at George Williams college, 53d street and Drexel avenue, Saturday morning and afternoon.

The Women's Athletic association of the college is sponsoring the event, which will feature team competition in various sports. The teams will be made up of students at Bowen, Calumet, Englewood, Fenger, Hyde Park, Hirsch, Lindblom, Morgan Park, and Parker High schools.

Miss Ethel Koehler, 5401 Ellis avenue, and Miss Louise Hunter are cochairmen. Other members of the arrangements committee are Miss Jo Robe, Miss Arlene Freese, Miss Elna Nickel, Miss Miriam Toothaker, and Miss Louise Volz.

CADETS TO ENTER 6TH CORPS AREA RIFLE CONTESTS

Meet Will Be April 25 at Morgan Park.

MAJ. PAUL D. FRANSON.

The annual interscholastic rifle meet for the championship of the sixth corps area conducted under the auspices of the National Rifle association will be held April 25, at the Morgan Park Military academy, 2513 West 111th street, according to Maj. Paul O. Franson, executive officer. Competition is open to High school R. O. T. C. units and teams of non-military high and grade schools in the area. The winners of the meet, held for the first time at Morgan Park, will be presented medals.

Six matches will be fired as follows: Individual firing from prone position, and from prone and standing positions; team firing prone and standing; team aggregate, including individuals' and teams' total scores in scholastic division, and the same for the military school competition.

Officials for Meet.

Officials will include Maj. Francis Parker Jr., chief statistical officer representing the association; Russel Wild, assistant statistical officer; Capt. John DeGrandepre and Sergt. George H. Freer, range officers, and Lieut. John Storrs and Lieut. Donald Kurz, assistant range officers.

Match one will be open to any student who is a junior member of the association or of an affiliated club attending a school of the high or preparatory grade, excepting military schools. Twenty shots will be fired from prone. The second match is open to all students, including those of military schools, and 20 shots will be fired, ten from prone and ten from standing position.

The third match is open to teams of five or eight men attending a school of the high or preparatory grades, military schools excluded.

Five Highest to Count.

Match four, also a team match, is open to all students of high or preparatory schools, including military schools. Each will fire 20 shots, ten from prone and ten from standing, the five highest scores counting.

The aggregate scores fired in the first and third matches will determine the winner of match five and the individual scores of the second and fourth matches, including military schools, match six.

DE LA SALLE CLUB OF 1935 ALUMNI WILL GIVE DANCE

The Thirty-five club of the De La Salle Institute Alumni association, a group of 1935 graduates of the south side parochial high school, will hold a leap year dance Saturday evening in the Chicago Beach hotel ballroom.

CADET MAJOR BYRON CROSMAN.

Miss Jane Caldwell with Cadet Major Byron Crosman and Miss Cathryn Williams with Cadet Major Harry Benner will lead the grand march of the Morgan Park High school R. O. T. C. military ball, according to the cadet committee in charge. The event will be held Feb. 21 at the Shoreland hotel. Maj. Crosman is general chairman.

Cadet Captain Raymond Pascoe has charge of invitations, Cadet Lieutenant Frank Shoemaker and Robert Campbell, tickets, and Cadet Major George Evans and Cadet Lieutenant James Cunningham, decorations.

Invite Special Guests.

The publicity is being handled by Cadet Lieutenants William Freeman, Harry Read and James Cunningham and Cadet Captain Delmar Jones.

The special guests include Col. Charles A. Thuis, Sixth corps area R. O. T. C. officer; Col. W. F. Morrison, professor of military science and tactics of Chicago high schools, and Mrs. Morrison; Maj. and Mrs. John H. Ringe, Principal and Mrs. H. T. Baker, and Assistant Principal and Mrs. G. G. Lorentz.

Unit Now a Regiment.

The unit has been increased from a one battalion organization to a regiment of two battalions this semester. The full quota of cadets has been reached in the current recruiting drive necessitating the creation of a waiting list.

—Calumet—

Promotion of 17 members of the Calumet High school R. O. T. C. and reorganization of the unit from a battalion to a regiment, due to a large increase in enrollment, has been announced by Corporal John Berry, instructor. Cadet Captain Jack Tallan will command the corps as lieutenant colonel during the coming semester.

Other promotions to the regimental staf include the following: Cadet Lieutenant Raymond Picard to captain, plans and training officer; Cadet Lieutenant Fred Rice to captain, supply officer; Cadet Lieutenant Lawrence Johnson to first lieutenant, regimental adjutant; Cadet First Sergeant Willis Gard from the Westcott branch to the main unit as sergeant major, and Cadet Corporals Richard Colvin and Phil Ekman to regimental color sergeants.

Promotion of these line officers for the coming term has been made: Cadet Captain Oliver Dickerhoff to major; Cadet Lieutenants Jack Corman and Kenneth Olson to captains, Cadet Second Lieutenant Arthur Hassel to first lieutenant, Cadet First Sergeants Harold Donaghue, Earl, De Lashmit, Leonard Couch, and Clarence Smith to second lieutenants, and Cadet Staf Sergeant Robert Sirotek and Cadet Sergeant Eugene Moriarity to second lieutenants.

Sodality Dance

Miss Mary Hynes of 5200 South Peoria street, who is general chairman of the dance the Young Ladies' sodality of St. John the Baptist parish will give on Saturday evening at the Stock Yard inn, 42d and Halsted streets.

—Fenger—

Reaching its allotted enrollment of 270, the Fenger High school R. O. T. C. concluded its recruiting drive last week with Cadet Edward Henley leading in number of recruits with nine. Several changes for the coming term have been made by Sergt. W. P. Robinson, instructor.

For the first time in three years, the R. O. T. C. band will have a faculty instructor. Capt. William Burnham will direct the group. Eight new members have been added to the band.

Cadet Sergt. William Turnbull and Cadet Corporal Earl Swanson have been appointed instructors of the cadets at the Curtis branch. The branch will be organized as a full company for the first time with Sergt. Turnbull acting as first lieutenant and Corporal Swanson as first sergeant.

Plans are being made to award school letters to the members of the rifle team, which never has been done before.

—Phillips—

Boxing, wrestling, and basketball will feature the dedication of the new Phillips High school gymnasium Friday evening. Members of the R. O. T. C. will play a prominent part in the ceremonies, holding many of the positions on the athletic teams taking part.

Four CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Glove boxers, William Edwards, Jesse Goldsmith, Arthur Harris, and Willie Thomas, school champions, will compete against the champions of Roosevelt High school, Gary, Ind. The preliminary exhibition will be a wrestling match between two members of the school squad.

A feature of the evening will be a basketball game between Phillips and Sumner High school, St. Louis, the undefeated Southwestern High school champions for the last two years. Lucien Garret is coach, and William H. J. Buhut is director of athletics.

New Publicity Officer.

Cadet Robert Smitters has been appointed publicity officer of the Fenger High School R. O. T. C., according to Sergt. W. P. Robinson, instructor.

SCHOOL PUPILS WILL HAVE FIRE PREVENTION DAY

Children to See Exhibit in Loop Wednesday.

Children's day, featuring a special program of pictures, demonstrations, and speeches, at the fire prevention exhibition now being held in the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, will be held on Wednesday, according to Fire Chief Frank McAuliffe, chairman of the Chicago Association of Commerce committee, sponsoring the display.

The display of posters and actual fire equipment used by the fire department in Chicago will be explained by Capt. Matthew Murphy, who will demonstrate the workings of the fire alarm system now in use in the city. A complete system has been installed as part of the display.

Electric lanters, oxygen helmets, fire extinguishers, first aid equipment, life nets, inhalators, scaling ladders, fire axes, and other fire fighting equipment are included in the show. The fire prevention posters made by high school students in a recent contest form a major part of the exhibit.

Included in the posters are the prize winning ones by Harold Scott, Roosevelt High school, and Max Rosen, Sabin branch, Tuley High school.

The exhibition has been open since Jan. 18.

Accordingto Capt. Murphy, who is on hand to answer all questions, the most common query has been, "Are we allowed to use fire alarm boxes?" Many persons think they are for the exclusive use of firemen, he explained.

MT. CARMEL HIGH SCHOOL PARTY TO AID C. Y. O. HOME

A benefit card party for the Catholic Youth Organization home at 2944 South Michigan avenue, will be held under the sponsorship of the Mount Carmel High school student council on Saturday evening in the school gymnasium, 6420 Dante avenue.

The party, which will be the largest undertaking of the student social action program this year, was inspired by a talk given recently by the Rev. Father Vincent Moran, former head of the C. Y. O. home. His explanation of the purpose of the institution, which provides a home for underprivileged youths, created a desire to aid, according to the Rev. Father Aquinas Colgan, O.C., moderator of the school.

Joseph Burgy, 8141 Evans avenue, heads the student committee of arrangements. Other members are: Angelo Demarco, 2865 East 93d street; George Allen, 7737 Saginaw avenue; Richard Palmer, 6322 Ingleside avenue; Walter Birge, 7549 May street; Harry Sweeney, 6436 Kimbark avenue; Corbin Robertson, 8050 Luella avenue; Anthony Kelley, 4436 Emerald avenue, and Joseph Ruzicka, 6505 Minerva avenue.

BRAINERD CLUB WILL GIVE PARTY VALENTINE'S DAY

Program Includes Cards and Dancing.

MRS. THOMAS GIFFORD.

Hearts undoubtedly will be the favorite trumps on Friday evening when the Brainerd Woman's club gives its sixth annual card party at the Ridge park fieldhouse, 96th street and Longwood drive.

The Valentine theme will be further carried out in the decorations and prizes as planned by Mrs. Frank Case. For the guests who prefer it there will be dancing. Mrs. Thomas Gifford, president, will head the receiving line.

The club board will hold its February meeting at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the fieldhouse.

Gage Park Woman's Club.

Public health and welfare day will be observed on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Earl C. Leamon, chairman, will present Dr. Bertha Van Hoosen, who will discuss "The Health Problems of the Middle Aged Woman." Miss Adrienne Guy, accompanied by Miss Winifred Polak, will sing, and Miss Marion Pehler and Mrs. Leamon will give a skit, "Magic." The club also will hold a baby shower for the benefit of the Gage park welfare station.

Chicago Heights Woman's Club.

A lecture-recital of Scandinavian music, given by Mrs. Jennie Vinje in native costume, will be the music department's contribution to the club program on Wednesday afternoon. It will be introduced by Mrs. Raymond Fortmiller, chairman. Mrs. Edwin Hirsch will have charge of the following social hour. The hostesses will be Mrs. Fortmiller, Mrs. G. H. Stanley, Mrs. P. R. Blodget, Mrs. W. E. Busekros, Mrs. H. M. Kimmerle and Mrs. W. P. Dyer.

The February business meeting will be on Tuesday morning at the home of the president, Miss Mable Walters, 1418 Edgewood avenue.

Hamilton Park Woman's Club.

Mrs. Irvin L. Roberts, chairman, will preside at the all day American citizenship meeting on Tuesday. Speakers at the morning session will be Sam Risk, the "Syrian Yankee," and Judge Gutknecht of the trafic court, who will be introduced by Mrs. Forest C. Buel and Mrs. Cortice A. Chancellor, international relations and law observance representatives.

After luncheon Mrs. L. E. Roberts, civil service representative, will present a demonstration of the voting machine. Mrs. Marguerette Harmon Bro will talk on "Our American Frontier," and a children's a cappella chorus from the Parker High school will sing. Special guests will be Mrs. C. M. Dargan, state chairman, and Mrs. J. C. Albrecht, Third district chairman.

The club's new members will be guests at a party on Thursday afternoon. The program will include a play, "Another World." Members in the cast will be Mrs. W. C. MRS. ORA SNYDER.

MRS. WALTER W. SEYMOUR.

With the opening session set for Thursday noon, when Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, former president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, will make the keynote speech, the third annual Woman congress, a nonpartisan forum for the discussion of current affairs under the sponsorship of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will draw hundreds of south side women to the loop this week-end. Among the troop of housewives, club women, business women, civic leaders, parent-teacher association workers and representatives of the professional groups who are planning to attend are Mrs. Herbert H. Siddall, prominent in state and local P.-T. A. work; Mrs. Ora Snyder, business woman and club leader, and Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, a vice president of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN YEAR

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH BERTOCCHI.
[Wolk Photo.]

A golden wedding mass at St. Michael's church, where they have been members since they came from Italy 45 years ago, began their recent 50th wedding anniversary celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bertocchi of 3233 South Claremont avenue.

Their first Chicago home was almost next door to St. Michael's at 24th street and Oakley avenue. About 25 years ago they moved to the Claremont avenue address. Before his retirement six years ago, Mr. Bertocchi was employed at the International Harvester company for 37 years.

They have four daughters and one son, Mrs. Ida Binotti, Mrs. Mary Delvecchio, Mrs. Bertha Burolli, Mrs. Anita Sullivan, and Martin Bertocchi.

DANCE AID

Miss Marge Kean, who is one of the committee planning the dance the newly organized social club of St. Gabriel's parish will hold on Friday evening at the Stock Yard inn, 42d and Halsted streets.

JUDGE OF TRAFIC COURT TO SPEAK AT SAFETY FORUM

Judge John Gutknecht of the trafic court will discuss "The Industrial Man's Interest in Public Safety" tomorrow evening at the Pullman Safety forum at Fenger High school, 112th and Wallace streets.

Because so many were turned away from the last meeting Leonard F. Hartwig, chairman, announces that only adult employés of local manufacturing plants will be admitted hereafter.

After Judge Gutknecht's talk, Edwin J. Wallman, entertainment chairman, will present the following artists: Miss Betty Olson, radio singer; Joyce O'Rourke, 6 year old acrobatic dancer; Harold Otzos, child violinist, and Francis Spuck, dancer.

Brainerd Group to Hold Meeting Tomorrow Night

The Brainerd Improvement association has advanced its meeting date from the second Wednesday evening to the second Monday of the month and, therefore, will meet tomorrow evening at 1340 West 89th street. Frank B. Reynolds, president, will announce the new committees.

to bring messages to the congress. Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, dean of Stoneleigh college and immediate past president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will give the keynote address at the opening session at noon on Thursday. This session, one of the most important of the entire congress, will be only 50 minutes long.

The other national leaders who are to appear on the program are Mrs. Benjamin F. Langworthy, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers; Miss Agnes Samuelson of Des Moines, president of the National Education association; Miss Charl Williams of Washington, D. C., president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs; Mrs. Melville Mucklestone, president of the American Legion auxiliary; Mrs. Arthur Brin of Minneapolis, president of the National Council of Jewish Women; Miss Katherine Williams of Milwaukee, president of the National Council of Catholic Women, and Miss Lena Madesin Phillips, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Dinner on Friday.

In keeping with the international theme of the final session, Miss Phillips will give the closing message of the congress on "Today's Challenge to Women." This final session will be a dinner at 7 o'clock Friday evening in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house. Most organizations have taken one or two tables for the dinner that their members may be seated together.

It is emphasized that each one of the congress sessions will begin promptly at the time scheduled. The entire program is to be delivered on rigid schedule, since an important part of it is to be carried to the outside world over the networks of the Mutual, National and Columbia Broadcasting systems.

Information concerning the congress may be obtained in the headquarters, room 1418 Tribune Tower. In these same headquarters reservations for the dinner at $2 each may be made. If paid for before the congress, tickets will be mailed immediately. If only reservations are made the tickets may be paid for and obtained in the Palmer house foyer during the preceding sessions of the congress.

SCHOOL BUILDING ON SOUTH SIDE TO START THIS WEEK

Delayed by inclement weather, construction of one new south side school and an addition to another, scheduled to start last week, will get under way—if weather permits—by Saturday, John C. Christensen, architect for the board of education, announced last week.

Construction on three other new south side schools which, with the structures on which work is to start this week will cost a total of $753,000, or more than one-third of the $2,000,000 set aside for school construction throughout the city, is to start about March 1, Mr. Christensen said.

Scheduled to start this week are the new Mount Greenwood Elementary school, to be erected at a cost of $263,700 at 109th street and Homan avenue, and the addition to the overcrowded O'Keeffe Elementary school, to cost $100,360, at 6940 Merrill avenue.

The Mount Greenwood school will contain 15 classrooms, a library, kindergarten, gymnasium, assembly hall, clinic, teachers' lunchroom, and a teachers' rest room. The O'Keeffe addition will provide eight new class rooms, and there also will be two new class rooms, a new clinic and shower room in the old building.

Other south side schools to be built include a new elementary building at 86th street and Cregier avenue, to cost $134,000. The building will contain 10 class rooms, a kindergarten, office, reception room and teachers' quarters.

A new elementary school building at West 54th street and Oak Park avenue also is to cost $134,000. The specifications are the same as those for the building at 86th street and Cregier avenue.

A new elementary building at 86th and Wood streets is to cost $121,000.

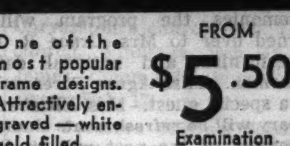
MUMMERS TO GIVE COMEDY BY MEMBER OF SOUTHWEST SIDE

SHERMAN MARKS.

"No Kidding," the comedy that the Mummers will give on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at the Chicago Women's club theater, was written by Sherman Marks, 9031 South Ashland avenue, in collaboration with William F. Madden, sponsor of the players.

Its theme a modern romance, the play has an unusual stage setting—two neighboring apartments with action taking place in each simultaneously throughout the production.

Mr. Marks was largely responsible for the reorganization of the Mummers after their disbandment with the closing of Crane college, where they were organized from the classes in drama instructed by Mr. Madden.



One of the most popular frame designs. Attractively engraved — white gold filled.

is a teaspoonful?

HAVE you ever made a comparison of teaspoons? If so, you have probably noticed that there are teaspoons . . . and teaspoons! Some more pointed than others, some rounder, some deeper—in fact, there are as many variations as generations of silversmiths could devise.

Of course, when you're stirring sugar in your tea or coffee, the exact size of the spoon you use is not of great importance. But there are times when accuracy in size is essential. This is certainly the case when taking medicine.

If your doctor's prescription reads one teaspoonful every two hours, your measurement should be precise. Otherwise you defeat the accuracy exercised by your doctor in writing the prescription and the exactness of your druggist in filling it.

To enable you to follow your doctor's prescription accurately and to assure taking the exact quantity specified, Professional Drug Stores make this special FREE offer of the accurate medicinal measuring spoon, pictured at the right—as part of their program of public service.

This scientifically designed spoon measures out precisely one dram (or 60 minims)—the exact amount specified when your doctor's prescription reads "teaspoonful." It also enables you to determine accurately ½ teaspoonful, a valuable aid in measuring children's doses. The spoon has a convenient dial and indicator on the handle, which may be set to remind you when the next dose should be taken.

Call at your nearest Professional Drug Store and receive this unique Medicinal Measuring Spoon—a valuable addition to your medicine cabinet. Every home should have one.

FREE!

This double plated 5-inch Medicinal Measuring Spoon, graduated for accurate measuring of 1 teaspoonful and ½ teaspoonful, and with "next dose" dial on handle. Bring this advertisement to your nearest Professional Drug Store and receive Spoon FREE, while quantity lasts.

Following the The auxiliary of 122d Field Artillery post, No. 236, of the American charter presentation and initiation ceremonies the program will be turned over to Mrs. Grace R. Fyfe, Americanism and national defense chairman. Miss Agnes Foreman will be a special guest. Mrs. Elizabeth M. Cleary will be refreshments chairman. Members of the post will be in attendance.

A feature of the Lincoln Memorial meeting of Grand Crossing post, No. 438, to be held tomorrow night at 7435 Cottage Grove avenue, will be the awarding of school medals. Mrs. Otto Brigel, president of the auxiliary, will assist the presiding officer, Commander John Donahue.

Bud Singman, chairman of the meeting, will present the Legion medals to George Ames and Marian Huggins of Cornell school.

"Lincoln the Man" will be the subject of an address by Grenville Beardsley, former assistant state's attorney. Among the invited guests are the principal and teachers of Cornell school, Ald. Michael F. Mulcahy, Capt. Patrick Brady of the Grand Crossing police station, Judge Mathew D. Hartigan, and Sidney T. Holzman, Cook county council commander.

Three Links post, No. 361, meeting Saturday night at 6455 South Marshfield avenue, will witness the installation of officers of the post's Boys' squadron by Joseph Dorfman, state squadron chairman. The squadron will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at 6035 South Hermitage avenue.

Next Sunday the post will assist the unit in sponsoring a trip to the Veterans' Convalescent camp at Orland. The group will leave 63d street and Western avenue at 4:45 o'clock. Transportation will be provided for those without cars.

Announcement is made that veterans of the southwest side may obtain complete service for their bonus applications at the offices of the Englewood Business Men's association, 6300 South Halsted street.

Marshall Field & Co. post, No. 11, will have a Mardi Gras festival Saturday night in the Grand ballroom on the second floor of the Merchandise mart. There will be dancing, fun making, and music by a champion legion comedy band.

The next regular meeting of Jane A. Delano [nurses'] post, No. 185, will be held tomorrow night at the First district nursing headquarters, 8 South Michigan avenue. A session of the executive committee will precede the regular meeting. Members are asked to come prepared to relate a comic army story. Refreshments will be served.

Van Buren post squadron, No. 401, Sons of the Legion, will be presented with its colors by the post at a meeting to be held next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Atlantic hotel. All members of the post and their families are invited to attend.

Featuring Corey Lynn and his band and a floor show headed by acts from loop hotels, Chipilly-131st Infantry post will give its annual "A Night in Bar-le-Duc" cabaret party Saturday night at the armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue. Joe Wallace will be master of ceremonies.

Last year 2,500 attended the party, funds from which are used to care for the needy. E. J. Quinn is chairman of the arrangements committee consisting of Fred Prescott, Frank Bernier and Walter Heener.

Mrs. Melville Muckelstone, national president of the American Legion auxiliary, will be a special guest at the dinner to be given by Chicago Police post Tuesday night on the 14th floor, 32 West Randolph street. The dinner signalizes the first official visit of J. Ray Murphy, national commander of the Legion.

Heads of all state, county and city law enforcing agencies will be present for the first time, women will be guests at this law enforcement dinner, bringing the greetings of the auxiliary.

Other women guests will include Mrs. W. Glenn Suthers, department president of the auxiliary; Mrs. George Cassidy, county president; Mrs. Mary Brookman, first district director, and Mrs. James Cull, president of Police post auxiliary.

Sidney Holzman, Cook county commander, will preside as toastmaster. The national commander will speak on the phase of the Legion preamble "To Maintain Law and Order." George Sugarman is general chairman of arrangements.

Members of the committee to welcome National Commander Murphy and National President Mrs. Muckelstone are J. B. Murphy, department commander; Mathew Murphy, senior vice commander; Percy Brautigan, first district commander, and John T. O'Malley, comander of Police post.

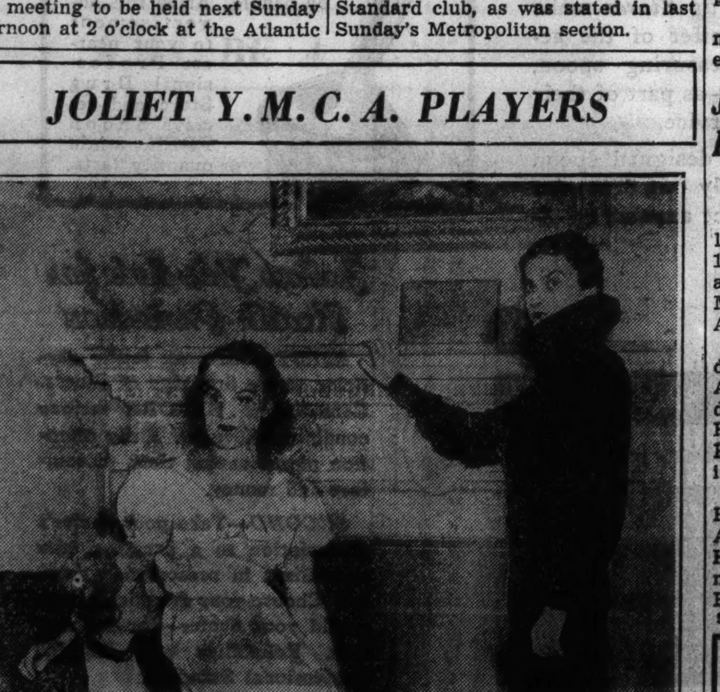
BEG YOUR PARDON

The benefit dance of the David M. Grodsky Jr. aid will be held next Sunday in the Covenant club, 10 North Dearborn street, instead of the Standard club, as was stated in last Sunday's Metropolitan section.

JOLIET Y. M. C. A. PLAYERS



The scene is from "Children of the Moon," which will be presented on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings at the Farragut school auditorium in Joliet by the Y. M. C. A. Players. The picture shows Miss Mary Cousins Rompel (left) as Madame Atherton, Miss Velma Holt, who is seated on the arm of her chair, as her granddaughter, Jane Atherton, and Miss Lois Zarley as the daughter-in-law, Laura Atherton.

LITHUANIAN CHORUS VENTURES INTO OPERA

The scene is from "Cavalleria Rusticana" as it will be presented this afternoon at the Chicago Sokol hall, 2343 South Kedzie avenue, by the Chicago Lithuanian chorus "Pirmyn." The opera, which will be sung in Lithuanian from scores obtained from Lithuanian State Opera company, is the chorus' first venture in grand opera. Charles F. Stephen is director. The photograph shows Mrs. Stephen as Santuzza, pleading with Turridu, in the person of John S. Romanos, while Lola, who is portrayed by Miss Aldona Grigonis, coquettishly invites him to escort her to church. Miss Ona Skiver, as Lucia, is at the extreme left. The peasants in the background are Miss Estelle Rimkus and Louis Tenzis.

NEW SOUTH AREA GROUP OBTAINS TRAFIC LIGHTS

Two Signals Promised Early in Spring.

Trafic improvements sought by the South Area council of the Chicago Motor club, organized four months ago to provide a means of coöperation between community improvement groups and the club, will soon be realized, council members were told last Tuesday at the regular meeting in the Hayes hotel, 64th street and University avenue.

Z. A. Faulkner, trafic engineer for the club, who has conducted several studies at the council's request, told the members that as a result of their request trafic control lights would be installed this spring at 95th street and Vincennes avenue at the Rock Island railroad grade crossing. The lights will be synchronized with the crossing signals. Additional signals will be installed, he said, at 68th street and Stony Island avenue, where a 16 hour trafic check last fall recorded 22,182 vehicles passing the intersection.

Street to Be Widened.

Another improvement sought by the council, the widening and repaving of Vincennes avenue from 95th street to 107th street, has been included in the city pavement program for the year, Mr. Faulkner said. The street will be widened from 24 feet to 29 feet and resurfaced with concrete. "No parking" signs are to be placed along both sides of Yale avenue south of the Normal Park station of the Rock Island lines at Marquette street.

Other improvements requested by the council in January were installation of trafic signals at 69th street and Vincennes avenue and at 87th and Halsted streets. New pavement has recently been laid at both intersections, Mr. Faulkner reported, necessitating a new trafic count to determine if lights are necessary.

Ask New Trafic System.

Roy F. Healey, 8746 Loomis street, a member of the council executive committee, reported that southeast business groups are drawing up petitions to the park board to support the council's suggestion to fix the trafic signals on Michigan avenue, south of 22d street and on South Parkway, south of 26th street, at the amber signal after midnight. The proposal, which if carried out would eliminate stops at intersections, is intended to prevent night holdups of motorists. Cross trafic signals would be fixed at red.

Among the civic organizations represented at the meeting were the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, South Chicago Business association, the Catholic Women's league, Illinois Club for Catholic Women, the Morgan Park Improvement association, the Auburn Park Chamber of Commerce, the South Side Business Men's association, the Englewood Woman's club, the Arche club, the Ridge Civic council, the Conservation council and the West Auburn Community council.

21 P.-T. A. GROUPS CELEBRATE 39TH YEAR THIS WEEK

National Founders' Day Leads Activities.

Candle Lighting services and other special festivities in celebration of the 39th anniversary of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, founded on Feb. 17, 1897, in Washington, D. C., predominate in P.-T. A. activities on the southwest side this week.

Mrs. Erling Lunde will talk on "Citizenship" at the Lindblom High school association's observance on Thursday afternoon. She will be introduced by Mrs. C. B. Murphy. The program also will include vocal numbers by Mrs. Arthur Hall. Past presidents will be special guests.

The association will present Mrs. Lunde in a public lecture and demonstration of the automatic voting machine in the evening of the same day at the Gage park fieldhouse, 55th street and Western avenue. Members of neighboring P.-T. A.'s are invited to attend.

The Calumet P.-T. A. will hold its celebration tomorrow afternoon at the Westcott branch, the building which first housed the high school and where the local association was organized. "A Pageant in Poetry," written and directed by Mrs. Clarence G. Ellsworth and depicting the history of the national congress, will be given by the members and the Girls' Glee club. Mrs. E. H. Smith and Miss Kathryn B. Coyle will impersonate the founders, Mrs. Theodore Birney and Mrs. Phoebe Hearst. Mrs. Edward B. Jackson, state membership chairman, will speak and the music will be by the high school orchestra.

A "cherry bake" contest will share the spotlight with the founders' day celebration on Friday afternoon at the John W. Cook P.-T. A. Mrs. M. E. Millis, ways and means chairman, and Mrs. A. H. Mendelsohn, homemaking chairman, are joint promoters of the competition in which any home baked dish containing cherries may be entered. Entries afterwards will be placed on sale. Mrs. Charles W. Balch, recreation chairman of the Illinois congress, will speak on "Lighting the Torch" at the anniversary program.

"A Means for Better Living" will be Mrs. Clark L. Reed's subject at the O'Toole celebration on Tuesday afternoon. A vocal solo by Mrs. Thomas Craig will accompany the candle lighting ceremony.

"The Significance of Founders' Day," explained by Mrs. J. W. Belt, first vice president, will be a feature of the celebration at Harper High school on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Clark L. Reed, district director, and Edward J. Stanek, science instructor, also will speak. After the meeting Mrs. W. H. Kempf will serve a Valentine tea.

The Earle P.-T. A. will celebrate on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Walter H. Buhlig, director of the Illinois congress and a chairman in the national organization, will speak, and charter members who organized the association in 1900 will be special guests.

"Two Mothers Learn About the P.-T. A.," a playlet, will introduce the past presidents at the Kershaw association's founders' day meeting on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Holland Flagler, state chairman of education, will speak and the Kershaw Mothers' chorus will sing. Members who will take part in the playlet are Mrs. John Oakley, Mrs. M. A. Kugelberg, Mrs. George Anderson and Mrs. Charles Jones. Mrs. Bessie Stocker will have charge of the social hour.

C. E. Wade of the Chicago College of Commerce will discuss "Character vs. Blocks" at the Beale association celebration and parents' night on Friday evening. The program also will include a reading by Mrs. Alec G. Blair and a vocal solo by Mrs. E. Katherine Swasey.

"Lighting the Torch" will be Mrs. Charles W. Balch's subject at the Gunsaulus P.-T. A. observance on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Howard Gentine, Mrs. William Newman and Mrs. Donald Bergstrom, past presidents, will be special guests.

The executive board will meet on Wednesday morning to plan and make posters for the association's exhibit at the state convention.

The school children will contribute "An Ideal Birthday Cake" to the Tonti association founders' day celebration on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. J. L. Alexander, program chairman of the central west council, will speak.

Mrs. H. H. Siddall, first president who is now homemaking chairman of the Illinois congress, will be founders' day speaker on Thursday afternoon at the Mount Vernon P. T.-A. Her subject will be "Our Job as Homemakers." The homemaking class will exhibit its handiwork, and Mrs. Gerald Lockrey and Mrs. R. S. Pfister will give the musical part of the program.

Music by the Mothers' chorus and a playlet, "Housekeeper of Homemaker," will make up the celebration program at the Clara Barton P.-T. A. on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. H. W. Graef, second vice president, is planning the Founders' day program for the Barnard P.-T. A. on Tuesday afternoon. The history of the association will be narrated by its past presidents during the candle lighting ceremony, and Mrs. John P. Lemmer and Mrs. William A. Wallace, assisted by the Mothersingers' chorus, will give a skit, "What Mrs. B. Learned About P.-T. A." Mrs. J. R. Fulton will be soloist.

The Clissold P.-T. A. will combine its celebration with the Fathers' night program on Friday evening. After a tour of the school, there will be a hobby exhibit, at which time Mrs. Joe Stone will talk on "Leisure Time." The principal speaker will be Daniel J. Beeby, district superintendent of Chicago schools, who will discuss "Progressive Thinking in Elementary Schools."

Mrs. W. S. Hefferan will be guest speaker at the Fort Dearborn branch association's Founders' day meeting on Tuesday afternoon. Birthday cake will be served at the Valentine tea after the program.

The sixth of the series of card parties, sponsored by the association, will be on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. B. Leibforth, 8837 South Hermitage avenue. Mrs. Leland Wagner, first president, will be a special guest.

"Progressing in the P.-T. A Movement for the Sake of Childhood" will be discussed by Mrs. Clark L. Reed at the Morrill association's Founders' day celebration tomorrow afternoon. After the candle lighting service, the nominating committee will be appointed.

Mrs. H. C. Johnson will be guest speaker at the Fulton P.-T. A observance tomorrow afternoon.

The executive board of the Fort Dearborn P.-T. A. will meet tomorrow afternoon.

Eleven past presidents will participate in the candle lighting ceremony that will be a part of the Fernwood P.-T. A. Founders' day celebration on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Peter Buikema is chairman. Mrs. W. S. Wagenhals and Mrs. J. F. Nichols will have charge of the social hour.

Mrs. Harry Halverson, Mrs. Jules Boand, and Mrs. Paul Sanders, past presidents, will present the program at the West Pullman association's celebration on Tuesday afternoon. Afterwards, the nominating committee will report and refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Walter H. Buhlig will be guest speaker at the Yale P.-T. A.'s Founders' day program on Thursday afternoon. Charter members and past presidents will be special guests.

The United Mothersingers of Districts 1 and 25 will meet for rehersal tomorrow afternoon at the Hamilton park fieldhouse, 72d street and Normal boulevard.

Miss Marie Brewster, principal of the Bryn Mawr school, will discuss "A Modern Education and Its Implications" before the Midlothian P.-T. A. tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas A. Valvoda recently was chosen to head the nominating committee of the Sawyer Avenue P.-T. A. Members of the committee are Mrs. Edward Leonard, Mrs. William Fenn, Mrs. Joseph Jezek, and Joseph B. Shine.

The executive board of the Marquette P.-T. A. will meet on Friday afternoon in the school library.

SOUTH SIDE WILL JOIN CITY-WIDE LINCOLN RITES

Program Will Climax Group Activities.

The south side will join with the city and country at large on Wednesday in commemorating the 127th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. Its observance, in addition to taking the traditional form of school, club, and patriotic group activities, will include participation in a city-wide celebration to be held that evening at the Civic Opera house under the auspices of the Lincoln day committee.

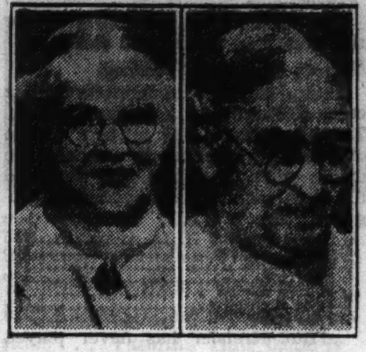
The celebration is designed to serve as a fitting climax to the more informal group observances. Julius Miner, director of the committee, said last week that all patriotic organizations have been invited to take part and that their participation will be general. The veterans' organizations are handling the distribution of free tickets.

The program will open with a musical prolog including civil war compositions and will feature a dramatic production depicting the highlights in the career of the Great Emancipator. The production, directed by Laurence Paquin, will employ authentic relics of Lincoln's time and will utilize the extensive stage facilities of the Civic Opera house.

Symbolical of the reconciliation of the factional differences, which but for the indomitable character of Lincoln once would have split the country in two, will be the inclusion in the cast of representatives of both the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans.

The Lincoln day committee was organized through the stimulus of a group of leaders of ex-service men's organizations. Mr. Miner, the committee's head, directed the 1934 and 1935 Constitution day celebrations.

TWIN SISTERS 88



MRS. HERMAN OHLENDORF. MRS. HERMAN MARTIN.

Along with the nation's two greatest Presidents, February also is the birth month for Mrs. Herman Martin and Mrs. Herman Ohlendorf, twins, born in Germany 88 years ago. They started life as triplets, a sister having died at the age of eleven.

Mrs. Martin resides with her daughter, Miss Alvena Martin, at Dwight, Ill. Mrs. Ohlendorf resides with a daughter, Mrs. Edgar Wilt, 6218 South Talman avenue.

Both are widows, but each celebrated her golden wedding. They are aunts of E. H. Waterman, 650 Lenox road, Glen Ellyn, and recently visited in the suburb.

LOAN BUSINESS GROUP TO HONOR LEAGUE OFFICER

Four hundred managers and directors of savings and building and loan associations in Chicago are to attend the dinner honoring Morton Bodfish, executive vice president of the United States Building and Loan league Wednesday evening in the Sherry hotel, 53d street and Hyde Park boulevard. The south end group of the Chicago building and loan business men is sponsoring the dinner.

NEGRO SINGERS SEEK ART PLACE FOR SPIRITUALS

Group Opens Episcopal Church Tour Here Today.

Preservation of what is claimed to be the only original American music—the Negro spirituals—is the objective of a group of Negro singers who will make appearances in several churches of the city during the coming week.

The group is from schools of the American Church Institute for Negroes, an Episcopal church organization. They come from several of the nine colleges and normal schools which the institute maintains in southern states.

The group will open their Chicago tour at Grace church, Oak Park, at the 11 o'clock service this morning. In the afternoon at 4, they will appear at Church of the Redeemer, 56th and Blackstone avenue, and in the evening at 6:30, at St. Bartholomew's, 67th and Stewart avenue.

Other concerts will be given at St. Chrysostom's church, Feb. 11; Christ church, Winnetka, Feb. 16, and St. James' Community house, 666 Rush street, Feb. 17.

Preserve Original Settings.

Dr. Robert N. Patton of New York, educator and director of the American Church institute, is accompanying the group.

The institute, according to Dr. Patton, has as one of its objectives the preservation of the Negro spirituals as originally created. He says the spirituals are looked upon as a work of art and that the institute is seeking to give them a permanent place in the world's field of art.

The Negro singers render the spirituals without accompaniment, in order, as far as possible, to preserve the original setting of the songs and because the usual instrumental accompaniment cannot express the many delicate tones and half tones which give to the spirituals their subtle appeal.

The origin of the spirituals, Dr. Patton points out, is deep in centuries of suffering, aspiration and more recently in the faith that somewhere, somehow the Saviour will rule in righteousness and "wipe all tears away."

The institute comprises one of the largest programs of Negro education in the United States, with some 13,000 Negro students enrolled in regular and part-time classes.

Schools Teach Trades.

The schools are primarily trades schools, teaching all branches of industry, agriculture, teacher training, good citizenship, domestic science and art and similar subjects. Two hundred officers and teachers and other workers direct the work of the schools.

HERE'S DETAILED TABULATION OF AIR CRITICS' POLL

Benny, Vallee, Allen Are Three Top Notchers.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Detailed tabulation of the results in the fifth annual radio editors' poll, conducted under the auspices of the New York World Telegram, are given below. Altogether 239 critics in the United States and Canada participated.

The vote on critics' favorite programs:

1.	Jack Benny	240
2.	Rudy Vallee Hour	91
3.	Fred Allen	90
4.	Maj. Bowes' Amateur Hour	85
5.	Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians	53
6.	Philharmonic Symphony orchestra	49
7.	George Burns and Gracie Allen	41
8.	CBS Radio Theater	36
9.	March of Time	35
10.	Hollywood Hotel	31
11.	Richard Crooks-Nelson Eddy	27
12.	Bing Crosby Hour	25
13-14.	Amos 'n' Andy; One Man's Family	24
15-17.	Paul Whiteman's Orchestra, Metropolitan Opera, and Phil Baker	20
18.	Erno Rapee Symphony Orchestra	19
19.	Magic Key	18
20.	Your Hit Parade	17

Maj. Bowes finishing fourth may surprise many fans. Many listeners' surveys show him first. The critics' poll, however, in the past has foretold changes. Last year listeners' surveys still showed Eddie Cantor near the top, but the critics' poll indicated that he was slipping. This year's listeners' surveys bear that out.

Benny First Comedian.

In the comedy class Benny was also an easy first. The good showing of Bob Burns, a newcomer, would seem to indicate that his will be a big name before the year is out. The ten leading comedians and the votes:

1.	Jack Benny	501
2.	Fred Allen	261
3.	George Burns and Gracie Allen	137
4.	Phil Baker	89
5.	Eddie Cantor	85
6.	Bob Burns	43
7.	Amos 'n' Andy	38
8.	Stoopnagle and Budd	27
9.	Pick and Pat	24
10.	Walter O'Keefe	16

Joe Penner was in third place last year, Ed Wynn sixth.

Lombardo Leads Orchestras.

Despite the fact that Guy Lombardo's sponsored show is aired only on the eastern seaboard and his sustaining broadcasts have been limited, he is in first place again among dance orchestras and by a greater margin than last year. The vote:

.1	Guy Lombardo	251
2.	Wayne King	158
3.	Ray Noble	134
4.	Casa Loma	89
5.	Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians	87
6.	Richard Himber	82
7.	Eddie Duchin	65
8.	Paul Whiteman	62
9.	Horace Heidt	46
10.	Hal Kemp	41
11.	Ben Bernie	38
12.	Benny Goodman	30
13.	Jan Garber	29
14.	Ozzie Nelson	26
15-16.	Isham Jones and Abe Lyman	18

Names new to the list since last year are Ray Noble, Horace Heidt, and Benny Goodman.

Kate Smith on Top.

The fact that several of radio's best known girl singers have been turning to the movies has brought some changes in this division. Jane Froman was first last year, and though she made but a few guest appearances this year she still ranked third. The standing:

1.	Kate Smith	165
2.	Frances Langford	105
3.	Jane Froman	100
4.	Connie Boswell	77
5.	Ramona	72
6.	Deane Janis	55
7.	Gertrude Niesen	50
8.	Jessica Dragonette	49
9.	Ruth Etting	41
10.	Ethel Shutta	40
11-12.	Loretta Lee and Benny Venuta	38
13.	Gogo de Lys	25
14.	Virginia Rea	20
15.	Irene Beasley	19

Frances Langford and Deane Janis are receiving their first national recognition this year.

Crosby Tops Male Singers.

The ranking of the first four male singers remains the same as last year. The rating:

1.	Bing Crosby	342
2.	Frank Parker	189
3.	Lanny Ross	130
4.	James Melton	98
5.	Dick Powell	65
6.	Kenny Baker	56
7.	Rudy Vallee	44
8.	Morton Downey	41
9.	Conrad Thibault	39
10.	Frank Munn	37
11.	Nelson Eddy	27
12.	Jerry Cooper	22

Kenny Baker of the Jack Benny program and Jerry Cooper are new names on the list.

Stokowski and Toscanini.

Leopold Stokowski and Arturo Toscanini again lead all other symphonic conductors. Erno Rapee, by virtue of conducting those Sunday evening concerts on NBC, jumped into third place. The Rapee programs have been lighter in tone this year than last. The standing:

1.	Leopold Stokowski	272
2.	Arthuro Toscanini	193
3.	Erno Rapee	157
4.	Victor Kolar	88
5.	Frank Black	72
6.	Andre Kostelanetz	56
7.	Otto Klemperer	56
8.	Eugene Ormandy	49
9.	Howard Barlow	35
10.	Walter Damrosch	30

Walter Damrosch slipped from fifth place last year to tenth this season.

Tibbett First for 4th Year.

For the fourth year Lawrence Tibbett easily leads the serious singers. Of the first thirteen, eleven are Metropolitan Opera singers. Only Nelson Eddy and Jessica Dragonette are not. The vote:

1.	Lawrence Tibbett	336
2.	Lily Pons	189
3.	Grace Moore	152
4.	Nelson Eddy	142
5.	Gladys Swarthout	85
6.	John Charles Thomas	81
7.	Richard Crooks	75
8.	Nino Martini	57
9.	Jessica Dragonette	54
10.	Rosa Ponselle	20
11.	Kirsten Flagstad	20
12.	Helen Jepson	16
13.	Lucrezia Bori	15

7. H. V. Kaltenborn 23

Burns Brightest New Star.

The vote on new stars was particularly decisive this year. Bob Burns, the bazook tooting comedian, was an easy winner. Maj. Bowes was not considered by many critics because he has been on the air for a decade with his Capital Family broadcasts. The results:

1.	Bob Burns	143
2.	Maj. Bowes	51
3.	Kenny Baker	36
4.	Eleanor Powell	33
5.	Ray Noble	24
6.	Nelson Eddy and Frances Langford	18
7-10.	Francia White, Fibber McGee, and Leslie Howard	12

Mills Brothers in Front.

In harmony teams the same order prevails in the first two places as last year:

1.	Mills Brothers	240
2.	Boswell Sisters	167
3.	Pickens Sisters	121
4.	Revelers	118
5.	King's Men	70
6.	Yacht Club Boys	51
7.	Men About Town	36
8.	Babs Ryan and Her Brothers	30
9.	Eton Boys	27

The Pickens Sisters this year for the first time passed the Revelers.

Heifetz Close to Spalding.

Among the instrumentalists Heifetz came close to winning from Spalding. Though Heifetz only made a couple of guest appearances throughout the entire year, Spalding was featured for some months on a sponsored program. The tally.

1.	Albert Spalding	165
2.	Jascha Heifetz	160
3.	Jose Iturbi	141
4.	Rubinoff	140
5.	Mischa Elman	31
6.	Fritz Kreisler	29
7.	Jesse Crawford	16

[But Kreisler has never played on the air.]

Husing Leads Sportscasters.

Though Ted Husing hurled a lot of epithets at radio critics in his new book, "Ten Years Before the Microphone," they did not retaliate when evaluating the sports critics. Their choices:

1.	Ted Husing	477
2.	Hal Totten	39
3.	Clem McCarthy	33
4.	Graham McNamee	27
5.	Bob Elson	14

This was Bob Elson's first season on the national scene. He made his network bow over Mutual last fall handling the world series.

Wallington and Von Zell.

Though Cantor has slipped, the critics still like his announcer, Jimmy Wallington, the best. Fred Allen's man, Von Zell, has come up, too.

1.	Jimmy Wallington	105
2.	Harry von Zell	71
3.	Don Wilson	62
4.	David Ross	60
5.	Alois Havrilla	54
6.	Milton Cross	53
7.	Graham McNamee	35
8.	John Young	27

Don Wilson, who assists Jack Benny, was in third place.

Hill Noses Out Carter.

1.	Edwin C. Hill	156
2.	Boake Carter	153
3.	Lowell Thomas	141
4.	Alexander Woollcott	56
5.	John B. Kennedy	45
6.	Walter Winchell	24

Waring Wins Again.

Fred Waring's program received first rating as it has for several seasons among musical programs. It is interesting to note that the fine Philharmonic and G. M. Symphony concert series were in second and third places.

1.	Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians	156
2.	Philharmonic Symphony orchestra	51
3.	Erno Rapee Symphony orchestra	38
4-5.	Paul Whiteman's orchestra and Your Hit Parade	36
6.	Andre Kostelanetz Programs	33
7.	Detroit Symphony orchestra	32
8-9.	Rudy Vallee Hour and Richard Crooks-Nelson Eddy programs	27
10.	Jessica Dragonette Hour	24
11.	Beauty Box Operettas	20

"Show Boat" was one that dropped out of the top ranking. It has undergone considerable change the last year.

Radio Theater Again.

The CBS Radio Theater with its guest stars was an easy winner again in the dramatic division. The vote:

1.	Radio Theater	183
2.	One Man's Family	87
3.	March of Time	83
4.	Leslie Howard	78
5.	First Nighter	51
6.	Helen Hayes	30
7.	Roses and Drums	27
8.	Cavalcade of America	15

Miss Wicker Improves Lead.

Ireene Wicker, the Singing Lady, made her lead more substantial than ever this year among juvenile programs. The standing:

1.	Singing Lady	177
2.	Little Orphan Annie	66
3.	Buck Rogers	42
4.	Popeye	33
5.	Let's Pretend	27
6.	White Rabbit Line	21

Ida Allen Again.

The vote on household advice programs:

1.	Ida Bailey Allen	93
2.	Josephine Gibson	75
3.	Betty Crocker	51
4.	Women's Radio Revue	18

The two big networks tied in their poll showing with six winners each and one appearing on both. NBC: Benny, Crosby, Ireene Wicker [on W-G-N], Edwin C. Hill, Ida Bailey, Bob Burns. CBS: Kate Smith, Guy Lombardo, Tibbett, Radio Theater, Husing, and Wallington. Waring is on both nets. Other winners are not on the air just now.

Among W-G-N's names that scored in addition to Miss Wicker were Orphan Annie, Wayne King, Bob Elson, Loretta Lee, Horace Heidt, Jan Garber, and Hal Kemp.

TWO SINGERS AND AN ACTRESS

Alice Day, pretty Boston blues singer, has been named to succeed Jeannine as star of the "Lilac Time" series, heard over W-G-N and Mutual at 6:15 each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Vivian della Chiesa, who last year won WBBM's unknown singer contest, now is the featured songstress on the CBS Musical Footnotes program and the Stars of the Milky Ways series.

FEUERMANN TO BE SOLOIST ON RAPEE PROGRAM

Emanuel Feuermann, Austrian cellist, will be the guest soloist with the 70 piece Symphony orchestra conducted by Erno Rapee in the concert to be broadcast over WMAQ and NBC at 9 tonight.

Feuermann will be the first cellist presented on the General Motors concerts' hour in the current season. He is visiting America for the second time.

The soloist and orchestra have prepared a program of variety from among the compisitions of Nicolai, Popper, Tschaikowsky, Massenet, Dvorak, Granados, Saint-Saëns, and Borodin.

EDDIE STANLEY NEW FUNNYBONE FOLLIES' PILOT

Jess Kirkpatrick Also to Be Featured.

Eddie Stanley, comedian and master of ceremonies, and Jess Kirkpatrick, singer and gag man, will make their bow on the W-G-N Funnybone Follies from 4 to 5 today in the audience studio of the new W-G-N building. This pair of entertainers, well known throughout the country, are to be headlined on the full hour program of comedy and music with the W-G-N dance orchestra, directed by Harold Stokes.

Eddie Stanley is well known to radio listeners. He has appeared on Rudy Vallee's programs and Al Jolson's revues. He is a composer and a musician as well as a brilliant master of ceremonies and fast talking gag man.

Jess Kirkpatrick will be heard as one of the vocalists on the program singing "I Feel Like a Feather in the Breeze" as a solo number, and with Judy and Her Jesters in presenting "Everybody Likes My Baby." The Doring Sisters, George Wald, Anita Boyer, and Gunther Decker will also be heard on the program, while Henry Hoople, comedian, will add his usual character comedy to the hour of fun. Tom, Dick, and Harry are off the Follies to fill some theater engagements.

At 6 tonight the Evensong program in the studio will present the choir of the Rogers Park Congregational church, under the direction of William Phillips. The Rev. Stanley Crossland Jr. will lead the prayer.

Helen Bartush, mezzo-contralto, will be the soloist with the Northerners at 9:30 tomorrow.

Alice Baenziger, soprano, and Attilio Baggiore, W-G-N staf tenor, will be heard with the W-G-N Concert orchestra at 9 p. m. Tuesday.

The W-G-N Mardi Gras of Melody will occupy studio 1 at 9:30 Wednesday evening with a half hour program by the dance orchestra directed by Harold Stokes, Sally Jo Nelson, Bob Hannon, the W-G-N vocal ensemble, and Dudley Crafts Watson. On Thursday evening Leola Turner, soprano, and William Miller, tenor, will be vocal soloists, and Grace Nelson, pianist, instrumental solist, on the Musical Review program.

Behind the Camera Lines, starring June Meredith, and produced by Charles P. Hughes, will present a thrilling mystery story, "The Ghost of Haddock Hall," at 9:30 Friday evening.

ON MARDI GRAS OF MELODY

Harold Stokes, W-G-N Dance band director, and his singing ensemble, composed of the Doring Sisters trio and the Grenadiers quartet, who are heard on many W-G-N musical productions and featured at present on the "Mardi Gras of Melody," heard from the main studio at 9:30 p. m. Wednesdays. Left to right: Stokes, Bob Trandler, pianist; the Dorings, Ruth, Marion, and Grace; Gunther Decker, and Lewis Wareham. Seated: Wayne Van Dine and Phil Caulkin.

NOGUCHI TO BE SUBJECT TODAY ON SCIENCE HOUR

The "Masters of Science" program of the University Broadcasting council, which will be heard over W-G-N at 3:30 o'clock today, will present a dramatization of the life of Hideyo Noguchi, famous Japanese scientist who became famous for his work with yellow fever. Dr. Gustave F. Struve, noted South American physician visiting in Chicago and a personal friend of the Japanese, has supplied most of the data for the UBC dramatization.

A critical examination of Russia's place in world affairs is the subject of this morning's Northwestern Reviewing Stand on W-G-N Mutual. Prof. Tracy Strevey and Prof. Ernest O. Lauer will participate in the discussion.

"The Last Puritan" by George Santayana has been chosen by Prof. Percy Holmes Boynton as the subject of his review over W-G-N at 7 tonight.

Dr. James Welden Johnson, professor of Creative Literature at Fiske university, will be the speaker at 11 a. m. today on the chapel service.

JAMES A. REED TALK TO GRAIN DEALERS ON W-G-N AND MUTUAL NET

James A. Reed, former United States senator, will deliver the principal address before members of the Farmers' Grain Dealers' Association of Illinois at the banquet of the thirty-third annual convention of the association at the Hotel La Salle next Tuesday evening and his address will be broadcast by W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system and Yankee network.

Mr. Reed's address, entitled "American Institutions and the New Deal," will be heard at 9:30 p. m. over the Mutual Broadcasting system network and the entire Yankee network. His address will be one of the high spots of the three day convention of representatives of agriculture of the state. His appearance was arranged through Homer B. Grommon, president of the Illinois association and the Farmers' National Grain Dealers' association.

Songfellows to Be Guests on Friendly Neighbor Party

The Songfellows, young male quartet, will join the W-G-N Friendly Neighbor's House Party as guest stars this week, daily at 10 a. m. Close natural harmony, unique arrangements, and a repertory extending from "hot" popular tunes and novelties to the semi-classical songs give their programs a variety not usually found in straight male quartets.

Prepare Piers on Dry Land for Seaport of Future in Oregon

[Acme Photo.]

NO OCEAN YET BUT PIERS ARE BEING BUILT FOR SEAPORT—Residents of The Dalles, Ore., are looking forward to the day when ocean steamers will visit their "port," although the city is situated 200 miles from the Pacific ocean. A series of 2,000 foot piers are under construction and are to be finished by the time the Bonneville dam across the Columbia river is completed and backwater from the dam will create a port at The Dalles.

NORTH SIDE AUTO SHOW WILL OPEN NEXT SATURDAY

North side automobile dealers will open their largest show in history, the 13th annual Motor Salon, Saturday at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The show, featuring 75 models of 23 makes, will continue through Sunday, Feb. 23.

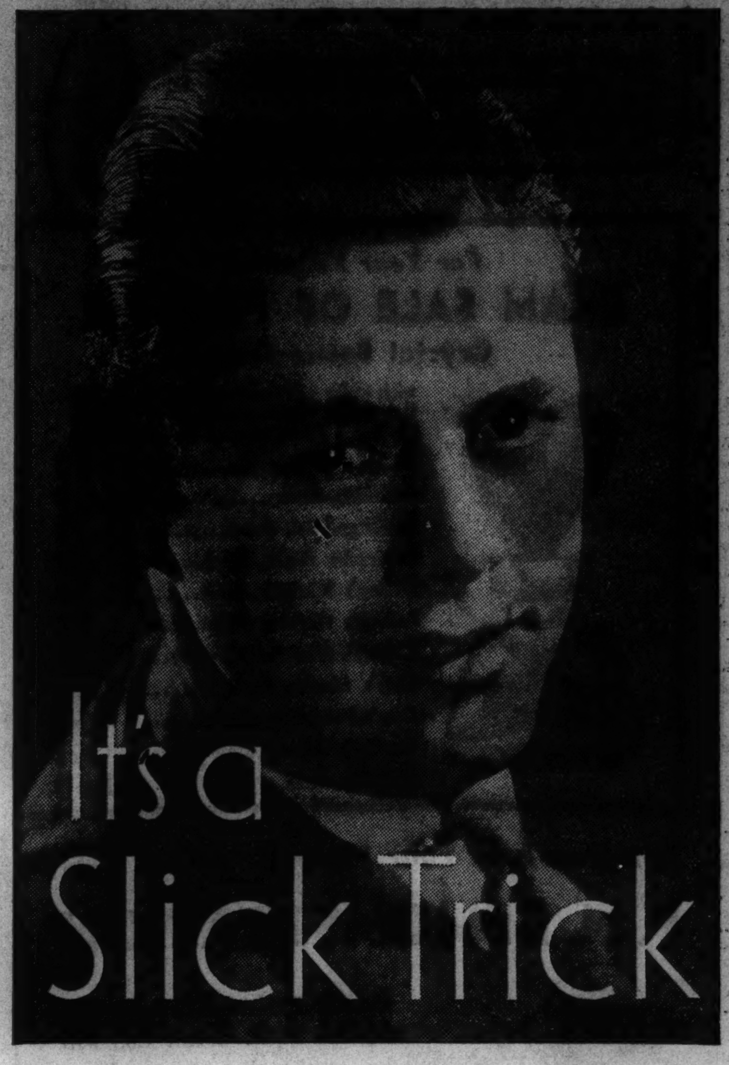
With automobile buying at its highest peak in several years, dealers and manufacturers alike were predicting last week that the traditional Edgewater Beach show will give a final impetus to sales that will maintin if not exceed the new records.

George Lynn is chairman of the show committee which includes also James F. Goodwin, Paul Smithson, W. E. Delaney and S. B. Herbison.

Stock and de luxe models to be shown will include those of Auburn, Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Chrysler, Cord, Dodge, Ford, Graham-Paige, Hudson, Hupmobile, Lafayette, La Salle, Lincoln, Nash, Oldsmobile, Packard, Pierce-Arrow, Pontiac, Plymouth, Studebaker, Terraplane, and Lincoln-Zephyr.

Tribune Economist Will Address B'Nai Zion Club

R. D. Cahn, economist on the staf of THE TRIBUNE, will speak on "Some Thoughts on the Present Economic Position," before the Men's club of B'Nai Zion tomorrow evening at the B'nai Zion temple, 1447 Pratt boulevard. A dinner at 6:30 o'clock will precede the program. J. M. Baskin is club president.



Ever try keeping dry, unruly hair in place with 'Vaseline' Hair Tonic? It's a slick trick, and one with a sound, scientific reason besides . . . 'Vaseline' Hair Tonic is a pure, natural product that keeps even normally healthy hair in better condition and better looking.

A few drops of the Tonic patted on with the palm of the hand before combing keeps the hair in place, gives it a well-groomed, neat appearance . . . Its regular use as prescribed stops falling hair, encourages new hairs to grow . . . prevents and overcomes common dandruff.

Vaseline HAIR TONIC

40c and 70c

If your HAIR IS DRY

A dry scalp is especially susceptible to dandruff, the most common cause of baldness! Correct it. It is due to a deficient secretion of oils by the sebaceous glands in the scalp. You can do much to replace these natural oils with 'Vaseline' Hair Tonic treatments before every shampoo and by applying a few drops of the Tonic directly to the scalp as often in between times as the condition requires.

Ad Man and Author at 22

"Took the N. I. A. course at the unripe age of eighteen. Today at the slightly riper age of twenty-two am Assistant Eastern Advertising Manager of The Billboard, and editor of Advents, monthly newspaper of the Association of Advertising Men of New York. Have just sold a story to Famous Detective Cases for $185. So as an ad man and author permit me to say, 'If you want to write ad copy or fiction, try N.I.A.'"

JOSEPH G. CSIDA, Jr.
3063 Williamsbridge Rd.,
Bronx, N. Y.

How do you know you can't write?

Have you ever tried?

Have you ever attempted even the least bit of training, under competent guidance?

Or have you been sitting back, as it is so easy to do, waiting for the day to come some time when you will awaken, all of a sudden, to the discovery, "I am a writer"?

If the latter course is the one of your choosing, you probably never will write. Lawyers must be law clerks. Engineers must be draftsmen. We all know that, in our times, the egg does come before the chicken.

It is seldom that anyone becomes a writer until he (or she) has been writing for some time. That is why so many authors and writers spring up out of the newspaper business. The day-to-day necessity of writing—of gathering material about which to write—develops their talent, their insight, their background and their confidence as nothing else could.

That is why the Newspaper Institute of America bases its writing instruction on journalism—continuous writing—the training that has produced so many successful authors.

Learn to write by writing

NEWSPAPER Institute training is based on the New York Copy-Desk Method. It starts and keeps you writing in your own home, on your own time. Week by week you receive actual assignments, just as if you were right at work on a great metropolitan daily. Your writing is individually corrected and constructively criticized. A group of men, whose combined newspaper experience totals more than 200 years, are responsible for this instruction. Under such sympathetic guidance, you will find that (instead of vainly trying to copy some one else's writing tricks) you are rapidly developing your own distinctive, self-flavored style—undergoing an experience that has a thrill to it and which at the same time develops in you the power to make your feelings articulate.

Many people who should be writing become awestruck by fabulous stories about millionaire authors and therefore give little thought to the $25, $50 and $100 or more that can often be earned for material that takes little time to write—stories, articles on business, fads, travel, sports, recipes, etc.—things that can easily be turned out in leisure hours, and often on the impulse of the moment.

A Chance to Test Yourself

We have prepared a unique Writing Aptitude Test which tells whether you possess the fundamental qualities necessary to successful writing—acute observation, dramatic instinct, creative imagination, etc. You'll enjoy taking this test. No obligation. Just mail the coupon and see what our editors say. Newspaper Institute of America, One Park Avenue, New York.

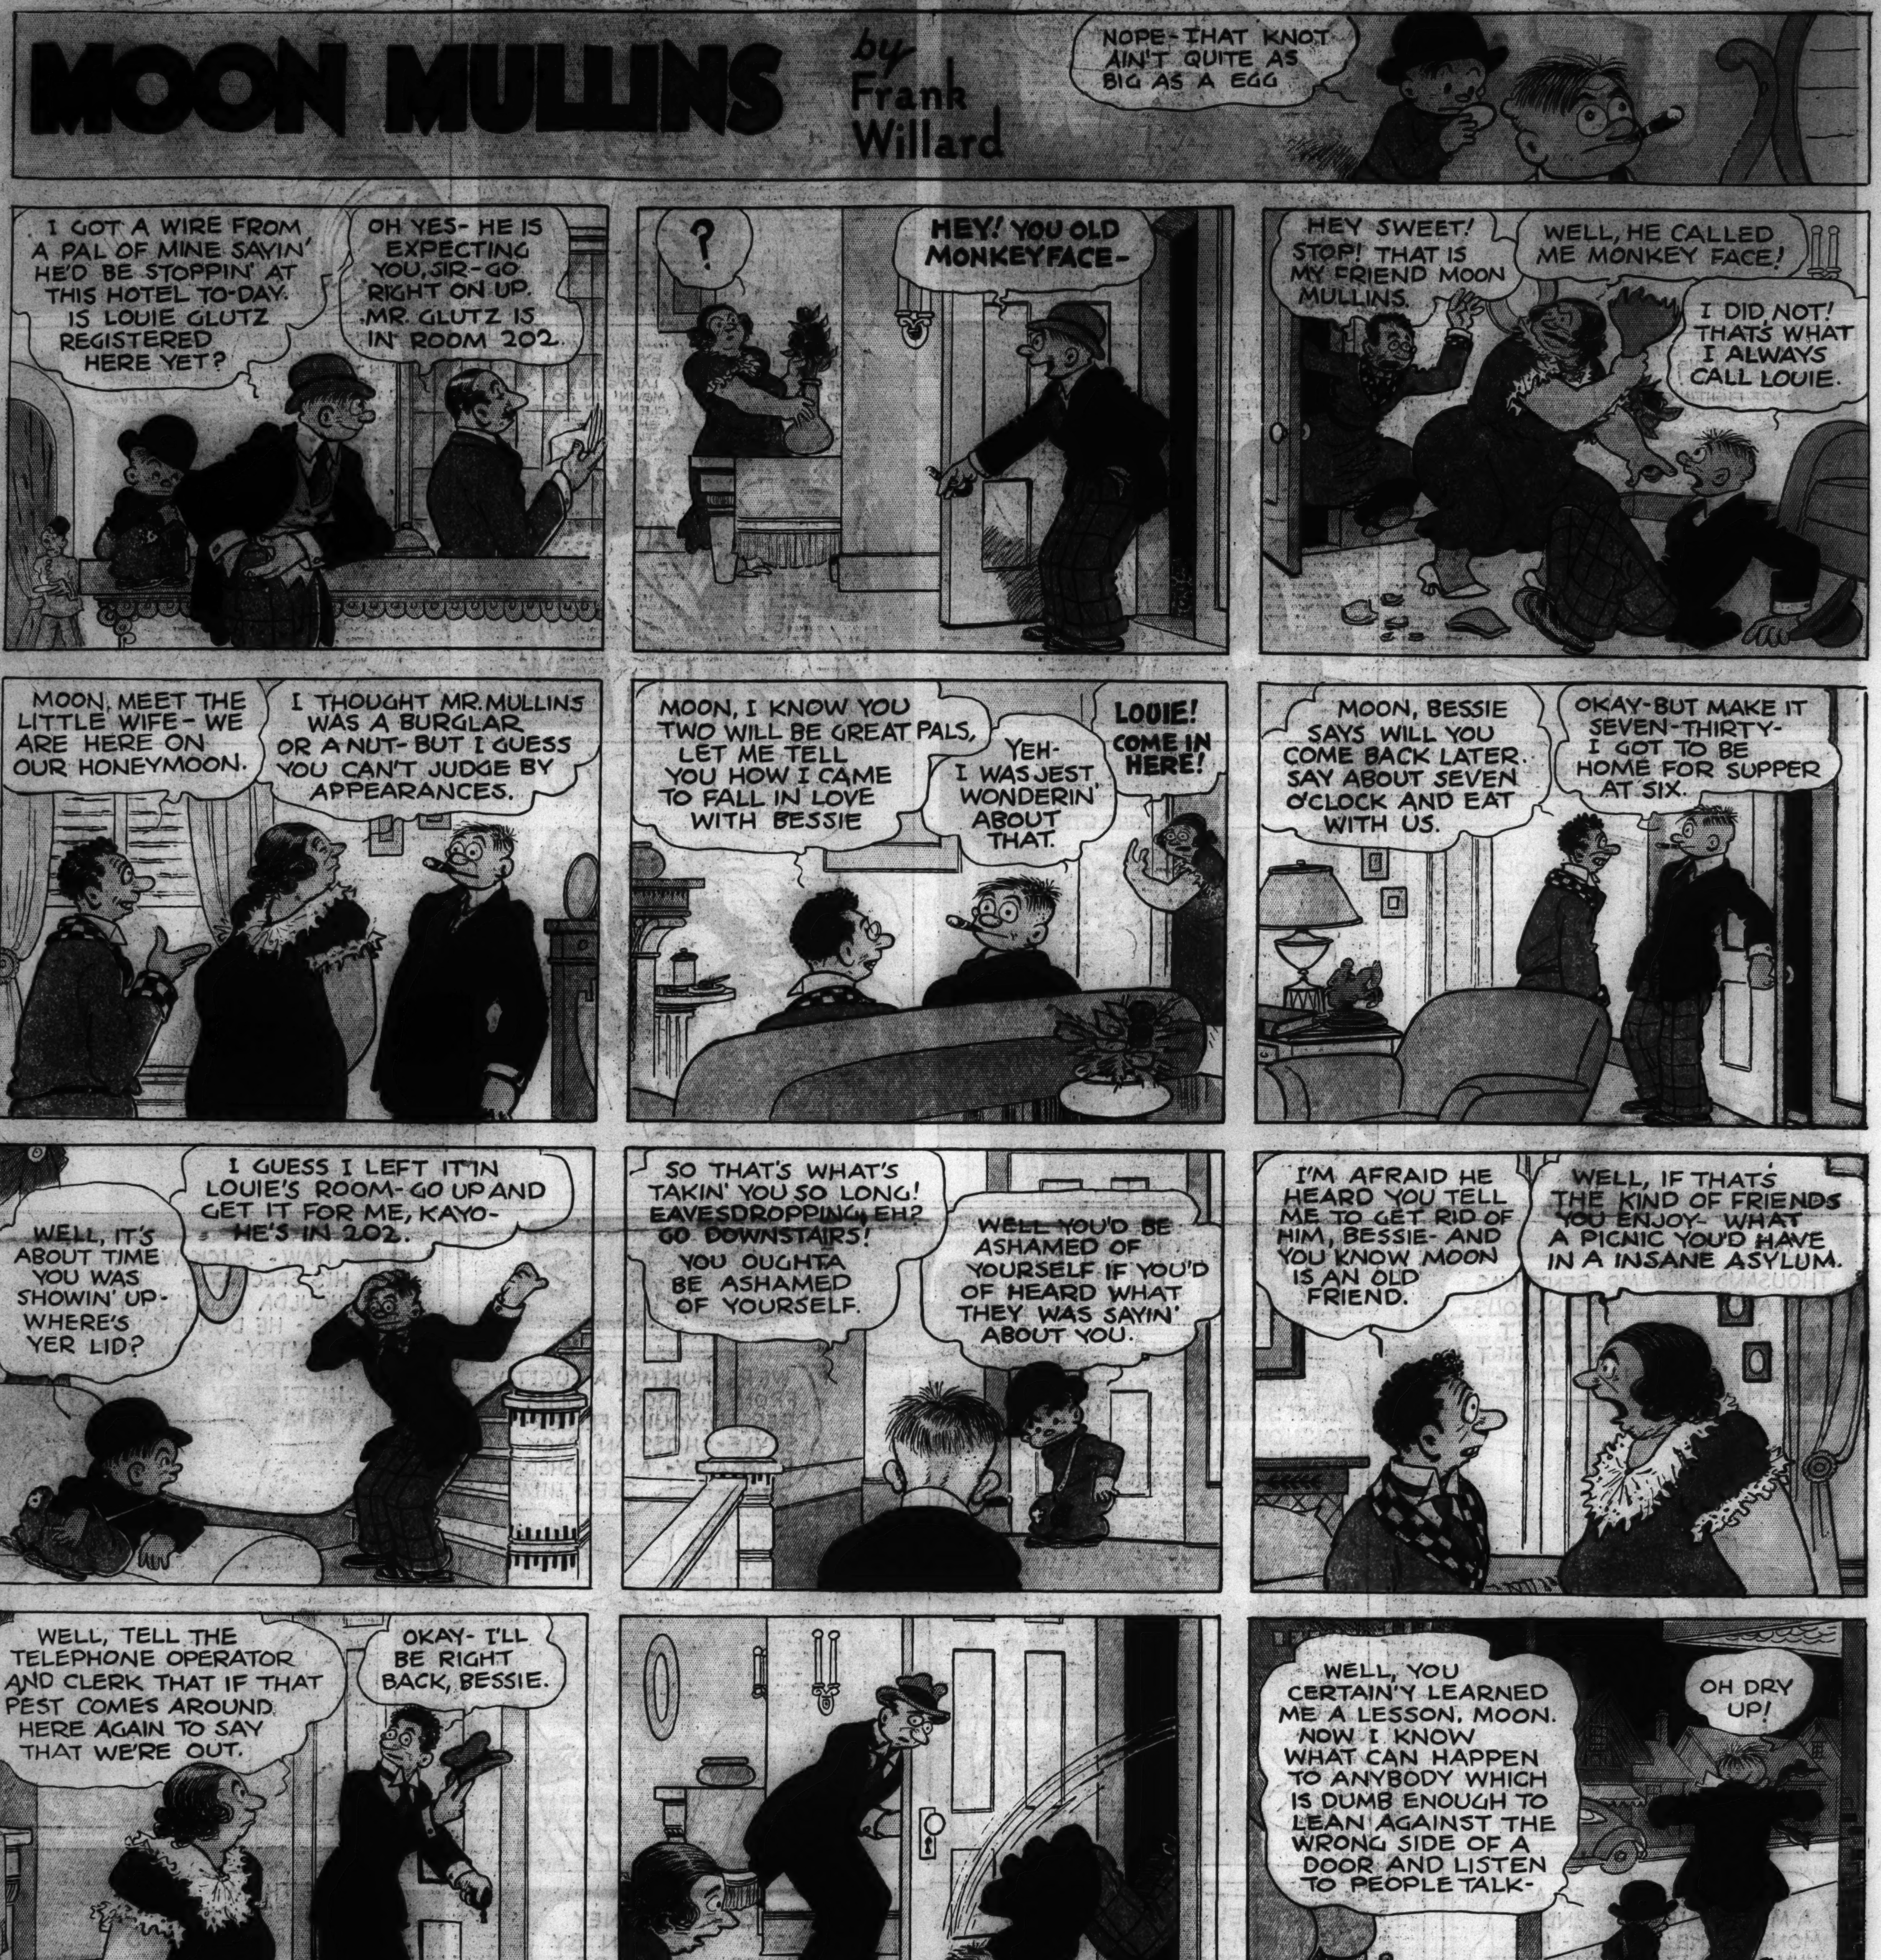
MOON MULLINS

by Frank Willard



NOPE- THAT KNOT AIN'T QUITE AS BIG AS A EGG
I GOT A WIRE FROM A PAL OF MINE SAYIN' HE'D BE STOPPIN' AT THIS HOTEL TO-DAY. IS LOUIE GLUTZ REGISTERED HERE YET?
OH YES- HE IS EXPECTING YOU, SIR- GO RIGHT ON UP. MR. GLUTZ IS IN ROOM 202.
HEY! YOU OLD MONKEYFACE-
HEY SWEET! STOP! THAT IS MY FRIEND MOON MULLINS.
WELL, HE CALLED ME MONKEY FACE!
I DID NOT! THAT'S WHAT I ALWAYS CALL LOUIE.
MOON, MEET THE LITTLE WIFE- WE ARE HERE ON OUR HONEYMOON.
I THOUGHT MR. MULLINS WAS A BURGLAR OR A NUT- BUT I GUESS YOU CAN'T JUDGE BY APPEARANCES.
MOON, I KNOW YOU TWO WILL BE GREAT PALS, LET ME TELL YOU HOW I CAME TO FALL IN LOVE WITH BESSIE
YEH- I WAS JEST WONDERIN' ABOUT THAT.
LOUIE! COME IN HERE!
MOON, BESSIE SAYS WILL YOU COME BACK LATER. SAY ABOUT SEVEN O'CLOCK AND EAT WITH US.
OKAY- BUT MAKE IT SEVEN-THIRTY- I GOT TO BE HOME FOR SUPPER AT SIX.
WELL, IT'S ABOUT TIME YOU WAS SHOWIN' UP- WHERE'S YER LID?
I GUESS I LEFT IT IN LOUIE'S ROOM- GO UP AND GET IT FOR ME, KAYO- HE'S IN 202.
SO THAT'S WHAT'S TAKIN' YOU SO LONG! EAVESDROPPING, EH? GO DOWNSTAIRS! YOU OUGHTA BE ASHAMED OF YOURSELF.
WELL YOU'D BE ASHAMED OF YOURSELF IF YOU'D OF HEARD WHAT THEY WAS SAYIN' ABOUT YOU.
I'M AFRAID HE HEARD YOU TELL ME TO GET RID OF HIM, BESSIE- AND YOU KNOW MOON IS AN OLD FRIEND.
WELL, IF THAT'S THE KIND OF FRIENDS YOU ENJOY- WHAT A PICNIC YOU'D HAVE IN A INSANE ASYLUM.
WELL, TELL THE TELEPHONE OPERATOR AND CLERK THAT IF THAT PEST COMES AROUND HERE AGAIN TO SAY THAT WE'RE OUT.
OKAY- I'LL BE RIGHT BACK, BESSIE.
WELL, YOU CERTAIN'Y LEARNED ME A LESSON, MOON. NOW I KNOW WHAT CAN HAPPEN TO ANYBODY WHICH IS DUMB ENOUGH TO LEAN AGAINST THE WRONG SIDE OF A DOOR AND LISTEN TO PEOPLE TALK-OH DRY UP!

UNCLE WALT!
HELLO SISSY! IT'S FINE THAT YOU TWO BUDDIES AT HOME COULD ROOM TOGETHER HERE AT SCHOOL.
SWELL, MR. WALLET.
COME ON, I WANT TO SHOW YOU THE BUNKER CAMPUS, UNCLE WALT.
LET'S GO!
YOU WOULD BE HANGIN' AROUND. UNCLE WALT, THIS IS BRICK.
I'M MIGHTY GLAD TO MEET YOU MR. WALLET.
AN' LISSEN YOU POSSUM FACE! NEXT TIME I SEE YOU I'M GOIN' TO KNOCK YOUR BLOCK OFF.
AW, WHO'S AFRAID OF A BIG BABOON!
THAT'S RIGHT! I REMEMBER YOU SAID THERE WAS ONE BOY YOU LIKED A LOT AND ONE YOU DIDN'T.
THAT'S SOFT PEDALING BOTH OF EM— BUT IT'S RIGHT.
I GET IT. SISSY'S YOUR PAL AND BRICK IS THE ONE YOU CAN'T ENDURE.
THAT'S A GOOD ONE! SISSY IS THE HEEL AN' BRICK IS THE SWELLEST GUY ON THE CAMPUS.
JUST OPPOSITE, EH? WHILE I'M HERE I'D LIKE TO MEET YOUR HEADMASTER, MR. BROWE.
OKAY, BUT I WOULDN'T ADVISE IT. HE'S STRICT AN' HARDBOILED AN' INQUISITIVE.
LET ME TAKE YOUR HAT, MR. WALLET. SIT DOWN AND VISIT A WHILE.
WHY YOUR HEADMASTER IS A FINE GENTLEMAN! EVERYTHING SEEMS TO GO BY OPPOSITES AROUND HERE.
GEE— I NEVER SAW HIM THAT WAY BEFORE!
BY THE WAY, MR. BROWE GAVE ME YOUR REPORT CARD.
OH-OH!
SKEEZIX, YOUR STANDINGS DON'T APPEAR TO BE VERY HIGH.
WELL YOU SEE, IT'S OPPOSITES AGAIN. THE BETTER WE ARE THE LOWER THE NUMBER WE GET.

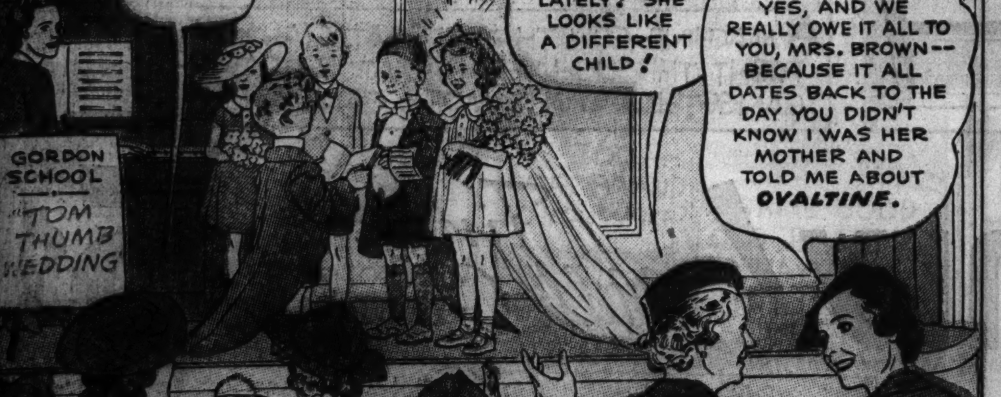
BETTY
THE NAIL BITER
SHE WAS PAINFULLY THIN AND NERVOUS
WHAT'S ALL THIS? A NEW DRESS FOR THE PARTY TOMORROW?
BETTY DEAR, DON'T FIDGET SO---AND PLEASE STOP BITING YOUR NAILS.
I FORGOT!
SNIFFLE SNIFFLE
AT THE SCHOOL PARTY NEXT DAY
I GUESS I'LL HAVE TO INTRODUCE MYSELF. I'M MRS. BROWN--WE JUST MOVED HERE A FEW WEEKS AGO.
SO GLAD TO MEET YOU-- I'M MRS. FLETCHER...ISN'T IT A LOVELY PARTY FOR THE CHILDREN?
WHAT AN ADORABLE LITTLE GIRL THERE ALL ALONE--BUT WHAT A SHAME SHE'S SO THIN AND NERVOUS...I WONDER WHY HER MOTHER DOESN'T TRY GIVING HER OVALTINE?
GOODNESS! SHE MEANS BETTY!
THAT NIGHT
...AND WHEN I REALIZED SHE WAS TALKING ABOUT BETTY, I COULD HAVE CRIED... I WONDER WHAT SHE MEANT WHEN SHE SUGGESTED OVALTINE.
WELL, WHY NOT CALL UP EDNA JACKSON-- SHE'LL BE SURE TO KNOW.
A FEW MINUTES LATER...
HAVE I EVER HEARD OF OVALTINE? WELL, I SHOULD SAY I HAVE, MOLLY...IT'S THAT SWISS FOOD-DRINK THAT'S DONE SUCH MARVELOUS THINGS FOR SO MANY CHILDREN WHO ARE NERVOUS AND UNDERWEIGHT...
EDNA JACKSON
REALLY, EDNA? WELL, I'LL CERTAINLY GET SOME FOR BETTY THE FIRST THING TOMORROW MORNING.
NEXT AFTERNOON
M-M! THIS TASTES WONDERFUL, MAMA. CAN I HAVE SOME MORE?
INDEED YOU CAN, DARLING.
WELL, THANK GOODNESS, AT LAST WE'VE FOUND SOMETHING SHE REALLY LIKES!
SOME TIME LATER
WILL YOU LOOK AT THIS, MOLLY! SHE'S GAINED 7 POUNDS IN JUST NO TIME AT ALL!
ISN'T IT WONDERFUL! AND HAVE YOU NOTICED HOW MUCH LESS NERVOUS SHE IS--SHE HARDLY FIDGETS AT ALL ANY MORE, AND NEVER BITES HER NAILS!



THE NEXT SCHOOL PARTY
ISN'T BETTY SWEET?
MRS. FLETCHER, I CAN'T GET OVER THE CHANGE THAT'S COME OVER YOUR BETTY LATELY! SHE LOOKS LIKE A DIFFERENT CHILD!
YES, AND WE REALLY OWE IT ALL TO YOU, MRS. BROWN-- BECAUSE IT ALL DATES BACK TO THE DAY YOU DIDN'T KNOW I WAS HER MOTHER AND TOLD ME ABOUT OVALTINE.
GORDON SCHOOL
"TOM THUMB WEDDING

MOTHERS! Ovaltine is a delicious pure food concentrate first created in Switzerland and approved by thousands of physicians. Already it has gained world-wide recognition—and is particularly noted for the remarkable increases in weight and nerve poise which so often occur when it is added to the daily diet.

For example, Mrs. F. H. Ott, 120 N. 12th Street, Clintonville, Wis., writes:—"My daughter was very nervous, underweight, and had difficulty with her lessons. We started giving her Ovaltine which I read about in the paper. She is doing wonderfully now in school and has overcome her nervousness. She has also gained 4¹/₄ pounds in four weeks. We are surely thankful to Ovaltine."

This letter, of course, covers only one individual case. And we do not claim or guarantee that similar results will occur in every case where Ovaltine is used. But this letter is so typical of thousands we have received, that we believe a thorough trial of Ovaltine is justified by every intelligent mother whose child is nervous and underweight.

Thousands of nervous people, men and women, use Ovaltine to restore vitality when fatigued . . . Ovaltine is also highly recommended as a strengthening food for nursing mothers, convalescents, and the aged—and for sleeplessness when taken as a hot drink at bedtime.

Ovaltine is very inexpensive to serve—and can be obtained at all drug and grocery stores. You simply give it mixed with milk—either hot or cold—and children love its delicious taste. . . . Note special offer at the right.

or the Cash!

A TOTAL OF $15,501 IN 3,114 CASH AWARDS!

Which of the Dionne Quins would I adopt?

A fortune for day dreaming! Just suppose the Government of Ontario, Canada, had not provided a wonderful future for the Dionne Quins. Just suppose you instead, had been called on to adopt one of these heaven-sent children. Which one would have appealed to you most? Your answer may win a marvelous $10,000 home.

$15,501 FREE to 3,114 People!

FIRST PRIZE*..$10,000 DREAM HOME	OR THE CASH
SECOND PRIZE	$ 1,000 IN CASH
THIRD PRIZE	$ 500 IN CASH
10 PRIZES $50 EACH	$ 500 IN CASH
100 PRIZES $5 EACH	$ 500 IN CASH
3001 PRIZES $1 EACH	$ 3001 IN CASH
A TOTAL OF 3114 AWARDS	$15.501 IN CASH

*A wonderfully romantic 6 room home, designed by Lucius S. Beardsley, New York Architect, and selected by Architectural Forum Magazine. Can be built for $8,000, leaving $2,000 of the $10,000 award to buy ground. Complete architect's plans with full specifications ready to turn over to your local contractor, along with $10,000 in cash, is the first award in this offer. Or, if you prefer, just the $10,000 in cash.

YVONNE is always full of mischief. She can't resist the temptation to get her hands on your hair and then pull with all her might. Maybe it's because she's proud of her own hair, which is a little thicker and longer than her sisters'.

ANNETTE is a little rogue who cries one minute and laughs the next. If she doesn't get what she wants she drops the corners of her mouth into an adorable little pout that no one can resist. She's a speed demon in everything.

CECILE is a little coquette. She rolls her big blue-black eyes to attract attention, and then dreamily half closes them to get the full effect of her long, dusky lashes. She likes to put her arms around your neck and "hold on tight."

EMILIE promises to be a star athlete. She's getting off to an early start by being champion water splasher and kicker. She's a firm believer in knee action and perpetual motion, and is the most individualistic of them all.

MARIE is the most serious. She has an intriguing Mona Lisa smile, and even when she laughs, she seems to be miles away deciding some weighty problem. She's not quite as active as the others, but she's certainly a thinker.

HOW TO WIN A $10,000 DREAM HOME OR ANY OF THE $15,501

Remember, this is a game of "just pretend," as the Ontario, Canada Government has already officially adopted the Dionne Quins. Now study their faces in the pictures and read the descriptions of each Quin. Just suppose you were asked to adopt one of them, which would you like best to snuggle in your arms?

Write a letter of not more than 100 words telling, "Which of the Dionne Quins Would I Adopt." Just write simply, naturally, and in your own way. Sincerity and frankness count for everything. Judges will not be influenced by fancy writing or decorated letters.

Mail your letter with the coupon below properly filled out to The Quaker Oats Company, Dept. 2, Box L, Chicago. You will receive immediately the beautiful 7" x 9" color picture of the Dionne Quin you write about, free and postpaid, suitable for framing.

HERE'S an offer so spectacular, so wonderfully timely in these days when everyone wants security, that you will surely want to send your entry today.

A beautiful $10,000 Dream Home FREE! Think of it! 3,114 sensational awards totalling $15,501.00. We make this remarkable offer to call to your attention the spectacular example set for us all, by the specialists in charge of the Dionne Quins.

Mothers should know that today and every day, the Dionne Quins have Quaker Oats. Its Vitamin B for keeping fit does everyone, young and old, such a world of good, where poor condition is due to lack of Vitamin B.

All of us, no matter what age, must have this amazingly important protective vitamin.

Because nervousness, poor appetite, constipation, all three, show-up to prey on the energy of thousands when diets lack this precious 3-purpose Vitamin B stored so generously by Nature in Quaker Oats.

Now for only a few pennies, everyone in your family may have the very Quaker Oats that specialists picked for the Dionne Quins.

How to Win the $10,000 Dream Home

Now here is all you do to get in on this spectacular offer of $15,501 in 3,114 separate awards, and also get FREE a beautiful gift picture in full colors of your favorite Dionne Quin.

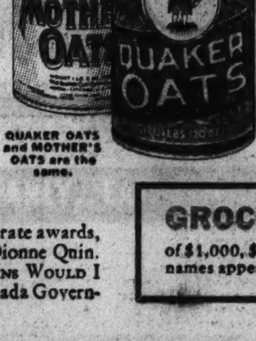
Just send us a statement of 100 words or less on WHICH OF THE DIONNE QUINS WOULD I ADOPT. Just a bit of day-dreaming on your part is all. Because the Ontario Canada Government has already adopted them and guaranteed them a wonderful future.

But just for the fun of it, suppose for a moment that you were asked to take one of them into your home. Study their pictures. Read the description of their personalities and traits. Make up your mind which one would fit into your surroundings most ideally. Then send a short statement of not more than 100 words naming your choice and why, along with the coupon properly filled out. The best letters in the opinion of competent judges win the 3,114 awards named above.

Dionne Color Picture Free

Everyone who enters the contest according to the rules printed in the coupon gets a wonderful 7" x 9" full color picture, free and postpaid by return mail, of the Dionne Quin mentioned in his or her letter. It bears no printed matter, and will frame beautifully for your wall.

So accept this thrilling gift and send us the coupon today.



QUAKER OATS and MOTHER'S OATS are the same.

GROCERS! YOU'RE IN ON THIS TOO To induce grocers and clerks to cooperate in helping customers enter this contest, awards of $1,000, $500, 10 awards of $50 each and 100 $5 prizes will be made to grocers whose names appear on customers' winning entries. A total of $2,500 in 112 prizes for grocers.

FREE! This beautiful 7 in. x 9 in. picture of your favorite Dionne Quin in full-colors sent to everyone who mails this entry blank before March 31, 1936

RULES OF THE $15,501 FREE OFFER

1. Anyone in the United States or Canada may mail coupon properly filled out and be in on this offer, except employees of The Quaker Oats Company and their agents or their families. 2. All entries must be postmarked before midnight, March 31, 1936. 3. Each person may enter as many times as he or she wishes to. But only one statement may be sent with each 2 trademarks. 4. Each coupon must be accompanied with two trademarks cut from Quaker Oats or Mother's Oats packages—and a statement of 100 words, or less, on "Which of the Dionne Quins Would I Adopt." 5. The opinion of the judges is final. 6. In cases of tie, duplicate awards will be made. 7. All entries must be addressed to and are the property of The Quaker Oats Company, Box L, Chicago, Illinois.

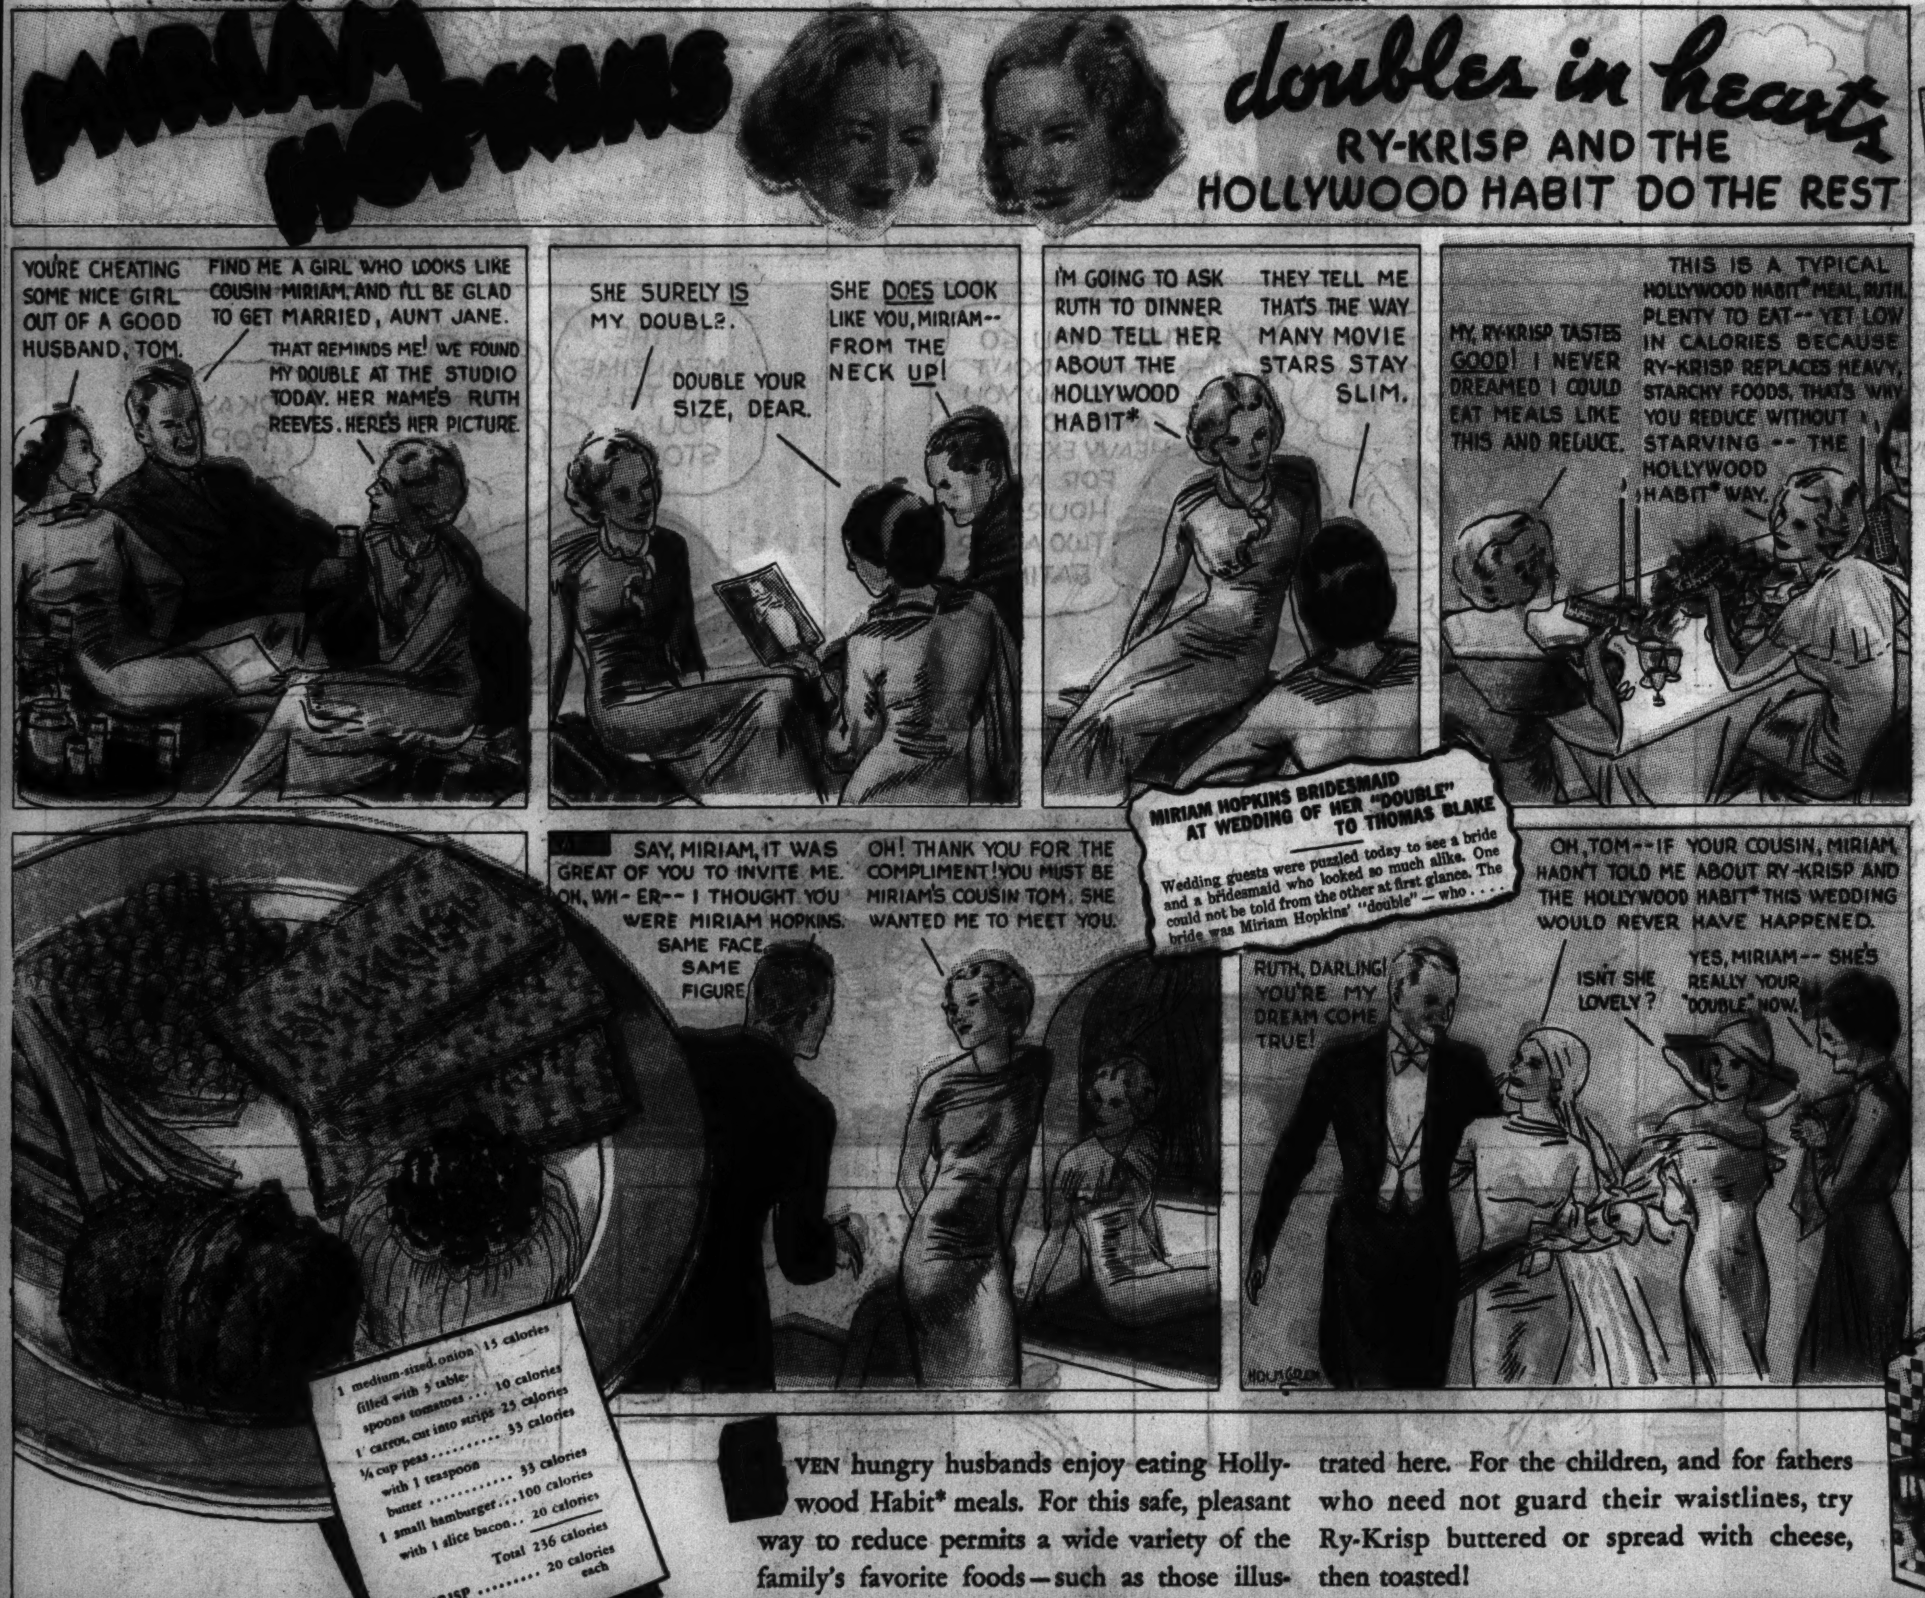
MIRIAM HOPKINS doubles in hearts

RY-KRISP AND THE HOLLYWOOD HABIT DO THE REST



YOU'RE CHEATING SOME NICE GIRL OUT OF A GOOD HUSBAND, TOM.
FIND ME A GIRL WHO LOOKS LIKE COUSIN MIRIAM, AND I'LL BE GLAD TO GET MARRIED, AUNT JANE.
THAT REMINDS ME! WE FOUND MY DOUBLE AT THE STUDIO TODAY. HER NAME'S RUTH REEVES. HERE'S HER PICTURE.
SHE SURELY IS MY DOUBLE.
DOUBLE YOUR SIZE, DEAR.
SHE DOES LOOK LIKE YOU, MIRIAM-- FROM THE NECK UP!
I'M GOING TO ASK RUTH TO DINNER AND TELL HER ABOUT THE HOLLYWOOD HABIT*
THEY TELL ME THAT'S THE WAY MANY MOVIE STARS STAY SLIM.
MY, RY-KRISP TASTES GOOD! I NEVER DREAMED I COULD EAT MEALS LIKE THIS AND REDUCE.
THIS IS A TYPICAL HOLLYWOOD HABIT* MEAL, RUTH. PLENTY TO EAT-- YET LOW IN CALORIES BECAUSE RY-KRISP REPLACES HEAVY, STARCHY FOODS. THAT'S WHY YOU REDUCE WITHOUT STARVING -- THE HOLLYWOOD HABIT* WAY.
SAY, MIRIAM, IT WAS GREAT OF YOU TO INVITE ME. OH, WH- ER-- I THOUGHT YOU WERE MIRIAM HOPKINS. SAME FACE. SAME FIGURE.
OH! THANK YOU FOR THE COMPLIMENT! YOU MUST BE MIRIAM'S COUSIN TOM. SHE WANTED ME TO MEET YOU.
OH, TOM-- IF YOUR COUSIN, MIRIAM, HADN'T TOLD ME ABOUT RY-KRISP AND THE HOLLYWOOD HABIT* THIS WEDDING WOULD NEVER HAVE HAPPENED.
RUTH, DARLING! YOU'RE MY DREAM COME TRUE!
ISN'T SHE LOVELY?
YES, MIRIAM-- SHE'S REALLY YOUR "DOUBLE" NOW.

YES- SHE INSISTS ON STAYING HERE- BUT----
"BUT" NOTHIN'- LISTEN- THIS ISN'T MY HONEYMOON, FOLKS- DON'T YOU WORRY A SECOND 'BOUT ME-
I WANT TO BE ALONE- YOU SEE, I GOT PLENTY TO DO TO KEEP ME BUSY- I FIGGER, WITH TH' SWELL SHOWIN' I MADE AS "INKEY" IN IN THAT PICTURE, I'M SITTIN' PRETTY-
A LITTLE NOSIN' AROUND AND I'M BOUND TO LAND A GOOD CONTRACT- SO GO ON, NOW- GET PACKED AND GET GOIN'- HA! PACKING IS EASY- ONE SUIT CASE WILL HOLD ALL WE HAVE-
OH, ANNIE- IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR YOU, THIS NEVER COULD HAVE HAPPENED-
GO ON, YOU TWO- GET OUT O' HERE- SANDY AND I WILL BE O.K.---- OH---- YOU DOG-GONED LITTLE RASCAL-
YOU DARLING-
SMACK!
SMACK
GOOD-BYE, ANNIE-
GOOD BYE!

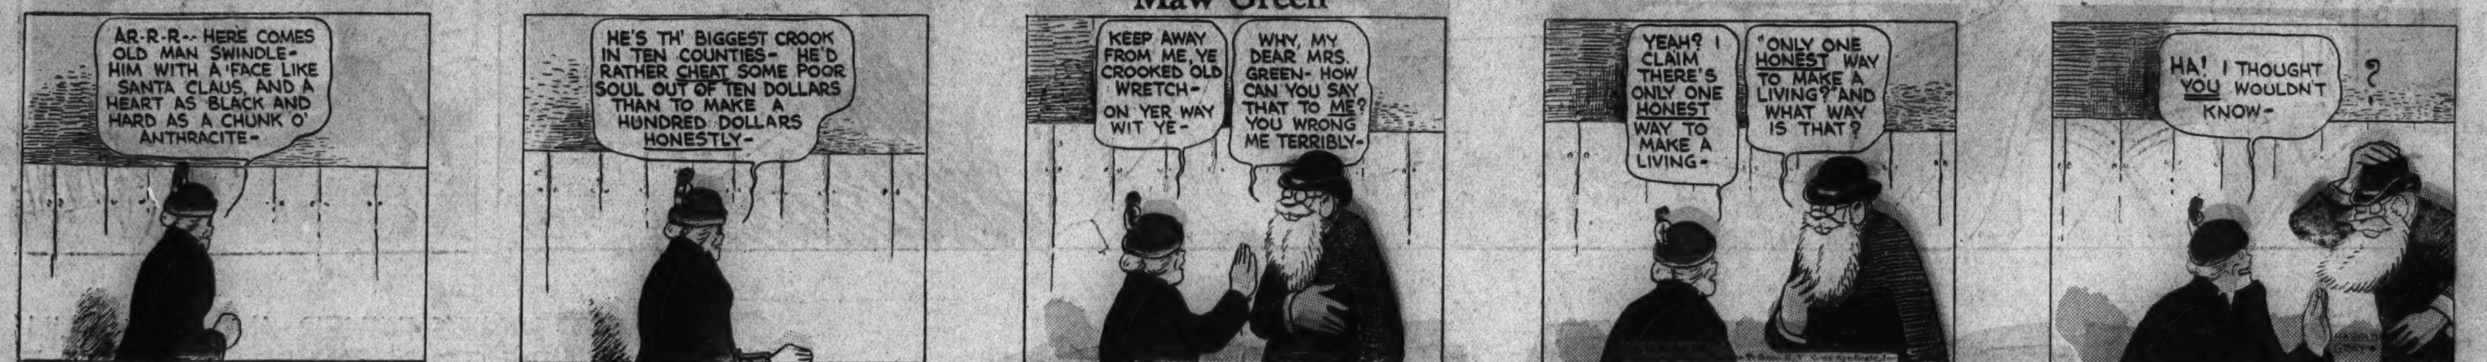
Maw Green



AR-R-R-- HERE COMES OLD MAN SWINDLE- HIM WITH A FACE LIKE SANTA CLAUS, AND A HEART AS BLACK AND HARD AS A CHUNK O' ANTHRACITE-
HE'S TH' BIGGEST CROOK IN TEN COUNTIES- HE'D RATHER CHEAT SOME POOR SOUL OUT OF TEN DOLLARS THAN TO MAKE A HUNDRED DOLLARS HONESTLY-
KEEP AWAY FROM ME, YE CROOKED OLD WRETCH- ON YER WAY WIT YE-
WHY, MY DEAR MRS. GREEN- HOW CAN YOU SAY THAT TO ME? YOU WRONG ME TERRIBLY-
YEAH? I CLAIM THERE'S ONLY ONE HONEST WAY TO MAKE A LIVING-
"ONLY ONE HONEST WAY TO MAKE A LIVING?" AND WHAT WAY IS THAT?
HA! I THOUGHT YOU WOULDN'T KNOW-

Dick gets a new Partner
AND MR. COFFEE-NERVES GETS SQUEEZED OUT
WHAT? RETURN THAT DRESS? I SHOULD SAY NOT! THINK WE'RE IN BUSINESS FOR FUN?
TELL HER YOU'LL BET SHE'S WORN IT A DOZEN TIMES! -AND ASK HER HOW ABOUT PAYING HER BILL!
MR. COFFEE-NERVES
GEE, DICK—BUT CUSTOMERS MAKE ME SICK! ALWAYS WANT TO ARGUE WHEN MY HEAD IS READY TO SPLIT!
LOOKS LIKE WE'RE LICKED ANYWAY, JOHN! WE'VE SUNK EVERY PENNY WE HAD IN THIS STORE.... AND BUSINESS IS TERRIBLE!
THERE'S A PARTNER FOR YOU! WANTS TO GET RID OF YOU! TRYING TO SQUEEZE YOU OUT!
JOHN—WE'VE BEEN PARTNERS A LONG TIME, BUT YOU'RE SO IRRITABLE LATELY YOU'RE DRIVING CUSTOMERS AWAY!
OH, YEAH? THAT'S JUST LIKE YOU, DICK -TRYING TO PIN ALL THE BLAME ON ME!
WHAT'S HE CRABBING ABOUT? ALL HE'S LOST IS MONEY—YOU'RE LOSING YOUR MIND!
—THE BANK WON'T LEND US ANOTHER DIME! WE CAN'T HOLD OUT MUCH LONGER. IT'S GOT ME WORRIED!
YOUR HEALTH IS WHAT WORRIES ME, DEAR! DR. RIPLEY IS COMING TO SEE THE BABY—LET'S ASK HIM ABOUT YOU!
WHAT DOES SHE THINK THE DOCTOR CAN DO— LEND YOU SOME MONEY, OR BUY OUT THE STORE?
WELL, JOHN.... THE BABY'S FINE! BUT WHAT'S THIS I HEAR ABOUT YOU?
OH... MY HEAD ACHES, I CAN'T SLEEP... CAN'T EAT—ALL I EVER WANT IS A CUP OF COFFEE!
LOOK OUT! —IT'S A FRAME-UP! YOUR WIFE PUT HIM UP TO THIS!
—SOUNDS LIKE IT MIGHT BE COFFEE-NERVES! —WHY DON'T YOU QUIT COFFEE AND TRY POSTUM FOR 30 DAYS?
OH, ALL RIGHT! I CAN'T FEEL ANY WORSE THAN I DO NOW!
CURSES! POSTUM ALWAYS WRECKS MY PLANS!
NEW CAR FOR YOUR BIRTHDAY, DARLING! WE CAN AFFORD IT, TOO— BUSINESS IS GETTING BETTER EVERY DAY!
—AND YOU'RE GETTING SWEETER EVERY DAY—SINCE YOU SWITCHED TO POSTUM!
PAUL ARTHUR
TAKE A TIP FROM ME.... IF YOU'VE GOT COFFEE-NERVES.... TRY POSTUM!

OF COURSE, you know that children should never drink coffee. But do you realize that the caffein in coffee disagrees with many grown-ups, too?

If you are bothered by headaches or indigestion, or find it difficult to sleep soundly . . . caffein may be to blame.

Isn't it worth-while to try Postum for 30 days? Postum contains no caffein. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It is easy to make, and costs less than one-half cent a cup. It's a delicious drink, too...and may prove a real help. A product of General Foods.

FREE—Let us send you your first week's supply of Postum free! Simply mail the coupon, ©1936, G. F. CORP.

LIFE INSURANCE TRAINING SCHOOL

for ambitious men of ability and capability with plenty of background. An exceptional opportunity for a man to build up a profitable business that will take care of him for life. The success of life insurance salesmen is due to their thorough training which enables them to talk insurance intelligently. On Monday, Feb. 17, we will open a life insurance training school for high grade men of standing who desire to enter the life insurance selling field as a permanent business. Only limited number will be considered. Preferably men from 25 to 55 years of age. Applicants interviewed up to next Saturday. See D. H. Bailey or W. J. Bohr,
NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE CO.,
Suite 1060 Field Building, 135 S. La Salle.

PERMANENT POSITION.

The Chicago Motor Club will add a number of new men to its field staff to handle its increased volume of membership and insurance business.

The field work is difficult and only men of initiative with the ability to plan and work a full day without supervision will succeed.

Before being transferred to a territory on a drawing account new employees will be required to take training on a daily commission basis.

A neat appearance is essential.

WILL PLACE

10 men well recommended, over 22, with cars, for special work; hshld. appliance dept.; worthwhile percentage paid weekly; chance to advance; experience not necessary; free training. For appointment, see Mr. Tiffany, Employment Dept., 9th floor, Monday, 9 to 10 or 1:30 to 2:30 only.

How Big Is a Farm? Just Big Enough to Supply a Living!

BY BOB BECKER.

While farmers and realtors continue to discuss the question, "How Big Is a Farm?" hundreds of owners of small tracts of land are showing through intelligent cultivation of their acreage and specialization on certain kinds of crops that they can qualify for the diploma and title of "farmer."

All through the Chicagoland area one sees thousands of families living on comparatively small but intensively cultivated pieces of land. By so doing they have obtained pleasant living conditions, security, and an income that comes from the crops grown on their small tracts of acreage.

This trend toward the "little farm" has increased during recent months, but apparently an arbiter is needed to settle the question of giving a name to these small farms. Some call the 5 and 7 acre tracts "vest pocket farms." One real estate authority says it won't be long until somebody coins a word like "farmette" for these small plots of cultivated land.

How Big Is a Farm?

Another name suggestion for the small tract of land is "little farm."

Just how big is a farm is something like that puzzler about how long is a rope, but A. G. McDonough of Hampshire, Kane county, farmer and farm bureau official, says that a farm "is any tract of land where a man can make a living off the land." He adds that some of these small acreage owners are even better "farmers" than many men owning big farms.

Harry S. Wright of Naperville, farm adviser of Du Page county, says that anything over five acres is considered a farm, although the Federal Farm Land bank will not lend money on a tract of less than 40 acres, and consequently does not consider such as farms in the full meaning of the word.

"The land bank's reason for establishing 40 acres as the minimum for a farm," says Mr. Wright, "is that tracts of smaller size are disproportionate in the value of buildings and improvements as compared with the land value. In other words, on small tracts the share of building to land value is too great."

But the most important thing to the city dweller with moderate means is not what to call these 3, 5, and 10 acre pieces of land, but how the land can be worked and made to produce dollars and fun. Investigation of the "little farms" around Chicago shows that many families on them are specializing instead of raising many different crops and thus achieving success.

For instance, some men are conducting small scale poultry farms and using the returns to buy their other necessities. Others have truck gardens which supply a regular income.

Birds Pay One Man.

We know of one man who raises fancy pheasants, quail, and partridges and sells the eggs and young birds to other landowners and men pursuing the hobby of raising fancy birds.

Still other men with small plots are organizing bee colonies; others are raising goats; others raise foxes, mink, raccoons, and other fur bearing animals which have valuable pelts.

G. N. Case of West Chicago uses his small farm for raising flowers. He has produced prize winning gladioli which have won prizes in competition against greenhouse blooms.

At any rate, there are a number of ways of earning a living and having a lot of fun on a small plot of land. Commenting on this situation Arthur L. Webster of Wheaton, president of the Du Page County Real Estate board, says:

"Scores of people who own little tracts ranging from two to five acres term them farms. On their places they raise vegetables, chickens, and have other activities. They are really 'vest pocket' farms and are growing in popularity."

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

A SALE

THAT SETS NEW RECORDS FOR VALUE GIVING

STUDEBAKER'S MIDWINTER CLEARANCE

ENABLES YOU TO MAKE THE SAVING OF A LIFETIME IN THE PURCHASE OF A FINE, NEARLY NEW OR SLIGHTLY USED CAR. SEE THESE BARGAINS NOW.

THE REASON

Sales on the 1936 line of Studebakers have been so phenomenal that the Studebaker Sales Co. of Chicago has just enjoyed the biggest January new car business in their history. As a result "trade-ins" have piled up to such an extent that today the Studebaker Co. has the biggest stock of used cars they've had at this time of the year.

TWO BIG FLOORS

are jammed to the roof with 1935s—1934s—1933s—and others, in Sedans, Coaches, Coupes, and Sport models. Take your pick from Fords, Chevrolets, Plymouths, Buicks, Pontiacs, Dodges, Oldsmobiles, Chryslers, Studebakers, Packards, Hudsons, Auburns, etc.

ALL PRICES
GIVEN AN AMAZING
DEEP CUT!

The Boss said—"We're overloaded; we need the room—so sell out all used cars; take a loss if need be—but get rid of them."

OLDSMOBILES.

Three 1935s—also '34s and '33s at practically your own price. They're all beauties.

FORDS—FORDS!

A SPECIAL GROUP OF 25 FINE CARS, including all popular makes and models—all priced at under $100—many available as low as $25 each—nothing else to pay!

PACKARDS—PACKARDS.

8 of them to choose from, including many late models, priced for today low as $195.

STUDEBAKERS

3 CARLOADS!
1935 AND 1934 MODELS.

We recently received three carloads of 1935 and 1934 Studebakers, virtually brand new cars, that are available at sensational discounts. Equipped with safety glass, ride control, automatic choke, automatic starting, hydraulic brakes, advanced free wheeling, independent planar wheel suspension, etc. Extras galore. At terrific reductions!

It's Certainly a Case of First Come, First Served!

MOTORCYCLE AROUSES CURIOSITY IN ETHIOPIA

An Italian army motorcycle, new in the region of Dolo, Ethiopia, was a matter of keen interest and speculation to Ethiopian children who were seeing one for the first time. The youngster on the right, with instinct common to most children, couldn't resist tooting the horn. [Associated Press Photo.]

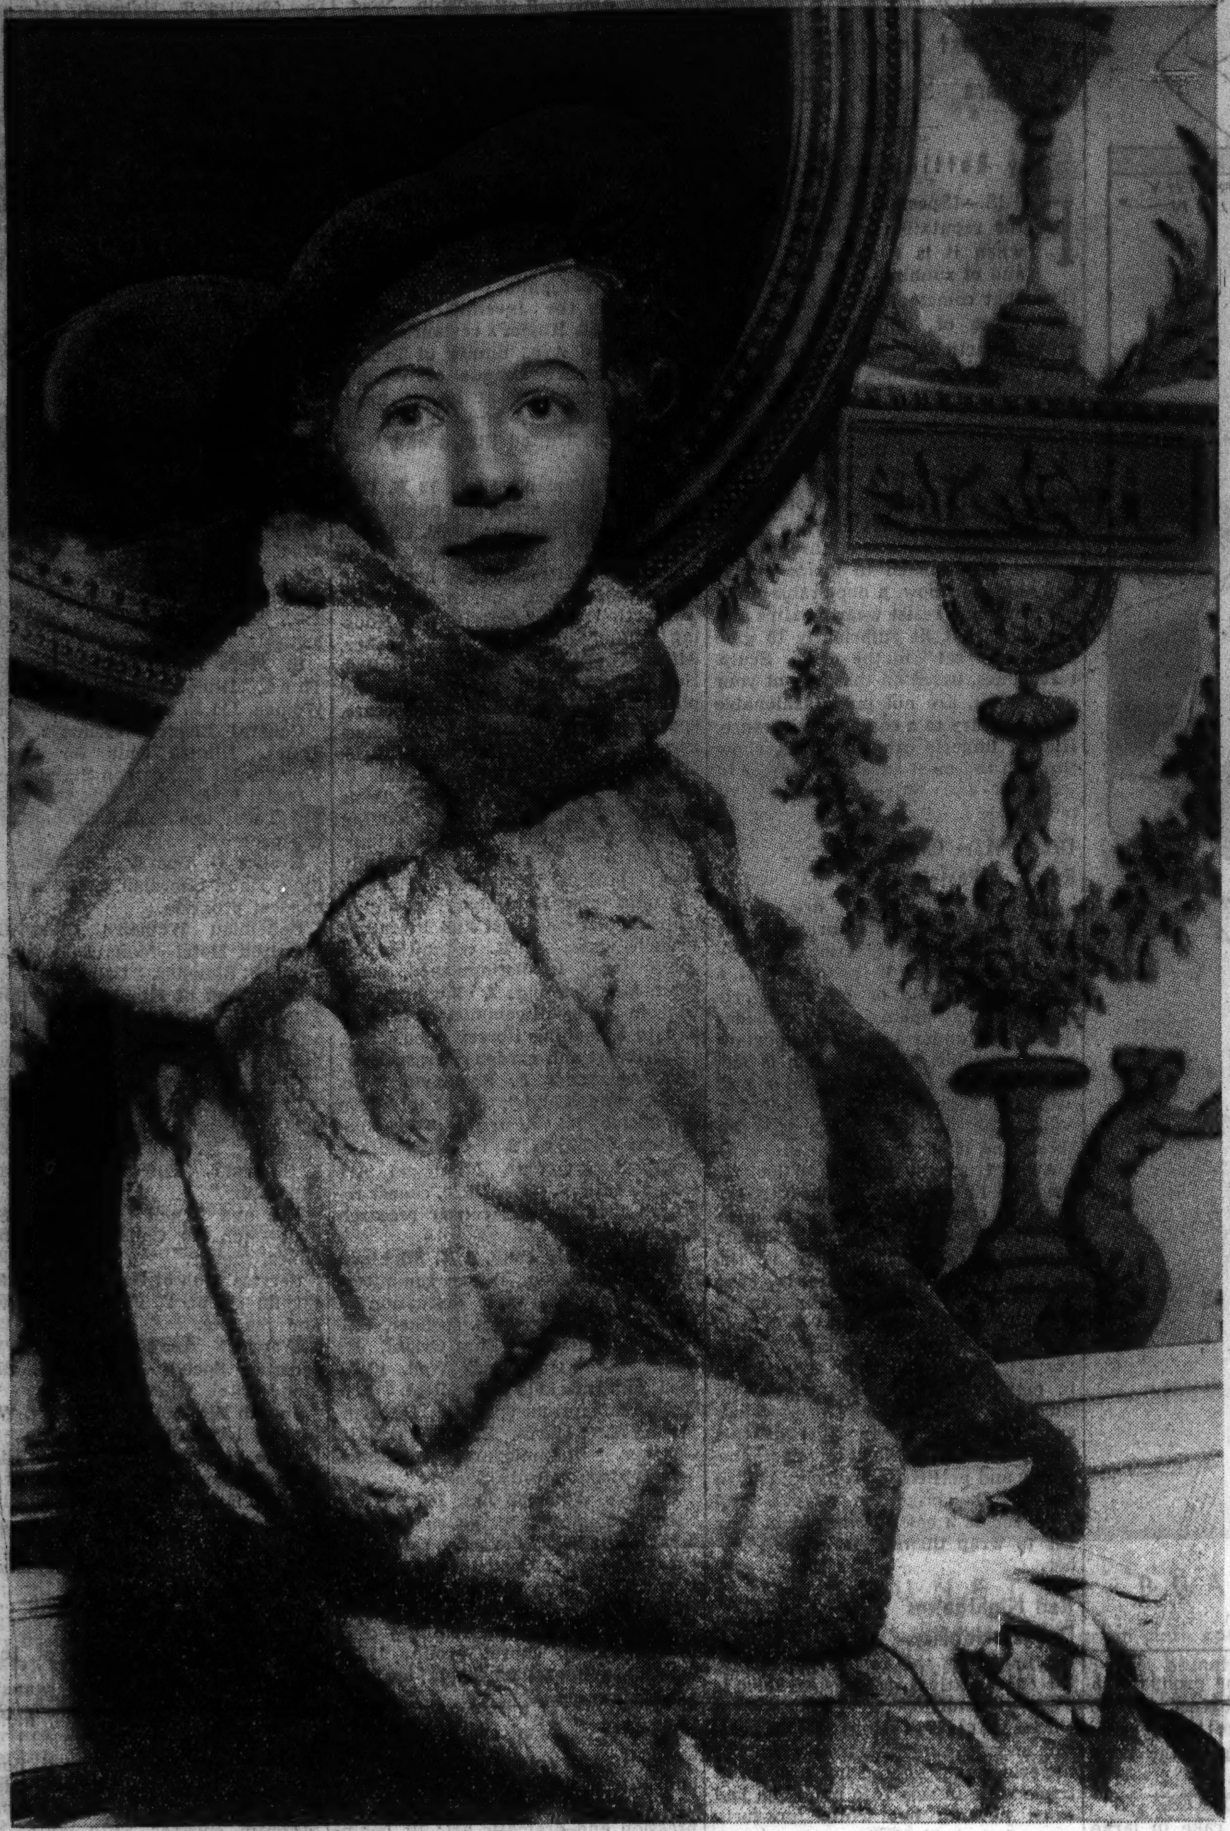
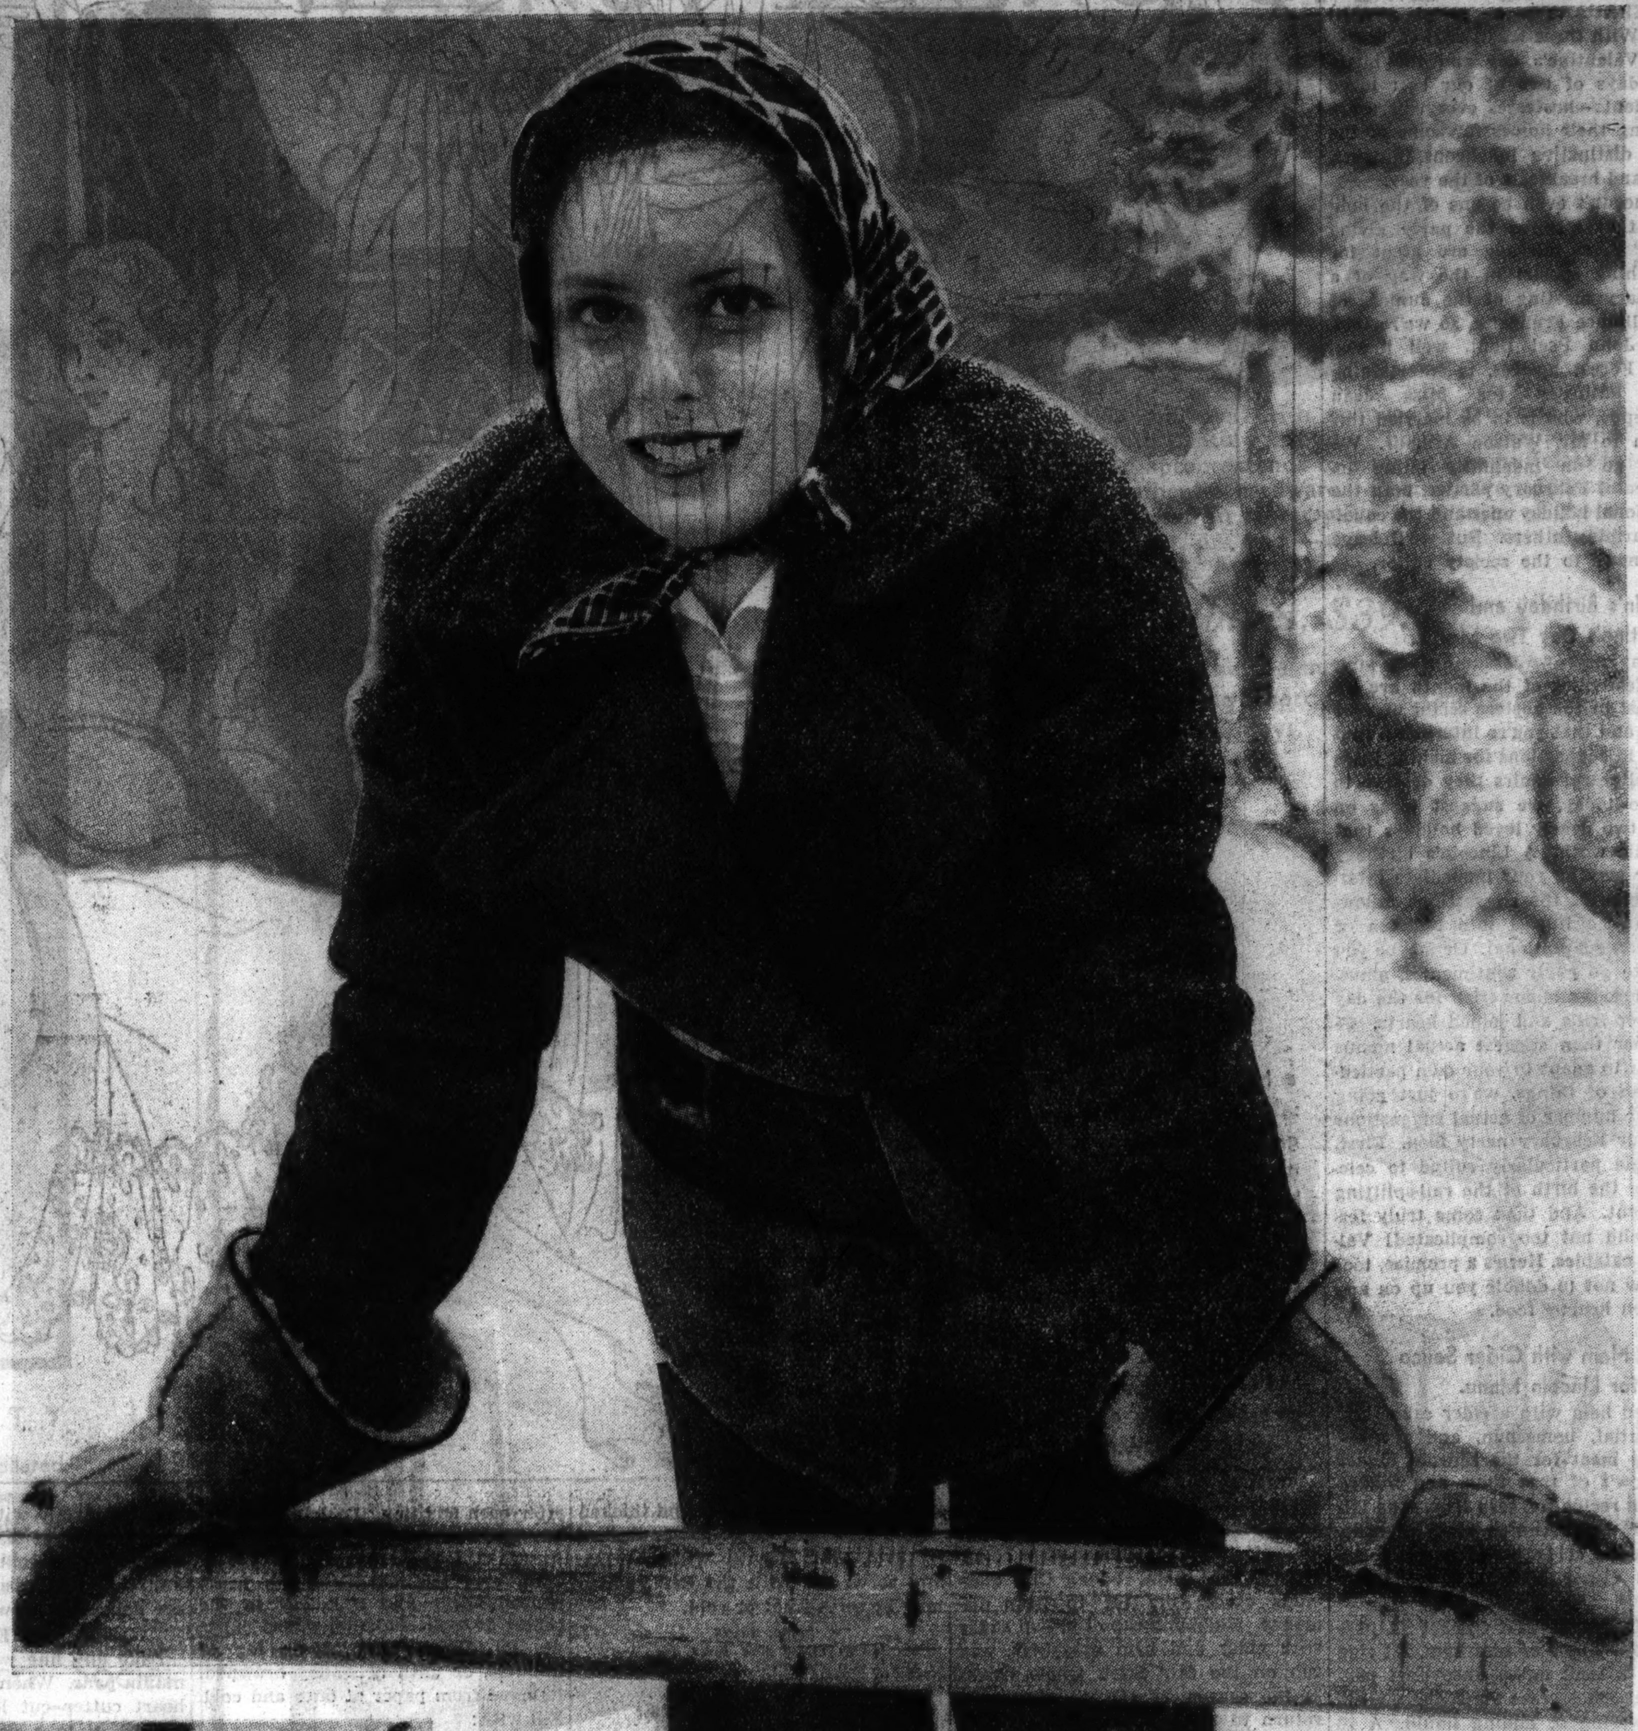
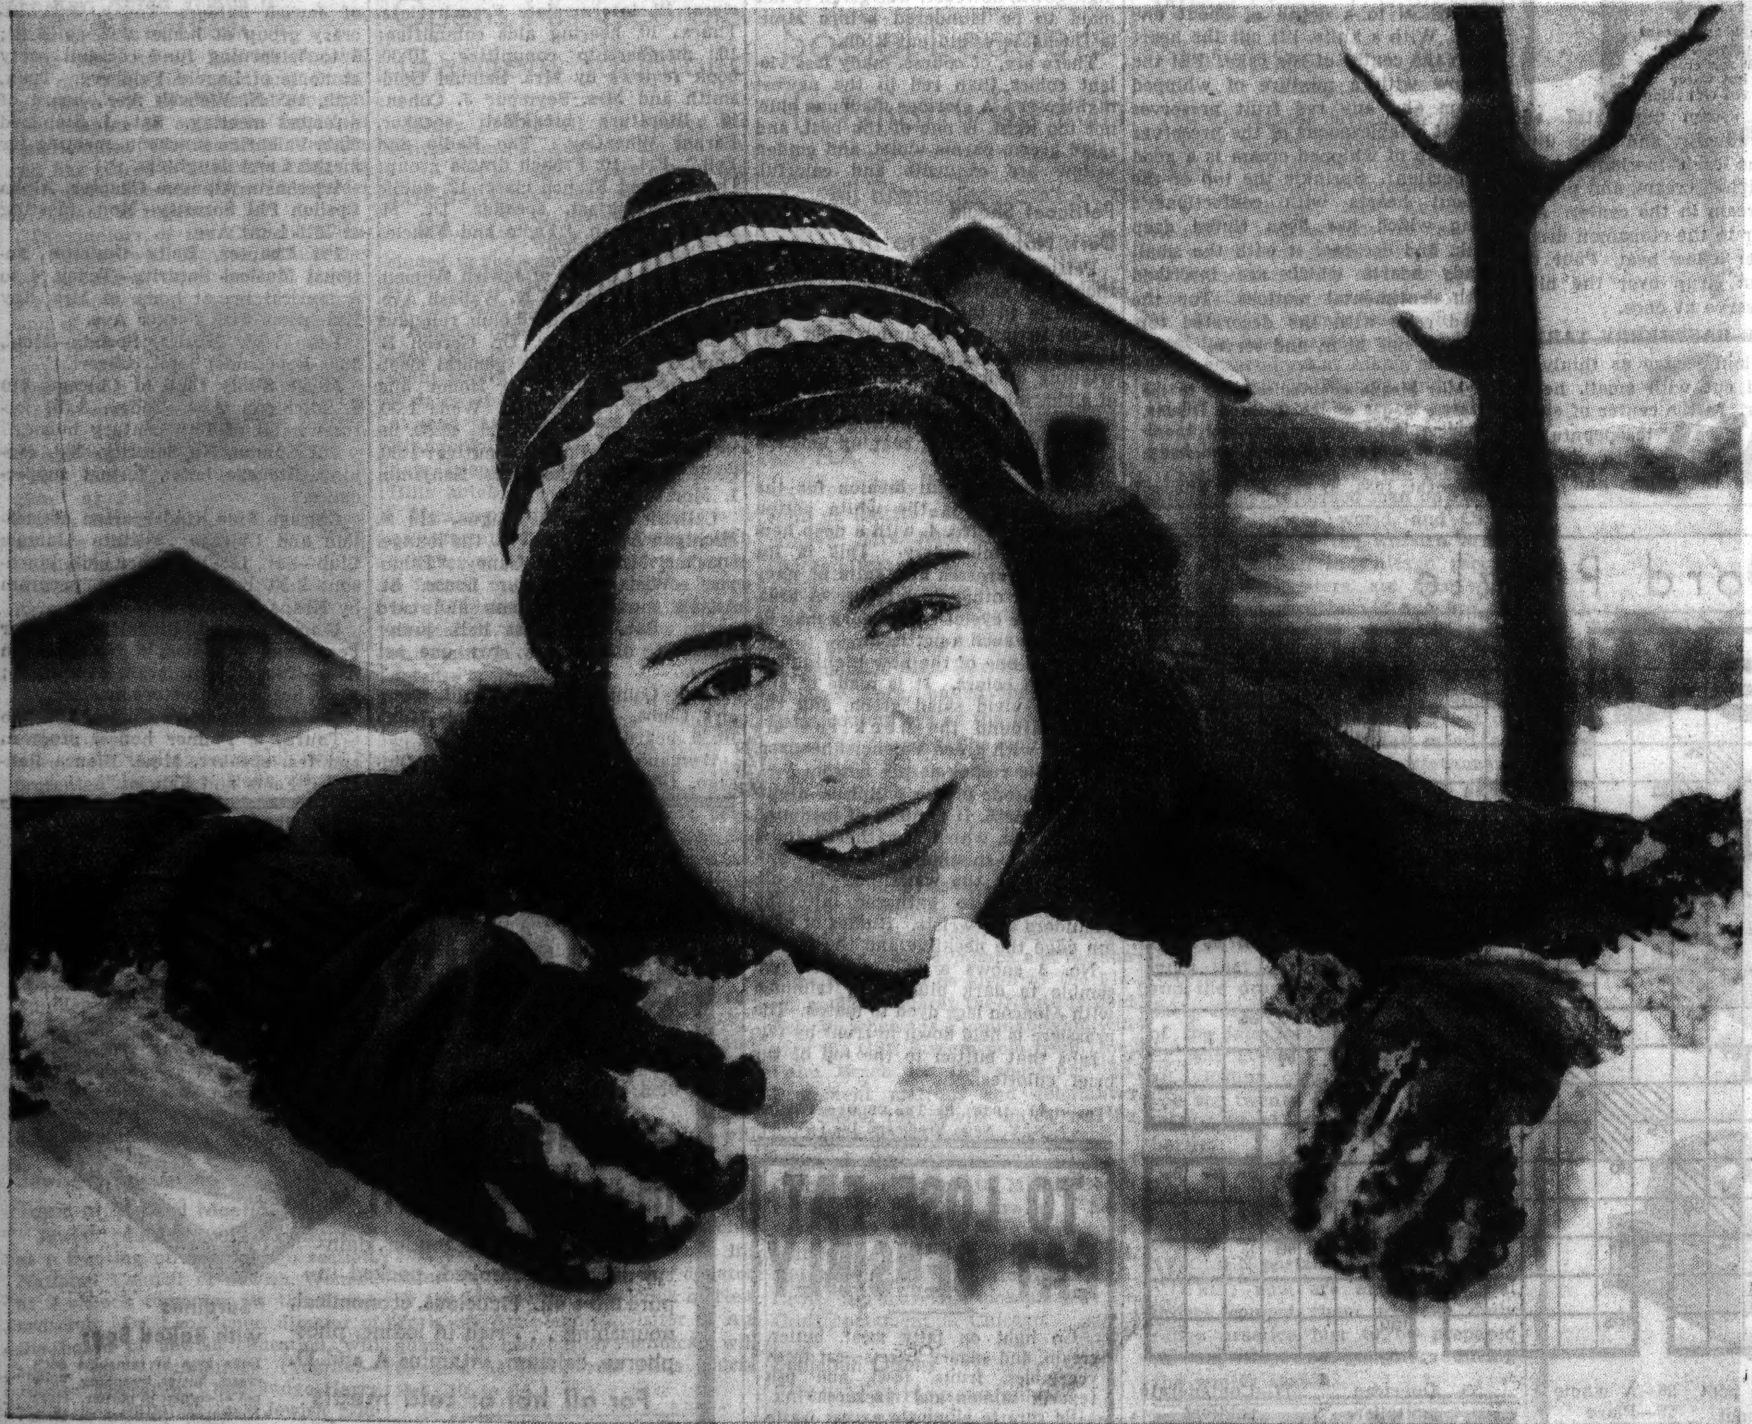
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER
FEBRUARY 9, 1936.



Miss Marjorie Mills (at left) wears this winter a gray squirrel coat that is as becoming as it is warm. Although she did not make a formal debut, she was included in many of the debutante festivities this season. She was a participant in the Service club revue last autumn.

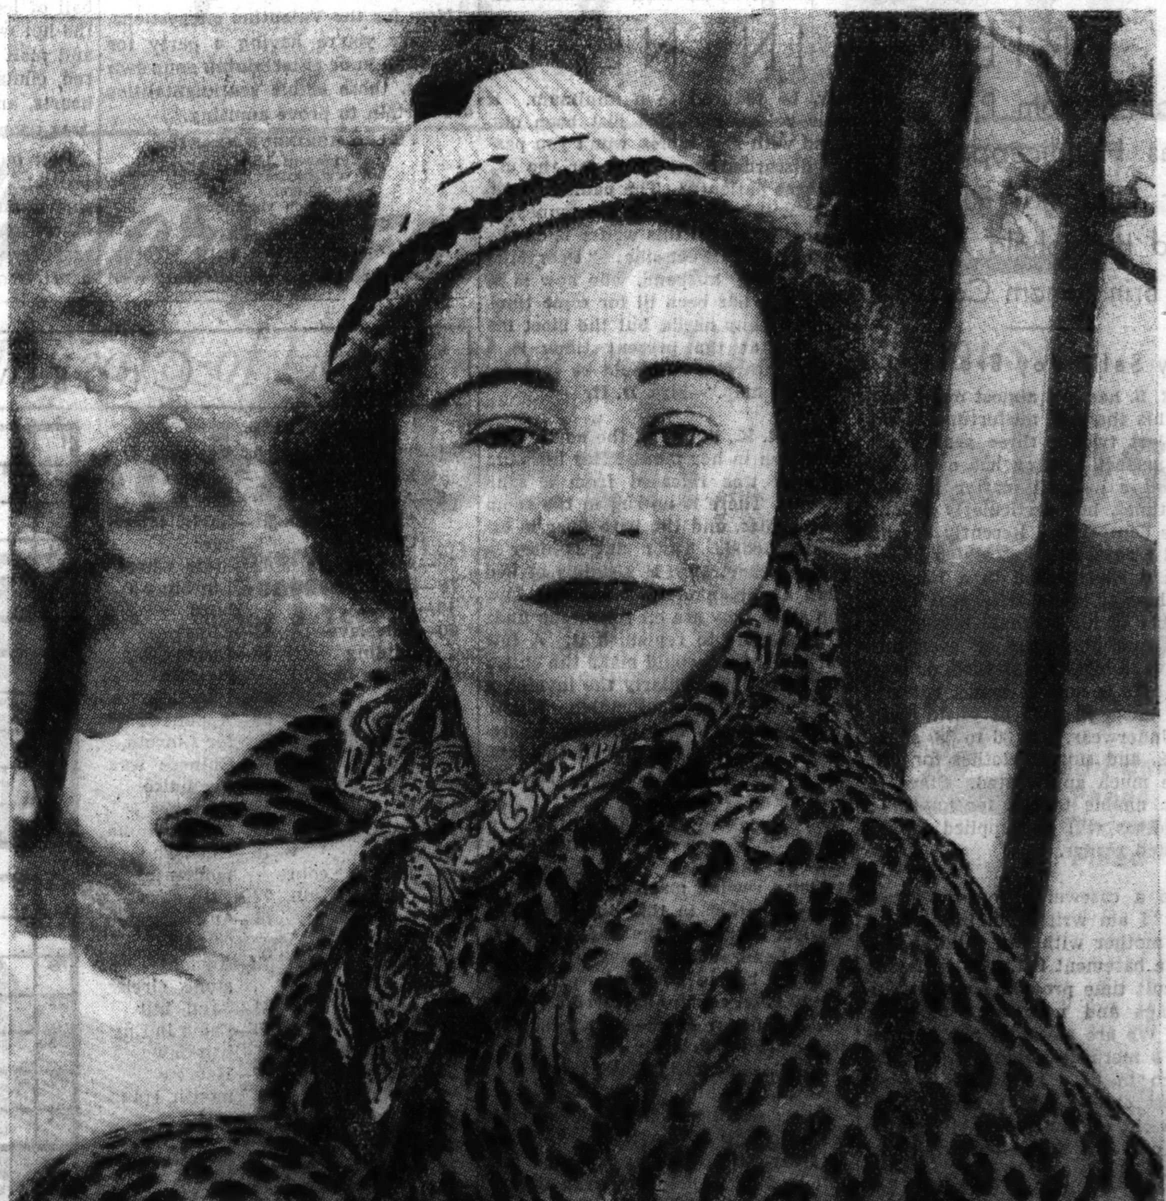
Janann Fleming (below) ties a 'kerchief around her head when she skates at the Skokie Country club in Glencoe, the north shore town in which she lives with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Harney C. Fleming. This picture was taken at the annual ice carnival at the club.





Modrea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bernard Mullen of Highland Park, loves the snow, just as does every child, and she often is to be seen skating or tobogganing at the Exmoor club. Her mother, Frances Buell Mullen, is well known as a portrait painter.

TRIBUNE STUDIO PHOTOS.



Chill winds may blow and the thermometer may drop, but Miss Lorraine Roach (at right) smiles happily just the same, for she is protected nicely by her smart leopard cat coat and muff and the perky little skating cap that tops her curls. She was pictured at the ice carnival at the Exmoor club.

February Gives Party Cookery the Limelight

Three Traditional Holidays Bring Gay and Dainty Dishes Into Your Menus.

By Mary Meade.

FEBRUARY'S a party month! With three traditional excuses—Valentine's day and the birthdays of two of our best loved presidents—hostesses everywhere are opening their homes for some of the most distinctive luncheons, dinners, teas, and breakfasts of the year.

It needn't even be one of the holidays that inspires the party giving urge. Plans already are afoot for something special in the way of a February meeting of the Juniors of the Alliance Française, so we're told. Mrs. John Peel Bent, well known Lake Forest hostess, is entertaining next Saturday for Miss Jean Schweppe, who is to be married this month to Mr. Watson Armour. We could go on indefinitly citing instances of February parties, both the traditional holiday ones and the equally charming others. But we'll leave such news to the society editor.

Lincoln's Birthday and Valentine's Day Two Motifs.

Right now we assume that your own festivities of the month are uppermost in the hostess sector of your brain, and that you're interested, first of all, in suggestions for making them the delightful affairs they deserve to be. So today, we suggest ideas on these two dearly loved holidays that fall this week. A Lincoln's birthday dinner may be your immediate interest [some of the suggestions following can be turned into high-tea or luncheon adaptations]. Or maybe you want to go gayly sentimental, amusingly hearts-and-flowerish for the day of paper frills and joined hearts.

Rather than suggest actual menus for you to adapt to your own particular plan of things, we're just going to list a number of actual suggestions for your February party food. First, a couple particularly suited to celebrating the birth of the rail-splitting President. And then some truly festive [and not too complicated] Valentine eatables. Here's a promise, too: we vow not to double you up on any puns on heart-y food.

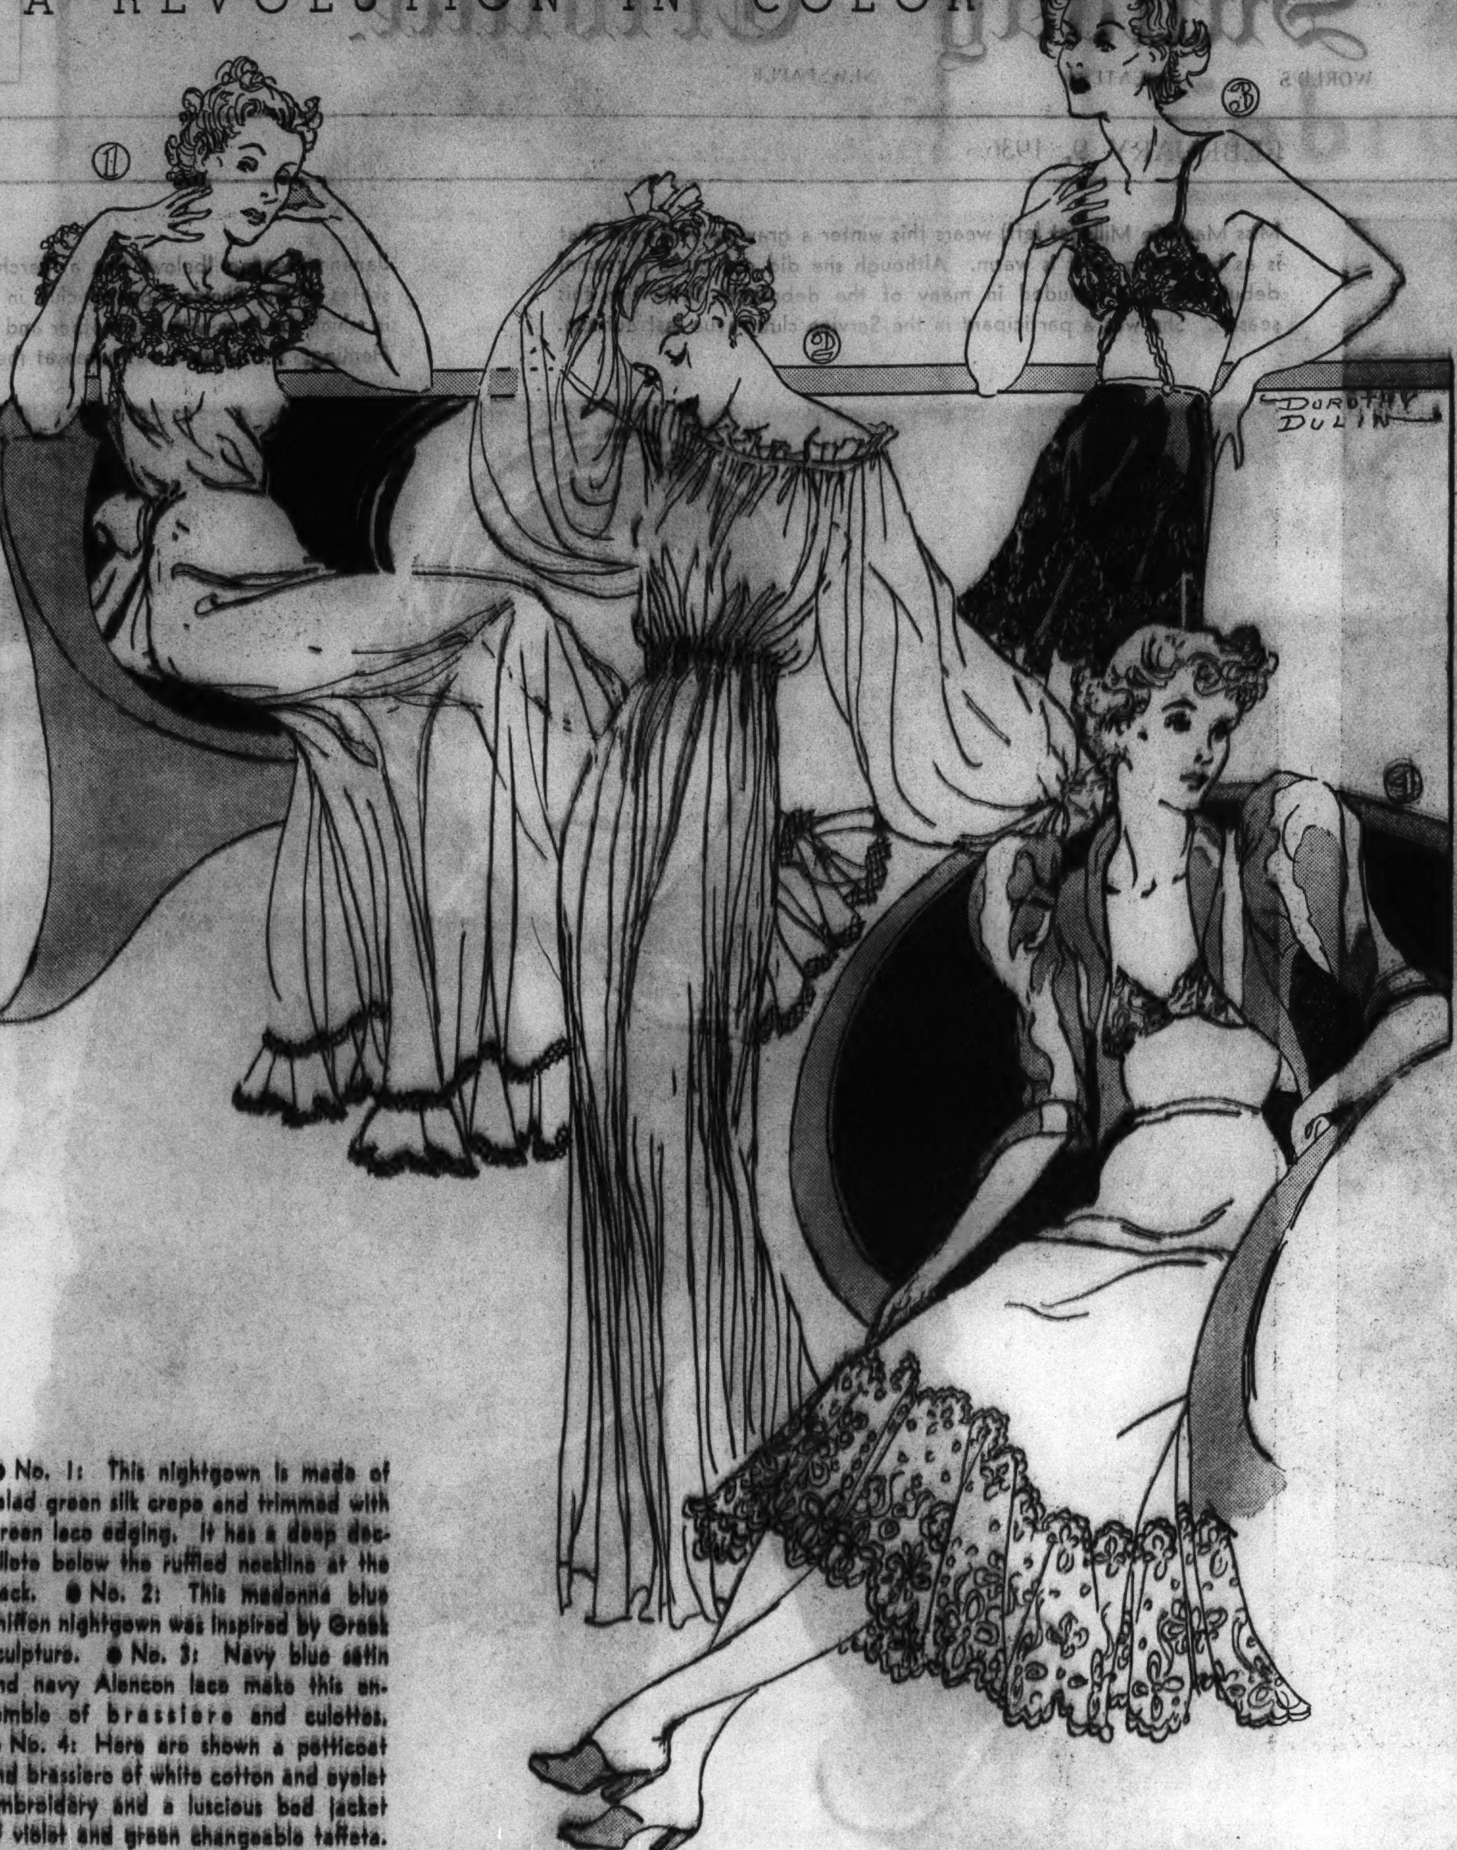
Baked Ham with Cider Sauce Ideal for Lincoln Menu.

Baked ham with a cider sauce is a substantial, homespun, and yet distinctive meat for the Lincoln dinner The how's of that then, and following it, a recipe for corn logs. The latter may be served in place of rolls, or may be arranged in a rail fence around either a fruit or vegetable salad.

BAKED HAM WITH CIDER SAUCE.

Place a whole or half ham, fat side up, on a rack in an uncovered pan. Roast at 300 degrees Fahrenheit, without covering or adding liquid. A 10 to 12 pound ham requires 25 minutes per pound, a larger ham 20 minutes per pound, while a half ham will take 30 minutes per pound. If a roast meat thermometer is used, the ham is baked until the thermometer registers 160 degrees Fahrenheit.

A REVOLUTION IN COLOR



● No. 1: This nightgown is made of salad green silk crepe and trimmed with green lace edging. It has a deep decollete below the ruffled neckline at the back. ● No. 2: This madonna blue chiffon nightgown was inspired by Greek sculpture. ● No. 3: Navy blue satin and navy Alencon lace make this ensemble of brassiere and culottes. ● No. 4: Here are shown a petticoat and brassiere of white cotton and eyelet embroidery and a luscious bed jacket of violet and green changeable taffeta.

Forty-five minutes before the ham is done, remove it from the oven and take off the rind, all except a collar around the shank bone. Cut diagonals across the fat to form diamonds. Moisten a cup of brown sugar with cider and ham drippings, and rub on the fat. Stick whole cloves in the centers of the diamonds and return to the oven to finish baking. During the last 10 minutes increase the heat to brown the ham.

Cider Sauce Is Simply Made and Tasteful.

To make the cider sauce, add 2 cups of sweet cider to the drippings in the roasting pan. Heat and thicken with a flour and water paste. Season to taste, color slightly with paprika, and serve hot with the ham, which may be served hot or cold.

CORN LOGS.

¾ cup all-purpose flour
¾ cup cornmeal
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 tablespoon butter
½ cup milk

Sift the dry ingredients together. Work in the butter with knives or the fingers. Add the milk. Shape in finger rolls, long and narrow, and bake for 12 to 15 minutes in a hot oven. Brush over with melted butter or salted corn oil after baking.

Now for the Valentine suggestions. Whether you're having a party for the children or entertaining your own friends, these edible sentimentalities are certain to prove amusing.

FILLED MERINGUE HEARTS.
[Serves 10.]

4 egg whites
⅔ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vinegar
Few grains salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg whites until frothy. Gradually add the sugar, beating well after each addition. Fold in the vinegar, salt, and vanilla when the mixture is stiff and fluffy. With a pastry tube, pipe the maringue into heart shaped shells and a hollow in the center of each. Bake on waxed paper at 300 degrees Fahrenheit for 45 minutes, or until delicately browned. Remove from paper at once and cool. Fill with:

¾ cup heavy cream
2 teaspoons sugar
1 quart ice cream
½ cup hot water
1 cup red cinnamon drops

Whip the cream until stiff, add the sugar gradually, and whip until smooth. Line each merinque heart with the whipped cream, and place a ball of ice cream in the center. Add the hot water to the cinnamon drops, and melt over a low heat. Pour the red cinnamon sirup over the filled hearts, and serve at once.

VALENTINE RASPBERRY TARTS.

Roll out plain pastry as thinly as possible, and cut with small, heart-shaped cutter. In the center of every other heart place a teaspoonful of raspberry jam. Top with another heart, moisten the edges, and press together firmly with the prongs of a fork. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, then reduce to 300 degrees Fahrenheit and bake until the tarts are delicately browned.

"BE MINE" CAKES.

Bake any fine white cake in large muffin pans. When cool, with a small heart cutter cut into the center of the cakes to a depth of about one inch. With a knife, lift out the heart from the center of the cake. Fill the hollow with a mixture of whipped cream and any red fruit preserves [about 3 tablespoons of the preserves to a cup of whipped cream is a good proportion]. Sprinkle the top of the cut-out hearts with confectioner's icing which has been tinted deep pink, and decorate it with the small candy hearts which are inscribed with sentimental mottoes. Top the filled cake with the decorated top, chill for one hour, and serve.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Persons Whom Poverty Has Handicapped Ask for Clothing, Furniture, and Household Articles to Bring Them Comfort.

By Sally Joy Brown.

MR. S. has had almost more than his share of misfortune in the last two or three years. Imperfect hearing has made employment a difficult matter for him at all times, but particularly so during the depression. Recently he contracted a severe illness, which placed him in a charity bed in a hospital. While he was under treatment there, a number of his personal belongings, at no time numerous or even adequate, were lost, had strayed, or been stolen. He is now at home, but still ill and much in need of warm clothing. Underwear, size 36 to 38, shoes, size 8½, and suit of clothes for him will be much appreciated. Since he will be unable to call for anything, the address will be supplied to any interested reader.

◆

From a caseworker on the north side: "I am writing in behalf of a young mother with two children, living in a basement flat, who is having a difficult time providing decent surroundings and nourishing food for them. We are assisting her in moving to a more desirable flat, but she is much in need of a bed for her youngest child. He's a baby boy, 9 months old, and much too big for the little crib he has been occupying."—A. M.

◆

Miss M. will be glad to call for a bed for this child if some reader has one to offer.

The supervisor of the tuberculosis department of a local charity hospital, is anxious to obtain some used card tables for the use of the patients. The tables are most convenient to have in wards for games, jigsaw puzzles, etc., and the hospital budget must, of course, be spent only for sheer necessities. Days are pretty dreary for invalids in any state in life, but particularly so for the poor. Medical and nursing care are the primary considerations, and small luxuries and conveniences must, of necessity, be reduced to a minimum. If your bridge club has just been outfitted with new tables, won't you pass the discarded ones along for the use of these patients? The name and address will be supplied upon request.

The address of this writer is on the extreme northwest side: "Dear Miss Brown: My husband, who now is 80 years old, has been ill for some time. He has many needs, but the most important, at the present time, is a heavy bathrobe. I would be grateful for your help."—Mrs. D. H.

◆

Mrs. R. K., living on the north side, has seven in her family. Her husband recently was released from a sanitarium. There is no rug in the room he occupies, and the bare floor is extremely cold. Their flat is over a butcher shop. Mrs. K.'s supply of bed linen and blankets is extremely low, and since they are on relief, she finds it impossible to replenish it. A few warm blankets would make the entire family, but particularly the invalid, a great deal more comfortable. Pillow cases and sheets also would be appreciated. Another member of the family, a girl, needs clothing, size 14 or 16.

◆

Mrs. R. S., on the extreme south side of the city, writes: "Has a reader a sewing machine for a handicapped mother in this district? She has lost several of the fingers on her right hand, which makes it impossible for her to do hand work. The family is on relief, and there are nine children under 15 years of age. The mother could do many things to keep her children warmly clad if she had a sewing machine."

D. C., writing from Indiana, sends the following request:

"Dear Miss Brown: I hope you will be able to help me, even though my request is rather unusual. Could you assist me in locating a Braille slate, the instrument used for making characters? I am anxious to obtain one, but am unable to afford one at present."

Woman Is First Mayor in History of Mexico

MEXICO had the first woman mayor in its history when Aurora Mesa Andraca, 30 years old, recently became head of the town of Chilpancingo, Guerrero state. She formerly was chairman of the town's board of improvements.

[Answer on Page 4.]

Paris Insists Spring Lingerie Be Sculptured

Bulky Underthings Ruin the Sleekest Ensemble, Couturiers Sternly Explain.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Women have the reputation of being flighty when it is a matter of dress, and of running after every new style that comes along. However, in the choice of lingerie they have proved reactionary, and changes have met with resistance, often unsurmountable.

Lingerie is traditionally shapeless, and the women of the world seemed to like it that way until recently when the fit of outside fashions made some shaping of what is worn under them obligatory. Form, through necessity, is admitted to inside styles, and yet, even now, a deplorable number of women resist wearing slips and chemises that fit sufficiently to give a perfect "set" to the dress. Sculptured lines, based on the lines of your own figure, are not only fashionable but necessary to a correct appearance. Hidden lingerie can, and does, show through the most substantial dress in wrinkles and bulges, unless it is molded.

Dressmakers Challenge Reign of Pastels.

In Paris, where the dressmaker takes a temperamental pride in the appearance of her creations, I have known couturiers to refuse to fit a dress over a slip or other lingerie that is misshapen. They consider what goes under to be as important as the outside, and if a sale is lost because a customer gets in a huff over the objection to her undergarments the designer gives a Gallic shrug and lets it go.

Apart from the sculptured look of the new lingerie, which has this imperative reason for fitting, the question of color has become a big subject in lingerie fashions. Color is the point on which the diehards have proved most reactionary. Pink, white, and blue in pale shades have monopolized the lingerie fashions of many years. There seems to be a fixed idea in many feminine heads that other shades aren't exactly "nice," whatever that means. In spite of this the newest nightgowns, slips, chemises, and petticoats are being shown in real flower-garden shades, and even red is a color that women may use to wrap themselves in for slumber.

Red Nightgowns Delight Nobility.

I find that the resistance, among the conservatives in Paris, to color is being demolished. The dowager Duchesse de G—— told me that she was shocked and intrigued when her lingerie maker offered her a gown of triple voile in soft rose red. She had worn nothing but white for forty years, but she had always loved red, and that overcame tradition. The red nightgown, however, was given to her maid to be laundered before Mme. la Duchesse would put it on.

There are, of course, many less violent colors than red in the newest nightgowns. A glorious madonna blue, not too light, is one of the best, and salad green, parma violet, and golden yellow are exquisite and colorful.

Petticoat Should Dart, Not Sag.

Petticoats become a real decoration, though a partly hidden one. They are worn in the most daring colors, or are frothy white under sober daytime clothes. Probably no more intriguing device exists than the flash of a charming petticoat under a skirt, nor no more unappetizing one than a bedraggled petticoat sagging below a hem.

A truly delightful fashion for the coming spring is the white cotton petticoat, like No. 4, with a deep hem of eyelet embroidery. This is for wear with dresses and suits of navy or black or other dark color. A brassiere of the eyelet embroidery may be worn with such a petticoat.

No. 1 is one of the new nightgowns in garden colors. It is made of silk crepe in vivid salad green, and the ruffles around the neckline are rimmed with green Valenciennes lace, as are the ruffles at the bottom.

No. 2 is one of the sculpture nightgowns of 1936. It is made of madonna blue chiffon, which is gathered along a dropped-shoulder decollete and tucked to fit the waistline. The big sleeves are also gathered into the shoulders and wrists. Ruffles of chiffon edge the neckline and the wrists.

No. 3 shows a new lingerie ensemble in dark blue satin trimmed with Alencon lace dyed to match. The brassiere is held down in front by two straps that button to the top of the brief culottes.

TO LOSE FAT EAT SENSIBLY

Go light on fatty meat, butter, cream, and sugary sweets—eat fresh vegetables, fruits, fowl, and fish (except salmon and mackerel.)

Be sure to eliminate excess waste accumulations by taking a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts with the juice of half a lemon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

Betty Nye of Lancaster, Pa., writes: "I took off 14 lbs.—I could hardly believe my eyes."

Pay no attention to gossipers who say there's no safe way to reduce. Millions the world over take the little daily dose of Kruschen not only to help banish excess fat through proper elimination but to help keep stomach, liver, gall bladder, bowels, and kidneys in a more healthy working condition.

No drastic cathartics—no constipation—but blissful daily bowel action when you take your little daily dose of Kruschen and follow our suggestions with respect to diet.

Club Program to Honor Essay Contest Winner

Chicago Woman's Group Is to Hear Composition on Lincoln Good Will.

More news of Chicago clubs and club women will be found in the other Society section.

THE Chicago Woman's club will dedicate its program next Wednesday afternoon to Abraham Lincoln. "How May We Honor Lincoln's Ideals of Good Will in the World of Today?", the theme this year of the club's annual Lincoln good will essay contest for high school students, will be the topic of the program to be presented.

MISS HELEN HOOPER.
[Gibson Photo.]

Miss Helen Hooper of Morgan Park High school, winner of the contest, and S. J. Duncan-Clark, newspaper man, will be the principal speakers, and five minute talks will be contributed by Rabbi Joshua Loth Leibmann of K. A. M. temple, Dr. Albert Buckner Coe of the First Congregational church of Oak Park, Dr. Harold M. Kingsley of the Church of the Good Shepherd, the Rev. E. J. Mullaly of St. Mary's church, William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, and Reimund Baumann, Danish consul general.

Essay Chosen from Those of 17 Competing Schools.

Miss Hooper's essay was chosen from among the outstanding contributions of students at 17 high schools. Mrs. Walter H. Buhlig is chairman of the Lincoln good will committee which sponsored the contest, and is arranging Wednesday's program. Miss Hooper will read her essay over station WCFL at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening, March 3.

Lincoln will inspire another program Wednesday when Gen. Henry Dearborn chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, celebrates its twenty-second birthday with its annual white breakfast at noon in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel.

The Rev. Alfred Wilson Is to Give Talk on Lincoln.

The Rev. Alfred Lee Wilson will talk on "Lincoln's Land and Ours," and there will be a musical program. The chapter is active in behalf of Americanism and national defense, and has placed a number of flags in the public schools. Mrs. Alexander C. Dallach is regent.

The juniors of the Catholic Woman's league will observe Annual day with the presentation of two one-act plays, "Between the Soup and the Savoury," and "The Burglar," at 2 o'clock Saturday in Curtiss hall of the Fine Arts building, 410 South Michigan avenue.

MISS MARGARET CONNORS.
[De Haven Photo.]

Miss Cecelia Young will direct the plays, which will be presented by Miss Nova Brassell, Miss Margaret Byrne, Misses Mabel and Margaret Connors, Miss Genevieve Cogan, Miss Alice Duffy, Miss Anne Mershut, and Miss Rosalie Schultz. Miss Margaret Connors is chairman of the juniors.

The Chicago chapter of Hadassah will give a program in tribute to Mrs. Harry Berkman at 2 o'clock Tuesday at the Congress hotel. Mrs. Berkman, former president of the Chicago chapter, recently returned from an extensive trip to Europe and Palestine, where she spent five months studying the reconstruction of the country.

Jewish Education to Be Topic at Council Meeting.

Jewish education will be discussed at a meeting of the Chicago section, National Council of Jewish Women, at 2 o'clock tomorrow at the Standard club. Dr. Leo Honor, director of the board of Jewish education, will speak on "Community Program—Jewish Education," and Judge Harry M. Fisher will talk on "Jewish Education, A Community Responsibility." The children's choir of the South Side Hebrew congregation will present a group of liturgic and folk songs under the direction of Hy Reznick.

Dr. Thomas D. Eliot of the department of sociology at Northwestern university will address the annual dinner meeting of the first district, Illinois State Nurses' association, at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Dr. Eliot will speak on "Social Trends Affecting American Family Life." Miss Ethel F. Holbrook will give the president's address.

BECOMES A BRUNETTE BEAUTY

Mrs. Edward L. Hersey is seen often this winter wearing a green cloth coat collared in taupe fox and a tiny green cap that is most becoming to her brunette beauty. Mrs. Hersey was Miss Beatrice Burnet before her marriage, the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Sidney Burnet, popular Chicago society folk. She has one brother, Robert, who studied at Yale and who is known as a talented musician.

Henry P. Crowell Opens His Georgia Gardens to Public

Henry P. Crowell has opened his winter home in Augusta for the season.

AUGUSTA, GA. His beautiful gardens are accessible to the public twice a week. They will be included in the annual tour to be sponsored late in March and early April by the Sand Hills Garden club.

Among other recent guests have been the Maurice Rothchilds, who spent several days here. Mrs. W. M. Wrigley of Chicago has been a guest at one Augusta hotel, and G. G. Brandenburg and J. F. Brandenburg have been registered at the Forest Hills hotel.

Members of the winter colony will be entertained during February with a series of social and sports events. A formal military ball will be given here Wednesday night when the local chapter, U. S. Army Reserve officers entertain in celebration of national defense week.

The Augusta chapter of the Colonial Dames will present Samuel G. Stoney of Charleston in a series of readings in the dialect of the Gullah Negro on Feb. 13. Mr. Stoney, his wife, the former Frances Frost, poet, and Mrs. Anton Pope Wright of Savannah, registrar of the Georgia Association of Colonial Dames, will be fêted at a tea that afternoon.

The Bachelors club of Augusta will entertain on Valentine's night with a masquerade ball.

Rehersals are being held for the "Junior League Follies of 1936," which will be presented Feb. 21 and 22. Following the final performance a supper-dance will be held at the Country club.

The Cross-Country Riding club will hold its forty-first annual field day program the afternoon of Feb. 22.

The Frick Cup match tournament will be played at the Country club Feb. 10. The winner will have his name engraved on the cup donated by the late Henry Clay Frick of New York, one time annual visitor to Augusta. A match play handicap will be held at the Forest Hills course Feb. 10 to 14.

Miss Nancy Wilds Engaged to William W. Davidson Jr.

Miss Wilds is a graduate of Ferry Hall in Lake Forest and has been specializing in music at Converse college. Mr. Davidson is a graduate of Dartmouth and a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Many Chicago Social Leaders in Miami Beach

Howell Ermingers and Two Daughters Are Prominent Among Recent Arrivals.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr. of Chicago, who are annual visitors in Miami Beach,

MIAMI BEACH, FLA. have arrived for their seasonal visit, accompanied by their daughters, Mrs. John de Laittre and Miss Bertha Erminger. Mrs. John A. Stevenson of Chicago was guest of honor at a luncheon party given at the Surf club by Mrs. Leonard C. Feathers. A colorful group at the club on the same day included Mrs. Harrison Williams of New York, hailed for years by Paris coutouriers as the best dressed woman in America. She motored dowu from Palm Beach, and had with her Prince and Princess Bismarck and Sir Alfred Beit.

Fred A. Poor Patron of Gymkana and Fashion Show.

Fred A. Poor of Chicago is on the recently released patrons and patronesses list for the gymkana and fashion show which will be given by the Flamingo Polo club at the Nautilus field Feb. 16, when the Flamingo team will play the Gulf Stream polo team from Palm Beach for the spectator cup. Prominent matrons and debutantes will model the gowns which will be exhibited in the fashion show.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Sims Jr. of Chicago, who came to Miami Beach on their honeymoon, are at a hotel here. Mrs. Sims, before her recent marriage, was Miss Bettina Croft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Croft. Her marriage took place at the Croft apartment in Chicago.

Benjamin Olsens Entertain at Housewarming.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin T. Olsen of Chicago, who have been winter visitors in Miami Beach for a number of years, entertained a large group of friends at a house warming party at their new home, 2570 Flamingo drive, recently. They were assisted in entertaining by their daughter, Mrs. William Burmeister of Chicago and by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Olsen of Kenilworth, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dingle of Chicago and Lloyd Patterson of New York motored from the west coast of Florida recently for several days' visit in Miami Beach.

Sports and Social Whirl Draw Chicago Notables to Aiken

AIKEN, S. C. Mrs. James Simpson Jr. has entertained considerably at Fairway, Mrs. Austin H. Niblack is seen at most of the parties worth while, Mrs. Joseph Leiter has a one acre farm and her permanent arrival may occur any day. Potter d'Orsay Palmer made a local hotel his headquarters while he was being entertained at Aiken, and after a short visit to Florida and other places he expects to spend most of the first few months of the year in this South Carolina resort.

Capt. Basil Grant of the B. E. F., and the best informed man on riding equipment in the world, and Capt. Ivanenko, late of the Russian army and well known in Chicago racing and hunting centers, are here with hunters and race horses and are always to be seen in parties that include the nicest and most sporty element. Then, of course, there is Miss Nancy Leiter, a most popular debutante, who floats in and out of the social activities that mean so much to Aiken. A keen horsewoman, she is warmly welcomed here. Her other diversions include sailing and the horse show ring.

The strongest magnet in drawing society for a third of the year is the polo, which means the Bostwicks, Dev Milburn, Skiddy von Stade, Knox Hitchcock, Posts, and a score more that have made polo history, and the drag hunting nobly carried on by Mrs. J. Averill Clark, daughter of the late Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock Sr., the greatest huntsman of them all. Riding over the Aiken fences you see twenty or thirty of the Fermata school girls on their own horses.

Dinner Suits Are Tailored on Severest Lines

Feminine Contingent Borrows Slim Distinction of Masculine Clothes.

By Rhea Seeger.

OUT for dinner now in sleek, distinctive costume uniforms to match those of our escorts . . . long, slim, black, midnight blue, and dark colored suits, frosted with white for wear both now and later. Or similar impeccably tailored ensembles in filmy laces, pastel colored, and even in tub materials. Dinner suits and clothes are headed for a brilliant season if the records of fast buying of these dashing new clothes are of any significance.

You can't but lose your heart to these unusually smart clothes. They'll make any and every one look years younger and marvelously well groomed. After years of watching the masculine half of the dinner crowds look sleek and sophisticated in black and white tailored splendor, it's no wonder we are all getting into these clothes as fast as we can buy them.

There's Even an Occasional Carnation in a Buttonhole.

You'll like all the simplicity, all the long streamlines, all the nice tailored details. For example, there's the feminized version of the dinner jacket with the accentuated lapels; the long, fitted sleeves, the narrow, turnback cuffs, the nice little flat, tailored neckbows, and the occasional scarlet carnation in the buttonhole. Dull crêpe, satin, rustling taffetas are the fabrics that are used for the models to wear immediately. The skirts are extremely simple of silhouette, with a deep slit either in the exact center front or the back. They reach the floor in some models and end at the ankle line in others. The tops are smartly tailored and finished with splashes of white. The revers or flat, big bows or the bodice top may be outlined in white piqué, the favored white accent with dull black.

Some fresh new affairs are made of tiny checked taffeta or narrow striped silk taffeta, with a gay, bright belt of patent lether, or a huge ascot tie of contrasting colored chiffon that could easily be changed for one of lace or of another color of chiffon. Crisp white organdy fashions the tucked blouse top of others. Sheer white embroidered batiste makes the short sleeved top of still a third group. And the shirtwaist effects in frilled numbers are most effective selections.

Jacket Buttons on Rhinestone Circles.

Four new dinner suits have been sketched, two complete suits and two ensembles with trick new jacket tops. In the suit at left the front jabot of snowy white soutache braid falls in a cascade of white daisies down the center of the bodice top. The back of the slim dress is illustrated in the small sketch at the left. The jacket has a perky, short peplum, considerably more ruffled at the back than in the front. It buttons snugly over the chest with glittering rhinestone circles. It fits smoothly at the narrow waistline. Other bright colored jackets, made of flowered silk, are used as alternates for this dark jacket of the same material as the dress.

Center . . . two rows of white rimmed buttons at the double breasted closing match the white pique trim of the slim dress. This outfit is of black dull crêpe. The back revers are covered with white piqué to match the flat bow high at the neckline in front. Again the jacket hugs the body and is cinched tight at a slim waistline. A white piqué jacket could be used with the dress for summer dining under the stars; or any other cotton top in either pastel or bright colors, or in bright prints or dots or checks or plaids.

Copy of Mess Jacket Done in Ottoman Silk.

Standing at right . . . swank is achieved with a slim skirt of black satin slit at the sides from freedom. The top, a clever copy of a masculine mess jacket, is made of creamy white ottoman silk. Sleeves are long and puffed at the shoulder seam; wide revers are tailored into sharp points. The buttons are covered with the same material as the jacket. Under the jacket, a scarlet, white, or inky black satin chest-crossing scarf. There is a cummerbund belt to match. This is boned to keep its dashing width.

Seated at right . . . another dinner jacket, designed by Schiaparelli, who also presented the mess jacket combine sketched above. This long sleeved jacket is of blotting paper textured felt, in perfectly luscious bonbon colors—pistachio green, strawberry rose, mauve gray, and tearose pink. Long sleeves are wide at the wrist, fitted at the top. The jacket fits "in" at the waist and flares out in a short peplum around the hipline, with emphasis at the back. These jackets are also worn with slim, straight skirts and sheer shirtwaist tops.

All dresses and jackets sketched above are from a smart Chicago shop . . . the newest and most exciting clothes in town, the kind you wear as soon as you can manage.

[For information on any item described in this article call Rhea Seeger, Superior 0100.]

Miss Seeger's column also appears in The Tribune on Monday and on every other day throughout the week.

ADAPTATIONS OF GENTLEMANLY SPLENDOR

AUNT POLLY'S PUZZLE.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

By Nancy Cabot.

Perhaps one of the quaintest quilts in the interesting array of designs found in rather full collections is "Aunt Polly's Puzzle." Red and unbleached muslin were the two colors used when the design first was pieced, but modern usage shows a perference for rose and white. The patches themselves are reminiscent of "Drunkard's Trail," "Solomon's Puzzle," or one of the ancient "Snowball" patterns, all of which are proofs of the antiquity of the design, "Aunt Polly's Puzzle."

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers 10 quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group [12 cents by mail]. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street, or Tribune Tower.

Etiquet Strict About Rings at Second Nuptials

Propriety Governs Use and Disposal of Jewelry of the First Marriage.

Miss Bartlett will be glad to answer questions pertaining to etiquet and correct social behavior. For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your letter.

By Helen Bartlett.

AMONG the other social problems with which a widow or divorcée finds herself confronted is the question of the disposal of the engagement and wedding rings. Naturally, the procedure under circumstances such as these will be dictated by common sense and sentiment. But when she contemplates a second marriage then even more diplomacy and discretion must be practiced.

A woman normally would continue to wear her rings after the death of her husband. And she should wear them at least a year thereafter. After that length of time she may remove them, if she prefers to do so. If she becomes reëngaged she removes her first engagement ring, of course, and may wear it on her right hand, should this be agreeable to her prospective husband. Or she may have the stone reset in order that her daughter might wear the ring.

May Wear Wedding Ring Up to Time of Second Marriage.

She usually removes her wedding ring at the same time, although she may continue to wear it up to the time of the second marriage, when she takes it off forever. The engagement ring of a first husband never is worn with the wedding ring placed on a woman's finger by her second husband.

A divorcée might feel a little differently about wearing the rings that were given her by her former husband. If a woman's marriage had been utterly unhappy and had culminated in divorce, it is quite likely that she would be glad to put away the rings as being only reminders of her unhappiness.

Wearing Wedding Ring Clears Position for a Divorcee.

On the other hand, if she and her husband had parted amicably, she might wisely remember that wearing her ring has its advantages. She never can again be "Miss." She will always be "Mrs." And a wedding ring in evidence does something to make clear her position. If she marries again, or even considers doing so, she can put it aside.

Certainly a woman would not be married to her second husband with the ring of her first husband, unless she wishes to go out of her way to shock society!

New Yorkers Plan Debuts for Year Ahead

Mrs. Pete Widener Speaks Up Now for Dec. 29 for Joan Peabody's Bow.

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK Mrs. Pete A. B. Widener is beforehanded. She's already selected the date on which she'll present her daughter, Joan Peabody, to society, next winter. Gertie Widener has decided upon Dec. 29, 1936, as the proper time and the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia as the proper place.

The Wideners are New York-Philadelphia commuters, and Manhattan's debutante set is certain to attend the party in a body. Several subdebs made the trip over to Philadelphia during the holidays when the tall, thin Gertie gave a dance for Joan.

The three r's are still claiming Joan's attention at the Ethel Walker school. The Philadelphia debutante schedule almost always calls for a tea or garden party in the early summer. Joe Widener could provide his stepgranddaughter with a splendid one at his palatial home outside Philadelphia.

The inseparable Widener trio, Joe Widener and his son and daughter-in-law, Pete and Gertie, will soon be dispensing its usual brand of lavish hospitality in Palm Beach.

Even Subdeb Days Full of Glamor for Lorraine Manville.

Another subdebutante, Lorraine Manville Gould, is coming in for her share of attention from the grown-ups, too. Lorraine, though she won't make her formal debut for at least two years, was fêted high, wide, and handsomely by her mother, Mrs. Manville Gould, during the Christmas holidays. All her classmates at Miss Hewitt's were invited to the Christmas party Mrs. Gould gave for Lorraine at the Hotel Plaza.

Mrs. Gould is the hostess who floored the other occupants of the diamond horseshoe by occupying two boxes at the Metropolitan première this season. Such splurge is almost unprecedented in the history of the Met's enchanted semicircle.

Howard Hughes Gone to Palm Beach-a-Wooing?

That sly young man, Howard Hughes, has joined the early birds at Palm Beach. He's been a frequent guest of the James A. Moffetts at their new and modernistic beach house on South Ocean boulevard.

All of which leads his cronies to wonder whether Howard and Ruth Moffett are still in the throes of romance and contemplate matrimony.

Ruth is the subdebutante daughter of Jim Moffett. At one time Ruth confided to friends that she and the young oil and moving picture magnate planned to marry before Christmas. However, her dad persuaded her to return to boarding school last autumn.

Howard is an extremely hard-to-get young man, and Ruth's return to school was interpreted as an end of this romance. But his presence on Florida's gold coast during the holidays and his numerous appearances with the Moffetts are reviving rumors of the romance, if not the romance itself.

Adelaide Moffett, who's studying nursing at the Russell Sage institute in Troy, N. Y., spent the holidays in Palm Beach with her family, too. She absorbed all the sunshine possible before returning to her books.

Palm Beach boosters, always optimistic at this time of year, feel certain the resort is going to have a banner season. Rents and hotel rates are up 25 to 50 per cent at the moment. If the stock market continues in the right direction every one is certain the sky'll be the limit.

Paul Douglases Return to London From Italian Trip

LONDON After three months in Italy, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Douglas of Chicago have come to London. Dr. Douglas is a professor of economis at the University of Chicago, and has been "observing" Italy during the trying times through which that country is passing. Mrs. Douglas has been studying Italian art.

Their visit to England is being made to some extent to gather information regarding the English coöperatives. Toward this end they are making a visit to Manchester, the home of the Wholesale Coöperative society, and interviewing a large number of members of the Labor party and the local coöperatives.

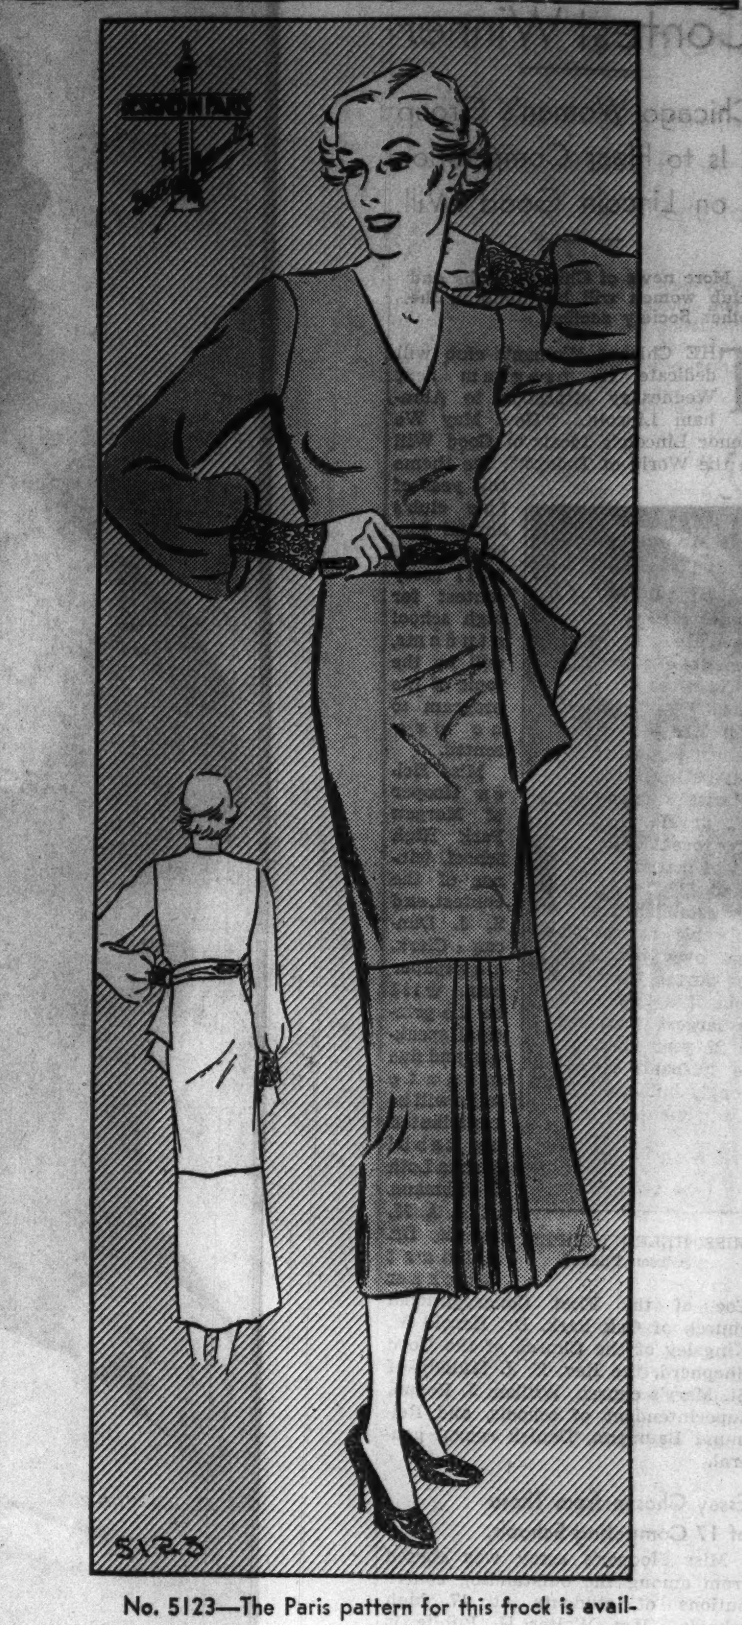
Lace Is Dainty Detail of Lovely Paris Pattern Frock



No. 5123—The Paris pattern for this frock is available in size 16, and in 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The pattern today, No. 5123, brings you a Paris dress that is part of the newest fashions which are designed for wear now and in the spring. This model is easy to make, and repays the effort, because you can wear it on many varied occasions. The model in Paris was made of a dark green silk crêpe, with the cuffs of the sleeves made of heavy Venetian lace in a deep cream shade, and a band of the lace sewed onto the sash, in the exact center, so that one sees the lace in flashes.

The slim skirt with a cluster of plaits at the center front, just above the knees, gives grace of movement. This is a dress that the woman who is matronly in figure can wear well. It makes the hipline appear slender.

I suggest as colors of this dress, for the mature woman, dark blue rather than black, with the cuffs and sash trimming of cream, ecru, or white lace. A soft, warm gray with pink lace would be beautiful for the woman with gray hair.

Miss Mary Page Haskell Is to Marry Britisher

LONDON Another Chicago girl soon to be married to an Englishman, Miss Mary Page Haskell, only daughter of Mrs. A. H. Simmons of Chicago, has announced her engagement to Henry Alexander Hamilton, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton of Highgate, London, a member of the Royal College of Surgeons.

American Girl Performs Feats of Mountaineering

A YOUNG American girl, Miss Dorothy Baird of Alameda, Cal., has accomplished the singular feminine feat of scaling Mexico's three highest mountains: Orizaba, 18,225 feet high; Popocatepetl [the mountain that smokes], 17,794 feet, and its neighbor peak, Iztaccihuatla. She is claimed to be the first woman to scale Orizaba.

THREE STEPS TO RELIEVING CONSTIPATION

I Measure-out a cleansing dose of liquid laxative, regulating the amount to suit the age, condition and individual need.

II Tomorrow, take less; let the regular muscular action of bowels do part of the work—

III Reduce the dose each time, until regularity is completely restored.

You can find no safer advice than this, to find the solution to your bowel worries.

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a liquid laxative, and you can bring yourself to clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

You can use a liquid laxative at home. And if you knew what a doctor knows, you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the real secret of relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular liquid laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Once you have experienced this comfort, you will never go back to any form of help that can't be regulated to suit the need!

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that form no habit, even in children. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation. It is the very nicest tasting, nicest acting preparation you can buy. So, try Syrup Pepsin, taking regulated doses till Nature restores regularity.

Educated Girl Has Difficulty Choosing Mate

Intellect and Ideals Make Her Superior to Many of the Men She Meets.

Every day there is presented, in the feature columns of the Chicago Tribune, a stimulating article by Miss Blake, who lends friendly counsel on a wide variety of common problems.

By Doris Blake.

ON the authority of Dr. Paul Popenoe, director of the New York Institute of Family Relations, we learn that good husbands are scarce and none feels the shortage so keenly as the educated girl. By educated girl is meant the college graduate who devotes her immediate post-college years to a professional pursuit, or, for that matter, to work to pay off her college debts.

Statistics compiled by Dr. Cornell Hart of Hartford Theological seminary, reveal that the maximum prospect of marriage for women is at the age of 22. Those, however, were figures established in 1930, and hardly applicable to the change that has come over marriage prospects and ages during the last five years. We doubt if a 1935 study would reveal the largest marriage group among the 22 year class of young women. The husband income shortage has strongly influenced the marriage age of both men and women.

Most Men Prefer Girls with Less Education.

However, this is beside the point of the superior girl and her difficulty in finding a good husband. Her problem is an economic one only up to a certain point. More often it is a problem that has ever attached itself to the girl of superior education.

Indeed, we have one of the sex who should know what his brothers' responses are, Dr. Popenoe himself, frankly admitting that the principal reason for the scarcity of husbands for the educated girl is men's tendency to marry women less intelligent than themselves. Also, the perfectly normal partiality men have for women younger than themselves. Dr. Popenoe supports his argument with college and university records showing that from one-fourth to one-half of the women graduates remain unmarried.

Post-College Activity Has Bearing on Girl's Outlook.

The type of activity entered after the girl leaves college has some bearing on her future spinsterhood. Many of the careers pursued offer the most limited opportunities for meeting men, such as teaching, nursing, library work, and social service. Or, if an entry is made into a business field in competition with men, the impersonal attitude the woman must take kills romantic interest. She can't play the sex appeal rôle as may a girl in an inferior position.

However, the main charge against the educated one, as volunteered by our authority, is that she lacks the allure and the worshipful traits of the girl less educationally endowed. It is just the old story, voiced in one of our modern dramas, to the effect that men don't want to marry thinkers. What they want from women is flattery, the better their sometimes deflated ego to expand, about which there is nothing abnormal, either. We proposed the question recently to young men, "As a dinner companion, which gets the popular masculine vote, the girl who can discuss current events intelligently, or the girl who says, 'Come on! Tell me about yourself!'" The response, as expected, favored the girl who wanted to hear more about the man. But we were not altogether prepared for the almost unanimous verdict that the latter was judged the better talker, too.

The superior one's education is accused of raising her ideals to a level not consistent with the run of young men she may meet. The fault lies not so much with the young men as with the young woman's ideal, combining all the best features of half a dozen outstanding men, with none of their individual shortcomings entering the picture. Instead of learning from one year's experience that no man could possibly measure up to such a standard, she raises the ideal and another and another year finds the so-called superior one farther from her dream of a home than ever.

If she reaches thirty without marriage, the records indicate that her chances of winning the Mrs. prefix are practically nil. There are exceptions, true, but, roughly speaking, it is a rare stroke of luck if she marries, and then only, it is argued, when some such appeal as wealth, social position, or good looks are with her.

Is there any way of lifting this spinster shadow?

Our authority volunteers the suggestion that if a home is what the young woman wants, the early twenties is the time to fasten in one's mind as the moment of opportunity and to direct one's mind, heart, and soul toward the home and husband ambition.

OXFORD GRAY KNITTED SUIT

This ensemble is for the resourceful woman who wants a hand knitted ensemble which will serve a dual purpose of travel in warm climes in the near future and also for the cool days of early spring. The original is made in a handsome oxford gray nubby wool with an intriguing frosted finish. With the suit is worn a light weight dull surfaced white wool blouse which is opened down the front with whiny black buttons and belt as the only trimming. The inverted plaits in the blouse are carried out in the front and back of the oxford jacket.

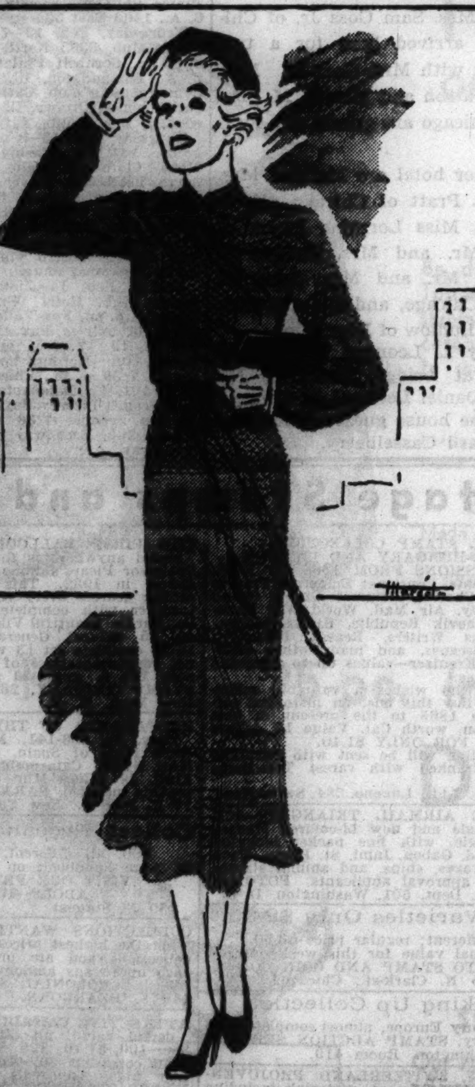
Bands of Insertion Insure Originality in Crochet Frock



By Ellen Bruce.

ONE of the nicest hand crocheted two piece dresses of the season boasts unique style and distinct originality. It is the ideal dress for the busy day in the life of an active woman. It is smart enough for bridge parties, yet is built with comfort and freedom to be the ideal costume for a brisk walk.

Bands in the skirt create a chic which every woman craves. Indeed, this is one of the most successful crochet skirts to make its appearance in several moons. The shell stitch is used throughout the skirt. The narrow bands of crochet insertion consist of chain stitches and a double crochet.

The blouse carries out the band effect in the yoke and in the sleeves, while the rest of the bodice is done in shell stitch. Fine crêpe, zephyr, or other finely twisted yarn is excellent for this model. For summer this frock may be executed in shiny cotton or dull surfaced linen. For the expert crochet worker not much time is required to make it. The novice, after becoming familiar with the pattern, may go along at a speed sufficient to complete the dress in less than three weeks.

HOW TO ORDER.

If you wish instruction for crocheting the two-piece dress in shell pattern illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Jean Macdonald, Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Be sure to send name and address with your letter.

Fresh Paint Protects House from Early Spring Moisture

HOMES are as paint thirsty in the early spring, if their vulnerable points are not protected by paint, as indoor air in the winter is moisture thirsty if it is not given some sort of humidification.

The arch enemy No. 1 of wood and metal is moisture. Paint helps to keep the moisture out. It forms a wear resisting, waterproof coat which lengthens the life of wood or metal many times over. Metal will rust and disintegrate without paint, and wood will rot and allow moisture to do all sorts of costly damage to home interiors and exteriors.

Another point to keep in mind is that moisture, seeping through paintless surfaces in early spring, will make the home damp and unhealthy. It saves money to repaint when the first need for it becomes evident. There is no economy by postponement. There is more truth than fiction in the old Dutch proverb, "Good paint costs nothing."

Sealing Compound Often Checks Leaks in Boiler

WHEN a home heating boiler develops a leak, it can sometimes be successfully repaired by one of the commercially prepared sealing compounds on the market. At least it is well worth while to try this compound before investing in a new section—or an entire new boiler.

I Wonder

By Eleanor Jewett.

Where on the window pane
I used to see
A silver palace set
In shrubbery.

And tiny stars like crystal
Sparkling bright,
Scattered about after
A frosty night.

Now in the afternoon
With sunshine there
I can see nothing but
My window bare.

Do winter windows feel
With sun a guest
Like Christmas trees despoiled,
A bit undressed?

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

By Eleanor Nangle.

Tantalizing New Perfume Is Desirable for Wear Both Day and Evening.

HAVE you heard or, better yet, gotten a whiff of the tantalizing new perfume brought out just before Christmas by one of our beauty specialists? It's one of the most beautiful, truly haunting fragrances we've found in a long time, but we restrained ourselves when it first came out because it was available in only one size, and that at a sum you may or may not have had jingling in your pockets at the Yuletide. It would have been a shame to fall in love with it and then be unable to buy it.

But now it's out in dram sizes, for which the heavens be praised and some hearty welkins rung. You can afford it and, if you don't like it, well, we just don't know about women!

Perfume Is a Blend of Haunting, Lovely Dreams.

It's most unusual. A blend, but only the maker can tell you exactly of what. We'd say it was a blend of dreams and memories. Sometimes it strikes us as being soulful, lovely for the moments when you want to be mysterious and simply reeking with glamor. But, by some strange quality, it can be gay, too, fresh and frilly as an organdy party frock.

It's been well named, we would say, since the title conveys the fact that it's as supremely smart for daytime use as for your more elegant hours. We ourselves have discovered that it makes other women green with envy when it's worn on fur. It's the sort of scent that lends itself well, and that always is a test, since so many scents change when they come in contact with fur. This one keeps its precious quality of sweet richness, whether it be worn on the flesh, the handkerchief, the fur coat, or scarf.

Lilting Scent Always Is Noticed by Masculine Sex.

Men seem to like it, and they always notice it. While it couldn't, by any stretch of the imagination, be described as loud, it does have a haunting, pervasive lilt that makes it stand out in any crowd.

This perfume seems to please women of all tastes, too. The women who like straightforward, fresh perfumes love it for its freshness. Those of more exotic tastes slight this trait somewhat and shriek with enthusiasm for its sophisticated topnote.

There's a cologne in exactly the same fragrance, and we couldn't imagine a more alluring combination than the two, used discreetly.

[For information about this perfume telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0100, or write her care of the Chicago Tribune.]

A new perfume triumph for the woman who likes a fragrance of haunting beauty lends itself as well to the daytime mood and costume as to the most elegant of evening clothes and occasions. This lovely scent is a subtle blend of exciting fragrance.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Feb. 10.

Chrysanthemums for next fall may be propagated now. A batch of cuttings should be put in pots or boxes of sand at four week intervals from now until late in the spring. The best kinds for early flowering pot plants are the caprice varieties. Transplant the cuttings as soon as they are well rooted in small pots, removing them to the larger ones when the roots touch the sides of the pots. After warm weather they may be planted in rows in the garden.

Tuesday, Feb. 11.

Turn the house plants once every ten days to enable all parts to receive the benefit of all possible light. Allowing plants to stand in one spot, without turning, for long periods results in weak, slender growths. Pinch or cut back foliage plants to obtain a stocky habit. Cuttings may be made of the cut parts oftentimes by simply placing them in a bottle of water.

Wednesday, Feb. 12.

Cuttings may now be taken of begonias and Paris or Marguerite daisies to flower in the fall. Small plants purchased now will save considerable time and may be grown through the summer much more easily than if they are kept indoors. The pruning of shrubs may continue whenever the weather permits. Shrubs must be kept in good health with new wood if they are to be as attractive as they should be. Remember the rule for pruning is to prune after flowering to prevent the removal of flowering wood. This is especially important for those shrubs which flower in early summer and spring.

Thursday, Feb. 13.

It is time to get the hotbed sash repaired, for the beds should soon be prepared. A neglected sash soon goes to pieces. See a tree surgeon if a valuable tree is to be saved. Treating a tree as soon as decay or cavities are noticed will cost comparatively little, and if it is neglected serious injury may result. Do not forget to bring a few pots of bulb into the house about every ten days.

Friday, Feb. 14.

Old seeds that were collected last year should be tested to save time and disappointments. The seeds may be sown to a specific number [twenty-five will suffice] and carefully cared for until sufficient time has elapsed for germination or sprouting. Keep an accurate count to determine the percentage, which should be around seventy-five if the project is to be worth while.

Saturday, Feb. 15.

Watch the house plants for insects, such as scale, green fly, white fly. Spray the plant about every two weeks or oftener if necessary and keep these pests under control. Do not throw away the pots of bulbs that are blooming, for after curing the bulbs should be saved and planted outdoors next fall. Wash the leaves of palms, aspidistra, sansevieria, rubber plant, and other plants with water.

London Diplomatic Corps Welcomes Jugo-Slav Minister

LONDON

The diplomatic corps is welcoming the new Jugo-Slav minister and Mme. Slavko Grouitch, his American wife, to London. They were here during the war and made many friends for their new-old country, and then went to Washington where Mr. Grouitch was minister for five years. They have taken one of the beautiful old houses on upper Grosvenor street for the legation, and recently gave a housewarming party. Many Americans were there, the entire American embassy staf of London, the Spanish ambassador and his Pennsylvania wife, Madame Perez de Ayala, the Netherlands minister and his American wife, Madame de Marees van Swinderin, and the Finnish minister and his American wife, Madame de Grippenberg.

Mr. Gordon Selfridge was a guest and also Henry "Chips" Channon and his English wife, Lady Honor Channon.

Palm Beach Begins to Rival Reno as Divorce Mill

Florida's new come-and-get-it divorce law is offering Nevada some hefty competition for the carriage trade.

PALM BEACH, FLA.

Society is finding it a pleasure to be able to do its sunning and legal separating at one and the same time. Mrs. F. Burrall Hoffman is soaking up the violet rays on the gold coast, intent upon a three months' sunning of herself and a complete airing of her dignified husband. At the conclusion of a pleasant winter's vacation in Palm Beach she'll return to town with a decree in hand.

The former Virginia Kimball's recent trip south and her decision to sue for divorce come under the heading of news. But no one in the Hoffman's select New York-Long Island circle will be bowled over by the divorce itself as they have been separated for some time.

Here's The Thrilling New Shampoo Everyone Is Raving About

CORRECT NEW WAY
No dull film; hair soft, shining like silk!
IMPROPER WAY
Hair dull, covered with cloudy film.

Gives Dull Hair A Silky Gleam!

It's no wonder women everywhere are raving about this amazing, new liquid shampoo — no wonder one trial converts them for life! For it gives your hair a thrilling new gleam. Yes, actually transforms dull, average-looking hair into a brilliant, glistening halo. And does it in only one single application!

Look at the girl above to see what a difference it will make when you use it! So try it soon—see how beautiful, how radiant your hair really can be!

Just how this unusual shampoo works these miracles is a new scientific secret. It isn't oil, it isn't soap —it isn't anything you've heard of before. Scientists have brought us something brand-new; a shampoo so different that they've patented the process by which it is made. You simply wet your hair, shake on a few drops and instantly you get a glorious, billowy lather in any kind of water—5 times more than soap in the hardest kind of water. Rub it briskly into the hair, rinse once—and you're through.

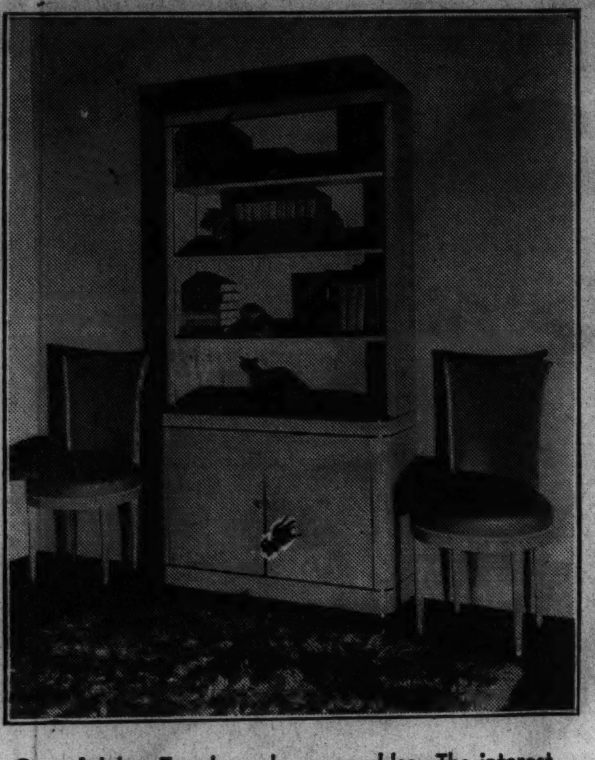
"What?" you say, "No second rinses, no vinegar or special after-rinses?"

No—not one extra rinse! That's the marvelous part. This wonderful new shampoo, being neither oil nor soap, can't make that gummy, unrinsable film ordinary shampoos leave to cover up natural lustre. So your hair always comes out radiant and glamorous, silky and smooth! No more like your former "mousey-looking" head than a diamond is like glass. Even more thrilling, any loose dandruff disappears, leaving your scalp clean and alive.

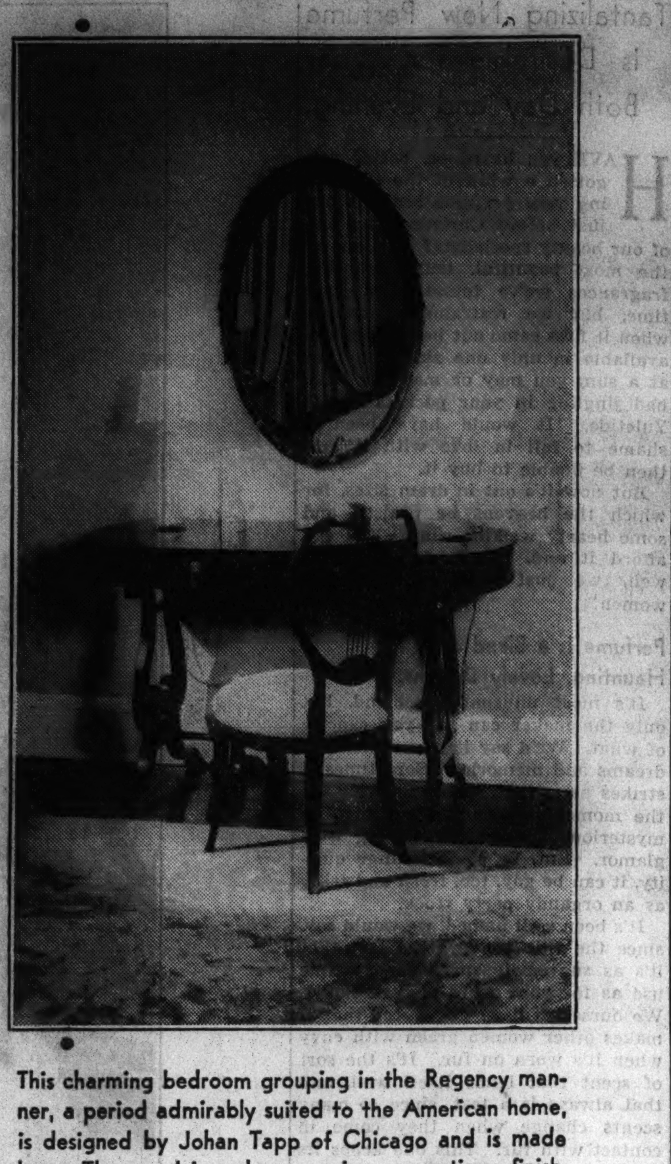
Procter & Gamble make this marvel and you can buy it in various size bottles at all drug, department and ten cent stores. Remember—the name is Drene. And if you want your hair to look more beautiful, more alluring than ever before, you'd better try some right away!

Another thing — Drene gives bleached or dyed hair a wonderfully soft, undetectably natural look. And you'll be glad to find it's the most economical shampoo you ever used, too—only a few drops give a rich shampoo, so it goes a lot farther.

Furniture Craftsmen Frequently Work in Obscurity; Leaders Will Be Introduced in This Column



One of Johan Tapp's modern ensembles. The interesting bookcase-cabinet is of English plane tree burl and fruitwood with silver metal inlay of narrow banding.



This charming bedroom grouping in the Regency manner, a period admirably suited to the American home, is designed by Johan Tapp of Chicago and is made here. The wood is mahogany given an antique finish.

"Bringing New Style and Beauty to Old Furniture," a new booklet by Edith Weigle, tells how to change ugly or down at heel pieces to attractive chairs, tables, etc. Price 3 cents by mail, 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Edith Weigle.

TOO often the name of the designer of beautiful furniture is not known. We all are familiar with Sheraton, Hepplewhite, Chippendale, Duncan Phyfe—craftsmen of another day. But of the illustrious creators of our own time, how many of us can call off even five or six of the most eminent?

An artist signs his name to a painting; a composer is known by his signed works; few authors go through life anonymous. Yet the mind that conceives a perfectly proportioned piece of furniture, beautiful down to the last detail often labors for years in the darkness of obscurity.

From time to time we are going to devote this space to giving credit where credit is due, to telling the names and the accomplishments of some of our skilled American designers. Today we begin at home, for Chicago has one of the finest craftsmen in the country, a man whose creations are known from coast to coast for their distinction and elegance. His name is Johan Tapp and he was born in Holland, where some of the world's best furniture has been made for centuries.

Tapp Learned His Craft in Holland.

His father before him was a craftsman at the Hague and as a boy Mr. Tapp spent many hours in his shop, gaining a sound foundation for the later training and experience which made his present work possible. After being graduated from the Academy of Fine Arts there, he joined the designing staf of the Mutters company, a firm noted in the field of Dutch architecture and furniture manufacture.

In 1913 he came to this country and almost immediately to Chicago, where he has lived and has been designing ever since. Mr. Tapp was at first associated with several prominent firms, then together with two friends he decided to become an independent craftsman. Today he makes the sort of furniture he wants to in the way he wants to, a goal eagerly sought by many creators.

Adapts Regency to Modern Interiors.

His name is known for distinguished adaptations of 18th century English furniture, a period he feels is peculiarly suited to the American home, and recently for a line of excellent Regency reproductions. "Regency," Mr. Tapp says, "definitly has a place in the present era of modern decoration. It lends itself beautifully to modern treatment and handling. Regency upholstered pieces, done in modern fabrics, are stunning.

"An entire room done in modern taste as to colors of paint, wall paper, floor coverings, and hangings is strikingly beautiful and correct when furnished throughout with Regency furniture, which is fundamentally good in proportion and design. For those who have in their homes the creations of our great American designers of that time, Phyfe and McIntyre, no other style fits in more perfectly than English Regency."

Modern Designs Are Conservative.

One of the pictures today shows a charming Regency table, designed by Mr. Tapp. It is used as a dressing table. It is of mahogany, given a marvelous antique finish, the formula for which is a secret with the craftsman.

The other photograph is of a modern grouping, a bookcase made of English plane tree burl and fruitwood with silver metal inlay, and a pair of delightful side chairs, covered in pastel toned lether. Mr. Tapp is immensely interested in modern furniture and intends doing more along contemporary lines, adding to the pieces he has already created for a modern living room, but he is on the conservative side, having an abhorrence for the grotesque, badly proportioned, so-called "functional" type seen widely today.

It is an art to make a piece of furniture that is utterly simple, yet beautiful, and to apply ornament in such a way that it will be an integral part of the whole, enhancing line and form. Of this art Johan Tapp is master. He is undoubtedly one of the greatest of American furniture designers.

Pieces created by him may be seen in a Chicago store and elsewhere throughout the country.

Modern Table Centerpiece Is Always Low

Mirror Plateaus, Statuettes, and New Pottery Hold Delightful Possibilities.

By Claire Winslow.

A CONTEMPORARY GROUPING

An artistic grouping for your dining room table or sideboard is composed of light toned pottery candlesticks, dark colored pottery vase, and artificial dogwood blossoms. Seen at the Merchandise Mart. These pieces are available in Chicago stores.

IF you are a woman who plunks a flower bowl down in the center of the dining table and lets it go at that, with no further interest in table decoration, you probably won't care to read further. But if you are one who likes variety, who takes pride in having her table decore original and artistic, believing that the garnish of a good meal is worth some attention, then we're bringing you items you may find helpful and intriguing.

The days of the towering floral centerpiece are over. Low bowls, vases, and urns make it possible for diners to see across the table without dodging and twisting. The mirror plateau is still popular because it is always beautiful, reflecting in its depths the colors and lines of the objects placed upon it. It can be worked into any scheme, traditional or modern. Blue mirrors are smart now, as are amber ones.

If you want an unusually lovely effect simply place small branches of laurel or huckleberry, wreath fashion, around the edges of a circular or oblong mirror and in the center of it place a bisque statuette of a Grecian god or goddess. Or arrange one or two artificial, waxy, water lilies instead of the figure.

Dusty Pink Pottery Makes Enchanting Centerpiece.

Pottery, nowadays, comes in such exquisite, soft colors and is so well made, as well as being so reasonable in price, that its popularity is steadily increasing. Have you seen the dusty pink ware, with a soft, rather than glossy, glaze? It is enchanting in its loveliness. So, too, are the table decorations in light turquoise and in clear, daffodil yellow. White is a perennial favorite because it fits so neatly into any scheme.

A new, rich, red-orange tone contrasts nicely with a green tablecloth or place mats, or with Italian linen of the deep beige type. We saw a charming little decorative cornucopia urn in this pottery at a Chicago store recently. Filled with bittersweet and flanked by black candles it makes an unusual and stunning decoration for a rather small sideboard.

Sphere Shaped Bowls Provide a Modern Accent.

Handsome Mexican bowls and dishes are artistic, amusing, and inexpensive. Pile them with fruit or lackered gourds for the informal table. This is a grand idea if you use Quimper china or Italian majolica plates, for it is in the same spirit.

For the modern table there are the gorgeous, heavy crystal, sphere shaped bowls from Sweden and from our own factories, and the equally perfect candlesticks made from solid square blocks of crystal. Also low, greenish-white, glass bowls, square in shape and extremely thick, of graduated sizes, charming for gardenias.

Don't hesitate to use artificial flowers, but choose them with care. The shops have huge supplies and you can find any bloom your garden ever boasted, and some that never grew anywhere under the sun. The photographs today, taken at the Merchandise Mart, show some new artistic pieces of pottery for your dining table or buffet. The larger of the two pictures combines light toned candlesticks with a vase of a deeper contrasting color. Isn't the effect pleasing?

Artificial dogwood [you'll notice only a few sprays are used] creates a delicate pattern. In the smaller view the flowers are made of feathers and the spiky "foliage" is of porcupine quills. The interesting pottery vase is cream white.

All the objects in both pictures are sold in Chicago stores.

"Furnishing Your Home on a Modest Budget," a booklet by Claire Winslow, explains many ways of bringing beauty and charm into your rooms without undue stretching of the pocketbook. It is 5 cents by mail, 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

The graceful flowers in this white pottery vase are fashioned from feathers, while the "foliage" is of porcupine quills. Seen at the Merchandise Mart.

Fashion Points to Harmony of Frock, Makeup

Trend Is Toward Selecting Cosmetics with Eye to Complementing Clothes.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

A PREDICTION I have no hesitation in making is that before many years have passed dress designers will have turned cosmetic consultants as well. Already French couturiers press women into perfume choices for particular frocks for particular occasions. I see a definite step in the affiliation of makeup and dress to round out the perfect ensemble. In addition to courting accessory suggestions from your high priced modiste, you'll be asking her what eyeshadow, what rouge and lipstick coloring she recommends for wear with the frock. Anyway, that's what I see in the crystal for an early future.

I didn't have to go into any trance, either, for this clairvoyant revelation, since the movement already is afoot. One of the most exclusive designers, Germain Monteil, is at work educating women to tie their makeup colors in with their dress color and accessory color note on the now established principle that dress carries a woman just so far in creating the woman beautiful, but makeup is what lifts her over the fence, so to speak. Germain Monteil, to whose doors come buyers from the most exclusive shops in the country, frankly admits that no gown in the world, although fashioned from cloth of gold and hemmed with sables, can do for a woman what a gown with complementary, clever makeup can do.

New Theory Is Going to Mean Different Makeup for Frocks.

Including the makeup as a vital part of the dress ensemble isn't going to make our lives any simpler, as I take it. But what's the simple life to us girls if a more complicated existence is going to make 'em stop, look, and exclaim: "Ain't she gorgeous!"

It's going to mean different makeup for different dresses. The old idea of conforming makeup tints to hair, eye, and skin coloring isn't ignored completely, but it is revolutionized so that the basic color of the frock dictates largely the makeup shifts. Even the fabric of the gown may bear down on the makeup adopted.

Designer Is All for Women Being Dramatic in Ensemble.

Monteil is all for women being dramatic. Not sensationally dramatic, understand, but dramatic in the glamorous way. Which, naturally, means running the gamut of makeup emotions, not sticking to one uninteresting, undramatic tinting of eye, cheek, and lip. I couldn't, of course, begin to chart off the entire program of dress and complementary makeup shades. I can only give an idea, as gleaned from Germain Monteil, of how the new ensemble idea works.

For sports: A yellow frock with one of the new tweed coats. The brunette makeup formula in this case would be beige or light suntan powder, no rouge, all brown eye shadow. The blonde would use a darker-than-beige powder, a Chinese red lipstick, no rouge, and only a little green eyeshadow.

A sport outfit of natural color sheer wool, with hand knitted scarf of Kelly green and cherry red, is an advance fashion note. The striking scarf in the new makeup-dress ensemble also has to be taken into the makeup color consideration. Accessories, in some cases, have an important voice in the makeup selection. With the just-mentioned natural color wool outfit, a beige powder to blend with the wool tone is urged, a flame red lipstick for the cherry red scarf tone, and grass green eyeshadow to complement the Kelly green in the scarf.

A starched, stiffened marquisette is among the advance style headliners. In a rose pink one will see it, with four huge flowers at the bodice, two matching the gown exactly and two of deep beetroot. The beetroot floral note is the striking accent to the ensemble, so the makeup blend for the brunette inside the frock would be: powder, peach with a little green in it; rouge, dark almost on the maroon type [close to beetroot]; lipstick of decidedly maroon caste; and green eyeshadow.

Chalk White Demands Special Distinction in Makeup Choice.

Chalk white is predicted a great vogue for sports, spectator sports, day and evening modes. With chalk white the makeup is different. Let's take a chalk white evening gown, worn with a coral red cape with coral starfish beading trim. The makeup for this accents lacker red. A dark suntan powder for the blonde with this frock, green or brown eyeshadow [those shown me were not the usual green and brown, odd tones really], and Chinese red or flame lipstick. The brunette in the same frock would be urged into ivory powder use, flame red lipstick, and deep red lacker rouge.

There are certain cold colors, chiefly beige and gray, for spring prominence. These shades must be chosen "clear," not muddy. But in the clear, cold shades, accessory notes and makeup must give vitality, youth, drama to the wearer. A blonde in gray, say, would dramatize herself with a geranium rouge and lipstick, and amethyst eyeshadow.

The brunette in beige, say, would dote heavily on geranium rouge and lacker lipstick with eyeshadow of a tint akin to French blueing color.

A gray haired woman in gray, unless naturally of brilliant coloring, needs clever makeup greatly. According to her eye color, hair shade, and skin grayness or freshness, she would be prescribed for in vitalizing makeup shades.

With black, Monteil says, a woman can, with makeup help, make herself almost any personality she wants to be: a sophisticate, a conservative, a dramatic personality, naïve, anything.

Women May Work Out Their Own Schemes of Makeup.

The suggestion occurs that if you can't afford the makeup directing genius of an expensive dress house, you can, perhaps, take a piece of your spring dress color to a makeup counter, hold it up to you, and work out a smart and, perhaps, dramatic makeup scheme of your own. You women are exceedingly clever when you get a good idea, and you and I know that dresses alone, no matter how grand we think they are at the time of purchase, often fail to give us the lift we'd planned. Let's give this dress-makeup ensemble a trial.

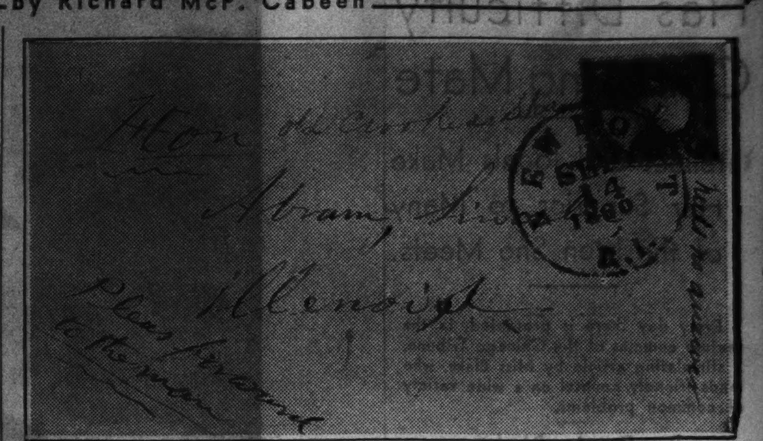
THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen



This Lincoln cover from the collection of Tom Conolly is described in this department today.

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning value. Do not ask where stamps may be sold as the Postage Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

By Richard McP. Cabeen

YEARS ago stamp collectors did not pay much attention to covers and usually removed the stamps without regard to the interesting things which might have been shown on the envelope.

A few studious men in attempting to gather all of the information about a stamp or an issue, found that covers could form an interesting part of the collection when they showed how the letter was carried or showed a rate peculiar to some class of mail or to some foreign country.

Today the new collector is apt to overestimate their value when he sees all of the elaborate preparations for first day covers, etc. Since covers are bulky and difficult to properly care for in albums, only those should be saved which show something of decided interest.

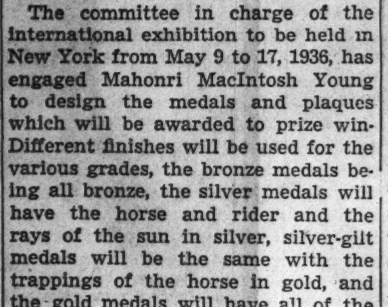
One collector has an album of early covers, all rather inexpensive, but having a common interest in the fact that each shows an inscription on the face which is an instruction to the postmaster.

Such a cover is illustrated today. This was addressed to "Hon. Abram, Lincoln," and was postmarked "Newport, R. I., Sep. 14, 1860." The address is given simply as "Illenois," but an instruction to the postmaster, or to the postal officials through whose hands it may pass, reads: "Pleas forward to the man." Across the right hand end of the envelope is a notation "Needs no answer," which was likely placed there by Lincoln.

But all of these things do not intrigue one as much as a pencil note following the abbreviation "Hon." in the address. This reads "old crooked shanks," and may have been placed there by an opposition postal employé. Perhaps some one may recognize his grandpop's chirography.

The 3 cent violet stamp which will be placed on sale March 3 at Gonzales, Tex., will be the same size as the recent Michigan commemorative stamp. The design will show a view of the historic Alamo in the lower central portion. Above this will be a large white star and the inscription "United States Postage, Texas Centennial, 1836-1936."

At either side will be upright oval panels containing portraits, that at the left showing Sam Houston, and that at the right Stephen F. Austin. Shield shaped panels at the lower corner will contain the numerals of value. Gonzales is the place where the opening battle of the Texan struggle for independence took place. The usual first day cover service will be provided from Gonzales, each collector being limited to 10 covers.



The committee in charge of the international exhibition to be held in New York from May 9 to 17, 1936, has engaged Mahonri MacIntosh Young to design the medals and plaques which will be awarded to prize winning exhibits. Mr. Young, who, by the way, is a grandson of Brigham Young, has used a pony express rider as the basis of his design. This motif is typically American and recalls the early days of the postal system as no other subject could.

The medals and plaques will be made by a new process which employes bronze for all of the medals. Different finishes will be used for the various grades, the bronze medals being all bronze, the silver medals will have the horse and rider and the rays of the sun in silver, silver-gilt medals will be the same with the trappings of the horse in gold, and the gold medals will have all of the group in gold.

Cachet Notices.

The Westmont Cover club, Westmont, Ill., continue the series of Presidential cachets, No. 6 being mailed on Feb. 22, from Washington's birthplace, Virginia; No. 7, Andrew Jackson, mailed on March 15, from Monroe, N. C.; No. 8, James Madison, mailed on March 16, from Madison, Va.; No. 9, Grover Cleveland, mailed on March 18, from Caldwell, N. J., and No. 10, John Tyler, mailed on March 29, from Greenway, Va. There is also a special cachet on March 4, mailed from Washington, D. C., to commemorate the inauguration of Lincoln. All covers should be standard 6¾ size, addressed well to the right, unstuffed and unsealed, with first class postage attached and should reach Westmont 7 days prior to the event. Avoid linen and ripple finish and other decorative envelopes as cachets will not print up well. Include 1 cent per cover for forwarding expenses.

Robert Kaplan, 345 Wilkins street, Rochester, N. Y., will apply an attractive historical Lincoln cachet to all covers received by Feb. 18. If 1 cent extra is included an historical filler will be included.

Edward E. Bryan, sponsor of Historical Cachets, P. O. Box 304, Albany, Ore., has prepared a set of five cachets to be applied to covers on Army day, April 6. These will be mailed from famous old forts in Texas, which state now is celebrating its centennial. Send five self-addressed, stamped envelopes, unsealed, with 5 cents in coin, before March 10, and if information is desired on other Texas Centennial cachets, inclose a self-addressed postal card.

Club Notes.

The latest stamp clubs to take advantage of the Bulletin Board are the Kankakee County Stamp club, which meets on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, at 8 p. m. in the city hall at Kankakee, and the Philatelic Society of the Wilson Y. M. C. A., which meets on the first and third Wednesdays of each month, at 8 p. m., in the main dining rooms of the Wilson "Y," at 1725 Wilson avenue. The Chicago Airmail society has changed the time and place of its meetings and will hereafter be found at 7:30 p. m., room 101, La Salle hotel, on the second and fourth Fridays of each month. Hereafter the Harvey Stamp club will meet at 8 p. m., on the first and third Wednesdays of each month, at 14915 Main street, Harvey. The Bulletin Board now lists the meetings of 67 active stamp clubs in Chicagoland.

Voorhees' 254th auction sale will be held on Feb. 11 in room 505, 7 South Dearborn street.

Hereafter the Chicago Woman's Stamp club will meet on the 15th floor, Tower Club, 820 N. Michigan avenue. Meetings, as usual, at 7:30 p. m., on the 2d and 4th Fridays of each month.

Continental Illinois Post, No. 383, of the American Legion will issue a Washington cachet on Feb. 22. The cachet will be printed in the Legion colors of blue and gold on stamped and addressed covers received by the post's adjutant at 251 South La Salle street, Chicago, before Feb. 17.

Discontinued postoffices: Hillside, Ky.; Wonnie, Ky.; Briggs, Va.; Glendale, Tenn.; Kirkwood Springs, Va.; San Felipe, N. M.; Lorah, Ia.; Clarke, Miss., and Mount Tabor, S. C., all effective Feb. 15. Ratliff, Itawamba county, Miss., will become Mantachie on Feb. 15. Orders to continue Mineral Hill, N. M., and Allen Springs, Ky.

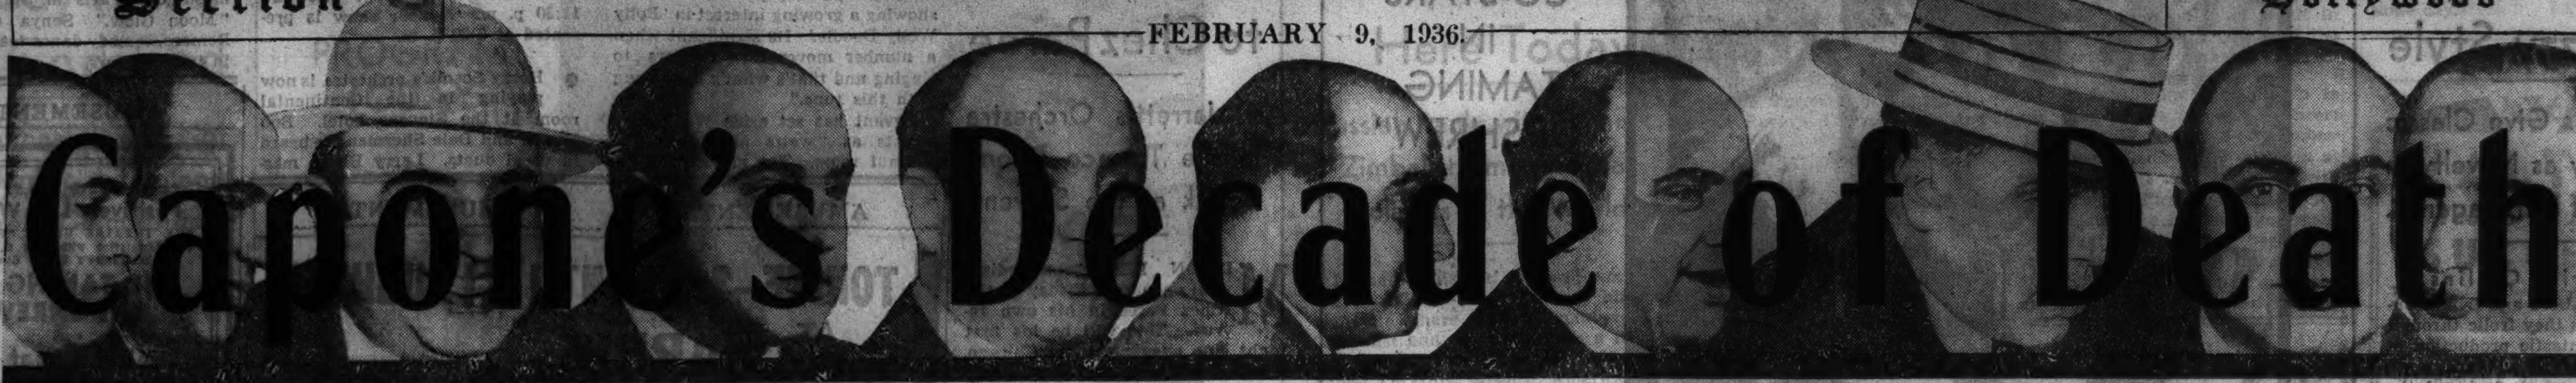
Capone's Decade of Death



Prohibition to Blame for Al's Rise

"Al Capone is the most notorious gangster in the country. . . . By common repute and common police knowledge he has been the head of a murderous gang living by defiance of federal law."—From an editorial in The Tribune, May 20, 1929.

"End the Reign of Gangdom."—From The Tribune's platform for Chicagoland, 1931.

"Effectual resistance to organized crime . . . is and must be impossible without publicity, persistent, 'sensational' publicity . . . Crime is not encouraged by publicity. It works when it can in the dark."—From an editorial in The Tribune, Dec. 20, 1931.

"Al Capone is under sentence of eleven years imposed by a federal court in Chicago, because the Chicago newspapers for three years have not only played up but have exploited Capone systematically and with the definite object of suppressing him."—Thomas L. Rice, noted criminologist.

By GUY MURCHIE JR.

PERSISTENT, sensational publicity, therefore, suppressed Al Capone, just as it did the Everleigh sisters, the labor racketeers, the kidnapers, and the Dillingers.

It was the uncompromising crusade of publicity that aroused the public to rebel against Capone and his outlawry. The systematic exploitation of his crimes in the newspapers brought the official action that finally cost Capone his empire and his freedom. It was NEWS, persistent and sensational, day in and day out, that rid Chicago of its archcriminal and ended the lawlessness he inspired.

How Chicago Was Ruled by Guns

* * *

Joe Howard leaned back in his chair behind the cigar case in Heinie Jacobs' saloon at 2300 South Wabash avenue. The calendar on the wall behind the bar showed the date to be May 7, 1923. The clock said six. Only a spoonful of bourbon remained in old Joe's glass as he sat back to tell the boys all about his hijacking triumphs night before last.

Heinie slouched across the wood. He, an aged carpenter named David Runelsbeck, and a mechanic named George Bilton seated near by, having a drink and a smoke before going home

ALPHONSE CAPONE (alias Al Brown)
PRESIDENT OF THE SYNDICATE

Known as "Snorky", "The Big Fellow", and (in newspapers) "Scarface Al". He personally made almost all his politician and lawyer contacts, and personally supervised important details of the syndicate's affairs while in Chicago and Cicero. He was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1898, and is now at Alcatraz. His net annual income once probably exceeded $1,000,000.

PERSONAL BODYGUARD

At times it contained several dozen men, but they all had important other duties.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

FRANK REO (alias Kline), CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD AND VICE PRESIDENT OF THE SYNDICATE. Gunman and bodyguard, who became the big boss after Capone was imprisoned.

JACK GUZIK, BUSINESS MANAGER AND CHIEF STATISTICIAN. Former waiter who became an able organizer, bookkeeper, go-between, fixer, schemer, and kept many important figures in his head. Though able, he was looked down on socially by the other directors. He was paymaster in bribing of politicians and police, and owned a south side brothel.

FRANK NITTI (Nitto), TREASURER AND SECOND VICE PRESIDENT. General adviser, well informed, presentable, and handled much money.

JOHNNY PATTON, mayor of Burnham, big brewery owner, Capone's closest political ally.

TONY "MOPS" VOLPE, bodyguard, chauffeur, cafe manager.

RALPH CAPONE, Al's brother, bodyguard and general assistant in the liquor, vice, and gambling rackets.

JOSEPH FUSCO, bodyguard and assistant in charge of paying off prohibition agents and certain other police officers.

DENNIS COONEY, cafe and chain brothel manager, and important Capone ally.

JAMES "JIMMY" EMORY, relative of Capone's, race track owner and big boss in Chicago Heights.

TONY LOMBARDO, Capone backed president of the important Unione Siciliana, the west side alky cooking guild for Sicilians.

LOUIS COWEN, propagandist, owner of Cicero Tribune.

POLITICAL CONTACTS

Numerous political connections were essential to the protection of Capone's vast syndicate with its elaborate breweries, distilleries, its transportation systems, its well advertised houses of vice and gambling, its squads of murderers and racketeers. These political contacts reached into the congress of the United States and included members of the Illinois state legislature (such as State Senator Daniel A. Serritella, former city sealer of Chicago), members of the Chicago city council, ward committeemen, party leaders in both city and state machines, lesser figures such as town mayors, councilmen, policemen, and in some cases penetrating even to the benches of municipal and state courts.

Lunt and Fontanne Set New Tradition for Shakespeare

"Taming of the Shrew" Staged in Dizzy Style

Co-Stars Give Classic Comedy as Novelty in Mood of Extravaganza.

By Charles Collins.

ALFRED LUNT and Lynn Fontanne, as they frolic through their fantastic production of "The Taming of the Shrew," form the theatrical topic of the week. They are unique and extraordinary, and it is altogether likely that they will become a legend in the history of Shakespearean acting as the only players who have dared to put the atmosphere of a carnival show, the Hippodrome, holiday extravaganza and Weber-and-Fields burlesque into the immortal pages of the Swan of Avon.

By using the "Induction," and by keeping the temulent Christopher Sly on view in a box through the performance with a franchise to bellow and bray in alcoholic dementia at the actors, they have given the comedy the mood of a show as seen with the eyes of a drunkard. Thus the production takes on a dizzy and delirious tone; even the costume designer seems to have done his work with senses reeling. There is logic in this procedure, although it results in a "Taming of the Shrew" whose gayety is blotto absoluto.

They Are New Hands at Shakespeare.

There is even some Shakespearean scholarship in this unorthodox employment of Master Sly as a chronic stooge. He has many more lines than can be found in the text, but they are not modern impertinences. A few of them are borrowed from the wisecracks of comic servants in the play itself; others come from the rôle as found in the older and anonymous piece called "The Taming of A Shrew," which Shakespeare [and several other fellows] apparently used in building "The Shrew."

But let us come to the heart of the matter—Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne. After all, in spite of their musical comedy horses [superior beasts, these, with sturdy gymnasts for front legs and hind legs], their police squad of rococo midgets, their ascension to heaven in a mummers' chariot, and the rest of the comic valentine trimmings of the show—in spite of all this, they are acting Shakespeare. They are making their début as stars of classic drama in two of its most famous rôles. What, then, may be said of this Petruchio and this Katharine with the standard tradition of the characters as a background?

Petruchio Pulls a Sword on His Kate.

They aim, always, at the bizarre effect. There is no swaggering unction in Mr. Lunt's Petruchio; he seems to be a woman-torturer rather than a woman-tamer. His technique of breaking the shrew to his will is coldly calculated and fiendishly executed. He seeks to give the lady the impression that he is half cracked, possibly a dangerous maniac. He even goes to the length of drawing his sword upon the storming object of his fortune-hunting desires and prodding her with it in delicate anatomical regions.

Mr. Lunt's principal menace, however, is his bangs. Any man who would wear his hair like that might be regarded as a sinister paranoiac. The effect is that of an Andalusian bull coyly trying to look like Irene Bordoni. One glance at those bangs should have been enough to frighten Katharine into a fluttering ingénue. It is surprising that she put up so long a fight.

Miss Fontanne as Lady of Loud Tantrums.

However, in his heart this Petruchio is afraid of Katharine. He is, I think, the only shrew-tamer in the play's history who does not completely enjoy his task. He has a great system, and he plays it to the limit; as a bluffer he is immense, but he betrays symptoms of not being able to "take it." This characteristic introduces a new element of comedy into the play.

Miss Fontanne's Katharine is closer to the standard treatment of the character than Mr. Lunt's Petruchio. The outbreaks of temper, the violent tantrums, are acted, however, with an excess of squawks and feline roarings which occasionally recall her Queen Elizabeth. She is too often inarticulate, too often given to her trick of blurting strange sounds over a stiffened and projecting lower lip.

For the charm of the character, the physical appeal that keeps Petruchio to his bargain, she has, of course, the glamor that has made her one of the most fascinating actresses of her era. A part of the allurement that Lynn Fontanne has for her audiences is her apparent possession of the secret of eternal youth.

The company, as a whole, is a typical Theater Guild organization, containing numerous bright young players, admirably directed in their duties. Sydney Greenstreet, who appears as Baptista, father of the much-wooed girls, is a ripe veteran and the soundest Shakespearean comedian of the cast. Richard Whorf's Christopher Sly is a broad Falstaffian study of a boozy oaf. Bretaigne Windust is effective as Tranio, the servant masquerading as his master; and George Meader's ballad-singing, in the rôle of Biondello, is excellent.

CO-STARS IN "TAMING OF SHREW"

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, stars of "The Taming of the Shrew," now at the Erlanger theater, are here depicted in a close and affectionate clutch. In the performance, however, they are usually found hitting in the clinches, often below the belt.

Skinner's Sketches

CORNELIA OTIS SKINNER will begin a week's engagement at the Grand Opera house on Monday night, Feb. 17. Her repertory will include "Mansion on the Hudson," "The Wives of Henry VIII," and "The Loves of Charles II."

Each of these sequences will be preceded by a group of modern monologs. Four of these items will be new to Chicago audiences. They are "Christmas Morning," "Luxury Shop," "The Vanishing Red Man," and "Lieberstraum."

Ruth Etting Sings in Variety Show at Palace Theater

RUTH ETTING, the singer, heads the current stage program at the Palace theater. The radio, the screen and Broadway revues have kept her away from Chicago for years. In the supporting program are Si Wills and Joan Davis in a comedy act; the knockabout antics of Mells, Kirk and Martin; the dancing revue of Foy, Tucker and Johnson with Jack Seymour and Martha Neuman; and the acrobatics of the Pecchiani troupe.

The Chicago theater continues to offer Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians and the Waring auxiliary entertainers. Their program for the week is new.

The State-Lake theater's new vaudeville show is headed by Eddie Rio, recent star of Earl Carroll's "Vanities," in a singing and dancing specialty.

Milton Berle Brings Revue to Chez Paree

Art Jarrett's Orchestra in the Terrace Room; Sosnik at the Stevens.

MILTON BERLE, comedian, will open next Friday at the Chez Paree in his own revue. This will be his first night club engagement in Chicago. Sylvia Froos, radio and stage singer, three girl tumblers and acrobats known as the Biltmores, Henry Busse and his orchestra, held over from the current show, and several other acts will surround Berle. Until his arrival, the present show, with Lillian Roth, Benny Fields, and the Stuart Morgan adagio dancers, will continue.

- Art Jarrett and his orchestra will begin an engagement in the Terrace room of the Hotel Morrison next Tuesday night, succeeding "Little" Jack Little and his organization, which will end its successful run tomorrow night.
- Jack Hylton and his Continental revue are playing in the Gold Coast of the Drake. He presents a floor show featuring Pat O'Malley, Magna Neeld, Peggy Dell, Effie Atherton, Clive Erard, and the Merry Macs.
- The Beatrice Gardner Girls are providing several specialty dances in addition to their chorus numbers at Harry's New York cabaret. "Dolores," modernistic dancer, is a new principal in the show. Austin Mack's orchestra, of Texas Guinan fame, plays for dancing.
- Phil Levant, dance band leader in the Walnut Room of the Bismarck hotel, thinks he has discovered a successor to "The Music Goes Round and Round" in the song of several decades ago, "Polly Wolly Doodle All the Day."

"While we still have many requests for 'Music Goes Round and Round,'" he says, "dancers are showing a growing interest in 'Polly Wolly Doodle.' Its significant when a number moves the dancers to singing and that's what's happening with this tune."

Levant has set aside Wednesday nights as "waltz night" in the Walnut room. The majority of requests are for "Three O'Clock in the Morning," "My Dear," "Blue Danube" and "The Waltz You Saved for Me."

"Waltz Time," George Nelidoff's floor revue is given at 7:30 and 11:30 p. m. A floor show is presented at 9:30 p. m.

- Harry Sosnik's orchestra is now playing in the Continental room at the Stevens hotel. Bob Hanon and Dale Sherman are heard in vocal duets. Larry Blake, master of ceremonies and impersonator of screen and stage favorites, heads the new floor show. The Two Eileens, Chicago dancers, present toe and tap numbers to the music of "Paris in Spring" and "Moon Glow." Sonya and Fred Romero, comedy dance team, appear in two numbers.

Riddles of Music as a Fine Art Up for Dissection

Essence of Melody Never Yet Codified

Its Emotional Power, Not Scholarship, Life Blood of Great Composition.

By Edward Barry.

THE class will please come to order now, so that Teacher can explain in words of one syllable just what music is all about. If Teacher had not had to sit through two performances of the Strawinsky concerto a week ago Thursday this class might not have been called for a long time.

There is no profession which does not tend to warp the sense of values of those who practice it to the exclusion of all else. It is easy to become so preoccupied with the ramifications of one's work that its fundamental reason for being is half forgotten, its place in the general scheme of things obscured by a self-generated fog of complexity. Why would it not be a good idea to give ten or fifteen minutes once a year to an objective viewing of your interests and an attempt to relate them again to the simple things from which they came?

Primitive Man Found Relation of Sound to Nerve Centers.

Since musicians are no more willing than any other group of specialists to devote to so searching and painful an examination a quarter of an hour that might be spent more pleasantly in complicating still further a dismayingly complicated art, I am offering, for what it may be worth, an elementary analysis or our craft. If the analysis has any value or novelty, such qualities must be looked for in the fact that it will strive to find its bases in some universally understandable principles rather than in the artificially manufactured standards of the art itself. [Alas for those one syllable words.

Music started when human beings found that certain successions of sounds have an effect on the emotions and that there is some vague connection between the hearing apparatus and that mysterious thing that is called soul, heart, or nerve center according to the philosophy of the person who is doing the calling and the degree of belief he brings to the various theories of physio-psychology. [There is no charge for this fine new word.]

Law of Music's Emotional Appeal Never Discovered.

The nature of the connection has never been understood, and any approach to what might be called a standard of good or bad has been blocked by the fact that the methods available are purely empirical. One succession of sounds leaves a man cold; another arouses intense emotion. Even to this day no one can say exactly why the theme of the A minor organ fugue is better than the "Missouri Waltz."

In the dim days when music was born, many millennia ago, a succession of sounds was good if it satisfied man's unexplainable instincts, poor if it did not. Today, despite all the infinite complexity of the art, the same simple truth holds good.

In thousands of years of development, music has been able to codify [in the western world, at least] some of its empirically obtained knowledge of harmony [simultaneous use of two or more sounds] and rhythm [arrangement of sounds in a time scheme]. It has never codified any of the laws of melody, nor even established as fact the existence of any such laws.

Thinking Up Good Melodies Hardest Task of Composer.

Therefore, the task of thinking up good melodies is the hardest thing that confronts a music maker. It is complicated by the fact that the qualities that give a tune its permanence, its power to grow on one, are as mysterious and as irreducible to codal form as those that make it attractive on first hearing. It seems to be a gift that one either has or has not. In the latter case, it would be as easy to change the color of your eyes as to acquire it.

Why should a mass of technical accomplishment obscure the simple validity of the claim that a composer must be able to conceive sequences of sounds that will be emotionally provocative [and permanently so] and clothe them in satisfactory rhythmic and harmonic dress if his music is to have any wide and genuine appeal? In the matter of rhythm and harmony he is at liberty to make what use he can of the accumulated knowledge of the centuries, but in a greatly gifted musician even this knowledge is instinctive rather than acquired.

Complexity Has Little to Do with Music's Value.

We have today [and have had for some decades] a perverted idea that complexity of rhythm and harmony may have some direct bearing on the value of the music, that it may make the work "interesting" in the patois of our trade. Does it not seem that this is getting the art dangerously confused with mathematics?

It is quite possible for a person with an unmistakable talent for cross-word puzzles and the patience to acquire a knowledge of musical theory by rote to produce a fugue that will be more imposing technically than anything in the "Well-Tempered Clavichord." It will have none of the solemnity nor the consummate freedom of Bach, but it will be more complicated. Great music is a flow of a river of ideas between gently confining banks of technical sureness. Almost anybody can build the banks.

Too Many Composers Hide Mediocrity Behind Scholarship.

There were Kapellmeisters of the eighteenth century who knew more about counterpoint than Handel, scholars of the nineteenth who had a better grasp of the sonata form than Beethoven. The smarter among them did not compose music for public consumption because the simple and direct thought of their times drew a line of demarcation between musicians who could think up tunes and those who could not. This distinction has largely disappeared in the twentieth century.

Every little while music shows signs of a tendency to grow away from its simple reason for being [its ability to give pleasure and to communicate emotional states by means of sound] and to become a rather dull mathematical game. Too many composers have solved the problems raised by their inability to think up melodies by a scholarly study of the possibilities of rhythm and dissonance.

Cultural Value of Music Often Overrated.

I am as sensible of the gaping holes in this fort of logic as you are, and as aware of the fact that you cannot completely separate the three elements of music in this way. There is a creative urge in a tiny Debussy sequence or a vigorous bit of "Petrushka" [early Stravinsky] that no textbook could explain or produce. Originality of harmony or meter is as potent as melodic richness—but not as consistently so. There is too much temptation to fall back on codified knowledge or to bring home mannerisms from the new territory that has been explored with such codified knowledge as base.

I think it would be healthful to think of music in terms of pleasure [pleasure of a high type, certainly] than in terms of science or scholarship in general. Even its cultural value has been vastly overrated, for when we ask of an art certain qualities and effects that are not inherent in the needs and desires that called it into being we are opening up still another vast field of complication.

Great Compositions Are Simple.

Think how simple the great music of the world is. The symphonies that immediately leap to mind are chock-full of good melodic ideas and the composer's technical skill is used to project these ideas in vivid style. The "development" section of a work in sonata form is more sensuously and emotionally exciting sometimes than the first statement of themes. There is less mechanical working over the themes by well recognized methods than a genuine germination of new ideas from the old. Even the Bach fugues are simple, for counterpoint [in the best of them] is used to display the beauty of the original ideas from every viewpoint, never for its own sake.

It might be a good idea to form the habit of judging a modern work by the same sterling standards that the Brahms violin concerto or the cave man's yodel met in their time. Are the ideas good? Are they capable of inducing pleasure and producing or heightening significant emotional states? If the sonata you have just finished cannot pass such tests, you must not make people listen to it. No, not even though it boast polyphonic devices that would frighten Bach back to his organ loft, and a structural logic to send Beethoven in tears to the fireplace with the manuscripts of all the Nine.

Milstein Will Give Concert Here Today

Russian Ranks with Elman, Zimbalist Among Great Violinists of the World.

Nathan Milstein, whose work these last few years has put him right up there with Elman and Zimbalist and the rest, plays a recital in Orchestra hall this afternoon. On this seventh American tour the Russian violinist is booked for solo appearances with eight orchestras, including the Chicago.

A Bach and a Beethoven sonata [the former for violin alone] and Lalo's rousing "Symphonie Espagnole" are the main items on today's program. Among the smaller things are three Milstein transcriptions of the works of other composers.

The Chicago Tribune's third annual Woman congress, in session Thursday and Friday at the Palmer house, will feature the Paulist choristers of Chicago, Elizabeth Rosamore, soprano, and Helen Jepson, soprano, as its musical highlights. In addition, Mary Garden is scheduled for a talk.

NELSON EDDY.

Nelson Eddy, a baritone who has been coming up by leaps and bounds, sings a recital at Orchestra hall next Saturday evening. A Mozart aria, some German lieder, an excerpt from "L-Africaine," and a group in English round out the program. In his thirty-four years of life Eddy has been a reporter, a copy reader, an advertising man, a singer, and a movie star. "Naughty Marietta" featured him, you remember.

Frederick Stock resumes active direction of the Chicago Symphony orchestra Tuesday afternoon [he has been away on a winter vacation]. Rudolf Serkin, a Bohemian pianist favorably known in the east and Europe, will make his bow to Chicago in Beethoven's "Emperor" concerto. The Strauss tone poem, "Death and Transfiguration," is to be played in memory of the late John J. Glessner, one of the orchestra's most ardent and faithful supporters.

Another pianist, Gitta Gradova, appears with the orchestra Thursday night and Friday afternoon in the Moskowsky E Major concerto. Miss Gradova is a Chicagoan with an international reputation. She has played with the symphony a few times in the past. Beethoven's "Eroica" is on these same two programs.

A half hour after the Milstein and Kaderman recitals begin, Ebba Sundstrom and the Woman's Symphony orchestra gather on the stage of the Studebaker for the fourth concert of their tenth anniversary season. Important solo parts in the course of the program go to Margaret Sweeney and Ethel Schwertzler, playing harp and viola respectively. Caroline Solfrunk, flutist, Lillian Poenish, clarinettist, and a double string quartet support Miss Sweeney in a performance of Ravel's "Introduction and Allegro."

Haydn's "London" symphony, Dukas' "Sorcerer's Apprentice," and Powell's "Natchez on the Hill" set find a place on the program.

The Arts club scores again by getting Povla Frijsh, Danish soprano, for a recital tonight. This is the group that hung up a first by by securing the Kolisch quartet a week or more before its public concert here.

Miss Frijsh has already sung twice in New York this season, and achieved the remarkable result in one of them of selling out all the tickets two days before the recital.

Important things coming up in the near future include a concert by the St. Louis Symphony orchestra under Vladimir Golschmann at Orchestra hall next Sunday [with the Brahms First and Prokofieff's "Classique"], a return engagement by Trudi Schoop and her comic ballet at the Studebaker on Feb. 23 [afternoon and evening performances], and an appearance by Arthur Schnabel, world famous interpreter of Beethoven, and Bronislaw Huberman, Polish violinist, in joint recital March 1. Alec Templeton, the young blind pianist of Jack Hylton's outfit, is playing that same day.

Acting High Point in a Simple Film

Edward Ellis Snatches All Laurels as Father in "The Lady Consents."

"THE LADY CONSENTS."
Produced by RKO-Radio. Directed by Stephen Roberts. From story by P. J. Wolfson. Presented at the Palace theater.

THE CAST.

Anne Talbot	Ann Harding
Michael Talbot	Herbert Marshall
Jerry Mannerly	Margaret Lindsay
Stanley Ashton	Walter Abel
Jim Talbot	Edward Ellis
Yardley	Hobart Cavanaugh
Susan	Ilka Chase

By Mae Tinee.

GOOD MORNING!

Sorry—but I couldn't care for this one.

As I come to write about this picture its only outstanding virtue becomes the acting of Edward Ellis in a secondary rôle.

He is the happy go lucky father-in-law of Miss Harding. His son, Herbert Marshall, a w. k. surgeon, falls in love with another woman—to whom Miss Harding relinquishes him. . . . Everybody is durn miserable, including a merry, noble chap who wants to marry Ann, and excepting the "other woman." This goes on for a long, sticky stretch.

Courturiers Don't Do Right by Ann Harding.

Then death summons dad and figures in the reunion of Miss Harding and Mr. Marshall.

Cut and dried old plot, as you can see for yourselves.

The scenario is largely responsible for the goo-ey performances of Miss Harding and Mr. Marshall, and the fact that the lady doesn't look her best I lay to her dressmaker.

Margaret Lindsay Miscast as Vamp.

Margaret Lindsay is miscast as the vamp. She's the wholesome, square shooting type and usually plays that sort of rôle. Walter Abel as the poor moth who gallantly singes his wings over the flame of his unrequited love is nice.

But Edward Ellis is the boy who walks away with the laurels. He makes dad such a downright human old cuss!

SHE DOES LOOK AMIABLE

Isn't this a charming picture of Ann Harding? And doesn't she look amiable? The sort of a lady who would go along with one? In "The Lady Consents" (It's at the Palace) you will learn whether or not Milady belies her appearance. A tip—there's snap in her sweetness.

BitsaBOUTem.

LUISE RAINER ate apple pie four times a day when she first went to Hollywood—and how the scales went up! Now she's on a no pie diet, by director's orders. . . . THREE GENERATIONS of the CANSINOS, dancing family, formerly command entertainers to the king and queen of Spain, have been signed to appear in a full color technicolor feature, "The Dancing Pirate"—an RKO-Radio release. . . . ROBERT MONTGOMERY will be starred by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in the adaptation of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Suicide Club." ROSALIND RUSSELL will have the chief feminine rôle . . . BARBARA DENNY, Reginald Denny's 19 year old daughter, makes her debut as an actress in "Little Lord Fauntleroy," co-starring DOLORES COSTELLO and FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW . . . ERROL FLYNN has a lion's tooth, presented to him by HAILE SELASSIE when he was in Ethiopia several years ago.

JEAN ARTHUR, the little blonde star who waited so long before she achieved success, is now at the height of her career. She recently scored success in "If You Could Only Cook." Because of her work in this film she has been cast as GARY COOPER'S leading lady in "Opera Hat." As soon as this engagement is completed she will have the feminine lead in "Bless Their Hearts." MELVYN DOUGLASS and little EDITH FELLOWS, 9 year old child actress, will play opposite her.

KAREN MORLEY has recuperated from her recent appendectomy and is back again on the Columbia lot where she is appearing in "Devil's Squadron" opposite RICHARD DIX . . . MARGARET SULLAVAN and HENRY FONDA are co-starred in a movie titled "The Moon's Our Home." Miss Sullavan and Mr. Fonda were at one time really married, but they were divorced three years ago. In this film, however, they give a convincing performance of a happily married couple. . . . ADOLPH MENJOU, who has recovered from a serious illness, is doing all he can to gain back the twenty pounds he lost so that the dozen suits he ordered just before he was taken ill will fit him. Looks like the tailor's going to have a big remodeling job on his hands if Mr. Menjou doesn't start gaining those twenty pounds soon. . . .

See You Tomorrow!

From Chicago to London.

"Personal Appearance" will probably be sent to London next May. Gladys George and Otto Hulett will be the only two members of the company to make the trip. The locale will be changed to Scotland. The company now in Chicago will stay here until about Easter.

'Closed Set' Holy of Holies Where Stars Escape Curious World

No Outsider Ever Crashes Its Portals

Actors in Two Classes; Those Who Prefer It, Those Who Do Not.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—The high walled movie studios are hard enough to get into—amending the constitution is usually easier—but a "closed set" is the ultimate of inaccessibility. It is like the cloistered walls of a monastery or the guarded treasure house of the Nizam of Hyderabad.

Despite rigid studio rules designed to keep all visitors out, some outsiders are always managing to get inside the lots through acquaintanceship. The most frequent visitors are newspaper correspondents. A natural camaraderie and exchange of privileges permit reporters access to most studios.

But even those who have penetrated the outer threshold of the studios are summarily halted at the doors of sound stages that have "closed set" marked on them. That's for everybody except for those actually working on the picture in question.

Garbo, Shearer, and Chaplin Insist on Privacy.

Closed sets date back to beginning of the Garbo silence legend and even before that. But temperament is only one of many reasons for guarding the doors. Some of the most famous stars are closed set addicts. Most of these have different reasons for their exclusiveness.

Hollywood stars may be divided into two great classes—those who have closed sets and those who don't.

Leading closed set people are Garbo, Norma Shearer, Charlie Chaplin, Mae West, Joan Crawford, Katharine Hepburn, Janet Gaynor, George White of the "Scandals," Kay Francis, and Al Jolson. Open set folk include almost all other stars you can mention except those who hew to a middle line by opening their sets at some intervals and closing them at others.

The leading middle liners are the comedians, who have a good excuse—they want to protect their "gags." When a particularly choice gag is to be filmed in a picture, as in Harold Lloyd's "The Milky Way," the set is closed. Lloyd, the Marx Brothers, W. C. Fields, and other comics naturally don't want their pet laughs to leak out and be purloined for a "quickie" picture that could reach the screen long before their major productions.

Closed Set Protects Comedians' Gags.

The same holds true for George Burns and Gracie Allen's and many of Joe E. Brown's and Jack Oakie's comedy situations. Gags are worth many dollars when they are new, but are valueless once they are bruited about.

Two stars whose sets were closed without their having a voice in the matter are Shirley Temple and Mae West. The Temple sets were closed by the studio because a stream of visitors ohing and ahing over the pretty child might "spoil" her. And since it is one of her greatest appeals, her naïveté is something worth protecting.

The West sets are guarded by "gumshoes" from the district attorney's office who have trailed the star ever since she was threatened by a gang of jewel thieves against whom she testified in court. Mae doesn't mind visitors and would like to have people around if the detectives didn't object.

PLENTY TO DO IN NEW FILM

Crooner and croonee! In other words, Bing Crosby and Ida Lupino. They have plenty to do in "Anything Goes"—adapted to the screen from the stage success of the same name. You can see the picture at the Chicago theater.

Crosby Would Be Mobbed if Visitors Were Permitted.

Screen singers and dance directors occasionally are forced into closed sets for the same reason as the comedians. Bing Crosby, or rather his studio, closes his sets when he sings a number. Everybody at Paramount knows when Bing is going to sing, and if the stage were left open it would be filled with scores of stenographers, secretaries, wardrobe girls, etc.

The inevitable coughing and sneezing, not to mention the crowding, would cost the studio thousands of dollars in ruined scenes and lost time, so Bing croons to an audience composed entirely of set workers and musicians. Not an insignificant item, also, is the fact that Crosby's songs are kept secret until a specified time before the release of his pictures.

Studio Steals Dance Routine by Luring Chorine.

Dance numbers are primarily nothing but ideas and naturally these are closely guarded against plagiarism. Bobby Connolly, Leroy Prinz, Dave Gould, Seymour Felix, and other maestros have no hesitancy in clamping down the bars when their numbers are being filmed. A concrete example of the reason for this occurred during the production of "Collegiate," the Joe-Penner-Jack Oakie musical. The studio had a "hot idea" for a chorus number wherein the chorines, who are supposed to be schoolgirls, do a routine on the top of their desks.

The idea was carefully guarded until a rival studio lured away one of the chorus girls and persuaded her to describe it. The dance was immediately incorporated into another picture but luckily "Collegiate" got to the screen first.

Jan Kiepura Insists on Having Visitors.

Some stars like visitors and are allowed to have them often. Jan Kiepura, continental tenor now making his American film debut in "Give Us This Night," practically insists on an audience when he sings his numbers. There's always a crowd around to hear him.

In fact, when Kiepura and Gladys Swarthout sang their first duet for the picture a dozen stars and scores of others crowded the stage to listen—despite the fact that the studio wished otherwise. While she doesn't insist on visitors Miss Swarthout likes to meet people and her sets never are closed.

One of the most unusual reasons for closed sets inspired privacy the other day for the cast of "Too Many Parents." There are a number of children in the film, including Billy Lee and Buster Phelps. The director, Robert F. McGowan, who directed scores of "Our Gang" comedies, was forced to bar visitors when he found they were distracting the attention of the juvenile actors.

Warner Studio Empoye Has 'Freak Job'

He Is in Full Charge of "Everything Animate," Except the Actors.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—A chap named Lee Sheldon at Warner studio has one of Hollywood's freak jobs. He is in charge of "everything animate" at the studio, which means everything animate except the actors. One of his assignments was to provide a unicorn for "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Sheldon turned up with a small sized pony with one brown eye and one blue and with one shoulder higher than the other, which was what the technical specifications of a unicorn, screen version, called for.

Sheldon says there are two classifications of animal talent which the movies call for. The animals most used and easiest to get are what he calls "standard animals." This means beasts of which there is some regular source of supply, such as circus winter quarters, animal farms, or stock raisers. The classification includes lions, tigers, bears, leopards, camels, elephants, wildcats, panthers, deer, and all form of domestic stock. Sheldon has an enormous file that lists 9,000 items.

There is also a subdivision in his file that mentions "unusuals," meaning three legged dogs, blind horses, and even a goat with three horns. He says his file is "good only for about two years because of the steady turnover due to the short lives of pets."

McLaglen reveals that his Light Horse at present includes a motorcycle squadron of forty riders, 100 Red Cross men and women, fifty women to conduct emergency kitchens, 500 men and women riders, a drum and bugle corps of sixty-one, a brass band of fifty pieces, and seventy-five Boy Scouts.

Kiepura told a group of us at his farewell party in Beverly Hills that "I am neither the worst nor the best singer who came from my home town of Sosnowicz, Poland, but I got out into the world where people could hear my voice." Kiepura said that at one stretch of his early effort to gain a foothold, he lived on three cups of weak tea, two buns, and one pat of butter a day, and this went on for weeks. It was after he had already earned a law degree at the university but had determined he preferred to be a singer.

It's titled "African Intrigue," and is about four Germans who, in 1911, are sent out to explore the French African jungle with the idea that Germany will try to wrest it from France. Three of the Germans are killed by the French. After terrific hardships the fourth escapes and gets back to Germany with the secret reports that have cost so many lives, only to find that his superiors in Germany have abandoned the idea of making an attempt to take the territory. Fonda, Walter Pidgeon, Roy Hargreave, and Alan Baxter play the four Germans in the adventure thriller.

Fan Is Incensed About the Miscasting of Charles Boyer.

Dear Miss Tinée: I have written to you because I am incensed at the miscasting shown when Charles Boyer, after his exceptionally capable performances in "Private Worlds," "Break of Hearts," and "Shanghai," was placed in a picture such as "Thunder in the East." I understand Mr. Boyer is at present making pictures for a British concern, but I feel certain I am only one of hundreds who would shout "hurrah" for the Hollywood producer who offered him a rôle worthy of his abilities and lured him back to our shores.

And may I add that I am tired of seeing Frederic March in nearly all of the noteworthy pictures with "Barretts of Wimpole Street" at the top of the list, down through "Anna Karenina." His acting is so obviously "acting" and he speaks as a child with a carefully learned lesson, reciting to his teacher, that he has ruined my enjoyment of an otherwise nearly perfect production.

A DAILY TINEE READER.

Editor's Note: Mr. Boyer should bless you. Mr. March may————?

Thinks Mae Plain "Nuts" in Review of the Colbert Film.

Dear Miss Tinée: For many years I have read your reviews and comments on current movies, and always thought you a good critic, but I think you are plain "nuts" in your review of "The Bride Comes Home." I saw that movie when the theaters were packed, not only for Veloz and Yolanda, as you said, but because of the picture. Every one was making remarks about how good it was. Where do you get that stuff about a silly story? Maybe you never have been a working girl who wants real romance such as pictured by Fred and Colbert. Or, if you were, you seem to have forgotten it. If you can't say anything better than that, why say anything at all? I'm sure that most human people will agree that the picture is grand, and one of the best. And Colbert cheap! Why, you are accusing a world of girls of being cheap! If you were bored to tears by that picture it must be because you're getting old or something. Did you see it on a morning-after?

This is my first letter to you, and I know it will be my last.

Yours, sincerely, and how!

MARGARET THARP.

A Few Constructive Ideas About Comfort in Theaters.

Dear Mae Tinée: May I please register a few constructive criticisms?

In going to movies, matinées especially, since Christmas, I notice that the ushers allow doors to ailes to remain open, throwing light right on the people in seats about one-third to the rear. I have had to be seated there several times, and it seems unfair to pay 40 or 35 cents and to get so little consideration. The people two-thirds front are in the dark, or at least these doors throwing this light do not reach them.

Also, at two movies I was anxious to see, I missed so much of the first part, because every one going and coming stood in front of me. At least, they should not be allowed to do that.

I hope the managers of these theaters will do something to change these conditions.

Sincerely,

KAY KANMEYER.

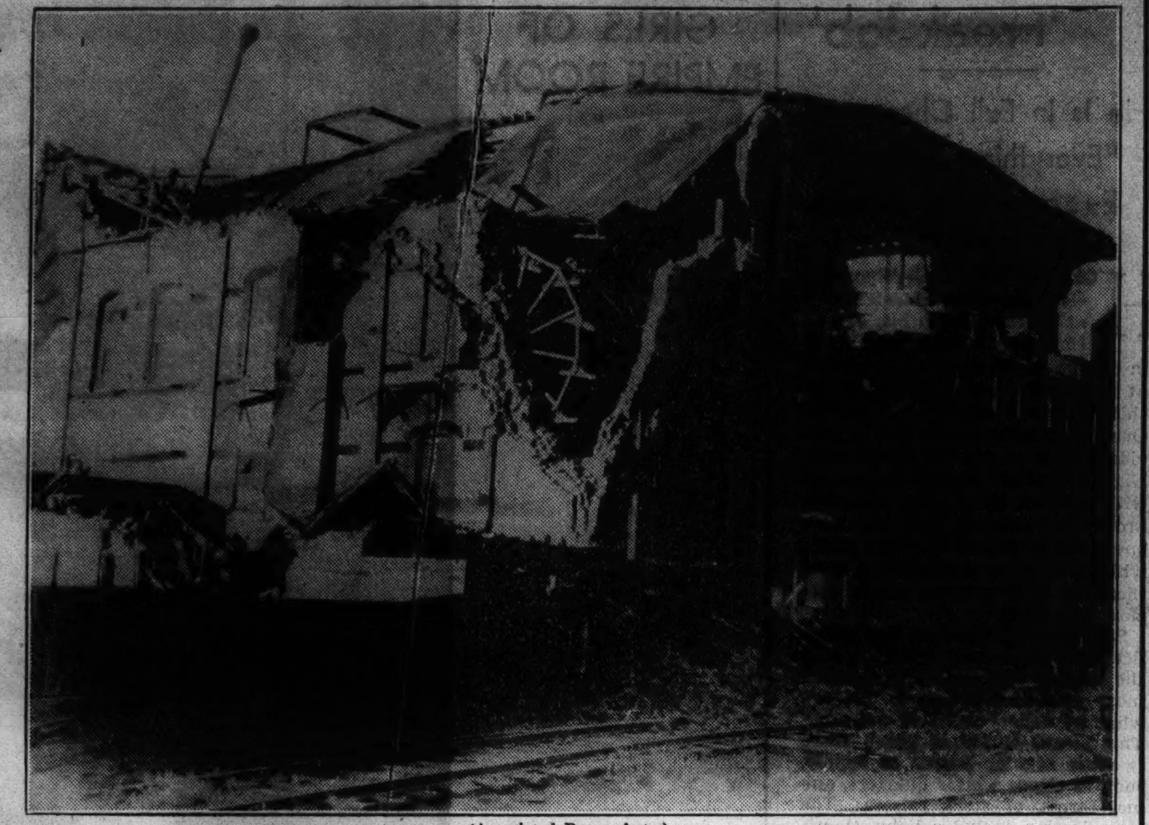
Quakes Still Rock Old Earth

By DR. THOMAS M. BECK



(Associated Press photo.)

ON NOV. 1, 1755, the city of Lisbon was stricken by an earthquake of unusual intensity. During the course of a few minutes several shocks shook down most of the houses, with terrific loss of life. Shortly after the sea slowly receded from the harbor, only to rush back in the form of a forty-foot wave that engulfed all before it.

This particular quake was by no means the first serious one in human experience, nor was it as disastrous as several others before and since. It is mentioned because its occurrence prompted John Michell of Cambridge university to undertake the first scientific study of the phenomenon. Michell's conclusions have since been shown to be erroneous, but his work is of importance because of the subsequent investigation it inspired.

To understand the causes of earthquakes we must first give a short account of the structure of the earth and also tell something of its early history. From what we can see, the solid portion of the earth consists of soils of various types, which are largely the weathered débris of rocks and of sedimentary rocks which were derived from layers of sediment deposited by water and then hardened by the effects of time and pressure.

Deep excavations reveal that below this there lies a great layer of granitelike rock which is not stratified like the sedimentary rocks, but appears to have crystalized from a molten state. Indirect evidence indicates that perhaps a hundred miles below this there is still another deep bed of rock resembling basalt.

Yet the earth's mass, as determined by gravity measurements, is considerably above that derived from the assumption that the earth is made up largely of rock. The only possible conclusion is that our planet has a core perhaps several thousand miles in diameter which consists of metals, probably iron for the most part. And since the temperature increases the farther we dig below the surface, it is entirely possible that this metallic core is liquid.

⁂

The theory of the earth's origin which best explains the occurrence of earthquakes is the one which postulates that the planets were originally clouds of white-hot gas drawn off of the sun by a star which passed too closely. The isolated cloud which became our planet lost heat by radiation and condensed to a globular mass of liquid made up of molten slag floating on a heavier core of liquid metal.

In time it cooled still further and started to solidify. Naturally the outer surface lost heat most rapidly by radiation and was the first to harden. Once this solid surface was formed, it acted as an insulator and tended to slow down the rate of cooling of the interior. Nevertheless this cooling went on, and as the interior cooled it contracted slightly. But the outer layer, being already cold and solid, could not contract at the same rate. Consequently it was subjected to tremendous lateral pressure.

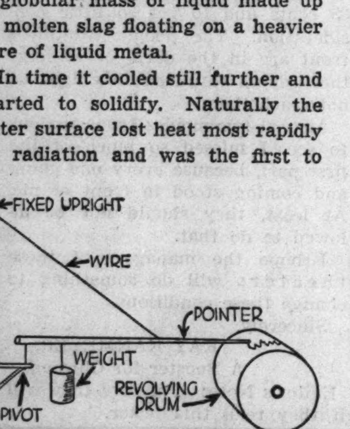

Diagram of seismograph used to detect and locate earth tremors.

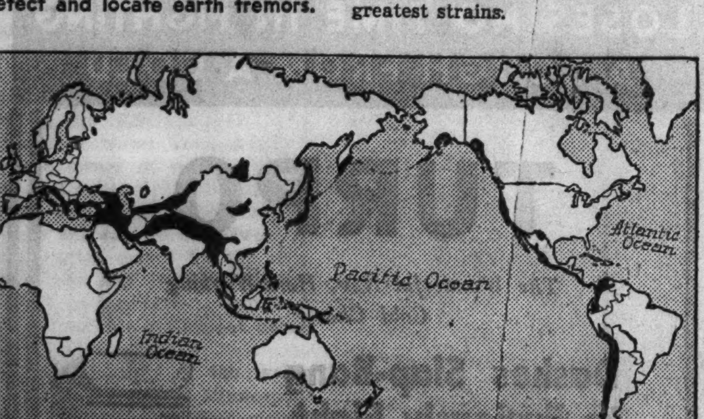
Now, solids react to stresses in two different ways. An elastic solid bends to an amount proportional to the applied force and springs back when the force is removed. But when the distortion reaches a definite limit, depending on the particular material, an elastic solid breaks. On the other hand, a plastic solid slowly flows when subjected to a distorting force and eventually adjusts itself permanently to a new shape that relieves the strain.

Elasticity and plasticity are ideal states and no actual form of matter exhibits either property to a perfect degree. Consequently it is not surprising that the earth's crust should react in both ways. As a plastic material it has slowly been bent into gigantic folds which form mountain ranges and the ocean depths. But because of its elastic properties it retains the strains of this distortion for some time, and occasionally when the stress exceeds the elastic limit the solid is broken.

⁂

We know that such breaks take place because of the existence of geologic faults. These are places where the crust has broken along a vertical plane, with an accompanying relative shift of the two parts along the break. Then, too, we find evidence of similar breaks occurring during earthquakes. Sometimes the break is a vertical one and the ground on one side of it is left at a higher level than on the other side.

More frequently there is a lateral shift and the landscape moves to the right and left on opposite sides of the break. Occasionally, too, there is a widespread change in the ground level, indicating that the break has not appeared on the surface. Additional but less direct evidence along these lines is the fact that earthquakes occur most frequently in districts where high mountains and great ocean depths are closest together. We should expect such distortion to lead to the greatest strains.



Map of the world, showing the main earthquake zones.

Some Historic Earthquakes

Quake	Year	Dead
Lisbon	1755	50,000
Messina	1908	100,000
Tokio	1923	140,000
China	1920	180,000
Japan	1703	200,000
India	1737	300,000

Yet the earthquakes do not occur in all mountain districts with equal probability, but appear to prefer certain zones. About 90 per cent of the recorded tremors take place in two distinct belts. One of them stretches along the northern side of the Mediterranean, through Asia Minor, Persia, and northern India to central China. The other, in which the quakes are more common, embraces most of the land touching the Pacific ocean in both Asia and the Americas.

The earthquake regions around the Pacific's rim have one thing in common which may explain their instability. They are all quite mountainous, and the mountains appear to be relatively new ones, geologically speaking. It may well be that they are still undergoing growing pains and that the distorted crust has not yet had time to shift into a more stable arrangement.

In this connection there is an interesting geological theory which may account for these Pacific mountain ranges. The German geologist Wegener was impressed by the fact that the eastern coast of South America could be fitted quite closely into the western coast of Africa. By the use of a little imagination it was also possible to fit North America and Greenland with Europe and northwestern Africa.

Wegener suggested that these continents had originally been joined as a supercontinent which had broken in two and drifted apart during the billions of years of terrestrial existence. As corroborative evidence he cited apparent continuities of mountain ranges and geological strata over the Atlantic ocean. (Incidentally, at the time the theory was first advanced a witty opponent of it facetiously reported the discovery of the heads of three fossil fish in Ireland and the corresponding tails in Massachusetts.)

⁂

But, after all, the theory is not as fantastic as it might appear. Granting that such a lopsided arrangement of land could have originated, it naturally would tend to rearrange into a more evenly balanced system. Moreover, the floating land masses required by the theory are not necessarily incredible. Even bedrock has a slight plasticity and may flow to this extent during the time available. And the liquid core of the earth would certainly allow continents to float around on it.

If such a theory be true it could easily account for the location of the major earthquake zone, for if the continents are slowly squeezing the Pacific ocean we can picture them as piling up mountain ranges in front of them, and such ranges would be expected to be under greater strain than those elsewhere.

We read about the scientists observing the records of distant earthquakes by means of the seismograph. Obviously it must be an instrument which determines the movement of the earth. But when an instrument is designed to register motion of a body, part of the instrument must be stationary in relation to the moving object. What is the stationary body we can use in measuring the vibration of the earth?

For this purpose we make use of the principle of inertia. Inertia is the property of matter which causes it to resist a change of velocity. It is proportional to the weight of the body. The simplest form of a seismograph would be a heavy pendulum hung on a solidly anchored frame. When the earth starts shaking the frame also shakes, but the pendulum, not being firmly connected to the frame, does not. But since motion is a relative matter, it appears to the observer that the pendulum is moving.

The accompanying diagram shows a typical form of the seismograph. It will be noticed that the hinged and weighted beam can swing only to and from the reader, and not from right to left. Since it shows vibrations only in one direction, it is necessary to use two of the instruments, set at right angles to each other, to make sure of catching waves coming from any direction. By suitable refinements it is possible to make these instruments capable of detecting shocks anywhere on the face of the globe.

⁂

How can the seismograph determine the location of a quake? At some distance from the earthquake's origin it ceases to be a simple vibration. Passage through the earth splits each shock into three major parts which travel at different speeds. The slowest of the three travels at a constant velocity based on its distance across the earth's surface from the source to the point of reception. Without doubt it passes along the surface. The fastest of the three appears to travel faster when registered at more distant stations.

The simplest explanation for this fact is that instead of passing along the surface it cuts across the interior. Obviously the greater the angular distance between two points on a sphere the greater the saving in distance achieved by passing through the interior instead of along the surface. The third of these impulses follows much the same path as the fast one but travels at a slower rate.

Now, by observing the time intervals between these three impulses on a seismograph one can calculate the distance of the shock from the instrument. The origin of the shock should then lie somewhere on a circle drawn around the observer. By comparing the data from three separate instruments, three circles can be drawn which should intersect at the source of the shock.

It is theoretically possible for a single well equipped seismograph station to determine the location of a distant earthquake. A single instrument shows the quake to be located somewhere on the circumference of a circle drawn around the station. But it was pointed out that two instruments were necessary to show both the north-south and east-west components of the shock. The readings from both of these instruments indicate the line along which the shock is traveling. This limits the possible sources of the quake to the two points where the line intersects the circle. Finally, a third seismograph designed to measure vertical vibrations supplies the third component of the vibration which determines its direction and hence the point from which it originated.

Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER

The Welsh Terrier

THERE are certain breeds of dogs with desirable qualities that make them good companions and well fitted for life in the town or in the country. Yet these breeds for various sorts of reasons remain in the background. The Welsh terrier is in this group.

Weighing about 20 pounds, standing about 15 inches high at the shoulder, black and tan in color, and with a wiry, hard, close coat, the Welsh is a compact little fellow equally at home in the city or on the farm. Superficially he looks something like an Airedale in miniature, and many persons, seeing this little terrier at a dog show, are apt to comment on the "little Airedale." Of course, this doesn't please either the Airedale or the Welsh terrier fanciers! But this confusion does exist, due to the fact that the Welsh is not as well known as he doubtless will be in a few years from now.

The breed has a splendid reputation for courage, excellent manners, and disposition. He's game to the core, which is not surprising, because for many decades this terrier has been used for hunting the otter, fox, and badger. He has the pluck that is needed to fight such animals. Another point about this breed that should be kept in mind is that the Welsh lacks that nervous, high-strung temperament that makes some breeds difficult to handle. He has poise, good sense, and is quick to learn.

Probably the best tribute to this terrier that we have heard for some time came from a fancier of another breed of terriers. This man, who has been interested in his favorite English terrier breed for ten years and owns several champions, remarked:

"I could go for that Welsh terrier without any trouble. He's one of the few dogs I would like to own, because he's such a sensible dog. Doesn't yip and bark all the time and obviously isn't so high-strung that he wears you out. And he surely is a friendly dog, too."

Add the fact that the Welsh is fond of children and one is not surprised that a dog fancier already sold on one terrier breed gets enthusiastic about the "little Welshman."

⁂

If you look at old pictures of dogs bred in England years ago you will see one called "Old English terrier" or "black and tan wire-haired terrier." Compare the color of the Welsh today with those old black and tan rough-coated terriers and you find practically no difference. So there isn't much doubt about the Welsh being one of our oldest terrier breeds. And down through the years this 20-pounder has been a sporting dog—a quick, courageous fellow, willing to tackle any "varmint." This is an excellent heritage for a small dog that comes into the home as a companion and guard, capable of sounding an alarm and taking care of itself.

Looking at the color and the coat of this breed, you can see another excellent feature about it. Obviously the Welsh is fairly easy to keep clean, or appearing clean at least. His dark coat won't show dirt very easily, and the hair is of such texture and length that it dries out quickly after a soaking.

Welsh terriers were first imported into the United States about forty or fifty years ago. This is rather surprising in a way when you consider what an old breed it is on the other side of the ocean. When these first importations were made the dogs had to be shown in the miscellaneous classes, because there was no classification for the Welsh terrier. Now, of course, there are classes for Welsh terriers in all the dog shows. When you examine English records on the breeds it is amusing to note how the names Old English terrier and Welsh terrier continued even up to a comparatively recent date in the English dog shows.

DOG NOTES

Information about many of the most interesting and popular breeds of dogs, as well as beautiful pictures of these breeds, is included in The Tribune's new book, "The Dog Book," which was reviewed in this department last Sunday by Capt. Will Judy.

Dog fanciers who desire a small handbook on the care and feeding of both puppies and adult dogs will find scores of tips in "The Dog Book." The volume presents numerous facts concerning the origin, size, color, and characteristics of many breeds. Among the recognized breeds pictured and described are the beagle, bulldog, chow, collie, dachshund, Great Dane, Pekingese, Pomeranian, Sealyham terrier, cocker spaniel, springer spaniel, Boston terrier, bull terrier, Kerry Blue, Scotty, wire-haired terrier, and many others.

"The Dog Book" is on sale at the Tribune public service offices in Tribune Tower or at 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago. If ordered by mail the cost of the book is 30 cents, including postage. If purchased over the counter the cost is 25 cents.

The Western Boston Terrier club will hold its thirty-sixth annual specialty show Sunday, Feb. 23, in the exhibition hall of the Hotel Sherman. The judge will be Vincent Perry of Toronto, famous authority on Boston terriers.

An "added attraction" for this show is that free puppies will be given away to the boy and girl within grammar school age who write the best essays on "Why I Would Like to Own a Boston Terrier."

Details about this show may be obtained from the club secretary, Paul Schwartz, 1330 Hyde Park boulevard, Chicago.

First comment by a veterinarian on the Tribune "Dog Book" comes from Dr. John B. Jaffray of 2534 West Madison street. He writes:

"A concise book of knowledge about dogs. Every word in it is true, and the pictures in it will make any dog lover's heart beat faster.

"Every one of my clients and dog owners with whom I come in contact will be advised to obtain this book.

"Very sincerely yours,
"JOHN B. JAFFRAY."

Almost every time we drive along a highway we see one or two dead dogs alongside the road, reminding us of the motorist's obligations in such cases.

If a driver does hit a dog on the highway the least he can do is to see if the dog is alive and can be helped. If the accident occurs in the country the driver will not have to go very far to find the owner of the dog, because farmers recognize dogs owned by their neighbors.

City dwellers often fail to realize that the farmer's dog is not only a pet but a useful farm worker and often is of more value to its owner than the average person's dog. Therefore the motorist should do whatever he can for any dog which he hits with his car, and especially for the farm dog.

Murder in Minneapolis

Criminals Given Protection There

How Floyd B. Olson Treated Gunmen and Boodlers

This is the second of a series of articles on crime and its connection with politics in Minneapolis and Minnesota today.

MINNEAPOLIS murders and the protection of gangsters and gunmen by politicians there began to focus the attention of the middle west upon that city early in 1925.

In that year Frank Brunskill was chief of police. His part in the case of the kidnaping and slaying of the Rev. Knute B. Birkeland, as charged by the Birkeland family and upheld by a jury in the Criminal courts, was told in the first instalment of this story.

Brunskill was a veteran policeman in Minneapolis in 1925. Beginning his career as a stable boy after arriving in the Twin Cities with a shipment of horses from the Iowa farm community where he was born, he soon obtained a job as driver of a delivery wagon for the Kunze breweries. This was in 1900.

In 1904 Jake Kunze, president of the brewing company, arranged for Brunskill to join the police force as a rookie patrolman. Brunskill's first assignments included raids on some of the brewer's customers, to whom, shortly before, he had been delivering beer. In six years Brunskill became a detective.

Mayor Thomas Van Lear, who later was to become the star defense witness at Milwaukee for the gunman, Jack Davenport, and virtually obtained the acquittal of that habitual criminal in the case of the robbery of the Northwestern National bank of Milwaukee, made Brunskill chief of detectives. In 1923 Brunskill became chief of the entire force, holding the job until Mayor George E. Leach removed him in 1928.

Brunskill was removed after the mayor obtained evidence proving that the policeman was habitually shielding criminals.

In recent years a number of private citizens have filed complaints against Brunskill with the commission, but the policeman who now is captain of the Minneapolis north side station never has been asked to defend himself.

One of the latest charges bears repeating. In the information sent to the commission it was stated that on May 11, 1932, police learned that an automobile believed to have been used by bandits who had, a month earlier, held up the North American branch of the Northwest National bank of Minneapolis, taking a large sum of cash and securities, was discovered in a garage at 2945 South Pillsbury avenue in Minneapolis.

* * *

Garage attendants were in the act of armor plating the car when Detectives Joseph Lehmeyer and Arthur Weibe arrived to seize it. The two detectives did not take the car, but reported back to Mayor William A. Anderson that Captain Brunskill walked into the garage as they were about to drive it away and told them "to leave the car alone."

The automobile, at that time, was said to be owned by one John J. Brennan. Later it was learned that Brennan was the alias used by Harvey Bailey, leader of the Urschel kidnaping gang and a bank robber and killer. He now is serving time in a federal penitentiary. When Bailey was nabbed by federal agents in Kansas City in August, 1932, two employés of the Northwest bank identified him as the leader of the gang which robbed their institution.

Not even this story brought action by the civil service commission.

Federal agents, seeking kidnaping gangs and bands of bank robbers who terrorized the middle west in 1932 and 1933, began work in the Twin Cities as the best points at which to pick up the trails of their quarries.

But to return to the decade of the twenties. Not only was Minneapolis a hideout for visiting criminals but it also was the home stamping ground for one of the largest and best organized alcohol rings in the country. The ring was operated by a syndicate of never fewer than six men.

During the 1920s the topnotchers in the ring were: Tommy Banks, now the owner of several restaurants and cabarets in Minneapolis; Charles Wolk, head of a transfer business and said to have been the transportation expert for the ring; Cliff Skelly and Barney Berman, gamblers and gangsters, and Jack Peiffer, who is a restaurant owner today.

A recent search by the writer through the files of the Minneapolis Tribune, Journal, and Star yielded only one or two clippings in which any of these men were mentioned. Banks paid fines for prohibition violations in the latter years during which the Volstead act was law, and the others were mentioned in indictments which never were brought to trial.

Not until Skelly and Berman, during the trial of Bailey and George "Machine Gun" Kelly in 1934, were found guilty of possessing some of the ransom money paid kidnapers by the family of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma oil millionaire, were any of the syndicate members in serious trouble. Both Skelly and Berman now are serving five year sentences as a result of this conviction in a federal court.

Their lieutenants are somewhat better known. Among these are: Isadore [Kid Cann] Blumenfeld, Jack Davenport, Peter Hackett, Sam Kronik, Sam Kozberg, Max "Brownie" Stearns, Max "Motley" Berman, brother of Barney, the big shot; Roy Rogers, George Somers, Benny Rinder, Mose Barnett, Flippy Share, Paul "Irish" Gottlieb, and the Jaffa brothers, Harry, William, and Sam.

At its height this organization annually handled millions of dollars taken from illicit enterprises.

As in other cities where large organizations wielded power with politicians and paid generously for police protection among all ranks of law enforcers, the hoodlums were secure from any molestation.

Perhaps this is one explanation for the failure to prosecute Jack Davenport in March, 1927, after the gunman shot and killed John Winkler, a petty bootlegger, in the presence of 14 witnesses in a saloon at 241 Hennepin avenue.

After the killing Davenport was arrested and a detective charged him with first degree murder. The matter dragged for one month while Davenport remained in jail. Then the grand jury voted a no bill after hearing several witnesses introduced by County Attorney Olson.

In the front row: (1) Barney Berman, (2) Sam Kozberg, (3) Sam Kronick, (4) Charles Wolk, (5) Isadore (Kid Cann) Blumenfeld, (6) Pete Miller, (7) Pete Arnold. (Associated Press photo.)

The widow of Winkler was visited by Davenport only a few days after the shooting. At that time, she says, Davenport told her: "I've paid $40,000 in the right place and I'm not going to be prosecuted. At the same time I'd like to have you keep your mouth shut to keep as much heat off me as possible. I'll bargain with you. I will give you $7,500, the state civil damage maximum in case of death, if you'll keep your trap shut."

The widow agreed. Davenport then handed her $3,500, telling her he would pay the remainder later. It never has been paid, according to Mrs. Winkler.

The most concrete evidence concerning the activities of the alcohol and vice syndicate was obtained by federal agents and county authorities in December, 1933, when Conrad Althen, who once was a golf professional at the Minnepau course at Minneapolis, was found slain.

Althen, who was an expert accountant as well as a golfer, was the bookkeeper for the syndicate. He had been serving the ring since 1926, rendering quarterly statements as concise and balanced as those of any corporation.

* * *

One week before his body was found the federal grand jury in Minneapolis had voted secret indictments against 38 of the better known hoodlums in that city's underworld. The ringleaders, their chief lieutenants and Althen were all named, although this information at that time had not been made public.

It was apparent, however, that federal men were anxious to seize Althen. The day after the indictments were returned they raided an apartment house where he had been living. Finding agents at front and rear, Althen jumped from a window and escaped.

Althen went into hiding. His friends, according to police, sought him out and advised him to surrender on the indictment. They arranged to pick him up in a car and take him to the United States district attorney's office. Althen fell into the trap.

He joined "the boys," who proceeded quickly to slug him into unconsciousness and then drive to a lonely road near South St. Paul. There evidently he regained consciousness as he was pitched into the ditch. His bullet riddled body was found the next morning. It lay on the right side with the left hand raised as if to ward off a blow.

A circle of empty shells on the roadside above the body clearly told how a machine gunner stood there and let fly a burst of 14 shots, all but one of which struck Althen.

The books Althen kept have never been found. It is assumed that his friends who feared he might "squawk" if he got into hands of the federal investigators destroyed them.

A week later, however, detectives raided a place where Althen had been living at one time. There they found ledgers, account books, some correspondence, some old freight and truck waybills and other records. These, although merely indices of the actual accounts, disclosed that Althen kept separate statements for each of the gang big shots. Code numbers were used in the indices.

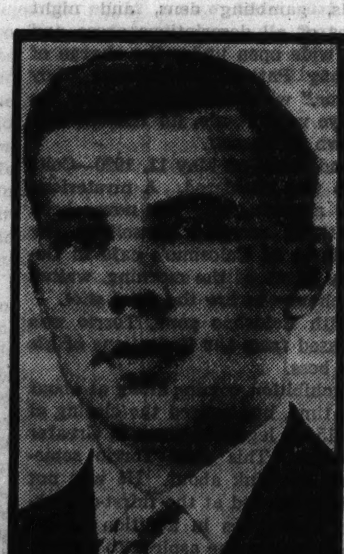
The indices also showed "quietus accounts," "McCoy accounts," in which records of the fine brands of uncut liquors demanded by certain patrons were kept; a profit and loss statement for the entire organization, and separate accountings for each of a dozen liquor producing plants, for gambling houses, and for vice resorts.

Some of the information lacking in these records was supplied by one of Althen's women, who told how he labored over his accounting. The woman, although bitter against Althen's slayers, was unable to give any help in the hunt for the actual books. The searchers were particularly anxious to find the books, since much of the government's case against the syndicate members depended upon finding them.

After months of searching, government agents concluded they had been destroyed about the time Althen was slain. With the books gone the indictments were dropped, only ten of the 38 men named in the original true bills being brought into court. Most of these escaped prison, merely paying nominal fines.

The real strength of this organized gangland was first shown in 1927. It was demonstrated when a coupe containing two men drew alongside the car containing Howard Guilford, publisher of the Saturday Press, a weekly newspaper of Minneapolis, at Lowry avenue and West Broadway. With Guilford was sitting his sister-in-law.

One of the men within the coupe fired five shots at Guilford, leaning out of the car and shouting meanwhile, "Damn you, Guilford, we've got you now." Then the car sped away.



(Associated Press photo.)

Howard Guilford, publisher of Saturday Press, who was wounded by gunmen in 1927. Seven years later he was slain.

Critically wounded in the abdomen, Guilford jotted down the license number of the gang car and drove to a hospital.

As an individual Howard Guilford had no importance. He had been attacking the city and county officials, however, charging them with accepting graft and protecting the open operations of the syndicate. These attacks had been growing in intensity over a period of several months, and Guilford had received many warnings that unless he quit printing stories about the underworld he would be slain.

* * *

The Minneapolis newspapers, while reluctant to recognize Guilford as a newspaper man, demanded action upon this shooting, saying it was an attempt to silence the free press. At first it seemed they might get what they demanded, for Guilford from his hospital bed identified Harry Jaffa and "Irish" Gottlieb as his assailants. The two gunmen were seized and jailed. Then they were identified by other witnesses.

No charges were placed against the men, however, and they were not taken before the grand jury by County Attorney Floyd Olson. Then, when his recovery had become a certainty, Guilford began to waver in his story. While yet convalescing he identified pictures of a man who was in a penitentiary as one of his attackers. Later he said Flippy Share and a gunman, Jack Gould, of Chicago, had done the shooting.

When he emerged from the hospital the charges against all the men Guilford had mentioned were dropped. Guilford himself, according to friends, was unexpectedly prosperous. He changed his home from a shabby rooming house to a suite in one of the best hotels, he "flashed" considerable sums of money, and sported many new clothes.

MAYOR HOLDS OUT BAIT TO STRUTWEAR WORKERS

Top half of the first page of the Saturday Press of Dec. 14, 1935. J. M. Near now is editor and publisher.

But within a few weeks he returned to his newspaper attacks upon the underworld and upon city and county officials. Then the Minnesota gag law, passed by the state legislature in 1925, was invoked against Guilford and his partner, J. M. Near, co-publishers of the Saturday Press. The case against them was prosecuted by Floyd Olson.

The press gag law was peculiar to Minnesota alone. It permitted city, county or state officials to suppress, without trial by jury, papers which published matter of a "malicious, scandalous, or defamatory" nature.

The process of suppression was as follows: The county attorney need only go before a court, make an accusation against a paper, and have the judge issue an injunction preventing publication. The judge alone could decide whether the accusation was justified and the matter printed in the paper actually "malicious, scandalous, or defamatory."

When Olson appeared in court against Near the injunction against future issuance of the Saturday Press was granted. The case was appealed to the Minnesota Supreme court, which upheld the lower court, ruling that the paper was a nuisance and the law valid.

By this time the case was attracting nation-wide attention. The American Newspaper Publishers' association took it up, supplying $5,000 obtained through contributions toward the cost of carrying the fight to the United States Supreme court. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE individually engaged counsel for Near.

In an epochal decision on June 1, 1931, the federal Supreme court ruled the Minnesota gag law was unconstitutional because it interfered with the liberty of the press as guaranteed by the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution. In this battle Near and Guilford won, and the Saturday Press continued to be published.

While these matters were in the courts, Hennepin County Attorney Floyd Olson was busy building a political organization. Defeated in 1924, when he ran for governor on a platform which was almost wholly communistic, Olson was out to gain the support of labor in the three large cities in his state—Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Duluth.

His opportunity came in 1928, when boodlers in the Minneapolis city council became panicky.

The boodlers had been operating on a small scale, the ring consisting of half a dozen aldermen.

Leader of the ring was Alderman Louis N. Ritten of the "silk stocking" Second ward in Minneapolis. He was a former president of the city council and a prominent grain merchant in the town. Soon after he entered the council, according to Ritten's own confession, he began accepting bribes. Then he became a member of licensing committees and of a committee which controled purchases.

Within a short time Ritten worked out an arrangement with Alderman Frank E. Giebenhain of the Tenth ward, a labor representative, and J. Russell Sheffield, Eighth ward, to accept money which would later be divided among the trio. Certain other aldermen, including John P. Eckberg, a labor party politician from the Twelfth ward; Fred Maurer, another labor man from the Third ward, and E. J. Sweeney and W. H. Rendell intermittently took part in the boodling.

* * *

All went well with the ring until John Woodward and Werner H. Ruff offered Ritten $1,000 to get enough votes in the council license committee to enable them to obtain a license for a cabaret to be named The Stables, which they proposed to open. Ritten informed Woodward, who offered the bribe, that it would cost at least $1,500. This incident occurred in the summer of 1928.

Ritten's confession, given on Feb. 15, 1929, follows:

"The following day Woodward came into my office with the money, but a few days later he asked for it again, stating he needed it for other purposes. I returned it to him. A few days later he returned and handed me back the money.

"The license was acted upon favorably both in the license committee and by the council. George Sheffield received $500, Giebenhain got $500, and I kept $500 for myself.

"A few days after my return from New Orleans in December, 1928, Giebenhain called me by phone and told me by all means to get in touch with Ruff. I told him I would if I could. Ruff had given Woodward the $1,500 paid us. The next day I arranged for a meeting with him at the home of a friend in north Minneapolis and begged Ruff not to mention my name in connection with the cabaret license. I admitted to him I had received the money from Woodward, and declared to Ruff that I would make everything right with him after the investigation had blown over if he would remain silent. I told him I would do anything in the world to keep my name out of the papers in connection with this matter.

"He promised faithfully that he would say nothing. This meeting was in the afternoon. The next day I called Frank Brunskill [then the chief investigator for County Attorney Floyd Olson, having been removed by Mayor George Leach from the post of chief of police] because he was a very good friend of mine, and asked him to see me.

"He came to the office early in the afternoon. I told him about my meeting with Ruff. He told me that during that afternoon Ruff had been in conference with Melvin Passolt and Joseph A. Poirer in the county attorney's office, and he believed Ruff had told them everything regarding our meeting.

"I asked Frank what he would do if he were in my boots. He declared I should get a good attorney. I asked him whom he would recommend and he said, 'Get Archie M. Cary.' [Cary is known in Minneapolis as the lawyer who appears for the syndicate hoodlums and other criminals who are able to pay large fees.]

"Brunskill called Mr. Cary from my office and arranged for a conference, at the same time telling Mr. Cary that 'Lou is a very good friend of mine.'"

That evening Ritten went to Cary's home for a preliminary conference and Cary telephoned Brunskill to come to the home also. Ritten's confession continues:

"I told Frank I was worried to death and didn't know what to do or where to turn, or words to that effect. Brunskill declared that he had been in a bad fix himself, and that Cary had got him out of trouble."

* * *

The following day at another conference Cary demanded a retaining fee of $5,000, which Ritten produced. Ritten tells also that Woodward demanded money to get out of town, saying a grand jury subpena had been issued for his appearance. In all Ritten gave Woodward $3,300 to get out of town. Then he was told that Ruff was about to go before the grand jury. He then decided to go before the grand jury and try to get immunity, on advice of Cary.

The confession continues:

"A few days later Cary arranged for a meeting between myself, County Attorney Floyd B. Olson, and himself in a room at the Minneapolis Athletic club. At that time I told the county attorney everything I knew, except the payments to Woodward. The next conference was in the office of the county attorney on the morning of the day I appeared before the grand jury. I was alone with the county attorney part of the time. I had got there early to avoid being seen. The county attorney told me he would get me into the grand jury room as soon as the jury convened.

"After I had been in the county attorney's office for a short time Cary came in with a document signed by Judge Bardwell granting me complete immunity. Cary told me I was 'absolutely clean' on everything up to the time I went into the grand jury room.

"Before entering the grand jury room I was told by the county attorney to answer all questions that he or any member of the grand jury asked me, which I did. After I had completed my testimony the county attorney stated that I had made a good impression, in his opinion, on the jury members. I remained in the county attorney's office until the grand jury adjourned, and then he assisted me in getting out without anybody noticing me."

From the testimony given by Ritten to that grand jury indictments were returned against Aldermen Eckberg, Giebenhain, Maurer, Sheffield, Sweeney and Rendell. A group of business men also were indicted, these defendants being named as givers of bribes, the aldermen being charged with their acceptance.

But Olson's part in granting Ritten immunity from prosecution never before has been made public. That confession was obtained by two Minneapolis newspaper men who followed Ritten when the latter fled to California. When they returned with the document their editors chose to print only certain excerpts therefrom.

During the trials which followed the public was kept in the dark about the Ritten incident. Prosecutor Olson was praised as a public servant, zealous to uphold the law. Strangely enough the "common people"—the laboring classes of Minneapolis, St. Paul, and, in fact, all Minnesota—rallied around him.

Just what Olson did for the laboring men of Minneapolis is shown in the following table, which lists the defendants as to punishments or lack of punishments:

Prison Sentences

John P. Eckberg, labor alderman, Twelfth ward, 10 years, accepting bribe; Frank E. Giebenhain, labor alderman, Tenth ward, 10 years, accepting bribe; Fred Maurer, labor alderman, Third ward, 2 years, accepting bribe; E. J. Sweeney, labor alderman, Third ward, 2 years, accepting bribe.

Fines

Morris Eisenstadt, cleaner and dyer, convicted of giving bribe, paid $1,500; James E. Fox, oil broker, pleaded guilty to giving bribe, paid $750.

Charges Dismissed, Consent of State

J. Russell Sheffield, "silk stocking" Eighth ward, indicted for receiving bribe; Don Green, agent for fire apparatus manufacturing company, indicted for giving bribe; Irsael Ridker, real estate broker, indicted for giving bribe; E. P. Brown, business man, indicted for giving bribe; Henry M. Baskerville, business man, indicted for giving bribe; Emil Sheffe, garage proprietor, indicted for giving bribe.

Not Indicted

Louis N. Ritten, "silk stocking" Second ward; John H. Woodward, cabaret proprietor.

A glance at the table shows that only labor representatives were given prison sentences. Ritten, the self-confessed leader of the graft ring, came free untouched and today is a grain merchant in Minneapolis.

Fox, the oil broker, resisted extradition from St. Louis, Mo., for nearly a year. Then he threatened in speeches made to newspaper reporters to "blow the roof off the county building in Minneapolis if not granted immunity." After several conferences with County Attorney Olson the defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $750.

Yet it was this incident which made it possible for Floyd Olson to run for governor in 1930. He was elected by a plurality given him by the labor voters.

The third of this series on "Murder in Minneapolis" will appear in an early issue.

"No more half-sick feeling for me...no more harsh 'all-at-once' cathartics"

When I feel run down, headachy, half sick—when the children get irritable, cranky—then I know it's a sign of constipation. I get out our family box of FEEN-A-MINT, the chewing-gum laxative. There used to be a time when we took old-fashioned, harsh, "all-at-once" cathartics, but that's all over now. We just chew FEEN-A-MINT for three minutes before going to bed—(that's why it's called "the three-minute way")—to wake up next day feeling fit, pleasantly, and gradually. There are no cramps, no nausea, no bad after-effects. Our family wouldn't be without it for anything. Costs only 15c and 25c a box.

Capone's Decade of Death—How Boss Criminal Began Career

Put Into Big Money by Prohibition

for supper, were Joe's audience.

"The second heisting job was even more of a cinch than the first," Joe was saying, his eyes glistening with pride and alcoholic blear. "We took the punks right in their front yard, an' we was off in less than two min——" At that instant the swinging doors swung inward from the street. Two men entered. One of them was familiar to Joe, and Joe stopped talking to greet him.

Then things began to happen. As Runelsbeck remembered it: "'Hello, Al,' cried Joe, putting out his hand. The man he spoke to stuck out his hand, but it held a revolver, and he fired six times. Joe keeled over dead, still grinning."

In a flash the murderer and his partner disappeared out the door.

* * *

The authorities in Chicago knew that it was Al Capone who had killed Joe Howard for interfering with the Capone-Torrio bootleg beer business. To obtain enough evidence to convict Capone seemed a simple matter. And so, thirty minutes after the murder, a general order was flashed to all police stations to arrest him.

But Al Capone was nowhere to be found, and at the inquest the next day the witnesses to the crime were all stricken with mysterious ailments. Heinie Jacobs thought it over. Then he took the witness stand and testified as follows:

"I was called to a rear room to answer a telephone just before the shooting. I don't know nothing about it."

Runelsbeck quiveringly insisted:

"I wouldn't be able to identify Capone even if brought face to face with him."

Bilton could not be found. Two other possible witnesses to the killing, said to have been in Jacobs' saloon at the time, were Tony "Mouth" Bagnola and one Clifford Eaton. Both denied having been there, and no one could give proof to the contrary.

The inquest had to be continued indefinitly, and a month later, when things had quieted down, Capone sauntered into the Cottage Grove police station to remark to Captain McMahon:

"I hear the police are looking for me. What for?"

The captain hustled Capone down to the Criminal courts building to be questioned by a young assistant state's attorney named William H. McSwiggin.

"You're wanted for the murder of Joe Howard," said McSwiggin.

"Who, me?" replied Al with a puzzled look. "Why, I'm a respectable business man. I'm a second-hand furniture dealer."

This was in 1923, after the pork-faced Capone already was well on the road to success. How was he able to fix the witnesses so surely that he could walk into the hands of the police a few weeks later without the slightest fear of taking the rap? What was his background? What sort of training qualified this man to win out over all others in the frenzied scramble to control the $60,000,000-a-year bootleg liquor business which started with the advent of prohibition in a city that was five-to-one wet? What factors shaped the career of this extraordinary being who in a different age and environment might have been a Mussolini or a Napoleon?

He was a sleek, solidly built boy who caught on to things quickly in school and was a help to his mother. He lived near the corner of Broadway and Flushing avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., in an Italian tenement and was known to the boys as Al, son of Capone the barber, who had recently migrated to America from Naples.

* * *

While still in the fourth grade Al quit school to help his parents in their struggle for existence in the slums. Only ten then, his function was to bring home firewood or any other useful supplies he could collect. He seemed affable and soft-spoken except to the few who knew him in anger.

He was smooth as a dancer and frequented a hall then known as the Broadway Casino. He also became one of the best pool players in the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn. He was never afraid of a fight and could hold his own against the best of them.

At the age of twenty-one he had never been arrested. But he was too close to the gang life to be immune for long. The world in which his associates moved was a world mostly of opportunism, a world in which cops were one's natural enemies and anyone carrying money or valuables one's natural prey.

It happened one evening when Al was listening to a political rally. A fellow from his favorite poolroom came up.

"Hey, Al!" he said. "You gotta come back to the joint right away. We need you. A pool shark came in a couple of hours ago an' has been cleanin' us out. Altogether we owe the guy about eight hundred dollars—that is, we did when I left. He's stuck-up as hell, but we all know you could take him. You gotta hurry, though, Al."

Capone hurried to the spot. The boys were overjoyed to see him, for they knew he never drank and that he could be relied on in an emergency. There was one thing that worried them, however. The time was already a quarter to 9, and Al followed an iron-bound rule about going home at 10:30.

"I'll lay two hundred on a game of straight," proposed Al to the confident slicker. "Want to play me?"

"It's a bet," grinned the other. "How about a hundred more on the fifteen ball?"

"O. K.," said Al.

The two set to work. The spectators peered excitedly from adjoining tables. By 10:30 Al had the $800 back and $150 of the stranger's money—and then he said he must go, as he was due home. The stranger was naturally resentful at being left in this humiliating position and demanded that Al remain, but Al put on his coat and smooth gray hat.

Without a word the stranger pulled a long-bladed knife from his pocket, opened it, and gave Al to understand he'd play pool or else! Al did not hesitate one second. His right shot out to the man's chin with all his 200 pounds behind it. The man dropped and lay motionless. Al ran for home.

Twenty minutes later a misinformed friend from the poolroom arrived to tell him that his late opponent was dead. There was excitement and weeping in the Capone home. But Al thought of his tough cousins in the Five Points gang in lower Manhattan at the other end of the Williamsburg bridge. The Five Points gang was then considered the best training school for hoodlums in the country. Surely the Five Points boys would know what Al ought to do.

They did. They assured him he had better get out of town immediately. They said they could help him to the extent of trying to get a former captain in the gang, one Johnny Torrio, to look out for him when he got to Chicago. Torrio had gone there to be associated with "Big Jim" Colosimo, a politician and vice overlord of a section in the southern part of Chicago's First ward.

Al Capone took their advice. He came to Chicago in his best new suit, and, sure enough, Johnny Torrio fixed him up. Torrio got a job for the oversized boy from Brooklyn as watcher for a house of prostitution in Burnham.

While young Capone watched dutifully at his post in Burnham, with his neat scar (said to have been received in a Brooklyn saloon) for his chevron, Big Jim Colosimo was enjoying the lucrative fruits of his political success in the 22d street district. Big Jim had come to Chicago in the nineties and got himself a job as water boy on a railroad section gang. His next job, pushing a broom through the streets of the First ward, gave the ambitious youth much better social opportunities. With broom in hand he met such colorful personages as Alds. Michael (Hinky Dink) Kenna and "Bathhouse John" Coughlin, and it was a natural development for Jim to shift from broom-swinging to vote-swinging. He rose to prominence in the street sweepers' union and organized his fellow whitewings into a social and athletic club which could deliver as a unit at election time and was as bridle-wise as a riding-school nag.

"Some day I'm going to run this ward," Colosimo once said to a fellow sweeper, "and I'm going to build a club that will be the talk of Chicago."

He meant it, and shortly sold his broom for a job in a café. He already was learning how to turn his friendships with "Bathhouse John" and "Hinky Dink" into a golden-egg-laying goose, and in short order he owned his own poolroom. A year or two later saw young Jim a precinct captain with various privileges appertaining to the old levee district located within the boundaries of the ward and bisected by the night-life whoopee spots of 22d street. From poolroom proprietor he became honkytonk owner, then partner in certain red-light enterprises, and finally Big Jim of his own Colosimo's café at 2128 South Wabash avenue.

Eventually Big Jim became the acknowledged boss of the south side underworld, and his revenue came not only from the resorts he owned himself but also in the form of tribute from all other illegal resorts in the district.

But wealth brought with it both comfort and complications. Big Jim was victimized by the American Mafia. He received letters threatening kidnaping for ransom, then threats of torture and death. He decided to get himself a bodyguard and went to New York for the purpose. This was about 1910.

He brought back a 29-year-old gunman named Johnny Torrio whom he had known as one of the elder fuglemen of the Five Points gang. Of Torrio it was said that he was "no ordinary ruffian. . . . He had executive ability, business sagacity, and a practical imagination. He was skilled in the duplicity of politics. He was proficient in the civilities—smooth of tongue and adroit of manner. He had a plausible front. And he was . . . ambitious."

On Torrio's arrival in Chicago, Colosimo's persecution ceased—at least temporarily. Torrio lived by the gun. It was his profession. When shortly after his arrival three Black Handers demanded that Colosimo meet them with $25,000 under an Archer avenue viaduct, Torrio sent four men to the spot with sawed-off shotguns. When the Black Hand leader approached the dark touring car, asking, "Where is our package?" he suddenly found himself looking down a 12-gauge muzzle. For the Black Handers it was a rendezvous with death in the shape of lead slugs at a range of six feet.

* * *

As Torrio felt his power his ambition grew apace. Big Jim Colosimo was prosperous, fat, nearly forty, and growing contented with the status quo. The boundary of his ambition was the southern border of the First ward. But not so with Torrio. Torrio had his eye on the whole city and then some. He was heard saying to a procurer friend one night on 22d street:

"I'm sick of the First ward. There's no money in it. I'm going to start operating wherever I get a chance all over the city and in the suburbs, too, even if Jim won't come along. A monopoly of all Cook county is the only way to handle this business so it'll really pay."

And Johnny Torrio acted on his idea.

Torrio towns sprang up. Prairie centers that had once gone to bed at dusk and risen at cockcrow now had to sit up to all hours with Torrio's growing roadhouse industry.

The first of these towns was Burnham, eighteen miles southeast of the loop and readily accessible to couples and parties driving from southern Chicago, Gary, Hammond, Calumet, and other places for an evening's entertainment. Dance halls, gambling dens, and night clubs of all descriptions arose and ran wide open under the charge of Johnny Patton, the famous "boy mayor," who considerately saw eye to eye with Torrio, for reasons best known to himself.

And then—on May 11, 1920—Colosimo was murdered. A mysterious lone assassin, who has never been identified, secreted himself in the vestibule of Colosimo's café in the early hours of the morning, waited his chance to fire the fatal shot.

With Colosimo gone, Torrio was released from the limitations of his late boss.

Prohibition, coming along at about this time, had caused the closing of the 15,000 legalized oases in Greater Chicago. This gave Torrio something to think about. He was not a little dazzled at the thirst-quenching possibilities in addition to the other business he aspired to control. The two breweries he had leased to supply his private resorts soon were unable to fill the orders that came in from outside. Liquor prices soared. Torrio, the business man, shrewdly left the retail business to others and began to expand a vast wholesale business which rapidly took on the proportions of a south side monopoly.

To operate an industry big enough to satisfy Torrio's ambition would require able lieutenants and a policy of ruthlessness toward all opposition. Who could Torrio get to help him? Torrio was an experienced manager, and he thought the problem over carefully—then picked the sleek Neapolitan boy who had been doing so well in Burnham. Torrio knew that Al Capone was big and strong and quick in action, that he was intelligent, that he drank little, that he could be smooth on occasion, and that he was a natural leader of men.

"How would you like $25,000 a year," said Torrio to Capone one evening in the rear of a 22d street dance hall, "and to be my partner in the beer and booze business? We'll split the liquor profits fifty-fifty. What do you say?"

* * *

"O. K., Johnny," grunted big Al.

The deal was on. Capone stepped into his new position with confidence and alacrity. Soon he began to make his mark. Men learned to fear and respect him. He never asked a man to do anything that he couldn't or wouldn't do himself. He could be as tough as a mad elephant one moment and as playful as a puppy the next. The collection of ill-assorted crooks and criminals that he and Torrio were able to enlist from all over the city quickly took on a measure of discipline under his drill sergeant brand of leadership. His remarkable flair for organizing built up a machine admirably suited to the task set for it. The drivers, sharpshooters, spies, watchmen, lawyers, and others on the pay roll knew what was expected of them, and they did it. Few ever deserted or turned traitor. They not only respected their boss but they feared what he would do to any man who crossed him. The mind behind that massive, heavy-lipped face was unfathomable. Capone did things as if by magic. One day he ordered one of his own brewery watchers to "Lay off gabbin' with that Joe Pizzito. You know he's not with us."

"How did the big feller know I'd been talkin' with Joe lately?" the man asked his watch partner that night.

"O, Al's got spies everywhere," came the reply.

When it became necessary to do away with the various rival gangs who contested the Torrio-Capone monopoly over all Cook county's liquor and vice business Capone did not hesitate to send his army out to meet the enemy. His orders were: "Wait till they get where you want 'em, then let 'em have it."

The headquarters of the Capone-Torrio organization in these early days was an unobtrustive four-story structure at 2222 South Wabash avenue known as the Four Deuces. It looked like a rooming house from the outside, but it actually was a den of iniquity of the first order. On the ground floor were the Torrio-Capone general offices and a saloon and café. The second and third floors were devoted to gambling and the fourth to the demi-monde. The place was widely known to have been the scene of twelve murders, all unsolved.

Having proved the efficacy of his methods in the Joe Howard case, Al adopted ruthlessness as a basic policy in eliminating business competition. The following September, 1923, in the process of expanding his south side territory, he encountered the opposition of a gang known as the south side O'Donnells. Spike O'Donnell, the leader, had for partners his brothers, Steve, Walter, and Tommy, as well as three thick-skinned henchmen named Jerry O'Connor, George "Spot" Bucher, and Georgia Meeghan. The O'Donnell method of expanding their wholesale territory was to invade a speakeasy which had not been buying their liquor, let the proprietor see their artillery dangling in belt holsters, and put the question. "Who you buying from?"

After listening to the answer, which they knew already, they would tactfully suggest, "Well, how about going along with us?"

Power Won by Gunplay and Politics

The worried man in most cases would ask time to consider, in which case the O'Donnells would grant him a twenty-four-hour stay, at the end of which, if he was still stubborn, they would emphasize their argument with fists or revolver butts. Few speakeasy owners held out further.

An exception was Jacob Geis, who said, "I buy my beer from Capone and Torrio, and I'm satisfied with it."

Even fists could not change Jake's mind, for his burly frame was a little too much for O'Donnell's two drummers, who got bounced elaborately out Jake's door. So three O'Donnell brothers, with O'Connor, Meeghan, and Bucher, called at Geis' neighborhood saloon at 2154 West 51st street early in the evening of Sept. 7, 1923, with the result that Geis was taken to a hospital with a fractured skull and lay at the point of death for weeks. After their argument with Geis that evening the aroused O'Donnells invaded five other recalcitrant beer sellers, administering various treatments, and then repaired to Joseph Klepka's saloon at 5358 South Lincoln street, a sort of headquarters, to partake of refreshments.

It was while they were relaxing in Klepka's place that five men entered and the leader, brandishing his .38, roared:

"Stick up your hands or I'll blow you to hell."

The O'Donnells scattered for the doors and were pursued closely to the street, where, shooting wildly at their attackers, they made their escape—all except Jerry O'Connor, who lay dead on the sidewalk, shot through the heart.

In the official records Jerry O'Connor's death is indexed as the first killing of the bootleg war. It was followed ten days later, Sept. 17, by the murders of his associates, Meeghan and Bucher.

* * *

The repercussions of the O'Donnell purge, however, would have been enough to worry a commander of lesser stature. The late William E. Dever, then six months in office as mayor, was so shocked by the killings that he revoked the licenses of 2,000 "soft drink parlors," summoned Chief of Police Collins to his office, and assumed personal charge of the situation. His official statement said:

"The police will follow this case to a finish as they do all others. This guerrilla war between hijackers, rum runners, and illicit beer peddlers can and will be crushed."

It was a brave utterance—but it was almost equally futile. There were to be 9 more killings similar to that of O'Connor in the fall of 1923, 16 in 1924, 46 in 1925, and 64 in 1926, Mr. Dever's last year in office. In this total of 135 gang murders during the rise of the young pool player from Brooklyn only six men were to be brought to trial. Of the six all were to be acquitted save one—Sam Vinci, who chose the occasion of a coroner's inquest to dispatch John Minatti with a .45-caliber automatic. His explanation was:

"John killed my brother Mike, and I thought the jury was going to free him."

Vinci was sent to Joliet penitentiary for twenty-five years.

The situation already was beyond Dever's control. In the fall of 1923 Capone had no fewer than 700 men on his pay roll, and there was a general stampede of criminal opportunists to his camp. He soon formed an alliance with the surviving south side O'Donnells. The wholesale liquor industry was flourishing. Money, which last year had been measured in C's ($100 bills), now was lightly discussed in terms of the "grand" ($1,000). And the impecunious young pimp, who had been delighted with an annual salary of $25,000 a couple of years before, now handed out in the booze trafic alone some $25,000 a week in pay rolls.

The foregoing is the first article of a series of three on the rise and fall of Al Capone. The second will appear next week.

CAPONE'S VICTIMS

NAME	DATE	REASON FOR KILLING
1—Joe Howard	May 7, 1923	Because he tried hijacking Capone-Torrio beer and was a contemptible braggart who thought he was tough.
2—Dion O'Banion	Nov. 10, 1924	Because he ran the north side liquor business and declared war on the south side Italians when he said, "To hell with the Sicilians!"
3—Thomas Duffy	April 27, 1926	Because Capone suspected them of treachery.
4—James J. Doherty	April 27, 1926
5—William H. McSwiggin (assistant state's attorney)	April 27, 1926	Because he happened to be with Duffy and Doherty that night.
6—Earl Hymie Weiss	Oct. 11, 1926	Because he was O'Banion's successor on the north side and out to get Capone.
7—John Costenaro	Jan. 7, 1927	Because they were planning to testify against Capone in a conspiracy trial.
8—Santo Celebron	Jan. 7, 1927
9—Antonio Torchio	May 25, 1927	Because he was a New York killer imported to get Capone.
10—Frank Hitchcock	July 27, 1927	Because he was a bootlegger enemy whom Johnny Patton wanted to put out of the way.
11—Anthony K. Russo	Aug. 11, 1927	Because they were imported from St. Louis to kill Capone.
12—Vincent Spicuzza	Aug. 11, 1927
13—Samuel Valente	Sept. 24, 1927	Because he was imported from Cleveland to kill Capone.
14—Harry Fuller	Jan. 18, 1928	Because they were hijackers of Capone beer and booze.
15—Joseph Cagiando	Jan. 18, 1928
16—Joseph Fasso	Jan. 18, 1928
17—"Diamond Joe" Esposito	March 21, 1928	Because he didn't want to support Al on election day.
18—Ben Newmark	April 23, 1928	Because he tried to organize his own gang in rivalry with Capone, and also because the member of Capone's bodyguard who did the job wanted to conceal his treachery by such a gesture of loyalty.
19—Francesco Uale (Frank Yale)	July 1, 1928	Because he double-crossed Capone while serving as rum-running manager.
20—Frank Gusenberg	Feb. 14, 1929	Because they were in the Moran gang hangout on the St. Valentine's day when Capone's men executed their most desperate attempt to wipe out their north side rivals.
21—Pete Gusenberg	Feb. 14, 1929
22—John May	Feb. 14, 1929
23—Al Weinshank	Feb. 14, 1929
24—James Clark	Feb. 14, 1929
25—Adam Heyer	Feb. 14, 1929
26—Dr. Schwimmer	Feb. 14, 1929
27—Albert Anselmi	May 8, 1929	Because Guinta, as president of the Unione Sicilione, was treacherously planning to do away with Capone, assisted by Anselmi and Scalise.
28—John Scalise	May 8, 1929
29—Joseph Guinta (Juno)	May 8, 1929
30—Frankie Marlow	June 24, 1929	Because he welched on a debt of $250,000.
31—Julius Rosenheim	Feb. 1, 1930	Because he was a professional stool pigeon for the police and a paid newspaper informant.
32—Jack Zuta	Aug. 1, 1930	Because he was a spy who double-crossed Capone.
33—Joe Aiello	Oct. 23, 1930	Because he was a dangerous rival gang leader and ally of Bugs Moran.

For Bad Cough, Mix This Better Remedy, at Home

Needs No Cooking! Big Saving!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The pint thus made gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money, yet it is far more effective than ready-made medicine. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This home-mixed remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes the irritated membranes, loosens the phlegm, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous for its effect in stopping coughs quickly. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

The Secret of Alexander Hamilton and Mrs. Reynolds

Being the Suppressed Confession of the Great Revolutionary Statesman

Adapted by Louise Bargelt

SYNOPSIS

In the preceding instalment the story of the first appearance of Alexander Hamilton's "Confession" was described. It appeared on the streets of Philadelphia one July day in 1797 with all its appalling details. To vindicate himself of charges of dishonesty with public funds Hamilton unveiled his amour with Maria Reynolds. The confession gave Hamilton's own story of his first meeting with Maria, the start of the affair, and its continuance up to the time it was discovered by James Reynolds, the husband. Reynolds wrote immediately to Hamilton, demanding $1,000. He argued that Hamilton would pay the money rather than permit the affair to become public property. The first secretary of the treasury was in a menacing situation. A violent personal explosion would wreck him—and perhaps cause the downfall of his party.

Italics are editor's explanatory notes.

CHAPTER II.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON took three days to decide how he should answer Reynolds' threatening demand for $1,000 as "soothing plaister" for his wounded honor. Hamilton was trapped and felt convinced that he had walked into the meshes of a prearranged plot. The receipts from James Reynolds show how Hamilton met the crafty husband's terms.

Dec. 22, 1791.

Received December 22 of Alexander Hamilton six hundred dollars on account of a sum of one thousand dollars due to me.

JAMES REYNOLDS.

Jan. 3, 1792.

Received Philadelphia January 3, 1792 of Alexander Hamilton four hundred dollars in full of all demands. JAMES REYNOLDS.

Hamilton's comment on the transaction is pertinent:

I determined to give it to him, and did so, in two payments, as per receipts dated the 22d of December and the 3d of January. It is a little remarkable that an avaricious, speculating secretary of the treasury should have been so straitened for money as to be obliged to satisfy an engagement of this sort by two payments!

Alexander Hamilton found it difficult to pay the money. He was the first great business man of our country, but he had no genius or interest in acquiring personal wealth. He had given up a brilliant, lucrative law practice in New York to accept a salary of $3,500 a year as secretary of the treasury in Washington's first cabinet and guide the country out of bankruptcy. His family was a large and growing one, the gracious Betsey Hamilton was a lavish entertainer, and Hamilton himself was the most generous of men. He felt, however, that a thousand dollars was a small sum if it would silence Reynolds and bury the whole miserable affair. Unfortunately, Reynolds and his wife, Maria, had no intention of letting the matter drop.

On the 17th of January [Hamilton's confession reads] I received the letter by which Reynolds invites me to renew my visits to his wife. He had before requested that I would see her no more. The motive to this step appears in the conclusion of the letter: "I rely upon your befriending me, if there should anything offer what should be to my advantage, as you express a wish to befriend me." Is the preëxistence of a speculating connection reconcilable with this mode of expression?

Philadelphia 17th Jan. 1792.

Sir I Suppose you will be surprised in my writing to you Repeatedly as I do. but don't be Alarmed for its Mrs. R. wish to See you. and for My own happiness and hers. I have not the Least Objections to your Calling. as a friend to Boath of us. and must Rely intirely on your and her honnor, when I conversed with you last. I told you it would be disagreeable to me for you to Call, but Sence, I am Pretty well Convinced, She would onely wish to See you as a friend, and sence I am Reconciled to live with her, I would wish to do everything for her happiness and my own, and Time may ware of everything So don't fail in Calling me Soon as you Can make it Conveanant, and I rely on your befriending me if there should anything Offer that would be to my advantage, as You Express a wish to befriend me.

* * *

Hamilton made no immediate reply to this astonishing invitation from Reynolds to renew his visits to Maria. Hamilton had flung himself into the affair with his customary disregard of consequences, but after six months of extramarital enjoyments his ardor had begun to cool and discretion asserted itself. Moreover, the wily Reynolds' demand for money had brought home to Hamilton the painful aftermath of an amorous intrigue.

In the previous two years as secretary of the treasury Hamilton's colossal efforts and financial genius had succeeded in putting the country on a vastly improved economic basis. The national prosperity had increased and Hamilton's popularity was at its height. But his enemies were growing in numbers, and they were indefatigable in their search for some point at which they could find him vulnerable. The anti-Federalists, or Republicans, as they now called themselves, led by Jefferson, Madison, and Monroe, were thundering their protests against this "West Indian bastard's monarchial ideas and one-man government."

Hamilton had no way of knowing if the seductive Maria were a party to her husband's ruse for recompense. But he could picture the exultant triumph of his political opponents if Reynolds should suddenly decide to publicize the sorry liaison. It would be a feast for the hungry horde, with Aaron Burr in the front ranks of shocked patriots. The ever-smiling Burr, whose hate for Hamilton was deep, was already plotting to undermine the secretary's power.

A few days passed, and then a distracted letter from Maria arrived—the first of a series of illy spelt but ardent and impassioned missives:

Monday Naght Eight C, L

Sir, I need not acquaint that I had Been Sick all moast Ever since I saw you as I am sure you allready no It Nor would I solicit a favor wich Is so hard to obtain were It not for the Last time. Yes Sir Rest assuirred I will never ask you to Call on me again. I have kept my Bed those tow dayes and now rise from my Pillow wich your Neglect has filled with the sharpest thorns. I no longer Doubt what I have Dreaded to no but stop I do not wish to se you to say any thing about my Late disappontments. No I only do it to Ease a heart or sleep. I have Been on the point of doing the moast horrid acts at I shuder to think where I might have been what will Become of me. In vain I try to Call reason to aide me but alas there Is no Comfort for me I feel as If I should not Contennue long and all the wish I have Is to se you once more that I may my doupts Cleared up. for God sake be not so voed of all humannity as to deni me this Last request but if you will not Call some time this night I no its late but any tim between this and twelve A Clock I shall be up Let me Intreat you if you wont Come to send me a Line. oh my head I can rite no more do something to Ease my Heart or Els I do not [know] what I shall do for I cannot live. MARIA.

If Hamilton were stirred by Maria's despair he gave no sign. He was struggling under a mountain of work and keenly concerned over the whirlwind of speculation throughout the infant country. Stocks were rising with insane speed, numerous new banks were starting, bullish activity prevailed, and everyone was making money. Hamilton was afraid the country might collapse if panic came, and his only thoughts at this moment were to devise some effective means by which the speculative tide could be stemmed.

Maria's interests, however, were still centered in Hamilton. She waited a few weeks and then sent him a second note:

Wensday Morning ten of Clock.

Dear Sir I have kept my bed those tow days past but find myself mutch better at presant though yet full distreesed and shall till I se you. fretting was the Cause of my Illiness I thought you had been told to stay away from our house and yesterday with tears In my Eyes I beged Mr. [Reynolds] once more to permit your visits and he told upon his honnour that he had not said anything to you and that It was your own fault. believe me I scarce knew how to beleeve my senses and if my seturation was insupportable before I heard this It was now more so. fear prevents my saing more only that I shal be miserable till I se you and if my dear freend has the Least Esteeme for the unhappy Maria whos grateest fault is Loveing him he will come as soon as he shall get this and till that time My breast will be the seate of pain and woe. adieu MARIA

——Col. Hamilton

P. S. If you cannot come this Eveneng to stay just come only for one moment as I shall be Lone Mr. is going to sup with a friend from New-York

It was not until Maria's third letter that Hamilton renewed his visits to the cheap little boarding house room on the "second floor, rear." He makes no comment on this act in his confession excepting to say: "If I recollect rightly, I did not immediately accept Reynolds' invitation, not till after I had received several very importunate letters from Mrs. Reynolds." Maria's third letter reads:

Monday Morning.

Dear Sir: the Girl tells me that you said if I wanted any thing I should write this morning. alas my friend want what. what can ask for but peace which you alone can restore to my tortured bosom and do My dear Col Hamilton on my neese Let me Intreatee you to reade my Letter and Comply with my request tell the bearer of this or give her a line you need not be the least affraid. let me not die with fear. have pity on me my freend for I deserve it. I would not solicit this favor but I am sure it cannot injure you and will be all the happines I Ever Exspect to have. But oh I am disstressed more than I can tell. My heart is ready to burst and my tears wich once could flow with Ease are now denied me. Could I onely weep I would tank Heaven and bless the hand that MARIA

Hamilton's astuteness in financial and governmental matters did not extend to affairs of the heart. It would seem that any spell Maria Reynolds might once have cast would have been broken, now that the relationship had degenerated into a sordid triangular arrangement. But when Hamilton's passions blazed his discretion flickered and died. There was something in Maria's blonde beauty which stirred Hamilton's Gallic blood, and his desire to recapture the bliss of their stolen hours together certainly overcame his reason.

At any rate his return to her poorly furnished, drab lodging house room was made in the face of Reynolds' dangerous rascality, his precious Betsey's worshipful, wifely devotion, and while his flaming friendship for Madame Croix was still burning brightly. Hamilton's interest in the admittedly captivating Eliza Croix was more romantic than passionate and never reached the state of infatuation she felt for him.

Maria won him back, but her second triumph was brief. She did not hold him. A letter from her husband to Hamilton on March 24, and another one from her on the same day, savored too much of a family combine. Maria's spell was broken.

On the 24th of March following [Hamilton continues] I received a letter from Reynolds, and on the same day one from his wife. These letters will further illustrate the obliging coöperation of the husband with his wife to aliment and keep alive my connection with her.

Sunday Evening 24th March, 1792

Sir On my entering the Room the last evening I found Mrs Reynolds in a setuvation little different from distraction and for some time could not prevail upon her to tell me the Cause. At last She informed me that you had been here. likewise of a letter she had wrote you in a fright. she need not have don as I Never intended doing anything I told her but did it to humble Her for the imprudent language she made youse of to me. and You may Rest ashured sir that I have not a wish to do anything that may give you or your family a moments pain I know not what you may think of me. but suppose yourself for a moment in my setuvation. that your wife whom you tenderly love should place her affections on another object and here her say, that all her happines depends intirely on that object. what would you do in such a Case. would you have acted as I have don. I have Consented to things which I thought I never could have don. but I have dun it to make life tolerable. and for the sake of a person whose happines is dearer to me than my own. I have another afliction aded to the Rest that is almost insupportable. I find that when ever you have been with her she is Chearful and kind. but when you have not in some time she is Quite the Reverse and wishes to be alone by her self. but when I tell her of it all her answer is she Cant help it and hopes I will forgive her. shurely you Cannot wonder if I should Act ever so imprudent. though at present if I could take all her Grief upon myself I would do it with pleashure. the excess of which alarm me until now I have had no idea of. I have spent this day at her bedside in tyring to give her the consolation which I myself stand in need of. she also tell me you wish to see me tomorrow evening and then I shall Convince you that I would not wish to trifle with you And would much Rather add to the happines of all than to disstress any

Two weeks later James Reynolds decided the time was ripe to issue another call for money. The closing sentence of the following letter shows that he is beginning to consider Hamilton his private banker. Hamilton makes no comment on this demand for cash to assist in Reynolds' household purchases, and the receipt shows that he paid the money the same day.

Philadelphia, 3rd, April, 1792

Alexr. Hamilton

The above letters from Reynolds are all an additional comment on the same plan [the confession continues]. It was a persevering scheme to spare no pains to levy contributions upon my passions on the one hand and upon my apprehensions of discovery on the other.

These letters collectively furnish a complete elucidation of the nature of my transactions with Reynolds. They resolve themselves into an amorous connection with his wife, detected or pretended to be detected by the husband, imposing on me the necessity of a pecuniary composition with him, and leaving me afterwards under a duress for fear of disclosure which was the instrument of levying upon me from time to time forced loans. . . .

* * *

Mrs. Reynolds more than once communicated to me that Reynolds would occasionally relapse into discontent at his situation—would treat her very ill—hint at the assassination of me—and more openly threaten, by way of revenge, to inform Mrs. Hamilton — all this naturally gave me some uneasiness. I could not be absolutely certain whether it was artifice or reality. In the workings of human inconsistency it was very possible that the same man might be corrupt enough to compound for his wife's chastity and yet have sensibility enough to be restless in the situation and to hate the cause of it.

Reflections like these induced me sometimes to use palliatives with the ill humors which were announced to me. . . .

The next letter from Reynolds is a masterpiece. The husband here forbids my future visits to his wife, chiefly because I was careful to avoid publicity. It was probably necessary to the project of some deeper treason against me that I should be seen at the house. Hence it was contrived, with all the caution on my part to avoid it, that Clingman should occasionally see me.

Hamilton's reference to Clingman, a clerk in the employ of F. Muhlenberg, speaker of the house, showed that he had an instinctive distrust of Clingman. He knew that Reynolds and the clerk were good friends, and his knowledge of Reynolds' chicanery made him wary of his friends. It seemed likely to Hamilton—a suspicion later to be proved a fact—that Clingman and Reynolds were working together in this blackmailing game. Soon Hamilton received another letter from Reynolds:

Philadelphia 2d. May. 1792.

Sir I must now for ever forbid you of visiting Mrs. R any more. I was in hopes that it would in time ware off, but I find there is no hopes. So I am determed to put a finell end to it, if its in my power, for I find by your Seeing her onely Renews the Friendship. and likewise when you Call you are feareful any person Should See you. am I a person of Such a bad Carector? Should that you would not wish to be seen in Coming in my house in the front way. all any person Can say of me is that I am poore and I dont know if that is any Crime. So I must meet my fate. I have Reasons for it for I cannot be Reconciled to it for there is know person Can tell the pain it would give me except he were placed in my sutivation. I am shure the world would despise me if he Onely new what I have been Reconciled to, I am in hopes in a short time to make you amends for your favour Rendered me I am sir your humble Servant

J. REYNOLDS.

Alexr. Hamilton Esqr.

Hamilton's relief at what he thought was the end of the affair was short-lived. As he notes in his confession:

The interdiction was every way welcome and was, I believed, strictly observed. On the second of June following I received another letter from Mrs. Reynolds, which proves that it was not yet her plan to let me off:

Saturday Morning the June 2.

Dear Sir I once take up the pen to solicit The favor of Seeing [you] again. oh Col Hamilton what have I done that you should thus Neglect me. is it because I am unhappy? But stop, I will not say you have for perhaps you have caled and have found no opportunity to Come. In at least I hope you have. I am now A lone and shal be for a few days I believe till Wensday though am not sartain and would wish to se you this Evening If posebie. If not as soon as you can make it convenent. oh my dear freend how shal I pleade Enough what shal I say Let me beg of you to Come and If you never se me again oh If you think it best I will submit to It and take a long and last adieu MARI

Col Hamilton

For heaven sake keep me not in suspince. Let me know yor intention Either by a Line or Cataline

The hour was at hand, Hamilton felt, when the Reynolds affair had to be faced and settled.

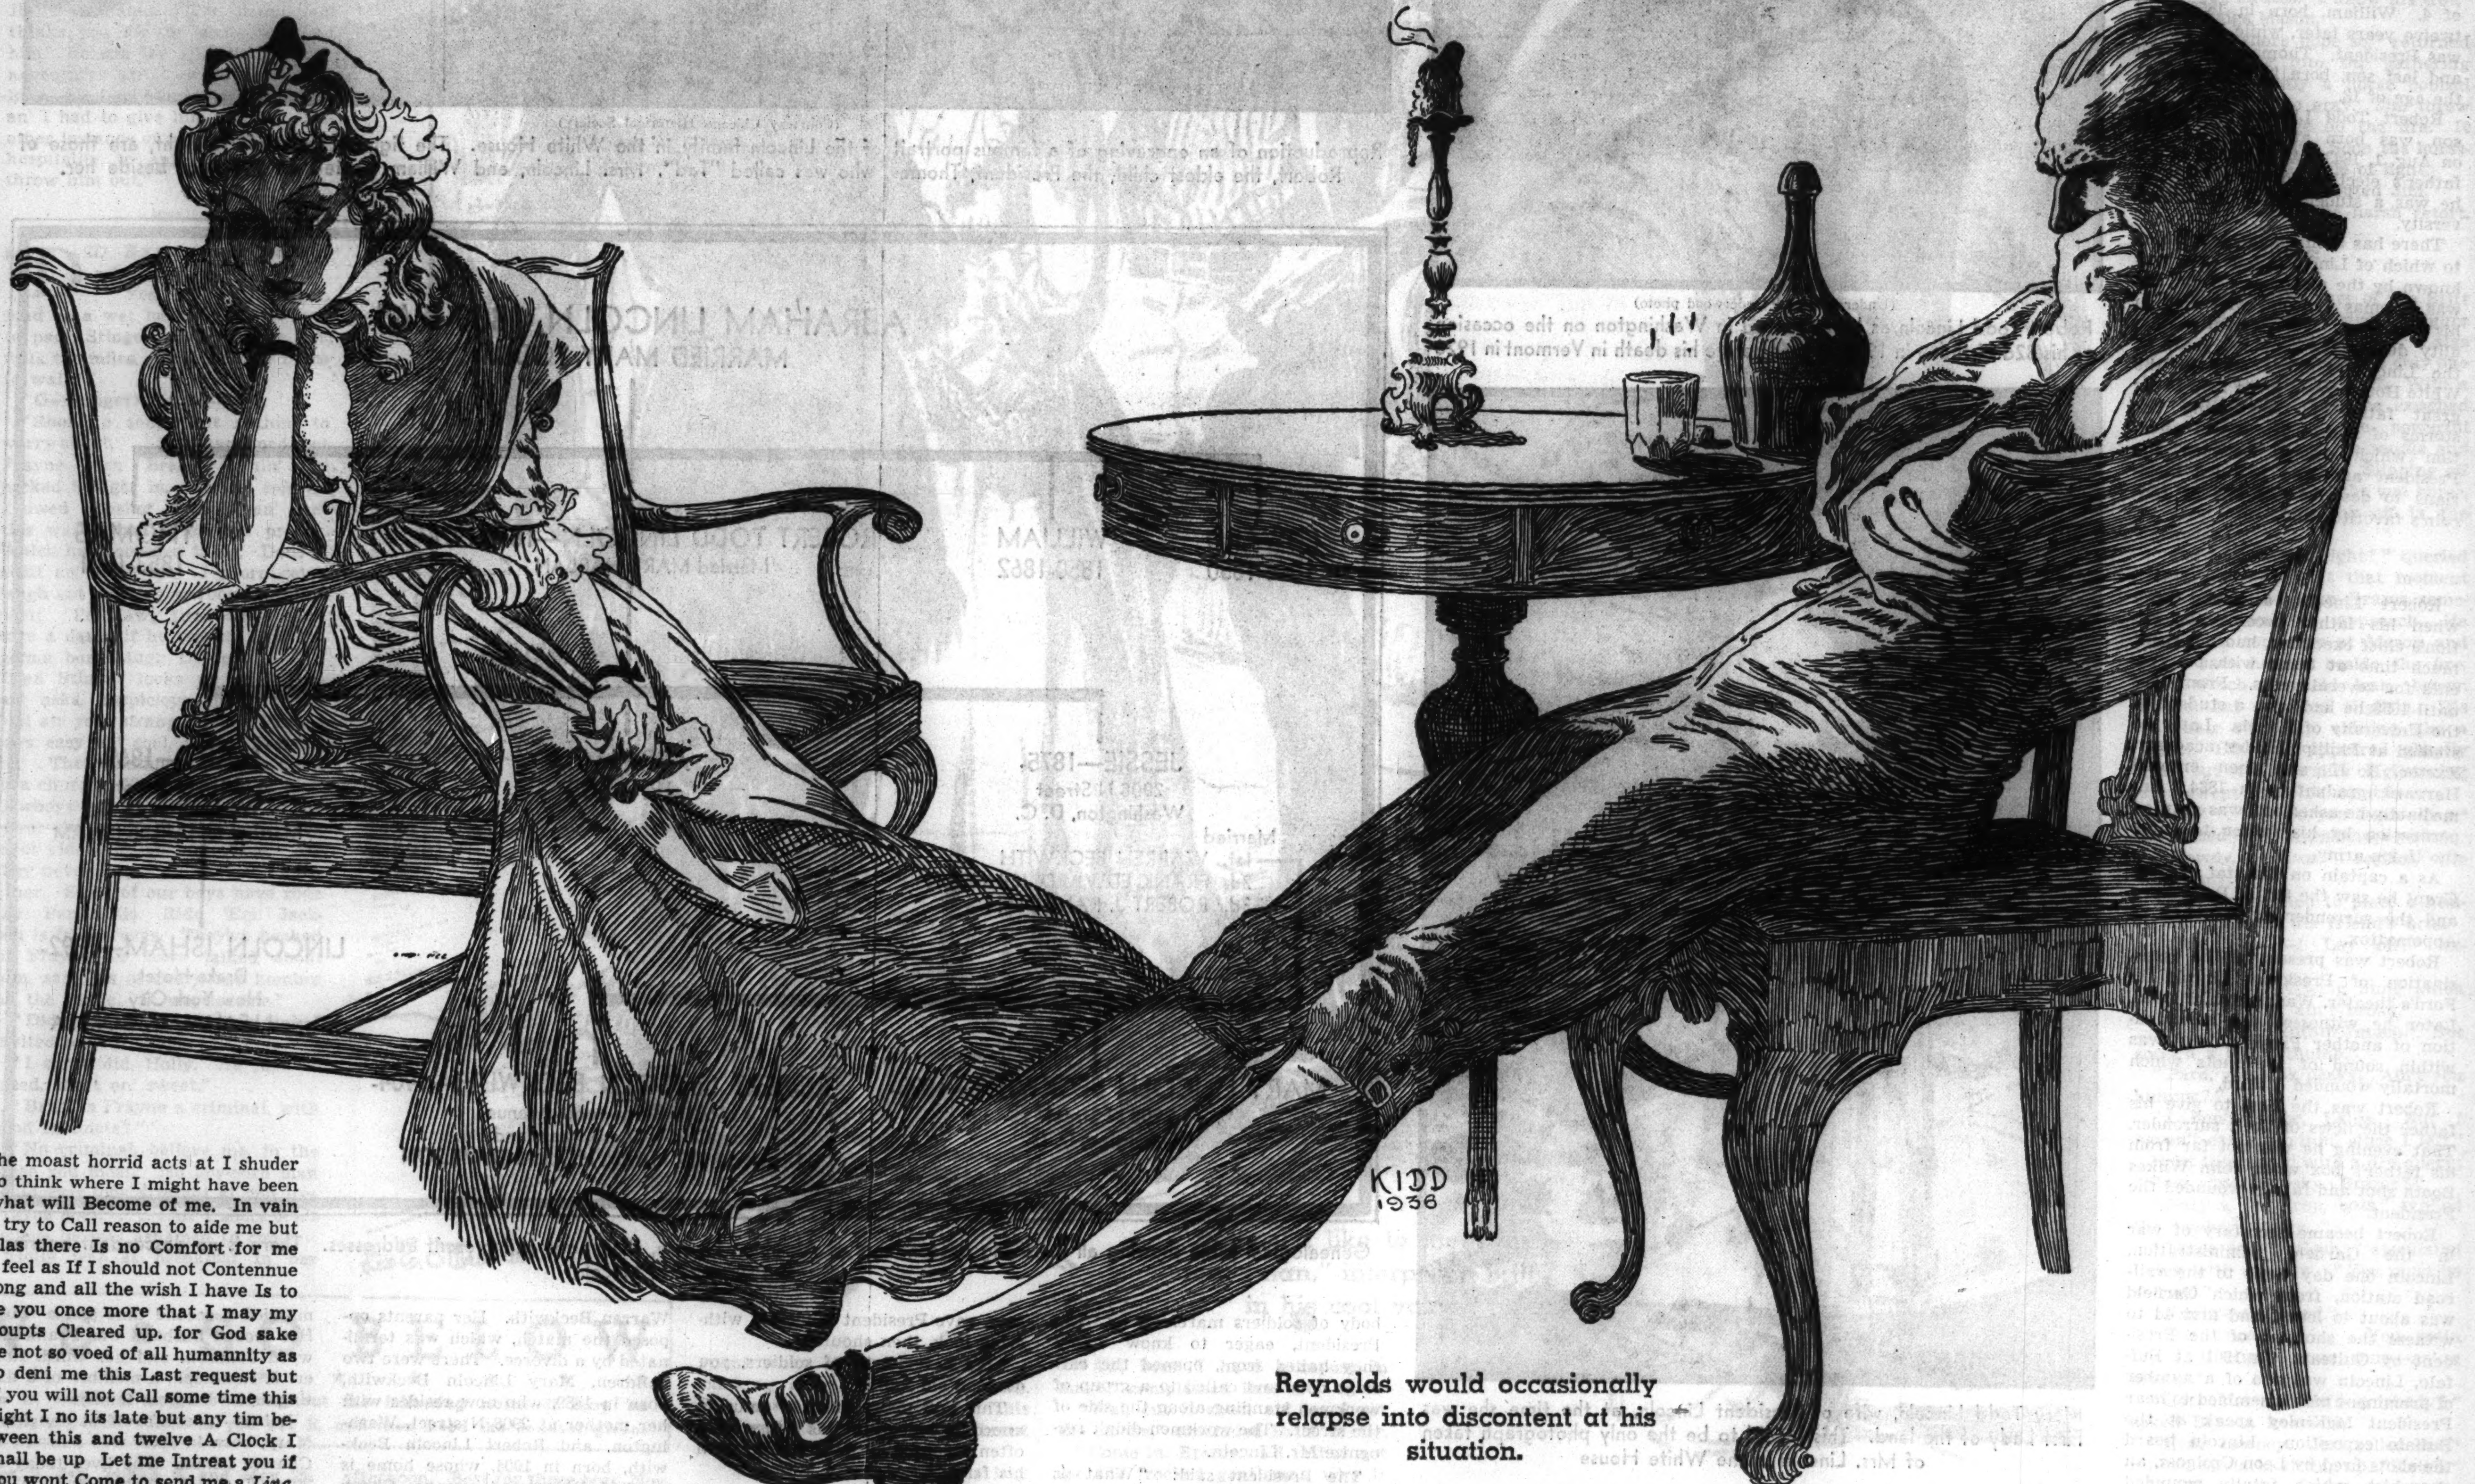
The next instalment will continue Hamilton's confession, with his decision in the Reynolds case and the wrecking events which follow.



Reynolds would occasionally relapse into discontent at his situation.

The Living Descendants of Lincoln—Who They Are

Five Remain; All Reside in East

One of the last pictures ever taken of Robert Todd Lincoln, son of President Lincoln, before the former's death in 1926

Abraham Lincoln, whose 127th birthday anniversary will be observed by the nation next Wednesday, was destined to have very few descendants, none of whom today bears the family surname. The last of the male line of Lincolns directly descended from the great civil war President was his eldest son, Robert Todd Lincoln, who died in 1926 at the age of 83 after a long and distinguished public and private career.

Robert Lincoln had three children, one of them a son, Abraham, who died in 1890 at the age of 17. His two daughters, Mary and Jessie, are living today in Washington. The first named has a son, Lincoln Isham, a resident of New York, and the last named has a daughter, Mary Lincoln Beckwith, who lives in Washington, and a son, Robert Lincoln Beckwith, a resident of Chevy Chase, Md.

President and Mrs. Lincoln had four sons, only one of whom reached majority. He was Robert, their eldest, born in 1843. The next, Edward, born in 1846, died at the age of 4. William, born in 1850, died twelve years later, while his father was President. Thomas, the fourth and last son, born in 1853, died at the age of 18.

Robert Todd Lincoln, the eldest son, was born at Springfield, Ill., on Aug. 1, 1843. At the time of his father's election to the presidency he was a student at Harvard university.

There has been some confusion as to which of Lincoln's four sons was known by the nickname "Tad." He was Thomas Lincoln, who died in his 18th year. His cheerful personality during the troubled years of the Lincoln family's stay in the White House was a great help to his great father in weathering the storms of state. The warm affection which existed between the President and Tad had led historians to describe the son as Lincoln's favorite child.

⁂

Robert Lincoln, a young man when his father became the nation's chief executive, had not spent much time at home with his parents for several years. From 1853 until 1859 he had been a student at the University of Illinois. Later he studied at Phillips Exeter academy, Exeter, N. H., and then entered Harvard, graduating in 1864. Immediately he asked and was granted permission by his father to enter the Union army.

As a captain on the staf of Gen. Grant he saw the fall of Petersburg and the surrender of Gen. Lee at Appomattox.

Robert was present at the assassination of President Lincoln in Ford's theater, Washington, in 1865. Later he witnessed the assassination of another President and was within sound of the shots which mortally wounded a third.

Robert was the first to give his father the news of Lee's surrender. That evening he was not far from his father's box when John Wilkes Booth shot and fatally wounded the President.

Robert became secretary of war in the Garfield administration. Lincoln one day went to the railroad station, from which Garfield was about to leave, and arrived to witness the shooting of the President by Guiteau. In 1901 at Buffalo, Lincoln was one of a number of prominent men assembled to hear President McKinley speak at the Buffalo exposition. Lincoln heard the shots fired by Leon Czolgosz, an anarchist, which fatally wounded the President.

Following the death of President Lincoln, Robert came with his mother to Chicago. He had studied law at Harvard and was admitted to the bar in Illinois in 1867. He conducted a law practice in Chicago until he was invited by Garfield to serve as secretary of war in 1881.

Mary Todd Lincoln, wife of President Lincoln, at the time she was First Lady of the land. This is said to be the only photograph taken of Mrs. Lincoln in the White House

William Lincoln, known affectionately as "Willie," who died while his father was President in 1862. His death, added to the great strain of the civil war, greatly increased the burden carried by President Lincoln at the time

Robert Lincoln had been married in 1868 to Mary Harlan, a daughter of ex-Senator James Harlan of Iowa.

After serving as secretary of war he was again called upon to serve the country by the state department. He served as the United States representative in London until 1893, when he again returned to Chicago. For several years he acted as special counsel for the Pullman company and later became its president.

The Lincoln family resided in Chicago on Lake Shore drive north of Division street. Mr. Lincoln served at one time as president of the Chicago Historical society and he was a member of the Chicago and Union League clubs. He gave up his active law practice and business interests in 1910, when the family moved east, spending the summers at Mr. Lincoln's Vermont estate at Manchester, Vt., and the winters in Washington.

⁂

Biographers of Robert Todd Lincoln have said that he had no more distinguishing characteristic than his refusal to trade on the greatness of his father, in spite of which his career was noteworthy both in public and private life. He was of a taciturn and retiring nature, revealing his true personality only to his close friends, who described him as a charming conversationalist and an entertaining story teller, a trait inherited from his father.

One of these friends, a Chicagoan, recalled a story told by Robert Lincoln about his father.

Mr. Lincoln was reminded of the anecdote while watching a military parade marching down Michigan avenue. He recalled that his father, then President, had always exhibited a great curiosity, whenever he saw marching troops, to know what state they came from.

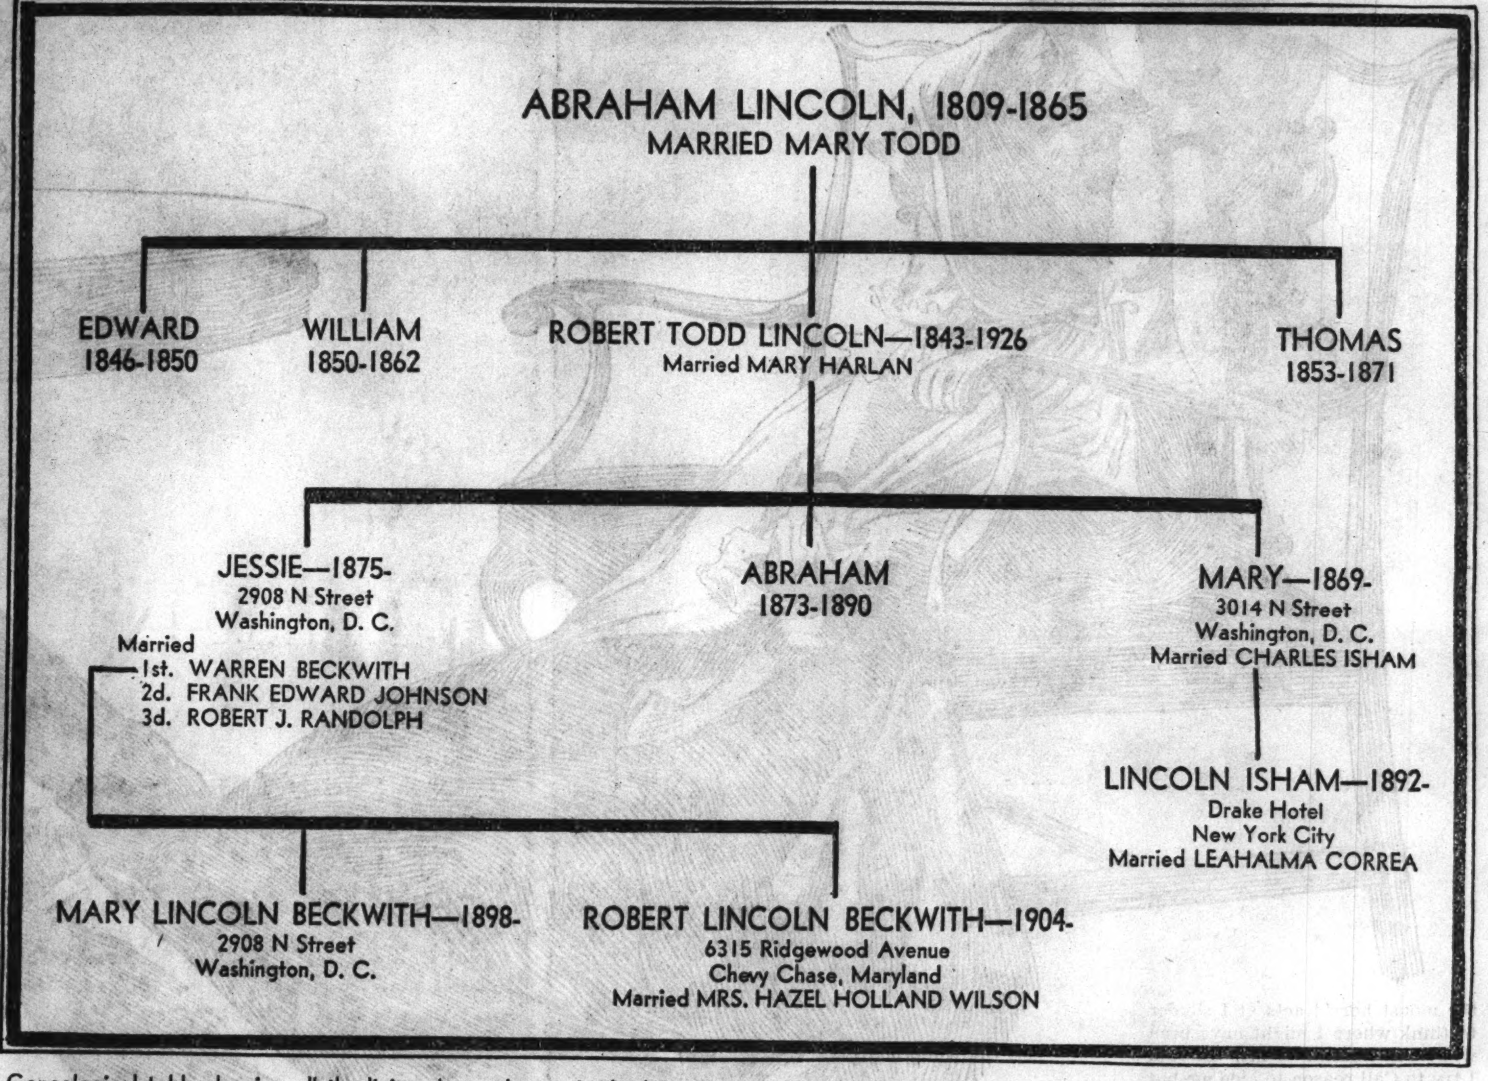
One day in Washington the President and Robert had just left the White House in a carriage. They were stopped at the corner by a body of soldiers marching by. The President, eager to know where they hailed from, opened the carriage door and called to a group of workmen standing along the side of the street. The workmen didn't recognize Mr. Lincoln.

The President said: "What is that, boys?" meaning where did the soldiers come from.

One of the workmen, a small, red-haired man with a typical Irish face, gave President Lincoln a withering look, then shouted:

"It's a regiment of soldiers, you damned old fool!"

This and many another amusing anecdote concerning his father were often repeated by Robert Lincoln to his friends.



Genealogical table showing all the living descendants of Abraham Lincoln, their ages and present addresses. There is no descendant bearing the surname of Lincoln

The youngest of Robert's two daughters, both of whom now live in Washington, Jessie, born in 1875, was married when quite young to Warren Beckwith. Her parents opposed the match, which was terminated by a divorce. There were two children, Mary Lincoln Beckwith, born in 1889, who now resides with her mother at 2908 N street, Washington, and Robert Lincoln Beckwith, born in 1904, whose home is at 6315 Ridgewood avenue, Chevy Chase, Md. Mr. Beckwith married Mrs. Hazel Holland Wilson.

Mrs. Jessie Lincoln Beckwith was married a second time and a third. Her second husband was Frank Edward Johnson, and her third, Robert J. Randolph, a member of a distinguished Virginia family.

Robert Lincoln's eldest daughter, Mary, born in 1869, was married to Charles Isham. She lives today at 3014 N street, Washington, D. C. Her only child, a son, Lincoln Isham, born in 1892, resides at the Drake hotel, New York.

All five of the living descendants of Abraham Lincoln lead quiet, secluded lives and have kept very much out of the public eye because all of them shun publicity.

Perhaps the most active of the great-grandchildren of President Lincoln is Mary Lincoln Beckwith. Several years ago she became an aviation enthusiast and now is a licensed pilot. She long has been a familiar figure at Bolling field and other airports in the vicinity of Washington. Professional pilots who have watched her fly a plane consider her to be an exceptionally good pilot.

⁂

Neither of the two great-grandsons have shown any inclination to pursue a public career. Mr. Isham, who several years ago married Leahalma Correa, leads a very quiet life in New York, as does his cousin, Mr. Beckwith, in Chevy Chase.

It is natural that Abraham Lincoln's descendants should studiously avoid publicity, as otherwise it is probable that because of their direct connection with one of America's greatest Presidents they would be given little of either peace or privacy.

For years the grandchildren and great-grandchildren of the Great Emancipator have been besieged, especially at this time of year, for interviews and for public appearances.

Aside from the perfectly normal and understandable desire of the members of the family to avoid undue publicity, it is probable all of them inherit retiring natures from Robert Lincoln, whose adamant refusal to make capital of the greatness of his father amounted almost to a religion.

At the time of Robert's death in 1926 the country mourned the fact that with him ended the famous name, but at the same time paid homage to the distinguished man he was in his own right. For the last few years of his life he had been in failing health. He died of a cerebral hemorrhage while asleep at his estate in Vermont. He was one month less than 88 years old.

The passing of Robert Lincoln was particularly mourned in Chicago, where he had formed so many close associations during the years of his residence here. His friends associated him closely with the traditions of Abraham Lincoln and revered him for the dignity with which he had borne his illustrious name.

One of his Chicago friends, F. W. Rice, publisher, told of his first meeting with Robert and of the occasion of his introduction to President Lincoln in 1864 at Washington.

"I had gone to Washington with my father, a member of the lower house of congress from Maine," Mr. Rice said, "and on the morning of our arrival he told me he had an appointment with Mr. Lincoln and that he meant to take me with him to meet 'the greatest man in the world.'

⁂

"I was 13 years old at the time, and I recall as we drove up Pennsylvania avenue what a thrill was the anticipation that I was to meet the President.

"I remember the bigness of his inner offices at the White House and the way Mr. Lincoln smiled down at me from his great height as my father presented me. The President put his hand on my head as he spoke to me. At that moment a slender young man, garbed in all the brilliance of an army officer's uniform, with shiny brass buttons, came into the office.

"The President called to him and when he approached introduced father and me, saying: 'Robert, this is Congressman Rice and his son from Maine.' Turning to us and placing his arm around the young man's shoulder, he said: 'You know, my boy here has just been made a captain on Gen. Grant's staf.'

"I never forgot the look of fatherly pride Mr. Lincoln gave his son. Years later, when I again met Robert Lincoln in Chicago, I recalled the incident and he remembered it."

Robert Lincoln's body was taken to Springfield, Ill., and placed to rest in the tomb of his father. In the crypts behind the sarcophagus rest the bodies of Mary Todd Lincoln, her four sons, and Abraham Lincoln II., Robert's son.

Robert Lincoln's widow, Mrs. Mary Harlan Lincoln, survives and resides today in Washington, close to her two daughters and grandchildren.

FAVORITE POEMS

WILLIAM KNOX, Scottish poet, was born in Firth in 1789 and died in Edinburgh in 1825. His most familiar work, "O, Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud?", was a particular favorite of Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday the nation will celebrate next Wednesday. Lincoln clipped it from a newspaper and for some time did not know the name of the author. He learned it later, however.

O, WHY SHOULD THE SPIRIT OF MORTAL BE PROUD?

O, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a swift-flying meteor, a fast-flying cloud,
A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave,
He passeth from life to his rest in the grave.

The leaves of the oak and the willow shall fade,
Be scattered around, and together be laid;
As the young and the old, the low and the high,
Shall crumble to dust and together shall lie.

The infant a mother attended and loved,
The mother that infant's affection who proved,
The father that mother and infant who blest,—
Each, all, are away to that dwelling of rest.

The maid on whose brow, on whose cheek, in whose eye,
Shone beauty and pleasure,—her triumphs are by;
And alike from the minds of the living erased
Are the memories of mortals who loved her and praised.

The head of the king, that the scepter hath borne;
The brow of the priest, that the mitre hath worn;
The eye of the sage, and the heart of the brave,—
Are hidden and lost in the depths of the grave.

The peasant, whose lot was to sow and to reap;
The herdsman, who climbed with his goats up the steep;
The beggar, who wandered in search of his bread,—
Have faded away like the grass that we tread.

So the multitude goes, like the flower or weed
That withers away to let others succeed;
So the multitude comes, even those we behold,
To repeat every tale that has often been told.

For we are the same our fathers have been;
We see the same sights our fathers have seen;
We drink the same stream, we see the same sun,
And run the same course our fathers have run.

The thoughts we are thinking our fathers did think;
From the death we are shrinking our fathers did shrink;
To the life we are clinging our fathers did cling,
But it speeds from us all like the bird on the wing.

They loved,—but the story we cannot unfold;
They scorned,—but the heart of the haughty is cold;
They grieved,—but no wail from their slumbers will come;
They joyed,—but the tongue of their gladness is dumb.

They died,—ah! they died;—we, things that are now,
That walk on the turf that lies over their brow,
And make in their dwelling a transient abode,
Meet the things that they met on their pilgrimage road.

Yea, hope and despondency, pleasure and pain,
Are mingled together in sunshine and rain;
And the smile and the tear, and the song and the dirge,
Still follow each other like surge upon surge.

'Tis the wink of an eye, 'tis the draught of a breath,
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death,
From the gilded saloon to the bier and the shroud;
O, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

KNIGHTS of the RANGE

ZANE GREY

Lascelles, the New Orleans Gambler, Sounds a New and Dangerous Note in the Affairs of Holly Ripple

THE STORY TO DATE

Holly Ripple, who has inherited the beauty of her Spanish mother, returns from boarding school to her father's ranch in New Mexico just before his death. Anticipating an era of cattle rustling and outlawry, Colonel Ripple places Holly under the care of his trusted foreman, Britt, and orders him to surround her with the hardest outfit of cowboys he can gather together. In an encounter with horse thieves Holly is saved from the insults of the leader by one of his own men, Renn Frayne, who shoots his master and another man to save her. Holly persuades Frayne, self-admitted outlaw, to ride for her. Holly has carried on the traditional hospitality of the rancho. That evening among her dinner guests is Malcolm Lascelles, a gambler and adventurer, with whom Holly had carried on a schoolgirl flirtation in New Orleans.

INSTALMENT IV.

THE supper was served by a troop of Holly's Mexican girls in native costume, and it was a bounteous one. The table groaned with savory viands and steaming vegetables and luscious fruits. At the outset the burly members of the caravan were too hungry and too glad to be present for any consistent merriment. But by the time the wine was passed around they made up for their lack.

In the succeeding hour Holly heard all the news from the towns on the Mississippi, from the cattle centers in Kansas, from the camps and posts in the plains, and from the forts. And the best of it was a marked rise in prices for beef, the increase in markets, owing to the pushing westward of the Santa Fe railroad.

"Hard times for railroad construction are about over," said Belmet. "Last December the work crossed the Colorado state line. That was well within the ten years of grace allowed the builders by the land grant. Rails will reach La Junta by 1873, mebbe, and Raton the year after, mebbe."

"Holly, thet's great news," exclaimed Britt. "When the Santa Fe crosses New Mexico we want 75,000 haid of cattle heah."

"Cap, you can breed them on this wonderful range," said the scout. "But keepin' them long enough to sell—thet'll be the rub!"

When the supper party broke up Holly was standing with Britt, saying good-by to Belmet, as Lascelles presented himself. Looked at through more mature eyes, he did not revive even a hint of the old girlish thrill. Still he had a semblance of southern grace.

"Holly Ripple, we meet again," he said, with gallant bow. "I have long dreamed of this moment. May I present my compliments? You have changed from the girl I knew so well at Mme. Brault's school in New Orleans. From pretty girl to lovely woman!"

Holly did not offer her hand, and she met his eyes with level gaze.

"I remember you, Mr. Lascelles," she said. "Are you not lost, away from the boulevards of New Orleans? What are you doing on the frontier?"

"Holly, I have never ceased to search for you," he returned boldly. "You alone brought me west."

"Indeed? I am sorry. You must have overrated the silly flirtation of a pentup school girl. You are welcome, of course, at the table of my father. But I have no wish to renew the acquaintance."

"Holly, I'd like to meet the gentleman," interposed Britt, in his cool drawl.

"Mr. Lascelles, this is my father's old trail comrade, and my foreman, Capt. Britt."

Holly moved toward the door with Belmet. Presently Britt joined them, with his keen eyes gleaming unwontedly.

"Say, Holly Ripple, air you responsible for thet flash gambler showin' up heah?" he demanded.

"He says so."

"Has he any hold on you?"

"None whatever."

"I heahed you tell him. An' shore I shouldn't need more. But he ruffled me, lass. I must be gettin' testy in my old age. . . . Dog-gone it, I'm the only dad you got!"

"Cappy, you are indeed, and I love you. Don't waste concern on Mr. Lascelles."

"Wal, he tried to make oot there was somethin' between you. Kind of brazen, or thick haided. If I don't mistake my figgerin' you'll heah more aboot this kid flirtation."

"Cappy, you don't mean this man will take advantage of that indiscretion of mine to—to——"

"I shore do," returned Britt, as Holly hesitated. "The damn fool thinks you air—or was—sweet on him. Reckon it's a bluff. He's an adventurer an' way down on his luck. He fetched his pack up heah, an' I had to give him a room. Another instance of your dad's famous hospitality to any one! I cain't throw him out."

⁂

"DID Brazos get back?" asked Holly.

"Yes, before supper. Mad as a wet hen because he had to pack Stinger on his hawse, an' walk ten miles. How thet boy hates to walk!"

"O—Stinger! Is he——"

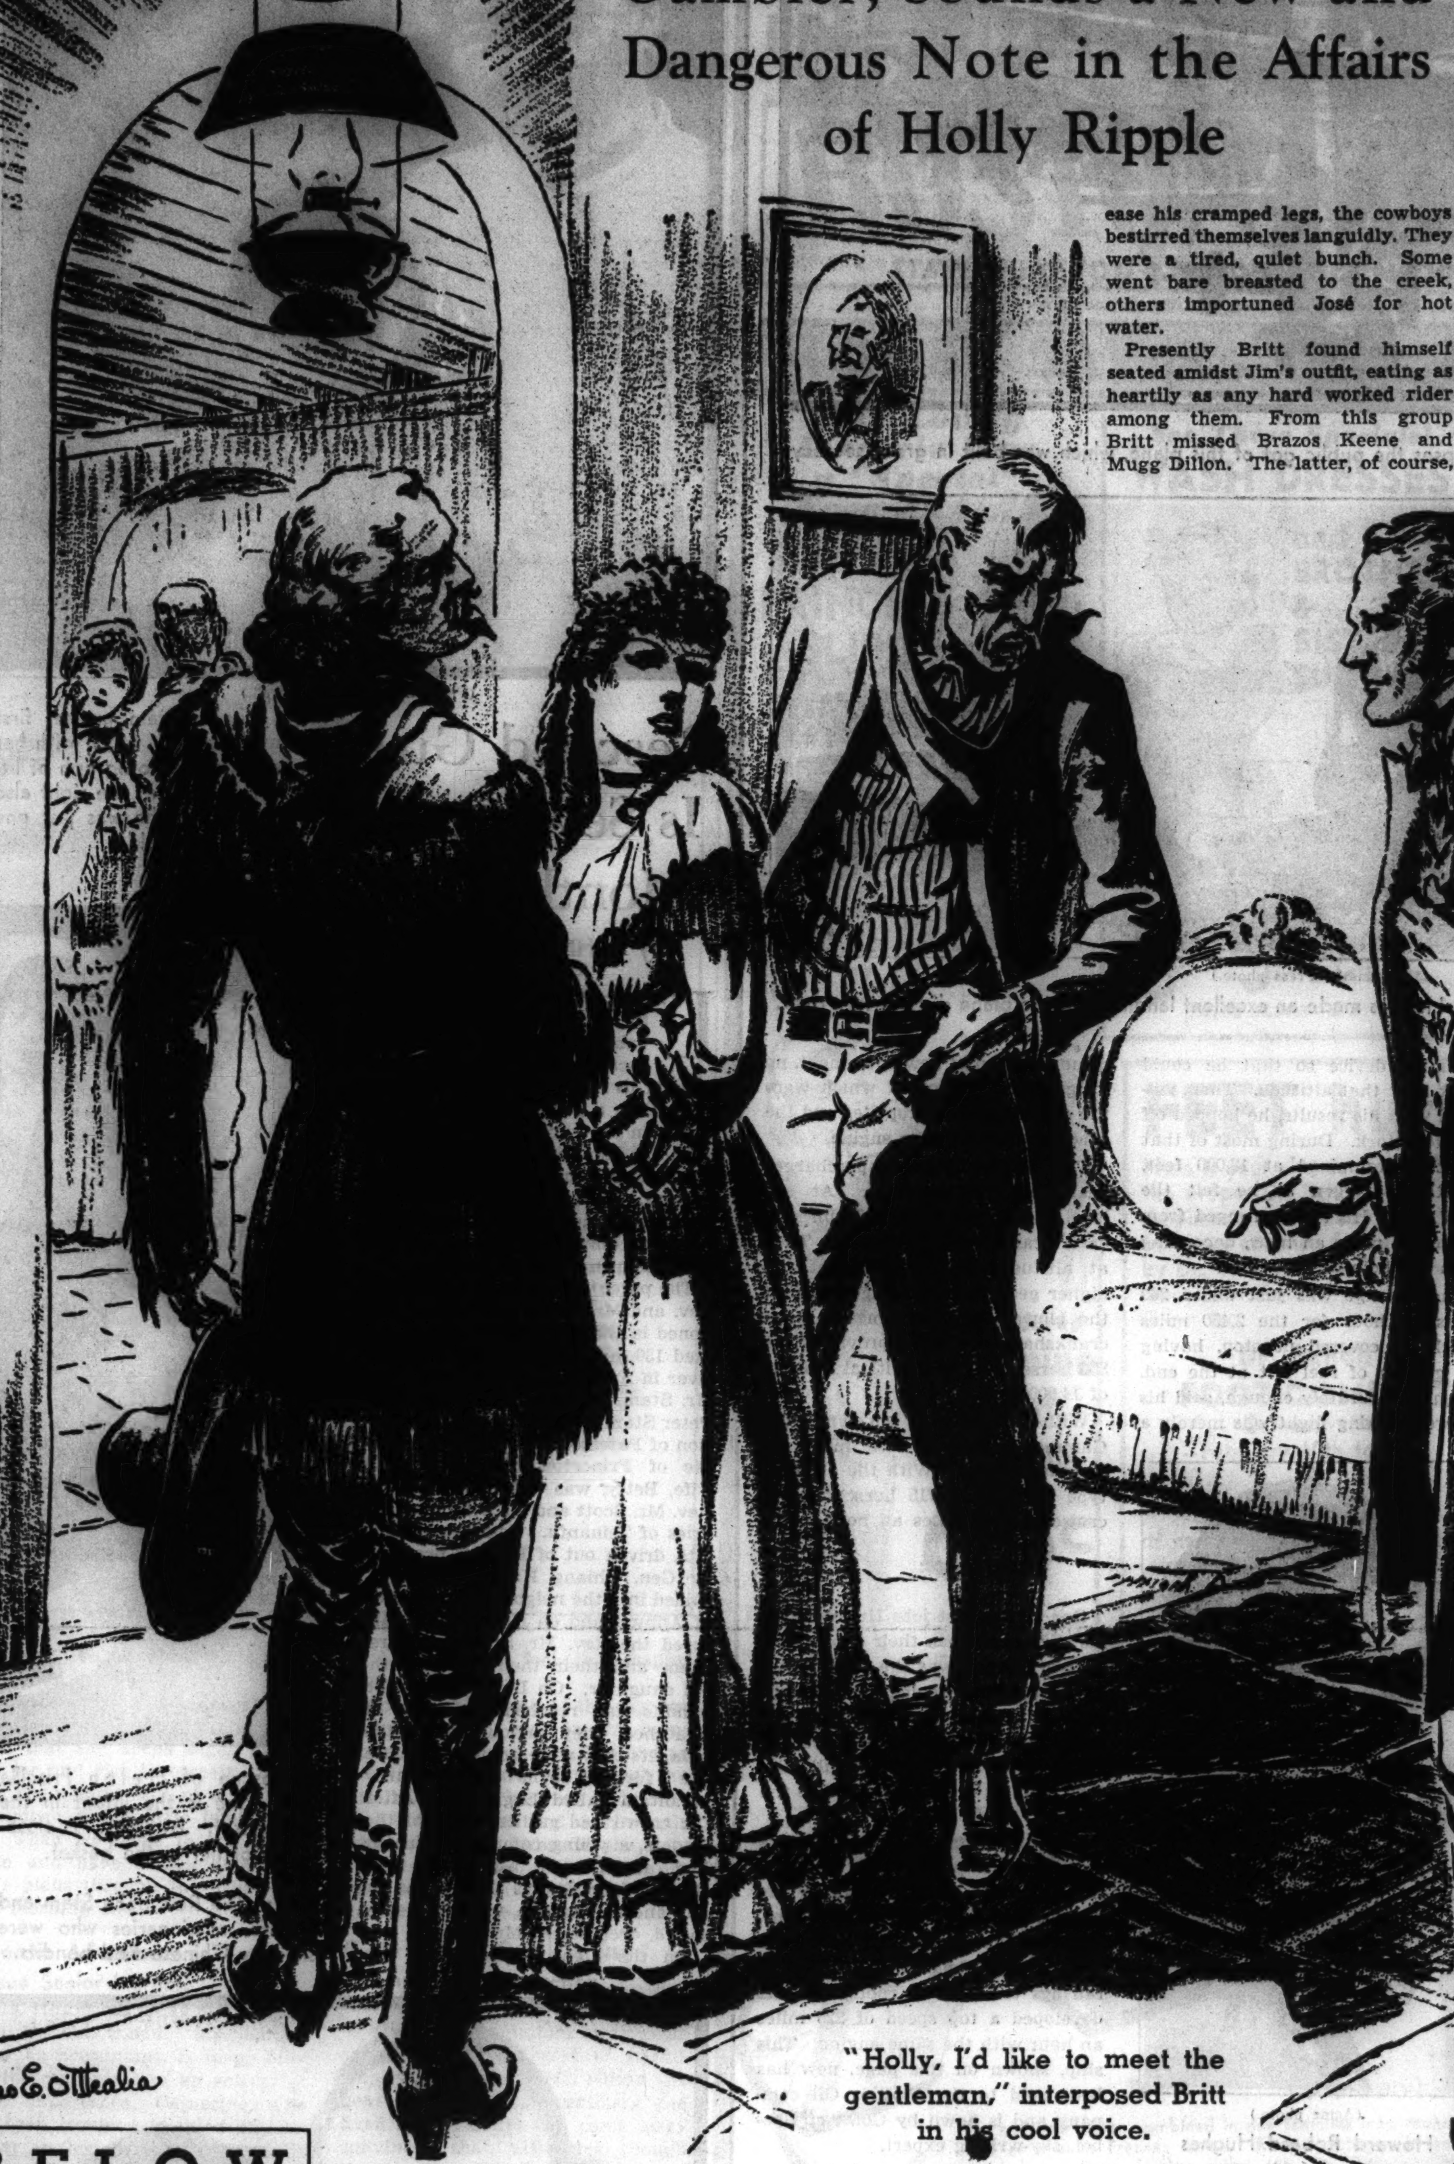
"Shot up some, but nothin' to worry aboot. . . . It happened thet Frayne seen Brazos comin' an' packed Stinger in. Frayne said he knowed gunshot wounds, an' thet this wasn't bad if dressed proper. Which he proceeded to do. Done it swift an' slick, too. I shore get a laugh oot of those cowboys. Brazos said: 'I'm dawg tired an' I don't care a damn if he croaks. An' I'm gonna bore Mugg Dillon!' . . . Then Stinger looks up at Frayne an' asks, suspicious like, 'Who'n hell air you, stranger?' an' Frayne says easy an' cool, 'Renn Frayne.' . . . Thet bunkhouse went as quiet as a church. They'd heahed of him. Cowboys air a curious lot. They never fail to talk whenever they meet riders or go any place. An' they never forget an' they tell each other. Some of our boys have rode the Panhandle. Ride 'Em Jackson is from Texas. They've heahed of Frayne an' have talked about him, same as of every bad hombre on the range. It worries me."

"Did you tell Mr. Frayne that I invited him to supper?"

"I shore did, Holly. He just refused, short an' sweet."

"Britt, is Frayne a criminal, with good instincts?"

"No criminal, believe me, in the sense you mean. No low-born man could ever look straight at you like Frayne does. . . . An' I shore don't believe he was ashamed to come.



"Holly, I'd like to meet the gentleman," interposed Britt in his cool voice.

Holly was at breakfast in her room when she heard a familiar clinking step out upon the path. She was expecting Britt, but this step was quicker and more vibrant than that of the old Texan.

"Mawnin,' Cap," spoke up a lazy resonant voice. "How's our lady of the rancho?"

"Howdy, Brazos," returned Britt, who evidently had arrived first. "Haven't seen her yet this mornin'. She's late. But yesterday knocked her oot, I dare say."

"Who's the flowery vested cairdsharp I jest met?"

"Name's Lascelles. From New Orleans. Dropped in heah yesterday with thet wagon train. Used to know Holly when she was at school. She confessed she'd flirted a little with him before she found oot he was a gambler. An' he pestered her after thet. It was plain last night thet he meant to take advantage of the early acquaintance."

"Reckon I'll give Lascelles a hint to leave with the wagon train."

"Holly won't like thet. It ain't Ripple hospitality."

Holly finished her coffee rather hurriedly, and went through the living room to the door. Britt was sitting on the porch steps, looking up at his tall companion. Brazos Keene was the youngest, the wildest, the most untamable, yet the most fascinating and lovable of all Holly's cowboys.

"Howdy, Texas. Come right in," invited Holly, gayly.

"Mownin', Lady," drawled Brazos, doffing his sombrero.

"How air you, Holly?" asked Britt.

"My dreams were troubled, but I am fine this morning."

"Thet's good. You was so late I . . . . Wal, I cain't waste more time. The wagons air heah, Holly. There's a whole wagonload fer you. Jim said, 'Shore we know spring is come!' . . . Boxes, bags, an' whatnot. Where'll I have the boys pack this stuff?"

"In the patio by my storeroom. Have the boxed opened, Britt."

"All ready fer you in less'n an hour," returned Britt, stepping down. "Adios, Holly." . . . Then he looked at Brazos as if prompted by an afterthought. "Say, cowboy, rustle along pronto."

"Aw, boss, I have a report to make," complained Brazos.

"Wal, cut it short an' leave oot the smoke," concluded Britt, curtly.

"Come in, Brazos. I'd rather not see the frocked gentleman who is loitering around."

"Thet pale faced gent!—Britt told aboot him," said Brazos, and following her into the room to her desk, he took her hand. "Holly, you never was in love with him?"

"No. I don't believe I ever imagined that. But I was pining for company—for masculine company, I confess. Then I was mad at my teachers. I met this Lascelles and I was a foolish girl. It was an adventure. I flirted with him—a little."

⁂

LATE one afternoon in early June, Britt rode wearily across the valley toward Cottonwood basin, where he expected to find a third group of his cowboys in camp. Weeks on end his outfits, widely separated, had been branding calves. That day Britt had ridden to White Pool and from there to Ute Flat. He had had worry enough without bad reports from these places, and he had been tired enough without this added ride across to the basin.

A last flush of sunset bathed the valley in dying fire as Britt rode across the belt of cottonwoods to the camp. Evidently the cowboys had knocked off for the day. A small knot of cows and calves was working out toward the black-spotted range. Along the bank of the creek several score of horses grazed. This was Jim's remuda. They waded knee deep in luxurious grass and flowers. The Mexican cook, José, stooped over his campfire and steaming pots. Cowboys stretched at length, their shoulders propped against packs. Riders were straggling in from the range.

Britt dismounted to greet Jim, the cowman in charge. He was a tall, stoop-shouldered, sandy-mustached range rider of uncertain years. His dust-begrimed face showed the marks of sweaty fingers.

During the interval before supper, while Britt walked a little to ease his cramped legs, the cowboys bestirred themselves languidly. They were a tired, quiet bunch. Some went bare breasted to the creek, others importuned José for hot water.

Presently Britt found himself seated amidst Jim's outfit, eating as heartily as any hard worked rider among them. From this group Britt missed Brazos Keene and Mugg Dillon. The latter, of course, he had not expected to see. But where was Brazos?

Britt was not by far the first to finish supper. "Wal," he said at length, "thet was good. José is the best cook in the ootfit. . . . Gimme a smoke, somebody."

"Boss, how's tricks over White Pool an' Ute Flat way?" asked Jim, at last finding a seat. One by one the cowboys clustered around, lighting their cigarets.

"Good an' bad. Hell of a new crop of calves, an' a lot of activity to offset it. Jim . . . you don't 'pear bustin' to make your report."

"Boss, I'm bustin' all right, but not with good news."

"Where's Brazos?" returned Britt quickly.

"He ought to be hyar before dark," rejoined Jim evasively.

"Come oot with it," snapped the foreman.

"Laigs, will you tell the boss what come off?"

"Cap, it was like this," replied the bowlegged cowboy, sitting up. "Day before yestiddy me an Brazos run onto some rustlers drivin' a bunch of steers thet wore our mark. This was way up at the head of the Cottonwood, I reckon fifteen or twenty miles from hyar. Brazos acted plumb sore, so I reckoned he'd been expectin' it. Wal, there was four of the rustlers an' one of them was Mugg Dillon. We yanked out our rifles. But they seen us pronto, an' rode off toward San Marcos. After a bit they slowed up, seein' we didn't follow. We rode back. Brazos rode slower an' slower, till finally he stopped. 'Laigs,' he says, 'I'm waitin' hyar till dark an' then I'm ridin' to town.' Wal, you know Brazos. All I said was, 'I'll go with you.' 'No, you go back to camp an' report to Jim. An' if the boss should ride in, tell him I went after Dillon, but he's not to let Miss Holly know.'"

"Damn thet cowboy!"

"No use to damn Brazos," interposed Jim. "He an' Stinger have shore got it in fer Dillon. I don't know jest what made them so sore, outside of his double-crossin' us."

"Stinger never said a word to me," rejoined Britt. "I couldn't pump much out of him."

"My hunch come from somethin' Frayne said."

"Frayne?"

"Shore. He thinks Brazos an' Stinger were on to Dillon—thet they ketched him before an' trusted him not to go into another lowdown deal."

"Wal! A hawse deal?"

"No. I reckoned it must have been cattle, but Frayne didn't think so."

"When did Frayne tell you this?"

"Weeks ago, jest after he started ridin' with us."

Britt pondered a moment, darkly revolving in mind what risks Brazos might have incurred while trailing Dillon. Finally he voiced his concern: "If Brazos doesn't come back tonight go after him—some of you."

"Boss," interposed Laigs Mason coolly, "if you'd seen Brazos you wouldn't be worried. I savvy thet hombre. He's the nerviest fellar on this range, but when he takes chances he's got an even break."

"All right, Jim. What else?" went on Britt, gruffly.

"We been hyar seventeen days, an' shore slapped our irons on a sight of calves," replied Jim, complacently. "Jest about cleaned up this basin. But we had help an' thet riles me some. Sewall McCoy's outfit hung in this neck of the woods till the other day. We jest know his men was brandin' calves whose mother had a Ripple brand on her flank. We seen a hundred an' more thet had new-burned Bar M's on them. The boys was partickler not to drive any cows over hyar but ours. McCoy's ootfit didn't round up a bunch, as is our way. They jest rode everywhere, brandin' every maverick in its tracks. Shore we might have got a few calves not really ours. But damn few . . . an', to be short an' sweet, I don't like this McCoy cattleman nor his ootfit."

"Sewall McCoy? So he's rangin' over heah. Jim, how many cattle has he on this range?"

"Couldn't say. But I'd say not more'n five thousand haid."

"Wal, while you an' yore boys air ridin' around, make a count of McCoy's an' any other brands. We got too many cattle an' too many calves. I'll recommend thet we sell a bunch to the government beef-buyers an' make a big drive to the railroad."

"Thet's a good idee, boss. It'd give us a chance to get a line on what's bein' bought an' shipped. Countin' the increase this year, we're runnin' sixty thousand haid."

"Thunder an' blue blazes!" snorted Britt. "We cain't handle them. We could sell to the posts, an' reservations, an' to eastern markets, over an' over again without makin' a hole you could see in our herd."

"Shore. But we're havin' help in makin' thet hole," remarked Jim, impressively. "Rustlers drove a good big herd off toward the Purgatory last week, an' you can bet your life most of them steers belonged to Miss Holly."

"Et ees so, señor," corroborated the Vaquero, puffing a cloud of smoke.

"Not mucha malo, but . . . Hello, what's thet?"

"Hoss comin,."

"Thet's Brazos. I know his trot," added Laigs Mason.

"Wal, I shore hope so," returned Britt, peering into the gathering gloom. Presently a horse bobbed black against the gray. Jim threw some bits of sage on the fire. It blazed up brightly. Soon the horseman entered the circle of light.

"Who comes?" shouted Jim.

"Brazos," came the harsh retort.

⁂

THEN in the flare of fire Britt recognized the striking figure of his favorite cowboy. Laigs Mason, who got up, was the only one to stir. Brazos stepped off. With a few swift violent pulls he loosened the cinches, then one powerful sweep of arm flung the saddle and blanket to the ground. Slipping off the bridle, he slapped the wet horse, to send him cantering off in the darkness.

"Pard — you all right?" queried Laigs, haltingly. At that moment there emanated from Brazos something inimical to approach. He tossed his sombrero at Mason and stood bare headed beside the fire, over which he held lean, brown hands that quivered slightly. His fair hair stood up, shining like a mane. His face appeared ghastly gray, out of which slits of glittering eyes swept over his comrades.

"Aw! . . . So you heah—Cap," he jerked out, in colorless voice.

"Howdy, Brazos," replied the foreman.

Laigs approached to place a hesitating hand on his friend's arm.

"Hey, you——! Lay off!" exclaimed Brazos.

"Thought thet wing hung kinda funny. Hope it ain't broke."

"Gun-shot. Nothin' much. But sorer'n a burnt thumb."

"Pard, you look peaky. Ain't you hungry?"

"I don't know, Laigs. But I haven't eaten anythin' since I left."

Britt interposed with a dry query: "How aboot whisky, Brazos?"

"Nary a red drop, boss," replied the cowboy, wildly.

"Three days? Gosh!" ejaculated Laigs, with concern. "You must be starved."

"I cain't eat, pard."

"But Brazos. . . . You gotta try. I'll rustle some soup—an' a biscuit."

"Got the makin's—anybody?" asked Brazos, hoarsely.

"Hyar, cowboy. Jest rolled one," replied Skylark, sitting up. "Ketch."

He flipped the cigaret accurately, but the nervous Brazos failed to catch it in the air. Stooping he picked it up, and at the same time a bit of half burned stick with which he lighted it, and puffed clouds of smoke. Then he sat down on a pack, and with expulsion of deep breath, appeared to relax. No one spoke to him. Laigs, who brought a plate and cup, handed these to him without speaking. The cowboy took a few more pulls at his cigaret, then spat it out.

This Week's Opportunities for All of Us

For BUYING: Forenoon today, Monday, Thursday, and next Sunday.

For SELLING: Today, Monday, and Wednesday.

For ROMANCE: Tuesday evening, Wednesday afternoon, and Saturday.

For FINANCE: Next Sunday.

For TRAVEL: None.

For OCCUPATION: Wednesday and Thursday.

For LEGAL MATTERS: Wednesday.

For HEALTH: Tuesday afternoon, Wednesday, and next Sunday.

DAY BY DAY

MONDAY and TUESDAY: Concentrate on activities that involve mutual coöperation. Don't expect too much of the other fellow — do your share. Take care of budget.

MONDAY, FEB. 10: Looks good for minor decisions. Adjust problems with women in forenoon. Best for those born Sept. 15-27, Jan. 12-24, and May 13-25.

TUESDAY, FEB. 11: Double-check your ideas in forenoon. Steer around errors with friends in evening. Best for those born Sept. 27-Oct. 9, Jan. 24-Feb. 5, and May 25-June 7.

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, and FRIDAY: Attend to interests that concern travel, distribution, advertising, and publishing. Aim to increase your knowledge of the deeper truths.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 12: Build with superiors in forenoon and early afternoon. Think before you leap in evening. Best for those born Oct. 9-20, Feb. 5-16, and June 7-18.

THURSDAY, FEB. 13: Pick your way in the forenoon. Old interests look better than new ones in the afternoon. Best for those born Oct. 20-Nov. 1, Feb. 16-29, and June 18-30.

FRIDAY, FEB. 14: Snap judgment apt to be wrong; don't take chances during daylight hours. Best for those born Nov. 1-13, Feb. 29-March 12, and June 30-July 13.

SATURDAY and next SUNDAY: Analyze your equipment for building up a reputation in your particular work and study methods that will enable you to use it more efficiently.

SATURDAY, FEB. 15: Avoid clashes with mates or superiors in early forenoon. Evening favors study. Best for those born Nov. 13-25, March 12-24, and July 13-25.

SUNDAY, FEB. 16: Don't bring up past issues in forenoon and early afternoon; curb excess emotions in afternoon. Best for those born Nov. 25-Dec. 8, March 24-April 6, and July 25-Aug. 9.

An Open Letter to Stuart Erwin

STUART ERWIN

Dear Stuart: You have capabilities that are not entirely related to your chosen profession, talents in lines where you would be less personally prominent. If you have any spare time, get a few good activities started, if you haven't already done so. This is a favorable year in which you can lay the foundation of much security in the future. I am, of course, speaking of profit-making ventures, but also consider your spiritual security. With best wishes.

Airplanes and Air Transport

Hughes' racer before the speed dashes. This was one of the few glimpses the public got of this plane, which was built in great secrecy.

Hughes Flies Fastest Land Ship

By WAYNE THOMIS

The same ship after the forced landing. Hughes made an excellent landing and the plane did not turn over.

THE man who owns and flies the fastest land airplane in the world is Howard Robard Hughes, 31-year-old bachelor, sportsman-pilot, capitalist, film producer, and millionaire oil tool manufacturer, who has within the last six months become the air speed champion of the United States. After setting a new world land plane speed record on last Sept. 13, he made a new west-east transcontinental speed record on Jan. 14.

A result of these flights may be that the next army air corps order for pursuit airplanes will fall into Hughes' lap. He has been working with the material division of the air corps at Wright field for more than five years. During that time he has had a staf of engineers engaged in experimental development work, always along military lines. Consequently he is familiar with army requirements.

The plane Hughes wants to sell the army would be very similar to the Hughes Special racing plane in which he set the land plane record of 352.388 miles an hour at Santa Ana, Cal., last September. This ship is at least 100 miles an hour faster than any other equipment the army has in service or in test at this time, and speed is one of the chief requirements of pursuit airplanes—the modern version of World war single-seat fighters.

Aside from the top speed of Hughes' racer little is definitly known about it. The wings and fuselage are approximately 24 feet in span and length respectively. The entire ship is constructed of metal, with the skin in both fuselage and wings bearing some of the stresses. The landing gear, very similar to that of the Vultee transports, folds into the lower surface of the wing.

The motor is a twin-row Wasp Jr., geared and supercharged. It is reported to develop 1,000 horsepower, although the standard twin-row Wasp is rated at 700 horsepower. The propeller is of the constant-speed controlable-pitch type, the two blades being exceptionally long. The motor has a full NACA cowling.

≈

The entire ship is notable for its clean lines. The wings, braced entirely from within, flow very smoothly into the fuselage. Ailerons are at the tips, with split trailing-edge flaps extending between the fuselage and ailerons on each wing. These flaps increase the lift of the wing and add to the drag, thus slowing down the landing speed, which ranges between 70 and 80 miles an hour.

A sliding cover protects the pilot in his tiny cockpit from the wind stream while flying. A complete set of instruments, including bank-and-turn and directional giro, have been fitted. Few racing ships are so completely equipped.

Reports are that Hughes' plane is built around a 12-1 safety factor. This expression is one method of revealing the great strength built into the ship. Army pursuit airplanes built to withstand the greatest stresses have approximately the same safety ratio.

Hughes' racer proved its strength when he was forced to land it immediately after flying the last lap of his six dashes across the three-kilometer course. The motor quit when he switched from an empty tank to a full one, and he put the plane down on its belly in a rough field without putting down the landing gear. The only damages were a bent propeller and a dented fuselage.

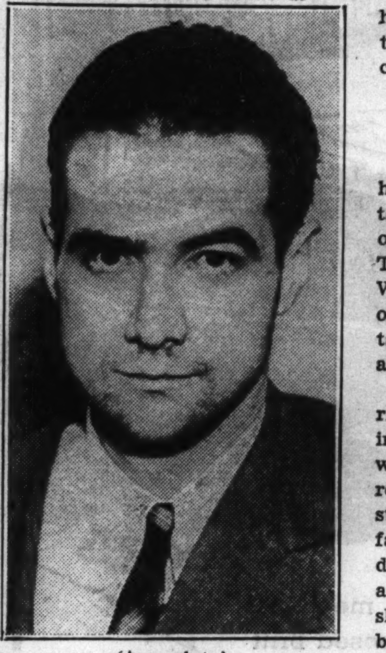
≈

For the transcontinental flight Hughes leased the standard Northrop Gamma mail plane of Miss Jacqueline Cochrane, sportswoman flyer. The 715-horsepower Cyclone with which it was powered was removed and a new G-type Cyclone, which delivers 925 horsepower for one minute at takeoff and thereafter 850 maximum at 9,000 feet, was installed. This is the motor which will go into the army's new bombers and the new air line transport ships.

The mail cockpit in the Gamma was converted into a fuel tank, giving the ship a total fuel capacity of 700 gallons. Instead of 87-octane fuel Hughes purchased 100-octane gasoline. This fuel, only recently obtained in commercial quantities, gives far more power than the lower grades of gasoline.

With the ship prepared, Hughes made ten test hops, flying the ship up to 15,000 feet and working out a timing device so that he could clock it at that altitude. Then, satisfied with his results, he hopped off for New York. During most of that flight he remained at 18,000 feet, breathing oxygen as he felt the need of it. His speeds ranged from 250 to 295 miles an hour, depending upon the help of the winds.

The average was just under 260 miles an hour for the 2,450 miles which he covered nonstop, having 100 gallons of fuel left at the end. Hughes, accurately enough, said his record-breaking flight was merely a demonstration of new equipment, no insignificant portion of which were the constant-speed propeller and the excellent new Cyclone engine.



(Acme photo.)

Howard Robard Hughes

This engine has a supercharger gear shift arrangement. At sea level the blower turns 2.5 times to each crankshaft revolution. Then at altitudes above 7,000 feet the higher gear can be engaged so that the blower turns 10 times to each crankshaft revolution, providing the 850 horsepower to a critical altitude of 14,000 feet.

With the G-type engine the Gamma cruised at 230 miles an hour in still air. With the old FIII type Cyclone of 715 horsepower it cruised at 200 miles an hour.

≈

One of the first jobs Hughes gave his engineers when their experimental work began was the cleaning up of a standard Boeing P12 fighter. This biplane, with 500-horsepower Wasp motor, developed a top speed of 190 miles an hour with full military load, as it was delivered to the army.

When Hughes' men finished rerigging the ship, fairing in the landing gear and adding pants to the wheels, changing the fuselage shape, reducing the area of the horizontal stabilizer and the rudder, and adding fairings to the wing roots, the P-12 developed a top speed of 225 miles an hour with the same engine. This ship, shown on this page, now has been sold to the Phillips Oil company and is flown by Col. Art Goebel, sky-writing expert.

"Miracle Baby" Is Thriving

Rescued Girl Is Seventeen Months Old

By JOHN B. POWELL

Tsinan, China.

LITTLE Helen Priscilla Stam, nicknamed the "miracle baby" due to her miraculous escape from Chinese Red bandits in Anhwei province a little more than a year ago, continues to thrive in the care of her grandparents, the Rev. and Mrs. Charles E. Scott of the American Presbyterian mission. The Rev. Mr. Scott is a member of the faculty of Shantung Christian university, leading mission institution in eastern China.

The parents of Helen Priscilla, the Rev. and Mrs. John Stam, were stationed in the town of Tsingteh, situated 130 miles south of the Yangtze river in Anhwei province. The Rev. Mr. Stam, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Peter Stam of the Star of Hope mission of Paterson, N. J., was a graduate of Princeton university. His wife, Betty, was a daughter of the Rev. Mr. Scott and his wife, missionaries of Tsinanfu. Communist bandits, driven out of Kiangsi province by Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's troops, raided into the neighboring province of Anhwei and on Dec. 6, 1934, captured the Rev. Mr. Stam and Mrs. Stam and their then three-month-old daughter. On Dec. 8, when the bandits had reached the town of Miaosheo, they announced to the villagers they were going to execute the "foreign devils" on a nearby mountain called Eagle hill. After the crowd had gathered one of the leaders, a young commander in the Red army, took his sword and slashed John Stam's throat. As he fell another bandit, using a heavy sword, decapitated Mrs. Stam.

On the night previous the two captives and their infant daughter were held prisoners in a vacant Chinese residence which the bandits had thoroughly looted. The Rev. Mr. Stam was tied to a bed, while the wife was left free to look after the baby. When the bandits arrived the next morning to take them out to the execution ground Mrs. Stam hastily concealed the baby under some rags on the bed, hoping it would be found and rescued.

The following day when the frightened villagers ventured back into the town they heard rumors of the baby and ultimately found it, Mrs. Stam having pinned two $5 notes inside its sleeping bag with a message in the Chinese language asking the finder to care for the child. Among the Chinese refugees returning to the village from a hiding place on a nearby mountain was a Chinese Christian pastor named Lo. He was accompanied by his wife and an ailing 4-year-old son. Putting little Helen Priscilla in one basket and his son in another, the Chinese preacher suspended the baskets from a carrying pole over his shoulder and carried them the entire distance to the town of Wuhu on the Yangtze above Nanking. The bodies of Helen Priscilla's parents also were carried, in heavy Chinese style coffins, the same distance to the little river port of Wuhu, where they were buried in the foreign cemetery on the banks of the Yangtze.

Little Helen Priscilla now is nearly seventeen months old and is beginning to talk. Her grandfather, the Rev. Mr. Scott, stated recently that Helen had developed a world-wide correspondence, her latest letter having been received from the daughter of an American missionary in the Belgian Congo. A short time previously another letter was received from a little girl in Peru, also the daughter of a missionary.

In a single year . . . OVER 1,000,000 PRESCRIPTIONS were filled for PERTUSSIN

—because it relieves Coughs safely

OVER a million doctors' prescriptions for Pertussin were filled in one year. This estimate is based on the Prescription Ingredient Survey issued by the American Pharmaceutical Assn.

When you cough, it's usually because tiny moisture glands in throat and bronchial tubes have clogged or dried. Infectious phlegm collects, irritates—you cough. Pertussin stimulates these glands to pour out natural moisture freely. Sticky phlegm loosens and is easily raised. Get a bottle.

KILL KIDNEY ACIDS

Win Back Pep, Clear Your Skin, Look Younger.

Women Need Help More Often Than Men

When Acids and poisons accumulate in your blood you lose your vitality and your skin becomes coarse and cloudy—you actually feel and look years older than you are. And what is worse, functional Kidney disorders may cause more serious ailments, such as Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Leg Pains, Lumbago, Swollen Joints, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Dark Circles Under Eyes, Headaches, Frequent Colds, Burning, Smarting, Itching, and Acidity.

The only way your body can clean out the Acids, poisons, and toxins from your blood is through the function of 9 million tiny, delicate tubes or filters in your Kidneys. When your Kidneys get tired or slow down because of functional disorders, the acids and poisons accumulate and thus cause much trouble. Fortunately, it is now easy to help stimulate the diuretic action of the Kidneys with a Doctor's prescription. Cystex (pronounced Siss-Tex), which is available at all drug stores.

Doctors Praise Cystex

Dr. Geo. B. Knight, of Camden, New Jersey, recently wrote: "When Kidneys don't function properly and fail to properly throw off the waste matter strained from the blood, aches develop in the muscles and joints, the appetite suffers, sleep is disturbed and the patient is generally run-down and suffers with lowered vitality. Cystex is an excellent prescription to help overcome this condition. It starts its beneficial action almost immediately, yet contains no harmful or injurious ingredients. I consider Cystex a prescription which men and women in all walks of life should find beneficial in the treatment of functional Kidney disorders." And Dr. T. J. Rastelli, famous Doctor, Surgeon, and Scientist, of London, says: Cystex is one of the finest remedies I have ever known in my medical practice. Any doctor will recommend it for its definite benefits in the treatment of many functional Kidney and Bladder disorders. It is safe and harmless."

Dr. G. B. Knight

World-Wide Success

Cystex is not an experiment, but is a proven success in 31 different countries throughout the world. It is prepared with scientific accuracy and in accordance with the strict requirements of the United States Dispensatory and the United States Pharmacopoeia, and because it is intended especially for functional Kidney and Bladder disorders, it is swift, safe and sure in action.

Guaranteed to Work

Cystex is offered to all sufferers from functional Kidney and Bladder disorders under an unlimited guarantee. Put it to the test. See what it can do in your own particular case. It must bring you a new feeling of energy and vitality in 48 hours—it must make you look and feel years younger and work to your entire satisfaction in 8 days or you merely return the empty package and your money is refunded in full. You are the sole and final judge of your own satisfaction. Cystex costs only 3c a dose at all druggists, and as the guarantee protects you fully, you should not take chances with cheap, inferior, or irritating drugs or with neglect. Ask your druggist for guaranteed Cystex (pronounced Siss-Tex) today.

England and China Send Blithe Plays

'Ziegfeld Follies' Keep Native Stage in Running; Old Melodrama Revived.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—We preserve an international balance in the theaters this week. A comedy, "Call It a Day," represents Britain, an adapted oriental classic, "Lady Precious Stream," stands daintily for old China, and an annual revue, still known as the "Ziegfeld Follies," represents Broadway, though hardly America. There was also an ancient melodrama called "Murder in the Old Red Barn," served with crackers, cheese, wines, liquors, and seegars at the American Music hall, where "The Drunkard" had a run on beer and skittles some time back.

There would appear to be some sort of affinity between the murder play and bar drinking. Ashley Dukes, a former drama critic of standing who has gone in for producing in a small way in London, was in New York last week and reported frankly that a large part of the success of his venture was traceable to the return he got from the bar.

Bar Helps Duke's London Theater Pay Its Way.

His first play is T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral," a poetic drama. Whether patrons have to drink to take the play, or, having drunk, like the play, or fancy the combination of simultaneous internal and external excitement it would be difficult to say. In any event, Mr. Dukes' playhouse, which is the Mercury, located at the other end of Hyde park, seats only 160 people, charges only from 75 cents to $1.50, and pays a good share of its expenses, as he says, from the receipts at the bar. He could not see, Mr. Dukes admitted to the New York critics with whom he sat down to lunch, why bars were not permitted in New York theaters. I will not say he set his hosts drooling, but there certainly was a sympathetic light in their eyes as they confessed soberly that the law was against it. . . .

The choice of the three theater entertainments last week was Dodie Smith's "Call It a Day," a thoroughly anglicized and completely decent domestic comedy that follows a family from 8 o'clock in the morning to midnight and manages to turn its various quite ordinary adventures into holding and interesting episodes. Being an old softie for decency in the drama, I was quite enamored of it. Miss Smith is the girl who, using the pen name of C. L. Anthony, last year wrote "Autumn Crocus," which introduced the curly headed Czech, Francis Lederer, to America and also to America's most colorful province, Hollywood.

"Call It a Day" Dramatizes Familiar Domestic Scenes.

"Call It a Day" catches the Roger Hiltons waking up in St. John's Wood, one of the first glorious mornings of an English spring. A new maid brings tea. Mrs. Hilton bids her shake the master into wakefulness. The master, unfamiliar with the new maid's shaking technic, is ruffled but grateful. Then, save for the fact, as some one has noted, that they drink their tea before they brush their teeth, the action follows the early stirring of many middle class households, both English and American.

Mrs. Hilton scrambles the Times and can find nothing at all in it worth reading, to the suppressed irritation of Mr. Hilton. Then there are the Hilton girls, Ann, wanting to rush for school and locked out of her bathroom by Catherine, her older sister, would beg father to do his shaving in the dressing room and let her borrow his bathroom, and so on. . . .

The scene changes to the kitchen with cook explaining to the new maid that she keeps sugar in the rice jar and rice in cereals. There is a charwoman full of aches and pessimism and a little family gossip. Then we move to the dining room and have a talk about the day's plans through the usual hurried morning meal.

Amorous Adventures Pursue Senior Hiltons.

Mrs. Hilton has a day of shopping with an old friend. Mr. Hilton, being an accountant, is to go over the income papers of an actress of some importance. Catherine, who has been troubled in mind of late, rather to her parents' concern, is to have another sitting for her portrait with the artist, Paul Francis, an old friend of father's. Ann is to spend her usual hours in school, and Martin, the young son just finishing college, has an appointment with young Allstair Brown, a companion of whom father does not approve.

And what happens? Mrs. Hilton's shopping day ends in the apartment of her friend's brother, a lonesome colonial, who mistakes her for some one else and, thinking she understands, would make quite serious love to her. The pleasant shock of this unexpected attention, on a glorious day in spring, throws Mrs. Hilton a little out of her stride. Before she knows it she has invited the impetuous and rather charming person to dinner.

Mr. Hilton, going over the accounts of the fascinating and quite boldly interested actress, finds himself wondering suddenly if, in truth, he is as old as his calendar years proclaim him. And, when the actress suggests that there are other papers that should be examined, which she keeps in her apartment, he decides there certainly would be nothing wrong in his going there that evening to look through them.

But Young Martin Started on Way to Happy Marriage.

Catherine, frankly in love with her artist friend, is made miserable because he insists on his wife remaining in the studio during the sitting. And more miserable when the artist, out of respect for his friendship for her father, refuses to meet her in the park, or see her clandestinely otherwhere. . . .

Martin Hilton, drifting idly and a little unconsciously into a closer friendship with the young man father doesn't like, looks up in the late afternoon, when he is sitting in the garden, and there, perched on the garden wall, is the young woman who has just moved next door. She, as it happens, has a new sport roadster and would like awfully if some one would show her how to run it. And there is Martin on his way, you feel, to a happy, normal marriage.

And so, at the end of the day, the Hiltons are all back in the home again. Even young Ann has had an exciting adventure. Catherine's artist has given her an unfinished sketch by Rosetti, and Ann simply adores Rosetti. Even if she does have to take Leslie Howard's picture down to give her new prize first place on her wall.

Guild Gives "Call It a Day" an Impressive Production.

Mrs. Hilton has had the colonial to dinner and sent him away quite satisfied that that sort of friendship is not for her. Mr. Hilton has gone to the actress' apartment and fixed her accounts and come away convinced that, attractive though she is, she still is a good deal of a baggage. And Catherine, crying herself to sleep, is on her way to being cured, albeit a little ruthlessly, of her infatuation for the artist. Out with the reading lights and call it a day.

This is my notion of a fine, human, simple comedy. Neither important nor exciting, but a warming adventure in playgoing. Beautifully acted, too. Philip Merivale and Gladys Cooper are the older Hiltons; Jeanne Dante, a 13 year old wonder child of the theater, the young Ann; Florence Williams, the Catherine; Glenn Anders, the artist; John Buckmaster [Miss Cooper's son], the Martin; Lawrence Grossmith, the colonial. The Theater Guild produced "Call It a Day," which accounts for its fine appointments. I hope you western subscribers insist on their bringing it to you. . . .

"Lady Precious Stream" Revives Ancient Chinese Play.

"Lady Precious Stream," which is a continuing success in one of the little theaters of London, is a comedy adapted by a scholarly little gentleman named Dr. S. I. Hsiung from an old, old play found among the Chinese classics. It is played in the Chinese manner, as you may remember "The Yellow Jacket" being done, with the highly conscious but presumably unconscious property men setting the scenes, bringing the chairs, tables, cushions, etc., and standing by to catch a falling actor when it is necessary for one to swoon.

There is a good deal of charm in the telling, with Helen Chandler and Bramwell Fletcher playing the leads. Miss Chandler's role is that of the youngest of three daughters in the family of the prime minister. When her father submits three young nobles as prospective husbands she rebelliously, but sweetly, chooses the gardener, who is also something of an acrobat and a poet. They are married and go to live poorly in a cave. At the end of the honeymoon he leaves her and goes away to the western kingdom, where they make him a great general in the wars and finally a king and keep him for eighteen years. They would also marry him to a gorgeous princess, but he escapes and goes back to Lady Precious Stream, finding her patiently waiting. At home, because of his conquests, he is given the throne and all power and promptly puts his snooty in-laws in their places.

A charming play, but a little too much of it. A fifty minute entertainment stretched over two hours that loses appeal through the repetition of its tricks. Gorgeously set and costumed, the robes being designed by Mei Lan-Fang, China's No. 1 actor, who was here a year ago.

Hollywood Keeps Eagle Eye on Fiction, History, Comic Strips

Employs 200 People Just to Read 'Em

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.—Film stars aren't the only people who are paid to do what most people do for fun. Two hundred members of the movie colony earn their living by reading; just reading—novels, short stories, and funny papers, sources of leisure-time delight of wage earners everywhere else in the world.

In every major studio in Hollywood approximately twenty thousand novels, short stories, plays, histories, radio serials, and funny papers are read or heard annually. But only about fifty—or one-fourth of one per cent—of these are purchased for filmization.

History Also Searched; Comic Strips Not Neglected.

However, Samuel Marx, head of M-G-M's reading department, states that the scope of the reader's work is increasing constantly.

"Next year it is entirely possible we will consider 30,000 separate 'bits' of material," predicts Mr. Marx. "We are fighting time, working against our release dates to keep the insatiable appetites of the theaters in check.

"The trend toward biography has opened the pages of history books to us. Now, in addition to keeping abreast of a tremendous current of topical material we are finding it profitable to consider histories, as well as the old classics."

Mr. Marx reports that two of the men in his department devote themselves to the comic strips to glean ideas for comedy.

In addition to its readers, each studio employs scouts in New York and the European capitals, who see the new plays and who read the galley proofs of stories and articles to be printed in magazines published in these centers.

Scouts Watch New Plays.

Periodicals not so surveyed by the scouts are thoroughly covered by Hollywood's readers. During a year these hired bookworms peruse every story published in every magazine, barring the "pulps," in the United States. Each of these tales is summarized in a synopsis of ten or twelve pages, then in a synopsis of one page, which is delivered to an executive or director. If an official's interest is aroused by any particular one-page synopsis he is given the longer summary of the story itself.

The same system is followed with novels, topical articles, and plays.

Obscure news items are frequent sources of scenario plots. The gangster film "The Secret Six" was taken from stories in Chicago newspapers. The climax of the movie "Society Doctor" was inspired by a newspaper item which told of a surgeon performing an operation on himself.

Cornell's "St. Joan"

KATHARINE CORNELL will appear in the title rôle of Shaw's "Saint Joan" for the first time in the Cass theater, Detroit, next Wednesday night. Her New York première is scheduled for Tuesday night, March 3. When Shaw's drama had its première in the Garrick theater, New York City, on Dec. 28, 1923, Miss Cornell was offered the title rôle, but her contract to produce Clemence Dane's "The Way Things Happen" prevented acceptance.

Arthur Byron returns from three years in the films to act the Inquisitor. Brian Aherne, Maurice Evans, Charles Waldron, Eduardo Cianelli, and George Coulouris have prominent rôles.

"Porgy" AS Opera

THE Theater Guild's production of George Gershwin's folk opera, "Porgy and Bess," will come to the Erlanger theater on Feb. 17 as the fourth subscription play in the American theater society series. Dubose and Dorothy Heyward's drama, "Porgy," which was produced by the Theater Guild in its season of 1927-'28, serves as the libretto. The engagement will be limited to the subscription period of two weeks.

"Porgy and Bess" broke all opera records in New York, playing steadily for sixteen weeks.

Gershwin says of his score: "It's an American opera striving to depict an American scene in a purely American way. I've taken advantage of the spiritual quality of colored singing and the blues quality, and have combined the two with what I know about American song writing. The result could not have been written in any country but this."

Hints of World's Fair in Paris Stir Society

French Emissaries Building Up U. S. Enthusiasm for Exposition in 1937.

By Cousin Eve.

ALONG with our February freeze come the first inklings of a world's fair in Paris in 1937, an expo of the fine arts and sciences. In the heart of Paris, it will be, with the noble old Trocadero torn down for the purpose. From now on will exist a charming courtship of ourselves by delightful emissaries of the French republic, who will attempt to persuade us that bygones are bygones. Marechal Petain is in New York at the moment, vieux charmeur!

Le Vicomte Rene de Montozon-Brachet, a chic Parisian spellbinder, is in Chicago now, spellbinding on various French cultures. I met him at a large dinner this week of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Rosenthal, who live part of the year in Biarritz. At this French dinner the opening gun for the 1937 exposition was fired. The host, answering the toast of Dr. Pierre Binet of Paris, guest of honor, was an optimist. He feels that token payments are certain to be paid by France on our war debt!

Duc de Trevise's English Just French to Americans.

I was glad to hear they miss us in France. It is nice to be missed! Rene Grimm-Provence, leaving soon for Cuba and the Bahamas, where he has a large post, was telling me how cheap hotels and cafés are getting in Paris. And of an adorable place big as a handkerchief on top of Montmartre. There one dines supremely at eight francs. There is but one menu, and one must be introduced properly by an habitué.

I asked Vicomte de Montozon why he didn't learn English when he knew he was coming to the United States. He is the most complete type of French aristocrat, slim, blond, birdlike, witty, full of the lore of his native land, and gallant. He laughed.

Then came a story of his friend, Duc de Trevise, whom I met years ago at the Potter Palmers one evening. At that time, when we were all young and foolish, we were raising money to help France keep her fine old historic buildings from tumbling down. Trevise was at the head of the movement. It seems, according to the Vicomte, that the duke made a dinner speech in English which he had just learned when he got to New York. From the faces of his audience he thought it was going over in style. At the close, however, the chairman said it was the greatest pleasure to hear the duke's superb French, which gave them all a thrill. Nobody had understood a word. Duc de Trevise's peroration was probably a masterpiece, as he is one of the funniest men living.

At the Rosenthal dinner Mlle. Guitou Knoop, that lovely girl of rare beauty whose three sculptures of Chicagoans keep her here.

Guests at Luncheon Suddenly Asked to Orate.

Tonight a buffet supper at the Arts club and the singing of Pavla Fritjsh, which they say is quite divine.

Large Sunday luncheons have been turning themselves into forums where just as likely as not you are called upon for a speech.

What a disaster to go out for a frolic and then be called upon to provide a Roman holiday for fellow guests! Who goes out to lunch with a speech tucked away in his cerebellum anyway? Not I, certainly.

Last Sunday there were two huge luncheons at the Casino: Mrs. Hugh McBirney's who usually makes her adieux in February for a trip to Italy, and the Walter Ayers.

Glenn Frank and Mrs. Ayer Toss Bouquets Back and Forth.

The last named party was in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Frank of Madison, the brilliant prexy of the University of Wisconsin and his handsome wife. And there was a born after-luncheon speaker, whose phrases dazzle, right on the premises in Glenn Frank. Phoebe Ayer rose up after luncheon and in the most charming voice in the world spoke of the Ayers' long and happy residence in Madison; but how, when the children grew up, they brought them regretfully away for a whirl among their old friends and relations. Then she proposed the healths of Dr. and Mrs. Frank.

Glenn Frank's reply was that no one need drink to the Frank health, as they were exceedingly healthy [and verily they did look blooming]. And that Madison now reminded him more than ever of New York, which is perennially full of excavations, because of the enormous cavity caused by the departure of the charming Walter Ayers. His short speech was utterly witty and charming, and then Robert Hall McCormick announced that he was Phoebe Ayer's big brother, and should act as toastmaster. So everybody sat jittering in his or her shoes, until the honor fell upon Mary Hastings Bradley, who doesn't mind, and then upon Walter Brewster. As this popular trustee of the Art institute stood up, cries of "Hark, Hark, the Lark" greeted him, and we had an instructive short talk on the complexities of running a museum which owns more paintings than it has wall space for. Mr. and Mrs. Ayer are leaving Saturday with their daughter, Janet, for a giro in Mexico.

Bridal Tradition of "Les Jeunes" Catches Up with Fanny McPherson.

On Sunday, in Winnetka, at a small tea, the engagement was announced of Fanny Jr., only daughter of the Donald McPhersons, to Tommy Tyler, only child of Mrs. Ralph M. Shaw. To dwell upon the beauties and virtues of Fanny and Tommy would be quite futile for their friends think them perfect, and they are handsome, charming, well educated, and all that they should be.

Fanny, besides being beautiful, is serious, and only last week took her gray veil for having completed an advanced nursing course at St. Luke's hospital. But it is the tactics of Cupid that is my test, how each young girl who has taken the presidency of Les Jeunes of the Alliance Française has soon after announced her engagement.

I think Marjorie Goodman was the first president. She is now Mrs. Charles S. Dewey. Louise Dewey followed in the seat of the mighty and was married in May. Jean Wilhelm was nominated and married in June. Now we have Fanny McPherson, a bride-to-be.

There are 120 Jeunes in the Alliance Française. Miss Elizabeth McCormick, who lives in Paris and speaks lovely French, is going to address them on Feb. 29 at an amusing tea. Robert Hall McCormick gives the party. There will be an exhibition hanging of antique fashion plates which Miss McCormick has been collecting for some time abroad.

George V. Regulated Trafic on King's Highway.

Sir Arthur Willert of the London foreign office made the most fashionable dinner of the year for the English Speaking union. His topic "What Next in Europe?" brought out everybody.

Sir Arthur is a tall, attractive, youngish man with gorgeous mental equipment. He spoke without notes and wasn't afraid of saying something. Sitting at the speaker's table, besides the president of the union, Donald Welles, were Mrs. Welles and Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Stevenson.

Before the speech of the evening, Mr. Welles introduced Lewis Bernays, who came after dinner to make an address on the late sovereign, George V. The British consul general seemed to have been overwhelmed with messages of condolence and sympathy from this entire district.

Sir Arthur had several characteristic stories of King George which he told privately. The king was walking along a country road with a little dog which was old and lazy, when along came a roadster at terrific speed. The king put up his hand to stop the car and save the dog, and was terribly bawled out by the motorist, who did not recognize the king of England in the tweeded pedestrian with graying beard. After the man's tirade had ceased, the king queried, "After all, isn't it the King's highway?"

Willert Calls Europe and Far East World's Trouble Zones.

According to Sir Arthur, from a political point of view, there are two zones of trouble, the far east and Europe. Japan is challenging the system of collective safety and the rape of Manchuria and China isn't over yet.

Germany said she would have an army and a navy.

Italy smashed treaties by her Ethiopian adventure. Geneva and the league of nations twittered. What could England do? Europe looks normal outwardly, but below the surface is sinister. The lineup is ominously like 1914.

At Danzig Sir Arthur had met a cheerful business man who had to accept payment for a large iron order in butter. Or nothing. Drain pipes to Bulgaria were paid in nuts and tobacco, but butter doesn't keep.

The struggle is on between old democracies and new dictatorships, of which the strongest is Germany's. There, under the surface, is a horrible state of affairs. Nazis are building a house with bricks of hope, but their mortar is fear.

Europe the Ultimate in Confusion.

Lord Cecil, it seems, got 12 million straw votes in England in favor of the league of nations. So the league of nation's policy was speeded up with Eden and his sanctions and all that sort of thing. It took eight days to remove Sir Samuel Hoare and put Anthony Eden in as foreign minister.

When it came to Italy, the speaker put on the soft pedal, as Dr. Mario Carosi, Italian consul general, and Antonio Ferme, consul, were dining, too.

Willert's last words were not so good: "Anything more muddled than the situation in Europe doesn't exist."

Exceedingly attractive looking audience: Mrs. P. A. Valentine in black velvet, Mrs. Dexter Fairbank, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ayer, Miss Elsie McCormick, Mrs. Edward Corry, Mrs. F. T. Haskell, the Carroll Sudlers and William Greenlees, Arthur Meeker, with Gen. and Mrs. McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell and Miss Helen Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Dixon.

Musicians Gather at Fairbanks' After Janet's Recital.

On Sunday afternoon, following the chamber music concert whereat Janet Fairbank sang, the Kellogg Fairbanks were at home in North State parkway for the apéritif. Nearly all the guests had been to the concert and heard young Janet sing Ravel's three songs of Madagascar with much art. At this informal party were many musicians, including the distinguished composer, John Alden Carpenter, and Mrs. Carpenter, Claire Dux and her husband, Charlie Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Arthur Jr., the Graham Aldises, Aldis Brown Jr., and Rudolph Reuter, just home from Washington, where he had played a piano recital at the Japanese embassy, giving the first of the embassy's great winter soirées. This is a marvelous house, after England's, the newest and finest embassy in Washington. Hirosi Saito and Mme. Saito are great friends of Rudolph Reuter, having known him in Akasaka outside of Tokio in the little American embassy house where the pianist and Seymour Blair bivouacked together.

Another traveler at the Fairbanks' was Albert Colfs, noted young Belgian miniaturist, just up from Argentina and latterly from Washington. Mr. Colfs had a show at the Rouillier gallery Friday after the concert, where a smart crowd saw his idea of miniatures.

His works are not the mincing little faces of the past, but exquisite and dashing portraits done in the little. He has a charming thing of little, blonde Marie Josephine of Belgium, daughter of the king. Another of Vicomtesse de Ponthoz, Belgian ambassadress; of Courtney Letts Espil, Argentinean ambassadress; of a gorgeous cardinal in Buenos Aires. There are a dozen highly exotic Chilean and Brazilian beauties. Mr. Colfs stays for some time in Chicago.

Many Distinguished Guests Coming This Month.

Coming in a few days, Signora Agresti, a niece of Dante Gabriel Rossetti. Mrs. Francis Junkin returns from major frolics in Washington to give a party for her and the Italy-America society. William Phillips of the state department is coming Feb. 15, speaking before the Foreign Relations council. He will undoubtedly draw the multitudes.

It was like Clifton Utley to produce last week Philip C. Jessup of the Columbia university law school to talk at the luncheon. Authority on international law, Prof. Jessup has written a book "Neutrality, Its History, Economics, and Law," and is one of the few people in the country competent to give a picture of the difficulties that beset the law makers in Washington.

Study of History of Neutrality Would Pay Congress, Utley Says.

His first anecdote was of Miss M. Cary Thomas, distinguished president of Bryn Mawr, who had seen a living sacrifice in a temple of India. Asked how she could endure it she replied "I told myself, 'If Jehovah can witness this, so can I.'"

Said Prof. Jessup, it is the same with neutrality, you must say to yourself "If congress can study this, so can I." But nobody should start from Aug. 31, 1935 to frame neutrality laws. During the Napoleonic wars the whole of Europe was blockaded. During the world war, English made goods flowed into Germany via Sweden but the British tried to prevent our goods from going to the same market by the same route.

Prof. Jessup quoted Albert Gallatin of Philadelphia in a speech made in 1794 on neutrality in which he said that obviously as war was then raging in Europe, it was an unsound time to discuss neutrality, or formulate neutrality laws, for anything said or enacted might provoke the wrath of either or all combatants upon ourselves. The same thing is now true, said the speaker, with the present war in Europe. We have had little experience with sanctions, and a study of history would pay members of congress, dallying with high explosives.

Dr. Jessup quoted also the President's warning to Americans against traveling on the ships of belligerents in this war. As Abyssinia has not ships it is clearly a warning against a friendly nation, Italy. Present at this exciting luncheon, Consuls General Bernays of England and Carosi of Italy. Also Mrs. John A. Carpenter, Marquesa d'Ivanrey, Harry Wilmerding, Mrs. Howard Shaw, Mrs. Edward Carry, Mrs. David Cooke, Mrs. John Crerar, Mrs. William Baum, Graham and Dorothy Aldis, Mrs. William Scudder, Mrs. Nelson Barnes, Mrs. Hopewell Rogers, Clay Judson.

Organization to Sponsor a Lecture Series

The American Womanhood Institute to Present Talks by Ida Chernoff.

More news of Chicago clubs and club women will be found in the other Society section.

THE American Womanhood institute of Washington, D. C., will sponsor a number of free lectures on "Human Relationships" by Mme. Ida Chernoff in various parts of the city in the next three months. The first three lectures will be given Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings, at 6 o'clock, at headquarters of the Chicago office, 180 West Lake street.

"Personal Advancement" will be the subject of the Tuesday evening lecture, with "The Art of Friendship" and "The Power of Attraction" the topics to be discussed on the two subsequent evenings. Open house will precede the lectures at 5 o'clock, and tea will be served without charge.

Series to Be Forerunner of Several Other Lectures.

This series of downtown lectures, intended especially for business women, will be the forerunner of a number of free lectures on the development of feminine personality to be given in outlying communities under the auspices of the American Womanhood institute.

Talks are scheduled to be given at the Edgewater Beach hotel on successive Tuesday evenings from Feb. 18 to April 14, with an extra talk on Thursday, March 19. At the Oak Park Arms hotel in Oak Park lectures will be given on eight consecutive Fridays, beginning Feb. 21, and at the Southmoor hotel lectures will be given Feb. 21 and 27, March 6, 12, 20, and 26, and April 3 and 9.

Alumnæ of Smith College Are to Meet.

Alumnæ of Smith college will gather at the Webster hotel Saturday afternoon for the annual scholarship benefit card party of the Chicago Smith college club. Proceeds will go to the club's fund whereby girls of the Chicago area are sent to Smith. Miss Elisabeth Heuchling, 1310 Glenlake avenue, heads the committee on arrangements for the party.

MISS ELISABETH HEUCHLING.

The Deborah Woman's club will hold a Valentine tea Thursday afternoon in the Joseph Urban room of the Congress hotel. A program including music and dancing, with impersonations by Jean Ludgin Naken, will be presented at 2 o'clock.

The juniors of the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs have two meetings planned for this week—a dinner and program tomorrow evening at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street, and a Valentine bridge party Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Betty Grice, first vice president, 3136 Walnut street.

Miss Grice to Present Program After Dinner.

Following dinner tomorrow evening at 6:30 o'clock Miss Grice will present a program featuring a humorous talk, "The Loves of Abraham Lincoln," by Mrs. John B. McEwan, bulletin chairman of the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. W. R. Seibert, historian of the first district of the American Legion auxiliary, will give a ten minute talk on "International Relations and Current Events."

Mrs. William B. Gasser was elected president of the Maywood Home association at a recent meeting of the board of directors at the Maywood Home for Soldiers' Widows of the Civil War. Miss Clara F. Hoover was made first vice president; Mrs. Charles F. Kannenberg, second vice president; Mrs. William E. Scott, third vice president; Mrs. William H. Turney, secretary, and Mrs. Bernard J. McCarthy, treasurer.

Also elected to the board of directors were Mrs. William S. Thayer, Mrs. Jessie M. Anson, Mrs. Thomas R. Eddy, Mrs. James J. Doran, Mrs. Herman E. Dittmar, Mrs. Myriam D. Mills, Mrs. Julia Brown, Mrs. William H. Matthews, Mrs. Henry F. Stanley, Mrs. Charles O. Brown, and Mrs. John A. Rusk.

The advisory council includes Thomas Ambrose, department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic; Arthur Dawson, chief of staf of the G. A. R.; Dr. Charles O. Brown, past department commander; Leroy A. Simmons, past commander of post 28, and Henry F. Stanley, past commander.

The women's auxiliary of the Ephpheta School for the Deaf, 3150 North Crawford avenue, will give a Valentine card party and program Thursday evening at the Illinois Club for Catholic Women, 111 East Pearson street. Proceeds will be used to purchase equipment for the school. Mrs. Frank Wohlleber is social chairman in charge of the party.

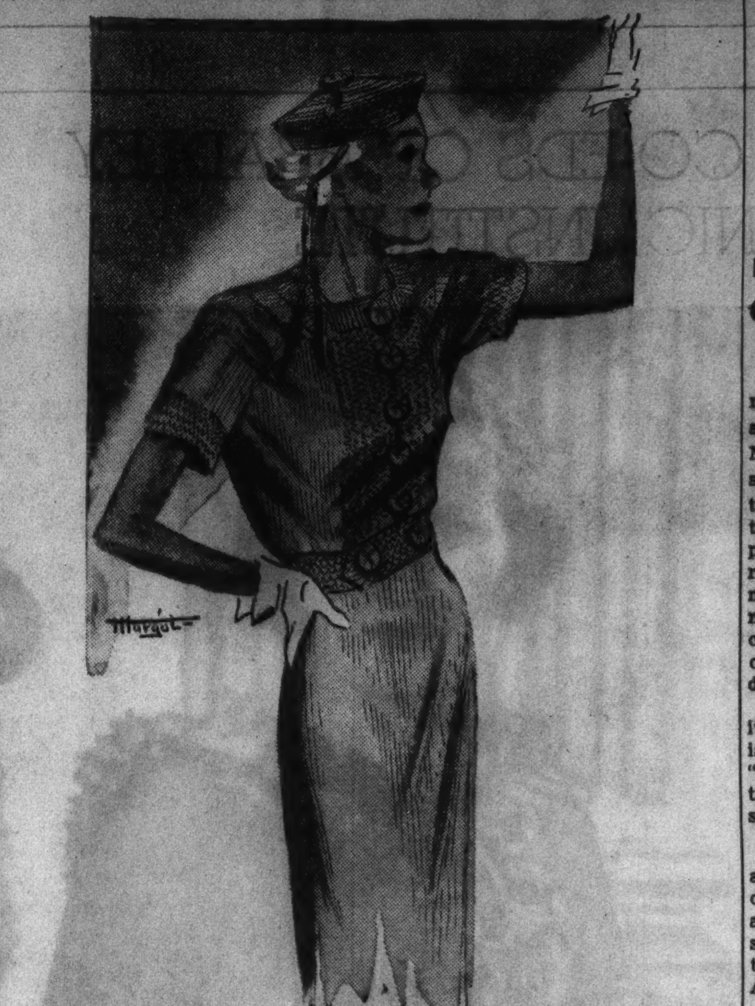
Chinese Designs Exert Vivid Influence on Knit Ensembles



By Jean Macdonald.

THE Chinese influence is quietly but determinedly creeping into hand knitted ensmbles for cruise wear and spring and summer wardrobes. The square neck, square pattern on the blouse, front fastening, and high, square neck all show a strong trend to a modified oriental manner.

The one piece dress illustrated today is made of Chinese blue crêpe with a moss stitch trimming down the front simulating a vestee. The sleeves are raglan and rather loose. It is an excellent model for active or spectator sports. The wooden buttons are an important detail to this dress, and they are distinctly original.

Two natural wood button models are used and a long crochet stitch is emphasized to fasten them together securely. A cartwheel effect and band around the buttons is created by drawing the crochet stitch through the center of the button. Three rows of moss stitch one inch apart run from the sleeve across the back to form a square yoke. This model lends itself beautifully to cotton and linen yarns, so popular this year.

HOW TO ORDER.

If you wish instruction for knitting the short sleeved one-piece dress in the Chinese manner illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Jean Macdonald, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago. Be sure to send name and address with your letter. Be sure to include the following measurements:

Bust ....
Underarm to waist ....
Waist ....
Around armhole ....
Around top arm ....

Youthful Faults Cause Excess Parental Alarm

Don't Fuss Over Your Offspring's Peccadillos If He's Basically Sound.

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

"NANCY certainly isn't orderly," said Nancy's mother to herself as she threw open the windows of her daughter's room and draped the bedclothes over a chair. "And here's here Great-aunt Margaret's Christmas present that she's never written a thank you letter for," she murmured as she began to clear off the top of the bureau preparatory to dusting it. And once remembered, Nancy's misdemeanors mounted in her mother's mind. It must have been blue Monday, because irritation grew in the mother of Nancy as the cleaning of her daughter's room went on.

And then the telephone rang and it proved to be Aunt Margaret—that is Nancy's great aunt—on the wire. "O," groaned Nancy's mother, "that thank you letter!" as she settled herself with the receiver at her ear.

◆

As soon as greetings and "how are you's" and "we're fine's" were over, Nancy's mother plunged into apologies for her daughter—and was soon immersed in retailing her daughter's faults of omission. Suddenly, Aunt Margaret's voice broke in.

"Yes," she said rather gruffly, "I agree with you in everything you've said about Nancy . . . and in addition I suppose she does things on the sly like . . ."

"She certainly does not!" said Nancy's mother. "She's as open as the day."

"And I presume she lies to you when it will get her out of something," went on the accusing voice of Aunt Margaret.

"Why, Aunt Margaret! She's the soul of honesty and truthfulness!" replied Nancy's mother.

"And I suppose she's impudent and answers you back when you reprove her . . . and probably complains to the other girls about how you nag her and . . ."

"Never!" exclaimed Nancy's mother. "She's never been impudent to me—really impudent—in her life. We talk things over and I let her say exactly what she thinks but she's never impudent or ugly. And she's almost fiercely loyal."

◆

Then Nancy's mother stopped for breath and . . . was that a chuckle she heard at the other end of the wire? Was Aunt Margaret . . . at this point she heard brisk, cheerful tones saying:

"My dear Anne, Nancy is a rascal for not writing me, and I know she hates chores [I do too], but she's a wonderful child, right there in everything that's important—'a swell kid,' as Sam said to me the other day—and you should be proud of her—proud that she is what she is and perhaps a little bit proud of the kind of a job you've done. All that's the matter with you, my dear girl, is that you want her to be perfect and you do place too much importance upon all these little things."

I know that parents need to do a lot more overlooking in managing their children. Your child's essential character isn't developed by picking him up on every little fault or task or word that isn't perfect.

We parents need to keep our eye on the ball, which means to keep our aims clear—said aims being to build a rich, full life with our children and for our children.

Tribune Forum This Week Hub of Club World

Woman Congress Event on Thursday, Friday to Draw Distinguished Leaders.

More news of Chicago clubs and club women will be found in the other Society section.

By Ruth DeYoung.

FROM the Atlantic coast and the Pacific, from 35 states of the Union and the border areas of Canada, women leaders are coming to Chicago this week to enjoy and profit by the sessions of the Third Annual Woman congress under the sponsorship of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The congress will be held Thursday and Friday in the Palmer house.

Calendars of city, county and state organizations have been cleared for these two days in order that their officers and delegations of their members may attend the forum. During the six sessions, beginning promptly at noon on Thursday, world figures will be heard in discussions of the modern problems of social welfare and education, science, business, industry, the arts, and government.

Prominent Women Enthusiastic in Their Views of Congress.

"Such a forum clarifies the mental atmosphere and tends to bring the world to a recognition of modern requirement in behavior similar to that already expressed along lines of invention and development," writes Judge Camille Kelley of the Juvenile court of Memphis, Tenn., who expects to be here this week.

"I am so happy that I have found it possible to attend this worthwhile undertaking," comes word from Mrs. Thomas Berry, wife of Gov. Berry of South Dakota. Mrs. Berry will bring a friend with her from Pierre, where the executive mansion is located. Another governor's wife who expects to be in Chicago for the congress is Mrs. Paul McNutt of Indiana.

Wives of Governors Listed Among Honorary Sponsors.

With the wives of the governors of the other ten midwestern states, Mrs. Berry and Mrs. McNutt are members of a committee of 100 prominent women who are honorary sponsors for the dinner that is to close the congress Friday evening. Reservations for this dinner, at $2 apiece, are being made in the order of their receipt. The dinner program, along with the programs for the other congress sessions, is being announced daily in THE TRIBUNE news columns. On Wednesday morning one full page will be devoted to the announcement of the congress program.

Although the program is principally informative in character, several of the finest artists from radio and the concert stage are to provide entertainment. For fifteen minutes preceding each congress session Walter Flandorf and Porter Heaps, nationally recognized organists, will give recitals on a new Hammond electric organ to be installed in the Palmer house through the courtesy of the Hammond Clock company.

Various Social Events Are Scheduled During Congress.

There also are a number of social events planned for the two days to harmonize with the congress program. The Chicago Woman's club will entertain at luncheon at 12:15 o'clock Friday for the distinguished speakers appearing on the morning and afternoon programs of the congress. These speakers will include Dr. Harlow Shapley of Harvard university, Jean Hersholt and Travis Banton, both of Hollywood; Frank Lloyd Wright, noted architect; Capt. Eddie V. Rickenbacker, Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Mrs. Frances Parkinson Keyes, author, and Miss Catharine Curtis, executive director of Women Investors in America. Other special guests will be the eight leaders of national women's organizations who are to bring messages to the congress.

Any one, whether or not a member of the Chicago Woman's club, is invited to attend this luncheon in the club's handsome home at 72 East 11th street. Reservations at $1 apiece are to be made with Mrs. Edward C. Higgins at the club.

Upper Mississippi Valley Conference to Have Luncheon.

The Upper Mississippi Valley conference, which has Mrs. Frederick H. Clausen of Horicon, Wis., for its new president, is to have a luncheon at 1:15 in the Palmer house on Thursday noon, between the first and second sessions of the congress. Reservations for this party are to be made with Mrs. William F. Farrell, vice president of the conference, at 1348 Rosedale avenue.

Following the afternoon session of the congress on Thursday Mrs. Edward J. Lehman and the other officers of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs will entertain for out of town guests at the federation headquarters, 30 West Washington street.

HELPS JUNIOR PROM

Miss Kathryn Eckert is a junior at Rosary college in River Forest and a member of the committee in charge of the junior prom to be held on Valentine's night, next Friday, in the social hall at the college. Miss Mercedes Ford is chairman of the party.

February Vivid Month in Local Art Galleries

Best Work in Two One-Man Shows and Chicago Association's Exhibit.

By Eleanor Jewett.

FEBRUARY promises to be an unusually busy month for those who follow the galleries. Several important exhibitions which opened late in January are continuing into or through the month and, in addition, there are new exhibitions either just opened or about to be opened. Those of us who remember the particularly brilliant still life by Sadie H. Lowes in last winter's Chicago Artists and Vicinity show welcome this artist's one man exhibition of decorative canvases which opened last Monday in the Lord Nelson room, Drake hotel, under the auspices of the All-Illinois Society of Fine Arts.

Another extremely fascinating exhibit just hung is that of miniatures by M. Albert Colfs, a Belgian, at the Roullier galleries, Fine Arts building. Luckily we are not dealing here with the Art institute and Mr. Harshe's deep seated prejudice against miniature painting. This most delightful craft has had to seek harbor in outside galleries for the last ten years because it was forbidden admittance to the museum. The Roullier gallery is fortunate to be showing this enchanting exhibit with its many lovely, tiny portraits. Perhaps the appeal of the exhibition will be felt by enough persons so that pressure may be brought to bear at the Art institute and miniatures restored to their proper place in the annual water color show this spring. Up to about 1925 miniatures were always included in that exhibition.

Among the interesting portraits given us by Albert Colfs are those of Señora de Espil, wife of the ambassador from Argentina; Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, and Little Kyle Adams, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams.

Association Artists Conservative Wing of Old "Society."

The Association of Chicago Painters and Sculptors opened their annual exhibition last night in the Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue. Much of the tradition and artistic background of Chicago is tied up with this group. It embraces the more solid element of the original Chicago Society of Artists, which was founded in about 1890 and grew with the years into a topheavy organization with a too generous admittance of the radical element in painting and sculpture. With the passing of time the two kinds of artists mixed no better than oil and water and a break came in the society. The modern artists retained the name "Chicago Society" and the conservative group, those who took pride in technic and intelligence, linked themselves under the banner of the "Association" of Chicago Painters and Sculptors. There is an enormous difference in the exhibits with which the two groups favor Chicago each year. The radical artists have recently toned down their rebellious instincts to a remarkable degree and have turned out some worthwhile work, but the nonmodern painters have forged ahead on the same difficult, sane, fine lines which they laid down for themselves in the beginning.

The present exhibition gives us a cross section of the better work being done in and around Chicago. The exhibition will continue to March 7. Three prizes are to be awarded. Among the painters and sculptors represented are F. R. Harper, president; Frank V. Dudley, Edward T. Grigware, Rudolph Ingerle, Marie Blanke, J. Jeffery Grant, Walter Krawiec, Harriet B. Krawiec, Ruth Sherwood, Pauline Palmer, James Topping, Helga H. Dean, Katherine Wolcott, Albin Polasek, and Emory P. Seidel.

News of Interest to Lovers of Art.

Last Monday saw the opening of a new exhibit in the Davis store eighth floor gallery. Walter M. Huber and Oskar Mortens are exhibiting wood carvings and Carl Olson is showing oil paintings, chiefly portraits. On Feb. 8 and 12 Mr. Olson, Mr. Huber, and Dorothy Helmuth will demonstrate oil painting, wood carving, and water color painting between 12:30 and 2 o'clock.

* * *

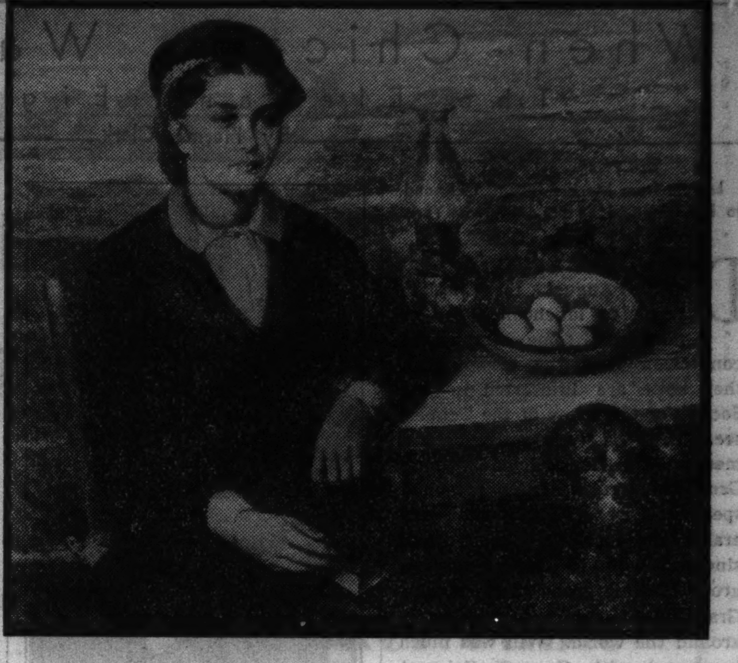
From out of town come two interesting announcements of exhibitions. The Society of the Four Arts has held an exceptionally brilliant loan exhibit of old masters in Palm Beach, Fla. With a few exceptions these paintings were from private homes and attest the interest of many people in acquiring worth while pictures. Among the artists represented were Reynolds, Sully, Van Dyck, Maes, Stuart, Lawrence, Cuyp, Turner, and Murillo. Among those who lent their paintings were Mrs. James H. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shearson, Dr. Frank G. Macomber, Mrs. Henry R. Rea, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Warden, Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock, and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Shaughnessy. A little later in the season this exhibit will be followed by one of modern art.

The Carolina Art association, Charleston, S. C., will present the first public exhibition of the Guggenheim collection of nonobjective paintings at the Gibbs Art gallery from March 1 to April 12. Nonobjective painting is practically the pure essence of modernist abstractionism. The conceptions express the personality and thoughts of the artist through pure form and color. They do not use any object from nature or the material world, even in an abstracted form. In fact, greater liberty was never given a painter than that self-bestowed upon this cult of exquisites.

Any one familiar with their work will know at once the type of exhibit promised when they read these names: Kandinsky, Leger, Paul Klee, Chagall, and Hilla Rebay. The Arts club [Chicago] has brought exhibitions of these painters to town. It is as well to keep up with all the various turns and twists of modern art, and Chicago art lovers owe a debt of gratitude to the Arts club, which keeps us posted.

* * *

The Arts club is showing through February two modern exhibits. The paintings by Caroline Durieux are entertainingly cynical. She has the Peggy Bacon gift for caricature. Her biting sense of humor is irresistible. You will enjoy picture after picture. The Zadkine paintings are unconsciously funny because they have become outmoded. Their kind of modernism is already out of fashion, and this leaves these extravaganzas rather stranded. It is doubtful if any one will take them seriously. "The Model on the Sofa," "The Sick Man" [who will be sicker], "The Combat for the Woman" [when all's said and done, is she worth fighting for?], "The Siesta," and "The White Vase" are typical of Zadkine. It is curious painting and leaves one as cold as dead seaweed left by the sea, stranded on the shore when a high tide has ebbed. There is no life in it.



OUTSTANDING IN HOOSIER SALON

"Deborah of Bean Blossom," by Othmar Hoffler, one of the distinctive paintings found in the Twelfth Annual Hoosier salon, Marshall Field galleries. Mr. Hoffler has an enviable reputation as a portrait painter. His portraits of children are particularly sensitive.

When Chicago Was Young

The Elegant Eighties

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend, Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, Oct. 5, 1886.

DEAR JULIA: Will brought Gen. August L. Chetlain home to luncheon today to talk over some matters in connection with the organization they both are interested in—the Society of the Army of the Tennessee. This society recently held a meeting at Rock Island, where Gen. Chetlain was the principal speaker. I was glad to see the general again, for I hadn't met him since we went to Galena with a group of Chicagoans to greet Gen. Grant on his return from his trip around the world. Will was much impressed with Gen. Chetlain at Rock Island, and was glad to have a further talk with him.

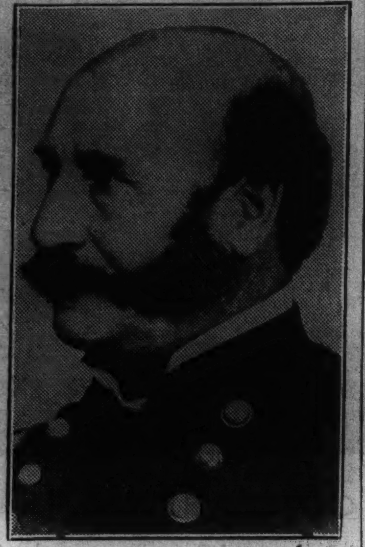
He is of Franco-Swiss parentage, his father and mother having come to this country only three years before he was born he told us today. Galena was a center for lead mining in the early days, and Gen. Chetlain's father operated mines and smelting works there when he came to Illinois.

It was an interesting group of people who lived in Galena then. So many fine families who came to Chicago later. Washburnes, Campbells, Corwiths, and Carters—these are some I recall.

Mr. Chetlain was an enthusiastic supporter of Lincoln, and when Fort Sumter was bombarded he and Elihu Washburne and Grant and others raised a company of volunteers in Galena, of which Mr. Chetlain was made captain, Grant having refused the post. A little later Mr. Chetlain was made lieutenant colonel of the 12th Illinois infantry, and all through the war was extremely active. He and Will had a great time talking over Fort Donelson, Shiloh, and Corinth. Gen. Chetlain at one time had 17,000 colored troops in his command in Tennessee and Kentucky.

I like his face, which speaks of the disciplinarian, but looks kind, too. I think he'd be strict, but fair.

After the war Gen. Grant didn't forget his old comrade, but when he became president appointed him as consul general to Brussels, where he lived for three years. I suppose he was sent there because he could speak French. He is now a banker, so his interests have been broad, you see.



Maj. Gen. August L. Chetlain, well known Chicagoan of yesterday.

Of course the table talk today was thought provoking. The labor unrest is uppermost in men's minds, and Will and Gen. Chetlain talked of that problem and of the arguments recently made before the court in the anarchist case.

Gen. Chetlain deplored the accumulation of wealth in the hands of the few to the disadvantage of the many, saying that with great wealth usually there is found self-indulgence, pride, extravagance, and disintegration of character.

"What would you do about it?" I asked. "How can a country secure the welfare of its people?"

Both men looked thoughtful. Neither could give a remedy for our social troubles, but both agreed that anarchy must be put down sternly. The only thing any of us seemed able to do was to shake his head and "deplore." Will thinks that sending unemployed workers to the country would help, if some competent person could be secured to teach them agriculture. But most city workers don't want to go to the country. So that isn't a solution.

I always used to think that any one in America could get ahead by industry, economy, and righteousness. But times seem to be changing. What is the answer?

Much love, your old friend,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

Gen. August L. Chetlain [1824-1914] was father of Judge Arthur H. Chetlain of Chicago and of Mrs. Thomas Drummond of Montreal.

CHICAGO SILHOUETTES

Eliza Chappel.

To a rude log house near Fort Dearborn came the youthful Eliza Chappel.

[From New York she had come to the west, teaching first at Mackinac Island.]

Sat "infant scholars," wide eyed, as they gazed on the objects around them—

How proud were Chicagoans then, as the children recited their lessons!
Like the east, it seemed, this first schoolhouse, with a gentle woman presiding.

Later, a minister's wife, beloved by the poor of the parish,
Ruling her household well, she wisely nurtured her children.

When the war for the Union came on, she gave her son and her husband,
And in hospitals nursed the wounded . . . the southern as well as the northern.

So lived Eliza Chappel, who taught in Chicago's first schoolhouse.

[Eliza Chappel, Chicago's first schoolteacher, became the wife of the Rev. Jeremiah Porter, first minister of the First Presbyterian church, organized in Fort Dearborn. Mr. Porter was commissioned a chaplain and served in the regiment of which his son James was a member, while Mrs. Porter [Eliza Chappel] nursed the sick and wounded. So much was her kindness appreciated by the confederate soldiers that a large number of them gave her letters testifying to her goodness and asking for like treatment for her if she should ever become a prisoner of the confederate army.]

[Miss Clark always is glad to have stories of old houses now standing, and is especially desirous of receiving information about west side houses. Send these to Herma Clark, care THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

Neckline Adds Special Chic to Print Dress Styled for the Heavy Figure.

By Clotilde.

THE print dress has become virtually a necessity in the wardrobe of the smart woman who wants a practical frock for late winter and early spring. If your figure is the least bit heavy, you are going to want your print dress designed along lines that will slenderize. Pattern No. 2633 is styled for just such a need, and it accomplishes this illusion of slimness with no sacrifice of chic.

A conservative print with a dark background is the best choice. Black with white, blue with white or pastels, and dark brown with beige or henna pattern will be especially attractive for spring.

Not the least of the charm of this dress is its neckline. Gracefully flowing revers outline the V bodice, and plain crêpe forms a dainty vestee which has the added distinction of being gathered at the top. The waistline is pointed for slimness, and the skirt is cut to conceal overweight through the hipline.

If you decide that you don't wish to make this particular model of printed fabric, you will find it exceptionally lovely if created in plain crêpe silk in your favorite shade, or of light weight wool crêpe. With the wide range of types and prices of fabrics available today, you will find this dress economical. Another advantage of this pattern is that it is simple to sew.

Style No. 2633 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4⅜ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Clotilde is a daily contributor to the Chicago Tribune, offering constructive information to women who enjoy making their own clothes, and presenting a fascinating pattern every day of the week.

New and timely as the "first robin." A veritable tonic for weary wardrobes is the spring and early summer edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions. In it are presented all types of daytime clothes, "date" frocks, evening dresses, and special sections devoted to slenderizing models, house frocks, and scores of styles for juveniles. The booklet now is on sale for 15 cents, 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address Chicago Tribune, P. Contract Bridge According to Culbertson

Opening 2 Bid Hinges on the Losing Tricks

By ELY CULBERTSON

SINCE the arrival some eight years ago of contract bridge in this country the fiercest controversies have centered around the requirements for an opening forcing bid. Auction players realized that if game contracts were to be reached when one hand had a rock crusher and the other a washout—and reached in the right suit!—some device would be necessary to make the weak hand disclose at least its distribution. It was to meet this exigency that I formulated the forcing two bid. Admittedly in that dear dead past neither I nor any other student of the new game had an exact idea of how good a hand had to be in order to insist on the partnership reaching game. That could come only with real experience. A great many players—and not all dubs at that—thought that with a nucleus of five tricks in aces and kings, nine, ten, and even eleven trick contracts should be taken in a stride. To put it slangily, they found out different!

The present-day standards were formulated not on theory but on case methods. They have stood the test of time. It is doubtful whether they will ever be changed. That being the case, it will pay every player to know these requirements thoroughly, not sketchily. Here they are:

When a hand contains more honor tricks than losing tricks it should be opened with a forcing two bid.

Certainly that's simple enough. And even beginners can count up their honor tricks. The only difficulty, and that is not a great one, is determining the number of losers. Take an easy example:

♠ A K 2 ♥ A K Q ♦ K Q J 10 9 8 ♣ 2

A child could count the losers—the deuce of spades, the diamond trick to the ace, and the deuce of clubs—three in all. The honor tricks: 2 in spades, 2 in hearts, 1½ in diamonds; total, 5½. Obviously a two bid.

But let us take a more difficult case:

♠ 3 2 ♥ A Q ♦ A K 4 3 2 ♣ A K 4 3

Again we find 5½ honor tricks. But how about the losers? Not so good! And not so easy to count. The two spades, of course, and a possible loser in hearts if the king is over our A-Q. In diamonds and clubs the losers are more indefinite. But there is no need for split-hair exactness; we see at a glance that both suits require solid filling material from partner; that the diamond suit is worth about three tricks because of its length, and the club suit about two and a half. Casting a rough balance, we find about six losers—which is too many! The decision is obvious—we have no two bid!

≈

This is the story of a "huddler's" punishment. You know—one of those chaps that goes into a ten-minute communion with himself over the choice of an opening lead. One very much like myself, I must blushingly admit. I once thought twenty minutes before playing to the first trick in an important tournament. But this time, I am happy to say, I was not the guilty party. My sympathy goes out to him just the same.

It happened during the recent Atlantic national tournament. A North-South pair had spurned the use of the four-five no-trump convention and had reached, more enthusiastically than wisely, a small slam contract in spades. The bidding, with East and West remaining discreetly silent, had gone:

North	South
1 ♠	2 no trump
3 ♦	4 ♠
6 ♠

And at this juncture West had stepped in with a resounding double! All passed.

Poor East, on lead with a Yarborough (not even a ten-spot in his hand), reviewed the bidding mentally about a dozen times, stared at the ceiling for inspiration, groaned, and perspired freely. He couldn't decide what lead his partner expected. And this was one of the last boards, with the final result in the balance.

West, the doubler, assumed a position of great comfort and peacefully twiddled his thumbs. He was in no turmoil! And he had seen his partner's huddles before.

Finally, resigned to the pessimism that he was sure to guess wrong, East closed his eyes and played a card. The declarer took one look at the dummy and threw his hand on the table. "Down one," he growled. West had the ace and king of trumps!

≈

Not always is it as safe to double a slam bid as it was for West in the little tale just told. Remember that had the contract been changed back to no trump he would have been on lead with his ace-king of spades. Here is a different angle:

NORTH
♠ 6 5 3 2
♥ ——
♦ 9 8 7 6 4 3
♣ 9 5 4

WEST
♠ A J 10 8 4
♥ A K J 5 4 3
♦ ——
♣ J 2

EAST
♠ 9 7
♥ Q 2
♦ A Q J 2
♣ A K Q 8 7

SOUTH
♠ K Q
♥ 10 9 8 7 6
♦ K 10 5
♣ 10 6 3

The bidding (both sides vulnerable):

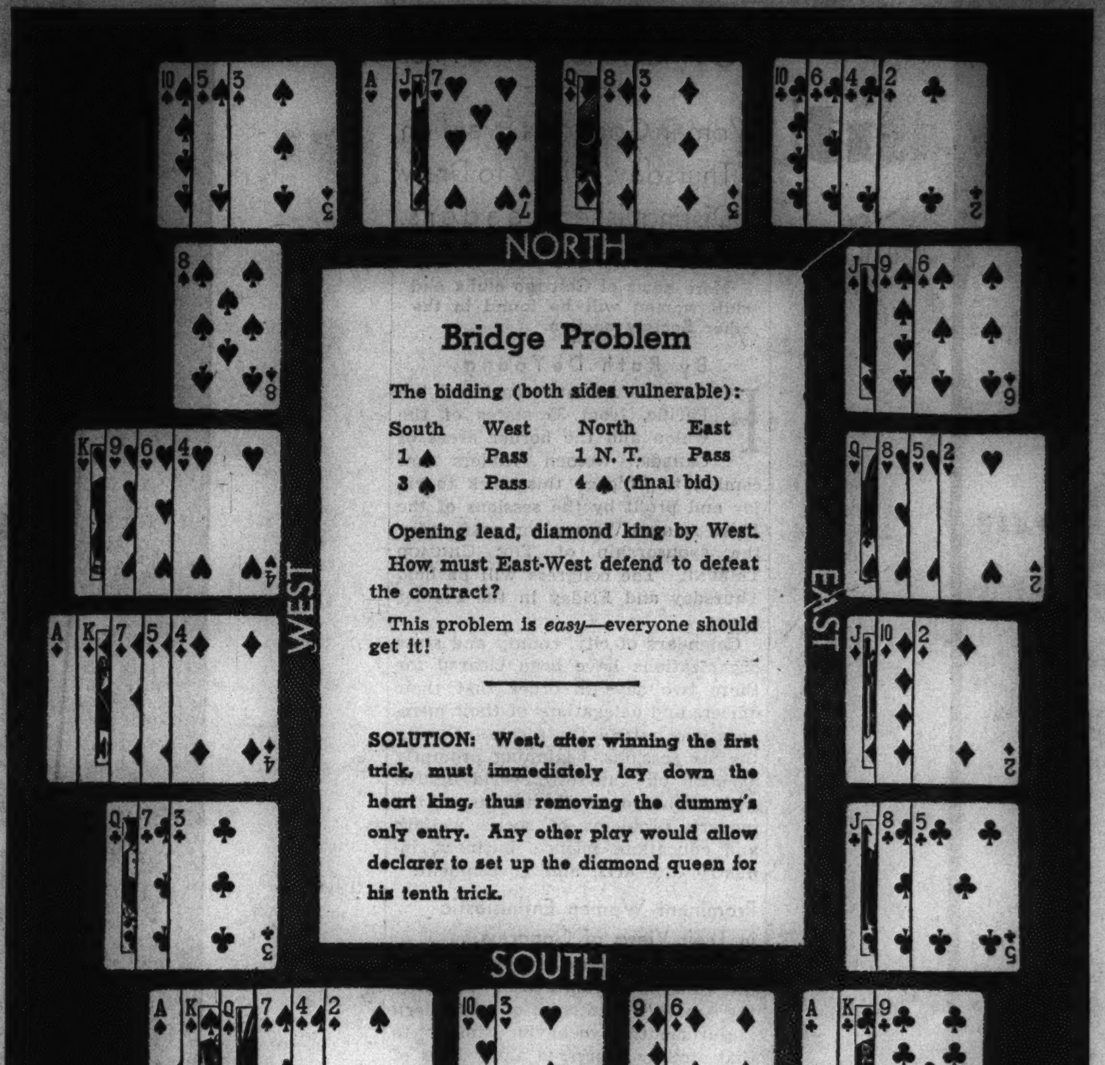
West	North	East	South
1 ♥	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 N. T.	Pass
5 N. T.	Pass	6 N. T.	Pass
7 ♥	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	7 N. T.	Double (final bid)

South's double of seven hearts was about as bad a bid as one could find throughout the land. True, he knew he could defeat the contract, but this was reason for passing, not for risking its takeout. He probably thought that with the K Q of spades and the king of diamonds undoubtedly on the right side, he could also defend successfully a no-trump grand slam, but he made one fatal oversight—what was he going to discard on East's obvious club suit? He soon found out that he couldn't discard!

The king of spades was the opening lead. Dummy's ace won, and the clubs were run off. On the fourth round South nonchalantly tossed a diamond, but on the fifth he was a gone goose. A heart discard would allow West's six-card suit to be run; a spade would establish all of West's spades. He blanked his king of diamonds, hoping the declarer would be unable to read that fact. But East was fully aware of the squeeze probabilities and promptly laid down the ace of diamonds. The queen squeezed South again—there was no escape. The vulnerable grand slam became a lay-down. A total of about 2,500 points for the opponents instead of at least 100 for himself and partner was the result of the seven heart double!

(Copyright: 1936: By Ely Culbertson.)

Each Monday in The Daily Tribune Mr. Culbertson writes a bridge article especially for beginners. Articles for more advanced players on other days.



Bridge Problem

The bidding (both sides vulnerable):

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 N. T.	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠ (final bid)

Opening lead, diamond king by West.

How must East-West defend to defeat the contract?

This problem is easy—everyone should get it!

SOLUTION: West, after winning the first trick, must immediately lay down the heart king, thus removing the dummy's only entry. Any other play would allow declarer to set up the diamond queen for his tenth trick.

Today's Questions

Question: Please advise the correct bid, first hand vulnerable, on the following hand: ♠ A J 9 8 7 2 ♥ A J 8 6 ♦ 8 4 ♣ 2.

Answer: This hand, containing 2½ honor tricks and a strong major suit, justifies a one spade bid. A pass might easily result in a lost game.

Question: Holding one-plus honor trick, is it always proper to give a positive response to an opening two bid?

Answer: No. Such a hand as ♠ 5 4 2 ♥ 6 4 3 ♦ Q 5 4 ♣ A 5 3 2 is a better two no-trump response to an opening bid of two spades or two hearts. An opening two bid in either minor suit, however, may be raised.

Chicagoans Go in for Riding and Rodeos at Phoenix

PHOENIX, ARIZ. The Francis Neilsons entertained at luncheon Tuesday in their cabana at the pool of a Phoenix hotel. Their guests were the James Minottos, the Gibson Paines, and Mrs. Walter Hubbard Sterling, the former Dorothy Paine. After luncheon the group played bridge and ping-pong. Mrs. Justin Dart and her two young sons, Peter and Justin, are enjoying horseback riding daily and participating in the roping contests at the guests' rodeos. Mr. Dart arrived for a few days, and the Darts had as their guests for dinner and dancing the Stanley Culvers, who are wintering here.

The James McMillans have returned for another season. A trip to Casa Grande to visit the old ruins and study their historic background was made by thirty of the Biltmore guests yesterday. Among them were Mrs. E. S. Westbrook of Evanston, Mrs. Scott J. Dow of Hinsdale, and Miss Dora O'Brien of Chicago. The T. J. Petersons and their daughter, Helen, play golf and swim each day. Other Chicagoans here are the John G. Curtises of Lake Forest, the Charles Renshaws, Mrs. Vaughan C. Spalding and her son, Edward; the W. J. Hamlins, and the Charles P. Randalls and their daughter, Mary Ellen. Mr. and Mrs. Randall play golf and Mary Ellen rides daily. She won first prize for the junior high jump in the guests' rodeo Sunday.

Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson and her daughter, Nancy, have arrived for a week of horseback riding, swimming, and desert outings. Mrs. Clyde M. Carr of Lake Forest and her sister, Mrs. William Blanchard, have a swimming pool cottage for the winter season. They are accompanied by Mrs. Kenneth Henderson and her two children. Dr. Arthur H. Curtis is spending a long vacation at Jokake, enjoying desert walks and sunshine. Mrs. William Burry Jr. and son, Michael, are here for a month. Miss Lois Truesdale of Winnetka is another recent arrival.

CHICAGOLAND WEDDINGS

Maurene June Frey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Frey, 2315 West 108th place, to Casper S. Mast Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Casper S. Mast of Quincy, Ill., on Feb. 1 at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Mast both are graduates of the University of Illinois. They are spending their honeymoon in Florida and Havana.

Clara Katz, daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Katz, 647 Sheridan road, to Ben Frankel, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Frankel of Cicero.

Essye Beers, daughter of Mrs. Mary Beers of Philadelphia, Pa., to Maurice D. Latz of New York, formerly of Chicago.

Estyr Halley Abrams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Abrams, 6932 Jeffery avenue, to Aaron Reifman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Reifman, on Feb. 9. A reception will be held in the afternoon and evening at the home of the bride's parents.

Maxine Ruth Guggenheim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Guggenheim of the Madison Park hotel, to Alvin Karters of Asheville, N. C., on Feb. 16.

USE POWDER

100% Cleansing Properties
Twice that of tooth paste

No Grit—No Pumice
Cannot possibly scratch the softest enamel

Lasts Longer—Costs Less
Outlasts tooth paste 2 to 1

Do as your dentist does—
when he cleans your teeth

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER—just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used. Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay. Powder leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. People by the thousands are changing daily.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

INTERESTED IN HOMES OF A BYGONE ERA

Joan Holloway, daughter of Mrs. Glenn Holloway, formerly of Natchez, Miss., and now of Chicago, in the costume she wore at one of the pilgrimages to the ante-bellum homes and estates at Natchez. This year's pilgrimage will be held March 27 to April 5. Each spring thousands of persons from all parts of the United States gather for this unusual display.

Roman Outpost Found.

TUNIA.—(AP)—A far outpost of the Roman empire was discoverel in the extreme south of Tunisia, near Medenina. The ruins of a fort and Christian church seemed to be part of a series of military stations which guarded the Sahara in the first centuries of the Christian era.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations, to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What are the rates charged at the pilgrimage to the old homes and estates at Natchez, Miss.?—E. W.

The pilgrimage is composed of four tours, and the charge is $1.50 a tour for each person. This year the dates are March 27 to April 5.

When is the dogsled derby to be held at Quebec?—A. R. B.

Feb. 20, 21, and 22.

What can you tell me about Silver Springs, Fla.?—F. S.

It is a well developed resort 5½ miles east of Ocala and is known chiefly for the crystal purity of its waters. Visitors are taken in glass bottomed boats to view the underwater wonders. Travelers going there by rail take the Seaboard Airline to Ocala and from there finish the trip by bus. The late Billy Sunday once said of the place: "God must have crumbled His most perfect rainbow and dropped it in Silver Springs."

How do you pronounce Cobh, the port for Cork, Ireland?—M. G.

It is usually called Cobb or Cobe, but the correct pronunciation is Cove.

How does Venezuela rate as an oil production center?—C. H.

It is the world's second largest source of oil. Its principal petroleum fields lie around Lake Maracaibo, the Orinoco delta, and near the mouth of the San Juan river.

You Can Buy a Wife for $10 in This Paradise

MASON WARNER, writer on travel topics, led his fellow members of the Adventurers' club on a thrilling adventure to Bali, Java, Angkor, and Singapore Thursday night. The trip was taken in the club quarters by means of three reels of motion pictures snapped by Mr. Warner on his travels in the far east. The pictures included everything from the dances of the Balinese to the palaces of the sultans of Solo and Djokja.

In the course of his running comment the lecturer made these observations:

"The so-called beautiful women of Bali chew the beetle nut, and when they spit it's a spit.

"It's a very fine country. The men work from 15 to 20 days a year. The women do all the rest of the work. And there are two women for every man.

"You can buy a wife there for from 10 to 40 ringgits, and a ringgit is about a dollar."

Mr. Warner was introduced by Maj. George F. Lee. Col. C. Van Deventer, president of the club, was toastmaster at the dinner preceding the travel talk.

Yacht Race from Miami to Nassau Begins Tuesday

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 8.—The third international Miami to Nassau yacht race will begin Tuesday. When the score of ocean competition craft round the Miami sea buoy and turn toward the gulf stream, hundreds of private boats will be on hand to bid them "bon voyage."

Among the outdoor companion events to the yacht race is the pro senior golf tournament at the Miami Country club, with an entry list of nearly 50 teams.

Top flight women golfers, most of whom competed in the championship of champions tournament, are ready to nick par over the Miami Biltmore course in its annual women's championship.

The Glenn Curtis trophy tournament at the Miami Springs Country club will draw leading amateurs in the district.

Stone Carvings of Borobudur Two Miles Long

Java's Buddha Temple Is Still in a Remarkable State of Preservation.

By Mason Warner.

NINE TERRACES AND INNUMERABLE SCULPTURES

Built more than a thousand years ago, the Borobudur, in Java, is still well preserved. The colossal structure is 394 feet square and 115 feet high. It is held to be one of the great existing relics of ancient Buddhism.

DJOKJA, Java, N. E. I.—A motor trip or a railway journey in Java affords views of native villages in the jungle and on the clear and level plateaus, and of terraces of rice paddies, with natives planting or stirring up the flooded fields with primitive wooden plows drawn by carabao.

When one looks down from a hilltop over the terraces of rice, they present a design similar to the reverse side of a jigsaw puzzle, with each irregularly cut piece in its proper place—but this design is laid at an angle, as the terraces form a series of descending stairs.

The houses of the natives are usually of plaited bamboo, with thatched roofs of rice straw. The dwellings of the Dutch in the towns and cities are substantial frame structures and architecturally designed to be as cool as possible. Shaded verandas and wide hallways are the most prominent features.

Better than the Volcanoes.

Show places in Java that get more attention from the majority of tourists than do the volcanoes and the mountain resorts are the two sultanates of Solo and Djokja. At Solo are to be witnessed the native dances and drama. There, too, can be seen the making of batik, Java's unique textile, with its vegetable colorings put on by hand with a small brush, constructed like a fountain pen, through beeswax coatings so cut out as to permit the dyes to go through to the cloth in conformance to the design stenciled through the wax. A native woman will work eight or ten weeks to produce a three yard sarong, but—alas—in Paterson, N. J., and in a dozen cities in Japan they can print an imitation piece that looks so much like the real thing that only a Javanese can tell the difference. [Tip to tourists: if you want real batik, do not buy it unless you see it made.]

The two great attractions at Djokja are the Borobudur and the sultan's kraton. Description of the sultan's palace and household must wait until the next chapter, for the kraton is open to visitors only on Friday, and this is written on Thursday.

Borobudur, the Great Buddhist Memorial.

It is a twenty mile motor drive from Solo to the Borobudur, one of the finest examples of Buddhistic antiquity existing. It is built in the form of a stupa, its contour being that of a flattened bell, for its height is not in proportion to the regular bell shape, being too low for the great base. The whole structure is 334 feet square and 115 high.

The form of the stupa was a design employed for a resting place of the relics of Buddha, or any Buddhist saint, or for a building to commemorate an important occurrence in the history of Buddhism. It is solemnly declared that a portion of the ashes of the great Buddha are deposited in the Borobudur.

Erected more than a thousand years ago [begun some time between 750 and 850 A. D.], the Borobudur survives today in a remarkable state of preservation. It stands facing Mount Merapi, on a plain dotted with tall coconut palms and bordered on the horizon by a range of beautiful hills. The colossal structure is not built on a hill, but up the sides and around one, and the hill is the core of the structure.

Marvelous Carvings and Statues.

When Islam overcame Buddha in Java in the fifteenth century, the Mohammedans destroyed the Buddhist temples, together with their images and statues of Buddha and the saints. The priests in charge of Borobudur covered the entire building with earth, and tropical nature furnished a jungle growth to camouflage and hide the sacred edifice. It was not until 1814 that Sir Stamford Raffles, then governing Java as a British possession, surmised the temple to be somewhere in that region, discovered the exact site, gave orders to excavate, and uncovered Borobudur. Systematic restoration of the ruins by the Dutch officials was undertaken in 1907 and finished in 1911.

Starting from the level plain, nine terraces lead up the sides and over the top of the hill. The six lower ones are square and the three upper ones are circular in form. There are 432 niches in the stone walls, each one containing a statue of the Dhyana Buddha.

Four terraces contain 1,300 sculptures on the outside and inner balustrade walls. The life story of Buddha, according to legend, is depicted on the first terraces; the dramatic incidents of Buddha's earlier incarnations are carved on the remainder of the walls on the first terrace and on the inside balustrade walls of the second terrace.

Small Cell and Unapproachable Room.

The legend of Maitraya, the Buddha of the time to come, is shown on the third terrace and part of the balustrade of the fourth terrace, while the main walls of the fourth terrace are dedicated to Samantabhadra, another Buddhist deity. Nearly two-thirds of the sculptures are still undeciphered.

The three upper terraces are ornamented with 32, 24, and 16 lattice work stupas, each hollow bell shape containing a well done statue of the historical Buddha in the attitude of prayer.

Topping the summit is a large central stupa, the octagonal pinnacle of which was once decorated with three sunshades to typify the Buddhistic jewels of faith. Inside this topmost stupa is an unapproachable room containing a remarkable statue of Buddha in an unfinished state. Above the statue room is a small cell, the purpose of which is unknown.

In addition to the sculptured bas reliefs illustrating episodes in the life of Buddha on the sustaining walls, the corners are ornamented with Indian gargoyles. Delicately carved decorations of flowers, birds, and animals break the lines of the gutters and run along the cornices. On the upper three terraces are scores of stupas, through the apertures in the stone lattice work of which can be seen life-sized stone images of Buddha.

It is said the stone carvings on the walls of the Borobudur would measure more than two miles if placed end to end. It is impossible to conceive the days, weeks, months, and years of labor that were expended upon them. The material used is volcanic stone, the grayish tint of which enhances the imposing effect of the massive ruins of the ancient temple.

Mendoet Temple and Prambanan.

Two miles to the east of Borobudur is Mendoet temple, small, but impressive, and in a fair state of preservation. It belongs to the same period and was a part of the Borobudur priests' settlement. The temple contains an image of Buddha eighteen feet tall, which height the natives believe was the true stature of the living Buddha.

The Prambanan temples, just ten miles northeast of Djokja, are not Buddhist. They are considered the finest and most famous Hindu monuments in Java. This temple group once formed a square, with its sides facing the four points of the compass. The middle group comprised eight temples, now fallen to ruins, and was enclosed in a wall 560 feet long on each of its sides. Outside this wall were three successive squares enclosing approximately 157 small temples.

DETOURS

By Frederic Babcock.

KING CARNIVAL LVIII. will arrive in Nice next Thursday to set up his throne and reign for a fortnight. At the end of his reign thousands of his dancing subjects will burn him in effigy, the while fireworks are set off along the seafront to mark his passing.

On the night of his majesty's arrival huge floral arches will decorate the streets, and festoons of electric lights will sparkle down the Promenade. The explosion of a bomb overhead will signal the start of the procession, with hundreds of torch bearers, some on horseback, some on floats, and with great masked figures, pop-eyed and grinning, winding through the city. The procession is to end when the monarch is installed in his royal loggia.

The battle of flowers is scheduled for a week later. On such occasions beautifully decorated floats move slowly along the Promenade. Both spectators and participants are armed with flowers and, as the floats pass, every one pelts every one else. As the battle grows more exciting the people leave the stands and follow the parade, showering blossoms the length of the route.

● Derived from the Latin, "carnival" once meant "farewell to meat," and it grew out of Christian tradition, but these fêtes began long before Christianity was introduced to Europe.

In Germany the word originally signified the driving out of winter and its demons by spring and its good spirits [we wish that could be done in Chicagoland right now], and noise was always an important part of the ceremony. Even today in the Werdenfels district a man goes about the streets with great cowbells suspended from his belt. Naturally, he rings them for all he is worth. In this section carnival masks of terrible demons, grinning devils with pointed horns, and grotesque animals have been handed down for generations. Since the wearer would be easily recognized if he wore the same one each year, there is always a spirited exchange of disguises beforehand.

This year interest centers at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, where the winter Olympics began last Thursday. At that Alpine resort some of the celebrants dress up as dwarfs with giant heads, others as old women carrying men on their backs, and still others as babies.

● The spirit of carnival rules over other lands as well. The season in Italy is marked by masked balls and a flower show at San Remo, processions on Capri, and night parades at Viareggio.

Each year Taormina puts on a parade of donkey carts, scarcely changed since the days of the Roman empire. The carts have only a large square box for a body, but they are gaudily painted and carved, and the donkeys are decked out like nobody's business. This year the parade is to be held on Feb. 23.

● In Spain the celebration reaches its height in the Fallas of San José, in Valencia on March 12. There silk banners float from windows, flags crowd the narrow thoroughfares, and the Square of Flowers is thronged. Firecrackers strung along the streets are exploded from time to time. And, of course, there are the inevitable bull fights.

The Fallas, about a hundred stationary floats in various parts of the city, are magnificent affairs. They are decorated with satirical effigies, such as those of peasants, and workmen, and tourists with guidebooks in their hands.

At the end of the festival the floats meet the same fate as that of Carnival LVIII. They are saturated with gasoline and then the torch is applied.

Under Two Flags.

HEINING LES BOUZONVILLE, France.—(AP)—A huge Nazi flag on the north tower of the parish church led to an investigation by indignant authorities of this Saar frontier village. They found that, although the priest is French and the services are conducted in French, the north half of the church is in German territory and some of the parishioners live there. The Nazi flag still flies from the flagstaff.

Style Show At St. Petersburg

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 8.—[Special.]—Mid-February's most important outdoor event, from the standpoint of society, will be the pre-view of spring and summer styles next Wednesday at the Hotel Don Ce-Sar on the gulf beach.

Visitors from nearly every state will witness the style presentation from boxes facing the boardwalk at the hotel, the models descending the sweeping outside staircase from the balconies.

About 2,000 persons will attend from St. Petersburg, Clearwater, Belleair, Sarasota, and other west coast resorts.

GOING SOMEWHERE?

THERE will be eighteen sailings to Alaska on the Canadian Pacific's summer schedule, H. W. Eagle, acting general agent in Chicago, announced yesterday. Sixteen of these will be the regular trips and the other two will be ten day cruises. Starting June 6 the Princess Louise, the Princess Charlotte, and the Princess Alice are to sail weekly during June and August, and twice weekly in July. The two special cruises will start June 24 and July 29 on the Princess Charlotte. On them the liner will deviate from the regular steamer lanes of the inside passage to call at Sitka, on Baronoff Island, ancient capital of the czars.

To meet the demand of Chicagoans with limited time at their disposal, a group of five circle tours of Florida has been arranged. The tours, says C. J. White, manager of the American Express travel service in Chicago, last less than two weeks but includes eight full days in the southern state, with an option of longer stays if desired. Among the cities visited are Miami, Oscala, St. Petersburg, West Palm Beach, St. Augustine, West Lake Wales, Jacksonville, and Daytona Beach.

⸻

The city ticket office of the Chicago and Southern Airlines has been moved to the Palmer House lobby. Similar offices already are maintained there for Transcontinental Western Air, Inc., and the Northwest Airlines.

⸻

A full month of winter sports activities remains at Eagle River, in the north woods of Wisconsin. For the Washington birthday week-end there the Chicago and North Western railway will operate three day tours out of this city. The program at that time will include skiing, hocky, skating, dog sledding, and tobogganing.

A Page Out of Persian History Makes Possible This History-Making PERSIAN RUG SALE

Store Hours, 9:30 A. M. to 6 P. M.

A sale that transcends any similar offering in years. Here are the facts! Three years ago Persia contracted with the Iranska Kompaniet of Sweden for materials for a railroad across Persia. As payment, the Swedish company took the BEST of all available Persian rugs. They transported these rugs to Constantinople, thence to London, and finally to New York—where Mandel's buyer consummated the outstanding rug transaction in our history. In addition, we are including a number of spectacular values from our own fine assortments—at great savings.

GENUINE PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA
PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA TABLETS
NOW, ALSO IN TABLET FORM

A Grave Mistake
FOR A MOTHER TO MAKE

GIVING CHILD UNKNOWN REMEDIES
Without Asking Doctor First

No matter how limited a family's income, there's one "bargain counter purchase" no mother can afford to make — without asking her family doctor first. That's in remedies for her child to take.

Any doctor, any child authority will tell you this. Tell you to know all there is to know about any medicine your child takes internally.

Do this about any drugs you buy for your child. And do it, too, for your sake as well as ours, about the frequently used "milk of magnesia" given children.

Ask Him About "Phillips'"

Ask particularly about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. He will tell you, we know, that for over 60 years doctors have endorsed it as SAFE for your child. One of the finest that men of science know. The kind of remedy you feel secure in giving to your child.

Now Also In Tablet Form

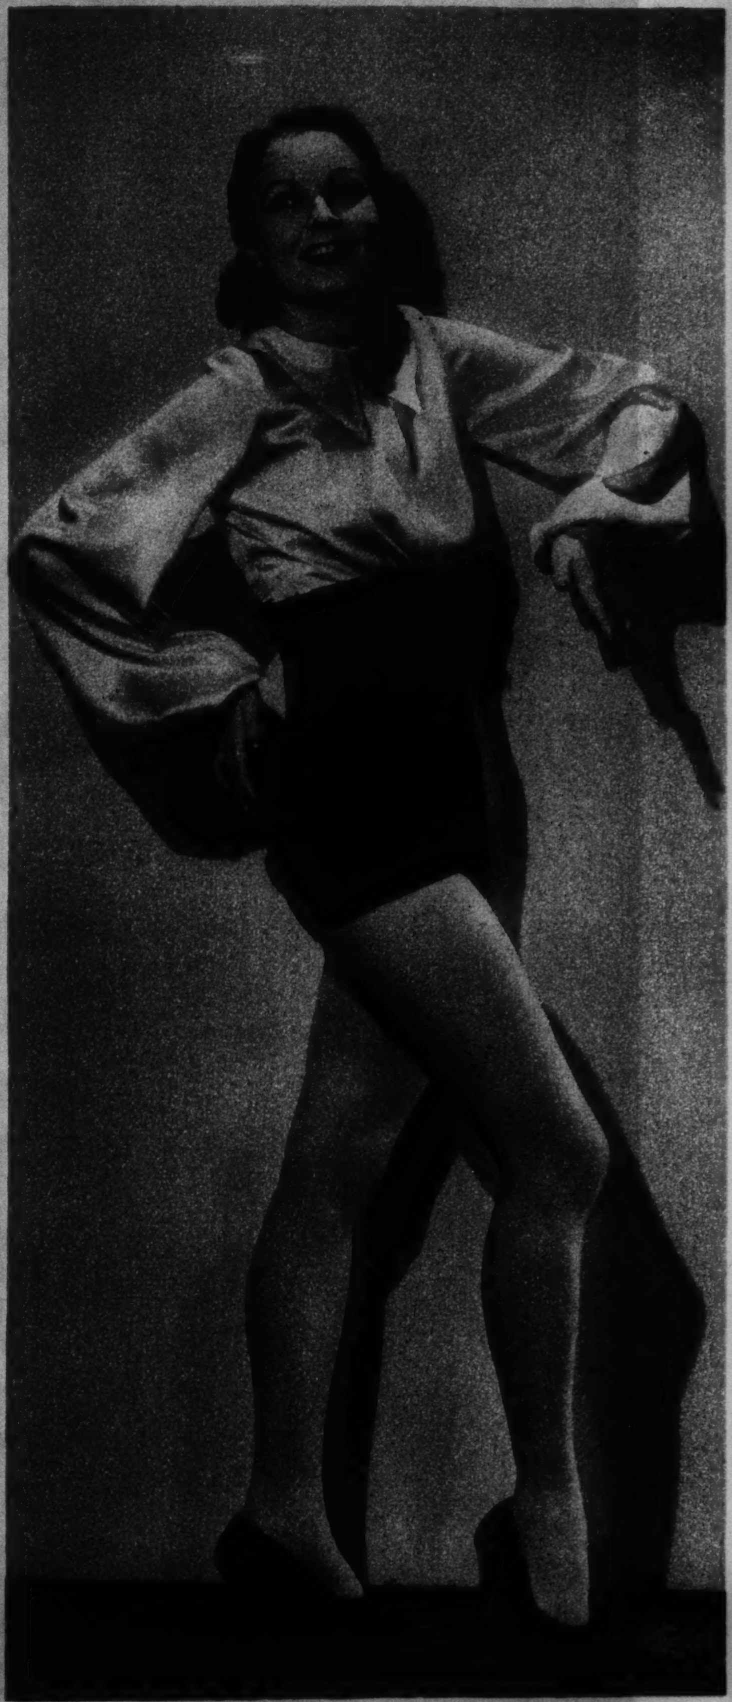
Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is now made in two forms. Liquid and tablet. Each tablet contains the exact equivalent of a teaspoonful of the liquid form, tastes like peppermint, easy to get children to take.

A big, convenient box that you can carry in your purse or pocket costs only 25¢ at drug stores. But — see that the words "GENUINE PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA" are printed on any box or bottle you accept.

Safety for You and Yours

You can assist others by refusing to accept a substitute for the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Do this in the interest of yourself and your children—and in the interest of the public in general.

PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA



"THE PERFECT DANCING GIRL OF 1936" is the appellation bestowed on Ann Meril by a Hollywood director. She is 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 115 pounds. Her waist, 26 inches; bust, 34; ankle, 8.

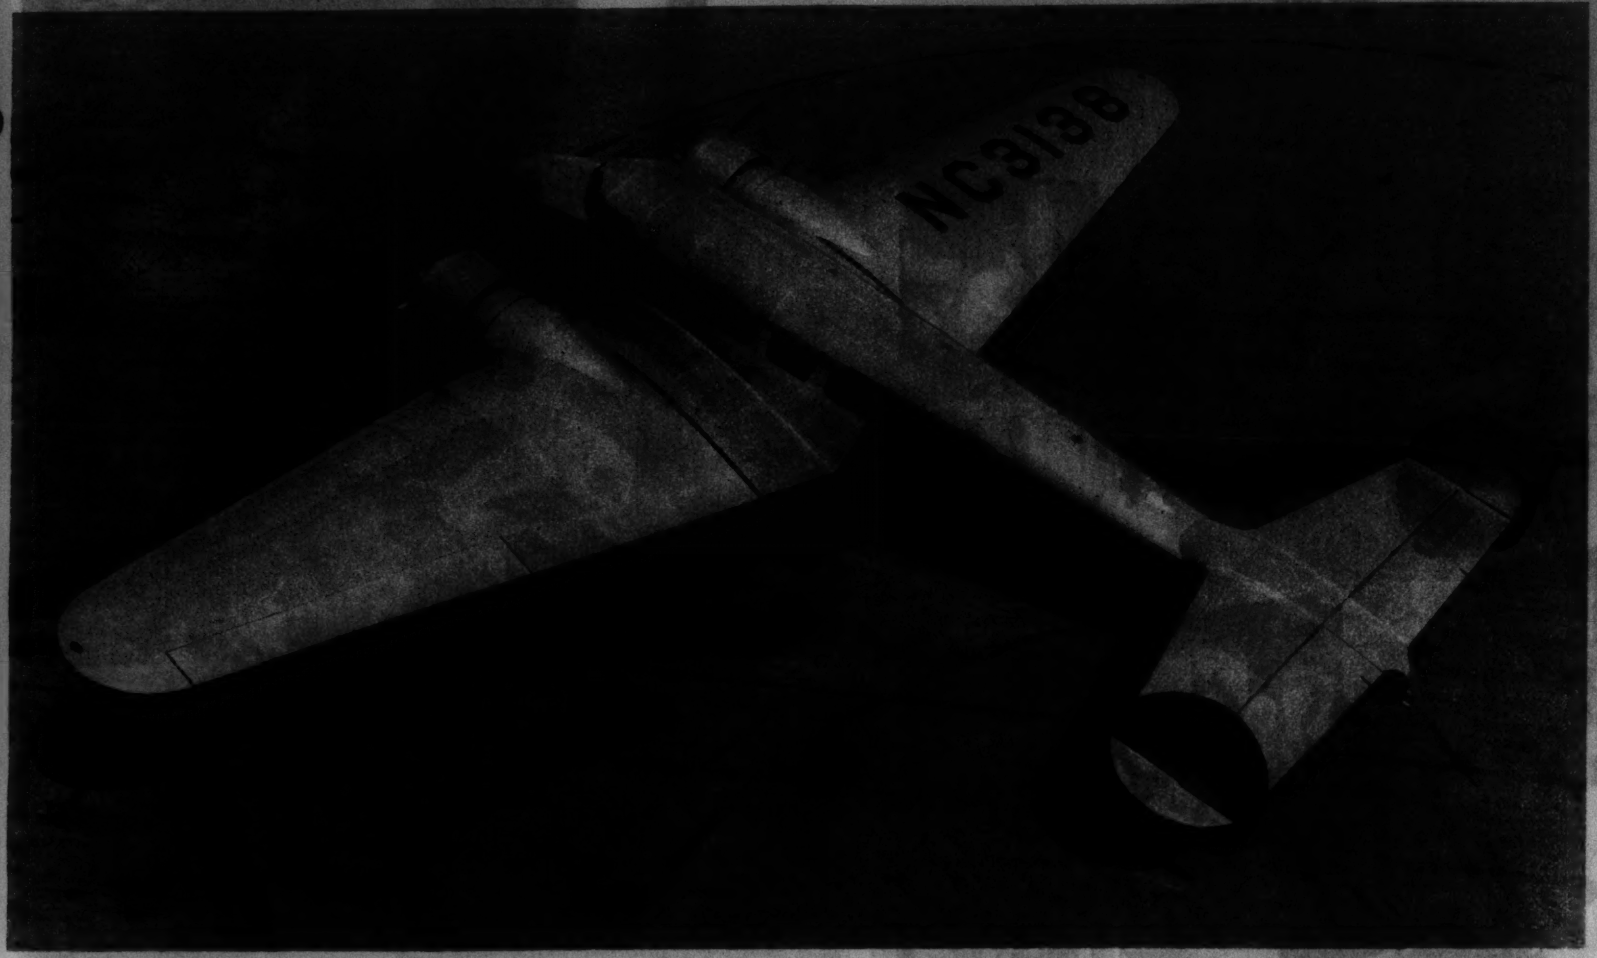
A PICTORIAL PARADE OF AMERICAN PLANES



FOR YOUR SCRAP BOOK: A PINT SIZE AIRLINER—The Lockheed Electra transport. The wings of this ship extend but 55 feet from tip to tip, and the fuselage is only 38 feet long. The Electra has proved particularly efficient on routes involving frequent stops. Carrying 10 passengers, two pilots, and 500 pounds of cargo, it has a top speed of 206 miles an hour and cruises between 172 and 182 miles per hour between sea level and 5,000 feet. The engines are Wasp Jrs. developing 420 horsepower, and supercharged to operate best at 5,000 feet.

THE FASTEST TRANSPORT PLANE BUILT IN THE UNITED STATES—The Vultee V-1a, which cruises at 200 miles an hour and has a top speed of 225 miles an hour with eight passengers and pilot and 450 pounds of mail or express. The fuselage is 37 feet long and the wing span 50 feet. The single motor is a 715 horse power Cyclone. The federal bureau of air commerce prohibits use of single motored craft for scheduled airline operations at night or over rough country, and soon will prohibit their use as commercial transports. . . . For convenience in mounting in a loose leaf folder, filing markers are printed at left. . . . Other American airplanes will be pictured, in proportionate scale, in forthcoming weeks.

To chase a COLD away

1. CLEANSE THE SYSTEM

2. COMBAT ACIDITY

"DON'T LET A COLD LINGER," warn physicians. They recommend: (1)—Cleanse the system (2)—Combat the acidity that encourages a cold. And Sal Hepatica does BOTH. First, Sal Hepatica cleanses the intestinal tract—quickly, thoroughly. Second, Sal Hepatica does what no ordinary laxative can do. It brings about a definite alkaline (anti-acid) reaction, to help your system become normally alkaline again. Since cold germs seldom take hold in an alkaline system, you see how important Sal Hepatica's anti-acid action is.

SO WHENEVER a cold threatens, take two teaspoons of Sal Hepatica in a glass of water. In addition, get plenty of rest and quiet (go to bed and call a physician if your cold is too severe)—watch your diet and drink plenty of liquids. That is the scientific way. Get Sal Hepatica today.

TUNE IN! Fred Allen's "Town Hall Tonight." Full hour. Every Wednesday night, over N. B. C. Coast to Coast.

Sal Hepatica does BOTH!

HEALTH REGAINED..

Because

SARÁKA

Exercises and Strengthens the Intestinal Muscles

YOU know the glow of health that comes after invigorating outdoor exercise. You feel clear headed — full of energy — as if your whole body were running more smoothly.

But suppose your opportunities for proper outdoor exercise are limited. That's no reason why you should spend the rest of your life feeling just "pretty well"—no reason why you cannot once again enjoy excellent health.

Of all the muscles in the body, those which have most to do with keeping you well are the intestinal muscles. Saráka gives these muscles the kind of exercise they need most — internal exercise.

*Bulk Plus Motility

The principal ingredient in Saráka* is bassorit, a material gathered from trees in India. In the intestines, an amazing change takes place. The bassorit gradually expands into a material resembling soft gelatin. It forms BULK.

Bulk, as you perhaps know, is lacking in the average "civilized" meal made up of delicate, over-refined foods. Saráka fills this gap in the daily diet — gives those intestinal muscles something on which to exercise — makes them work for a living. This action is so natural yet thorough that you will be reminded of your childhood days when constipation was something you never thought of.

But, in many cases of habitual constipation, bulk alone is not enough. A second vegetable ingredient, a specially prepared frangula, is therefore used in making Saráka. Its effect is mildly to stimulate the intestinal walls to activity. You then have BULK PLUS MOTILITY, a combination not found in ordinary laxatives or cathartics—a combination that has won for Saráka a most impressive endorsement from the medical profession of America.

Worth Trying

In this advertisement, we have made a sincere effort to tell you exactly how and why Saráka can help keep you in good health. We suggest that you give this product a brief trial. You will find Saráka pleasant to take—thorough and natural in its results. The coupon below makes a very interesting introductory offer.

A beauty bath like unbelievable magic!

The whole world is diligently striving to educate women to develop greater personal charm and beauty—and the now recognized outstanding beauty secret is the Linit Bath, for its results are immediate, and it is amazingly economical.

Just imagine stepping out of your bath and after drying, finding that your skin is soft and satiny smooth as a rose petal.

Prove to yourself this claim made for the Linit Bath, by making this simple test on your hands. Dissolve some Linit in your basin water, wash your hands as usual and, after drying, feel your skin. It will be soft and smooth as the rarest old velvet. This is also the immediate result obtained when Linit is used in your tub water, for the Linit Bath accomplishes the same thing for the entire body.

And remember, the Linit Beauty Bath does away with the damp or semi-dry feeling of the skin that usually follows an ordinary bath. Linit leaves on the skin an exceedingly fine porous coating of powder which absorbs perspiration without clogging the pores, makes dusting with bath talcum unnecessary and imparts to the body an exquisite sense of personal daintiness.

for fine Laundering

Don't overlook the directions on the Linit package—recommending Linit for starching. Linit makes even ordinary cotton fabrics look and feel like linen.

The Bathway to a Soft, Smooth Skin

At the sunny Princess Pool in gay Bermuda — on the plage at Les Residences — at icy Placid — or snowbound St. Moritz, you'll notice the same type of wonderfully beautiful complexion. For the Englishwoman, famous traveler, now takes her renowned flower-coloring and delicate skin-texture with impunity into any climate. And nowadays she's more than apt to be greeted with the same clarity and freshness in the faces she encounters. Yardley of London, the celebrated house which has made her own beauty aids for more than a century, has placed them for her use — and yours — almost everywhere.

If you would cultivate for yourself a skin that's like a damask rose in texture, then here's her priceless method for you:

A daily facial bath with a soap that summons up the most fragrant, gently purifying cloud of lather. That's Yardley's English Lavender Soap — so necessary for exquisite youthful clearness.

A generous application of snowy, smoothing English Complexion Cream for recleansing, softening and refining. (You may add Night Cream if your skin is especially dry. Foundation if you prefer a special powder base.)

A fresh mist of glorious Yardley's English Lavender Powder — so light and delicate it clings for hours and does its own part to protect skins from modern menaces (oily smoke, dust, drying harshness) at the same time it beautifies.

Finish with a few extra touches, gauged to your own desire or climate, if you wish them — and there's your English Complexion! A fresh radiance that's equally easy to maintain at home or when you travel. Find Yardley's perfect skin aids in fine stores everywhere, with our luxuries for bath and make-up also. And send for our new booklet CT-1, "Beauty Secrets from Bond Street," without obligation, to tell you more about them. Address Yardley & Co., Ltd., 620 Fifth Avenue (Rockefeller Center), New York City; 33, Old Bond Street, London — and in Paris, Toronto, Sydney.

At the Princess Hotel, Hamilton, Bermuda

Yardley's English Lavender — the refreshing fragrance that's like no other — in smart containers, priced from 45c to $35. Yardley's English Lavender Powder, in seven glorious shades including delicate English Peach and radiant Gipsy, $1.10. English Lavender Soap, 35c a tablet, large size, and English Complexion Cream, $1.10 ($2.50 for a triple quantity). For skins aged or dried by climate, Yardley's rich, retexturing Night Cream, $1.10, and Yardley's Foundation, in the pale-rose container, at 85c. Yardley's Cream Rouge, 85c, Indelible Lipstick, $1.10, to finish off.
